Calendar Scares Shortly

Dear Students,

This issue of the Daily Princetonian, coming as it does after the long summer and the freshening of the fall, will be a special one. It will contain much that is new and different, and it will also be a little longer than usual.

The Daily Princetonian is a student newspaper, and as such it is bound to have a certain amount of student opinion. We are therefore proud to present to you, in this issue, a feature on the student opinion polls. These polls are a means by which we can gauge the opinions of the student body on various issues.

We hope you will enjoy this issue of the Daily Princetonian, and we look forward to hearing your opinions on the topics we cover.

Yours truly,

[Signature]

The Daily Princetonian
To bring into play on the world scene the generation that the United States does not invade continuing in Spain, American stu-

vol. 61-no. 15. Wednesday, Nov. 10,

Mortimer W. Cohen ·38 _ Contributing Editor

Leopold Lippman '39 · Copy Editor

The nineteen anniversary of the en-establishment of this country against the Japanese for imperialist purposes the gen-

Perpps—At the Hunts Point Palace, 163 Street and Southern Boulevard, Ernest L. Meyers and others take verbal

The House Plan Carnival, well-ballyhooed

slamming away November 20. It's a Satur-

The Federal Theater

The House Plan Carnival, well-ballyhooed

The Federal Theater

The House Plan Carnival, well-ballyhooed

The Federal Theater

The House Plan Carnival, well-ballyhooed