Lack of Strong Chief

One of the strongest Beaver teams in the history of the Susquehanna University football program may be in jeopardy due to a lack of strong leadership. The team, which has participated in intercollegiate football for many years, recently played against the powerhouse Montclair State College in the final game of their pre-season schedule. Although the Beaver's performance was commendable, their performance was marred by the absence of a strong leader in the game.

The Beaver football team has traditionally been known for its strong leadership on the field. However, this year's team has been plagued by a lack of strong leadership. The team's head coach, Harold J. Parker, has been disappointed with the team's performance so far this season. He has noted that the team's lack of strong leadership has been a major factor in their underperformance.

Among the team's leaders, the most notable has been Sam Welcome, who has been switched from center to tackle. Welcome has been a key player on the team, and his switch has been a major factor in the team's recent success. However, despite his leadership, the team has struggled to find a consistent and effective leader on the field.

The lack of strong leadership has been a major factor in the team's poor performance. Parker has noted that the team's lack of strong leadership has been a major factor in their underperformance. He has called on the team's leaders to step up and take charge of the team's performance.

In conclusion, the Beaver football team's lack of strong leadership has been a major factor in their poor performance this season. The team's head coach has called on the team's leaders to step up and take charge of the team's performance. With strong leadership, the team has the potential to turn their season around and compete at a high level.
All but two students walked out of the Spanish 3B class conducted this morning by Professor William Knickerbocker (Chairman, Romance Languages), who has been under investigation by the City Council on charges of anti-Semitism.

The students, when they learned that Prof. Knickerbocker has to be the instructor in the course, rose and walked out of the classroom. They presented a petition to Dean Sottschall requesting a new instructor. The petition read:

"We, the undersigned members of Spanish 3B, in view of the action taken by the City Council of New York against Professor Knickerbocker of the Romance Languages Department, do request a new instructor."

The petition was signed by Olive C. Toch, Ar Delhi, Saul Gold- zan, Leonard Vickers, Earnest Hoffman, Iris Davis, Lloyd Goldman, Louis Ori, Aaron J. Alexander, stanza L. Frost, Lila Kamen, Earnest Pollak, Dr. Alexander, Saul Specter, Leonor Scordis, and other officials.

The class then went to Rabbi Kirschenbaun, faculty advisor to the Hillel Student Life Foundation, a Jewish organization at Columba, and told him of their action.

The Rabbi stated, "The students came to see my hearing; their petition will be forwarded to the City Council who have, in view of City Councilman Basert's report (Councilman Walter Bars has been active in the investigation), they were reluctant to be brought by Prof. Knickerbocker." He added that they felt he was not qualified to teach them and requested a new instructor.

"We feel that the students were justified, morally and ethically, in walking out; that the student who asked them to leave is technically guilty of breaking any administrative rule about entering a class for which he is not registered, that he should be considered, as the administration has decided to take no retaliatory action against either the 19 or the walkout leader. Such an action would solve no problems, but would rather intensify the tension that already exists.

One of the strongest Beaver teams against the Susquehanna University. Selinsgrove, Pennsylvania. The team has participated in intercollegiate football for about three weeks, the Beavers to their pre-season drill by meeting Montana in a scrimmage last Saturday.

Pessimism, the usual football coach outlook is not to be found in this year's Beaver camp. On the contrary, Head Coach Harold J. Parker is quite enthusiastic about the '43 team which he rates superior to last season's, which won two and tied one in eight contests. Coach Parker has abandoned last year's short punt-formation, with which he was not overly satisfied, for the T-formation.

But does not alter the fact that the 19 students walked out in protest against Prof. Knickerbocker. The students were unaware of the individual's status, and their action had no relation to his status.

There should be no attempt to becloud the main issue—that of the mass protest. Other matters have been brought up, some of which indirectly were involved in the demonstration, but they do not alter the meaning of the protest.

We feel that the students were justified, morally and ethically, in walking out; that if the student who asked them to leave is technically guilty of breaking any administrative rule about entering a class for which he is not registered, the conditions under which he acted should be carefully considered. We urge the administration to take no retaliatory actions against either the 19 or the walkout wanderer. Such an action would solve no problems, but would rather intensify the tension that already exists.

Pres. Wright moved into the picture Wednesday, Sept. 22 by calling a Presidential Forum after student walkouts from classes conducted by Prof. Knickerbocker and W. C. Davis, Economics Department. The forum, open to all students of any department, discussed several problems, including the walkout of 20 students from Prof. Knickerbocker's class and the charges of anti-Semitism against him. The President's office did not issue any statement for publication.

Evening Session Student Council Executive voted at its meeting Thursday night to reaffirm the Council's previous declaration and unanimously requested the BHE dismiss Professor Knickerbocker.

L'Affaire Knickerbocker

The walkout of 10 students from Professor William E. Knickerbocker's Spanish 3 class has given rise to both severe condemnation and hymns of praise from students, faculty members, and administration officials. This dramatic action has brought to a head an issue that has long been disturbing the College.

Terminating the walkout "illegal," the College administration has refused to replace Prof. Knickerbocker or to accept the offer of two Romance languages teachers who volunteered to take over all his classes for a year, without extra compensation.

We can understand the awkward position of the College officials.

We can also understand and sympathize with the students who walked out.

The question of the legality of the act was discussed at great length by the Observation Post Board of Directors and the Board reached the unanimous conclusion that whereas it does not condone student walkouts in general, it feels that the circumstances of the case were of such a nature that they provided sufficient moral and ethical grounds for the action that was taken.

The class was asked by a student to leave the room in view of the charges leveled by the City Council in the Hart Report against Prof. Knickerbocker. The class rose and all but two left. They left because they felt that they could not, without registering a strong protest, be taught by a man who was accused by the elected representatives of the people of New York of practicing anti-Semitism in his official position as Chairman of the Romance Languages Department.

It seems that the College administration does not intend to take action against these students. However, its position is so clear with respect to the student who led the walkout.

There have been charges made that the student was not a member of the class. We feel that whether he is or is not does not alter the fact that the 19 students walked out in protest against Prof. Knickerbocker. The student was unaware of the individual's status, and their action had no relation to his status.

There should be no attempt to belittle the main issue—that of the mass protest. Other matters have been brought up, some of which indirectly were involved in the demonstration, but they do not alter the meaning of the protest.

We feel that the students were justified, morally and ethically, in walking out; that if the student who asked them to leave is technically guilty of breaking any administrative rule about entering a class for which he is not registered, the condition under which he acted should be carefully considered. We urge the administration to take no retaliatory actions against either the 19 or the walkout leader. Such an action would solve no problems, but would rather intensify the tension that already exists.

U. of Wyoming Proposal Highlights First SC Meeting

By HERB TEITELBAUM

The reading of a joint letter from U. of Wyoming and City College student-leaders calling for a settlement of the Wyoming-Washington affair highlighted the first Day Session of Student Council, Friday, at a 3 hour closed meeting.

The charges of anti-Semitism laid against Prof. William E. Knickerbocker, Chairman of the Department of Romance Languages, by the New York City Council, touched off a series of protests last week, involving class walkouts and petitions, bringing action from the offices of both President Lib and Dean Morton Gottschall of the School of Liberal Arts.

The charges might move into the picture Wednesday, Sept. 27 by calling a Presidential Forum after student walkouts from classes conducted by Prof. Knickerbocker and W. C. Davis, Economics Department. The forum, a session at which students and faculty meet to discuss urgent problems, in a 3 hour closed meeting convened by a vote of students from Prof. Knickerbocker's class and not the charges laid against him. The President's office did not issue any statements for publication.

Eveening Session Student Council met in the Hart Senate Room Thursday night to reaffirm the Council's previous declaration and to discuss urgent problems. The distributors present to attend the BHE meeting, Thursday night, not to present the Council's position but to ask for an open hearing on the affair.

The events which precipitated the presidential meeting will be discussed before the Student Council on Thursday, Sept. 20, of 16 of Prof. Knickerbocker's Spanish 3B class of 20 students. The class president had written a petition to Dean Gottschall which read: "We the undersigned, members of the Spanish 3B class, do request the BHE's action concerning the complaints of New York City's Council of New York in regard to the charge against Prof. Knickerbocker of the Romance Languages Department, do request (Continued on page 3)

Seniors to Meet

The first meeting of the Senior Class, originally scheduled for Oct. 15, has been moved up to Oct. 7, in the Great Hall. Bob Meagher, class president announced yesterday.

All January and June graduates are invited to attend the meeting, together with the Secretary of Graduate Placement, who will outline a plan whereby senior graduates, who are not employed at graduation, may be helped in their search for work. Meagher also disclosed that Micro, the Senior Yearbook, still wanted 800 more applicants, who need 94 to 100 more of the Senior Class. Meetings will be held in room 16A.

Roy Eaton didn't win the "Stop the Music" contest, but he did almost as well. The 18-year-old sophomore has earned the Aaron Naumberg $2,000 scholarship, which will finance one year of study at the University of Switzerland, in Zurich.

JUNIOR PROM TIX ON SALE

Prom night for Juniors will be held Friday, November 26, Thanksgiving weekend, in the Hotel Merion, Rye, New York. Two dollars per couple, according to Charlotte Weissman, Class of 59 President.

Weissman, prodigal extraordinary, is also holding a gathering of her fellow survivors of the Saddle Club on the following Sunday afternoon in the Hotel Merion. The purpose of this gathering is to provide some fun for those Juniors who will not have the opportunity to attend the prom.

City College is about to step out and make a great big bang. The board of editors of the college's newest and most important magazine, "The Contemporary Review," have announced that their first issue will be published November 15. Editors went on to say that the magazine will be guided by two main principles. Firstly, material will be published that is only of immediate and lasting interest, and secondly, they wish to invite honor and prestige to City College by becoming leaders in the literary field.

The new magazine, which will be sold as back issues, and stands as well as at the College, will include fiction, poetry, literary essays, and material of a general nature. The contents of the first issue have already been selected; they will include ma-cues by well-known literary figures as Kenneth Patchen, Paul Goodman, and William Carlos Wil-dime. The "Contemporary Review" is, as interested in bringing along fresh literary talent and in publishing the already great. The magazine invites students of the College to submit articles or poetry for the magazine.

Eleven to Meet Rider Saturday
Trenton Scene of 2nd Lavender Tilt
Team Optimism Well Founded

By DICK WEINGARTEN

The Football Bureau will encounter a revenge-seeking Rider College eleven in Trenton this Saturday. Last year, in their first appearance on the gridiron since 1931, the Purple and Gold were shaded by the Lavender 13-0 in a sixty-minute thriller. After watching the Beavers chasing their former Gramapoogans back and forth on the past two weeks, a repeat performance is indicated.

In our aging department, the rehabilitation of Lou Wagner plus the coming of age of Hunter and Grady市场的' Klarkowitz produced more speed necessary to the operation of Dr. Parker's newly organized defensive line. Under the direction of Morris Monroe and Sy Kalman generating power from Frank Stab Jacobowitz intensive extra practice in the offensive department, Coach Mondschein is able to put together a backfield containing a man of each. Line Improved

Up front, where football vertices are made, the defense has certainly improved. The return of guards Levy Teitelbaum and Herbert L. Miller of '41 (that's right), tackle on leave from the Post Department for the past few seasons, former members of Same Welcome, Joe Jukas, Claude Winter, Red Finkel, the '43 and '44 Ringers integrates a heavy, strong and hard-charging line enabling Coach Teitelbaum to work at the proper speed for the quick opening "T" plays and a competent defensive unit demanding of the attackers of previous seasons.

Achilles Heel

The Achilles' heel in the squad, that vast, is a lack of reserve power which is extremely necessary in this age of free substitutes. "I shall have to include such elevens as those of the BK NINES that last week announced they would allow students to play for free in the intramural equivalent. The Lavender gridders realize that they are not a pro team. But, if you happen to wander past Lewisohn Stadium some afternoon and are surprised by a lusty cry of "Fore!" don't reach for your slide rule, brother, it's only one of City College's new golf classes in session. It's all in line with the new sports elective program offered by the Hygiene Department. In addition to golf, classes now are being offered in Lacrosse, Football, Fencing, Dancing, and six other activities. An overwhelming majority of the students enrolled in the program are taking these courses on a non-credit basis, according to Professor Raymond F. Purrell of the Hygiene Department. This would seem to indicate that a certain number of technology students are taking advantage of the courses, which Prof. Purrell feels is a "reflection of the enthusiasm shown in the program."

A student taking an elective course will be given, in addition to a firm foundation, as much as possible of the finer points of that particular sport. All of this should enhance his enjoyment of the game from the spectators, as well as the participants, angle.

Clubs in tennis will be opened next Spring to all students. It is expected that six tennis courts on the Warner Field will be completed by then. The possibility of expanding the program in the future, however, will depend upon the enthusiasm shown by the student body," said Prof. Purrell.

Nat Fleischer, famed boxing writer and editor of "Ring Magazine" was manager of the varsity basketball team at the College in '40.

FOOTBALL RENAISSANCE

When this writer first read the WORLD TELLY's scribblings about our college football squad in their Sept. 14th issue, he took it at face value. After all she didn't know the anti-Gramapoogans policy? The OP Sports Dept. didn't think it was worth talking about until our college on the Campus took up his cudgel in defense of our football squad.

In the article, Lou Miller (the WT man) asked Coach Parker, if he and his coaches were cognizant of the fact that some members of the City Alumni were in favor of dropping football here. We as a football writer's task was to push, not squash, our own sport.

The Lavender gridironrealizes that they are not a pro team. But, I shall have to include such elevens as those of the BK NINES which last week announced they would allow students to play for free in the intramural equivalent.

The student body ran best voice its desire to maintain varsity football by packing Lewisohn Stadium each of the four nights we played there, beginning with the Panser game, Sunday, Oct. 2. The last contest will be the first home game of the young season, and promises to be a nip-and-tuck affair.

On Soccer

After watching the expert Israeli soccer squad practicing a Lewisohn Stadium last Friday, I started wondering again why the sport is not more popular here. In Europe, thousands of soccer fans fill stadiums each week, cheering on their favorites.

The game requires as much skill and coordination as most of the sports played in the States. I am sure that if it were publicized in the schools here, it would eventually achieve a large following, both as participant and spectator sport of participants and spectators.

Students at the College have an advantage to learn soccer first hand. Unknown to many here, our boosters are the collegiate champs in the States. They opened their season against Panser in the Stadium Oct. 6.
