[In the present article we are concerned with the specific function plot. The essence of the story plot has been selected and divide əf into three sections.]

Plot Beginnings

Paradise Smith goes to Paris every summer to du biological research.

A man plans to burn his home and collect the insurance.

Archie strikes his wife in a rage and kills her. He has a inspiration - why not make it appear that she has committed suicide? Happily he places his wife's body in the oven, turns su the gas, and leaves the house.

A young man in the Middle West is courting a strange girl. Plot Middles

He drops what he believes to be his fare into the coin-box of the boat and discovers to his borror than it was a box of his very, very personal belongings.

He unlocks the closet door to unleash Greta, his pyromaniac wife, who escapes. She promptly begins to hunt for matches. He leaves, rubbing his hands in glee.

But he is arrested because the gas company, carrying out an old threat, had turned off the gas shortly before the murder.

Who is a Communist? Who is a fellow traveler? Who is a Republican? This guessing game isn't really very new. But what are the rules to the game — the rules of evidence which distinguish the wrong kind of teaching from the light kind? What kind of principle does the Board involve the book, it was ceathrmed. when it decides against academic freedom? And will this principle keep them from barring teachers with red hair?

The Board of Education had a chance to take the lead in an important and crucial issue. We are disappointed with their decision, but we hope that the New York Legislature will show better judgment.

THE FACTS DISCLOSED by Observation Post's reporter concerning Dramsoc's casting of non-students raise an important issue. Is an avowedly student group justified in importing outside talent for the sake of "improving" a frankly amateur performance?

We believe that Dramsoe's disregard for the undergraduate aspirants for their shows does not represent the way in which a College organization should conduct itself. This newspaper's Student Council representative will be inctructed to raise this question at the next SC meeting.

Manhattan College, fresh from their surprise victory over LaSalle last week, will seek to overthrow the Holman Hoopsters this Thursday night at Madison Square Garden.

Without a doubt, this match should be the tourney clincher or clinker for the Beavers and Kenny Norton, Kelly Green mentor, knows all about it. A victory over CCNY might bring Manhattan also a post-season tourney bid; they could prove tougher than Lavender partisans expect.

Jaspers Can Be Tough

Last year, Manhattan was stopped by the Beavers rather easily, but this year if Norton's veteran five of Byrnes, Kelly, Joyce, Cohane and Poppe starts clicking with their set shots while Damthe Kelly Green zone defense, then the Beavers will be in for a tough to win six out of nine matches and \bullet "on" they can be as tough as the score of 15-12. The Beaver tennis squad began charpening up their court game this week under the critical eye of Dr. Abraham Sperling (renowned author of "Psychology for the Millions"). Tryouts held in the Tech Gym have revealed some Bill Tildens of the future; talented lads who promise a potential Lavender powerhouse in forthcoming years.

Over the years and against out. standing nation wide competition our lacrosse team has won 42% of its games. The main reason for our success can be traced to coach Leon "Chief" Miller who, to our knowledge, has given longer servlice to the game than anyone, past or present. The Chief's fabulous exploits and his experiences as teanmate with Jim Thorpe in football and lacrosse need not be retold to the upper classmen. The Chief is to lacrosse what Nat Hol. man is to basketball.
