Zarichny, Speaking Here Thursday, Tells of Hysteria Behind Expulsion

By Nat Halebay

Townsend Harris Auditorium, on the same platform with Prof. Horatio J. Phillips, who was dismissed from the University of Washington for teaching "subversive" courses in the Communist Party, "There was a machine to indicate that anything like this would happen," he said.

The 21-year-old war veteran, who learned last December from Flatbush newspapers that Michigan State College had expelled him for teaching "subversive" courses in the Communist Party, met at one of the 12 most influential Communist Party leaders in America to denounce the reaction of the state's conservative press against his dismissal.

"My life has seemed turned upside down by the long series of speaking engagements that I received through the printer, radio, college, and newspapers," he said.

"Many people are being arrested," he added, "but what about the college and the newspapers?"

"The college and newspapers have been attacking me all along, but only now have I noticed their true reaction," he said.

"I was surprised to learn that the college would not appeal my dismissal, but I was not surprised to learn that the newspapers would write about it," he said.

"I am surprised that the newspapers have not written about my dismissal more extensively," he said.

"I am surprised that the newspapers have not written about the true reaction of the college and the printers," he said.

"The personal point of view of the guiding philosophy of the Placement Office. Each individual student is treated as an individual. It's the personal touch that has given us a unique personality in the field of placement."—Murray Eichorn

In a study prepared by Mr. John F. R., titled "Undergraduate Placement Report and Questionnaire on Enrollment Service," the following data was revealed. During a period that spanned between March, 1946 and December, 1947, 55% of the students were found to be earning at least $750 a month.

Placement Office Relies on Personal Viewpoint

Because of the large number of letters which Observation Post readers found to be out of order in recent days. We have made every effort to retain the sense of the letters, but, at the same time, reduce duplication where it exists. It is hoped that we have not, in the process, rendered any letters inane.

Season's Roundup Shows
Injuries Plagued Matmen

With the return of an experienced squad from the 1947-1948 season, the varsity wrestling team looked forward to a successful year. Before the first match, Coach Sapor said that the team was potentially the finest he had ever coached. As a result of injuries, however, the team's possibilities were never fully realized.

At the very start of the season, captain Carrot Ashcom fractured a rib, which was a prime factor in the team's initial loss to Westchester State, one of the finest teams in the East. After this defeat, the grapplers rebounded to crush Adelphi, Brooklyn Poly, and Lafayette.

The line-up of Irving and Kramer was greatly hampered by the absence of Al Axelrod who won the individual foil championship last year and was key man in the three weapons victory.

Totals

For the three competing weapon events for the Lavender: East, Goldstein, 52; Traupin, 50; and Kramer, 31-17 pts. Saber: Bevan, 52; Silver and Nazareno, 52-21 pts. foil: Price, 50; Halicki, 30; and Kramer, 26-28 pts.

Team: 57 pts.

Miller Praises Lacrosse Team

Although seriously handicapped by lack of a decent practice field and by the recent inclement weather, the lacrosse team should do fairly well this season, Coach Leon "Chief" Miller stated Friday.

The optimism expressed by "Chief" is based upon the fine performances of Irving and Joe Schwurts, and the strengths of several key men including:

Mike Felder, veteran half-back;

Joe Gallaher, half-back;

and

Harry Miller, a key man in the backfield and offense.

Opening its season against RPI on April 9, the Lavender will face in successive contests, Syracuse, Stevens, Yale and Army, some of the strongest teams in the East. This scheduling of five tough games in a row may prove a deterrent to the Lavenders. The Lavender lacrosse team this year, however, other schools on the schedule include Springfield, Rutgers, Adelphi and Drexel.

RPL, which has not lost a match in fifteen years, is the team's next opponent on the Beaver schedule.
