Sheldon Says Bias Fight Won’t Be Sidetracked

By Henry Krisch

Student Council has voted unanimously to support a May rally which will press demands for a public investigation of the state level of the College’s hiring and firing policies. Demand to force re-examination of controversial “in-breeding” policy, the rally has the support of such prominent public figures as Judges Percora, Goldstein and Biny, Borough President Wagner, and Congressman Klein of New York.

Sheldon Speech

The Council heard Prof. James Sheldon of the Non-sectarian Unitarian New Thought, who has served as Friday’s rally, declare that the “no-breeding” policy, when applied, has harmful effects on the opportunities of the College’s graduates, especially those of minority groups.

Describing the activities of the group, Prof. Sheldon described their technique as “narrowing the club” upon the most vulnerable students. In the famous Coliseum, this organization was depicted as a basis of the background of one of the League of Students, the group opposed to discrimination at the College, the noisy disputed outside the meeting, was regarded as the weak point.

Hot Debate

The chief result of the debate was the tax issue which came up during the rally’s program. In a statement made to OP, Gerald Wepin of the Student Council, as well as most of the student organizations, the basic legal basis for this control is the passage in the regulations of the HEW reading, “the faculties shall have full power to regulate, suspend, or discontinue the extra-curricular activities of any student group, state or group in the interests of the effective conduct of the college as an institution of high learning.”

Tax Fight

Using these principles as the basis for recommendations, the motion, according to Sheldon, was to suspend positive action against the discriminating clubs in the interest of the College until April 28. The report continued, “as long as the student population of the College is capable of carrying on activities which are not in accord with the regulations of the College, it is of the utmost importance to the students and the faculty that the student government and the students themselves should be able to do so.”

On the Budget

Phil Schiffer, S.C. president, called upon the body to vote the $40,000,000 from the proposed budget. The report was given the recommendation of the Board of Control and City Hall with letters and telegrams demanding the return of $40,000 in the proposed budget. The recommendation of the Board of Control and City Hall were signed by theater experts, radio experts, and other experts.

Here's Irwin "the Kid" City College's basketball star-a first-hand report of his trip with the City College basketball team to Panama in the spring of 1951. As selection of the American team, Irwin was invited to take part in the Panama-City-Irwin basketball tournament.

After four years of basketball at CCNY, Irwin finally got his chance to play in Panama. He was selected as a member of the College All-Star team that won the last time the tournament was held. However, no other local club team was invited. It's true that last year the City College was invited to compete against other local teams, but this time we had to compete against other local teams.

We were kept pretty busy, though, meeting the Troupers of Panama. The end of the tour saw the Troupers of Panama holding an 11-7 lead in games. This wasn’t surprising. The All-Stars never had to practice together. We played in one city, slept over, then took off for the next spot on our trip. We were well prepared.

The Blood Bank

T he RED CROSS Blood Mobile will be on campus this week again. In an effort to provide protection for students and faculty alike, ten percent of the College community must turn out and contribute. Last term the people who had the blood before were overwhelmed. We can—all of us, students, faculty, staff members—guarantee that a record credit is made this term. We urge a large turnout at the registration booth (in Lincoln Corridor, Knittle tomorrow). The benefits to the good name and Army Hall Lounge) today and of the College will easily compensate for the slight pressure from that needle.

In your newspaper's issue of April 18, some statements have been published concerning my journalistic activities in the past. The New York correspondent of IL Giornale d'Italia: the implication being that I was in favor of the Mussolini Regime or, at least, indifferent to its well-known brutality and stupidity . . .

It is fully fact that made us proud of our school. It is an honor for us to serve as hosts for intercollegiate functions. The Budget

WE've COOLED DOWN a bit since our semi-violent editorial last week concerning the cut in the College's budget allotment. We haven't, you understand, reconciled ourselves to the reduction—it's just that we've begun to look at it with a little less emotionality.

Tie damage has been done, and all indications are that it will stay that way until next year. There's even a good chance that it will be cut again, everyone April, 1953, UNLESS . . .

- UNLESS we take steps now to organize year-round "lobbying" at City Hall, instead of waiting for the last two weeks in which to run around helplessly and ineffectively.

- UNLESS we join with other aggrieved students and teachers (like those Brooklyn Tech students who protested pay cuts yesterday) to take steps now to prevent another fate which City Hall politicians play fast and loose with educational funds.

- UNLESS we make sure the faculty and administration of the College speak up in time and with vigor—and the way they shirked their responsibility this past week.

Student Council and its member organizations have their work cut out for them. They can act now, and prevent this sort of mockery next year, or . . .

The decision must be made now.

Capt. Paul Buskey, Middlebury, ’38

Air Intelligence, U. S. Air Force

An excellent student at Middlebury College, Vermont, Paul found time to win the coveted All Sports Trophy in his senior year. He graduated in June, 1938.

Then joined a cased paper roll firm as research and control agent. It happened that Paul had changed all that—Paul went to Maxwell Field to begin Aviation Cadet training.

His big plan education was topped with 29 hours over the far-flung “Homestead” C-47 transports. After V-J Day, he returned home in the Four Feet until March of 1945 specializing in Air Intelligence.

Back home, after accepting a Regular Air Force Commission in the Air Technical school, he was then rated an outstanding student and deserving of a Coon, or Staff School.

Today, Capt. Buskey is an Air Intelligence Officer on M.A.T.V. Headquarters Staff at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington, D. C. He hopes to be rewarded in the future in the U. S. Air Force.

Schnitttiker Paces Beavers All-Opponent Five

By Dick Kaplan

Ohio State's All-American Dick Schnittker, a Rams' nemesis for years, led the list as member of the national champion Beaver basketball team voted around to selecting an All-Opponent team.

The blonde Buckeye missed being a unanimous choice by a single ballot and shared honors with Bob Zawoluk of St. John's, all of whom made the team.

The selection of Schnittker, an agile 6-5, came as no surprise. His 31.1 season's average won him All-American fame, and his brilliant play in the NCAA Tournament in the East-West All-Star game made him a highly coveted prospect. Schnittker tied for 24 points against the Beavers as he towed home in the NCAA semi-finals, 38-36.

Titleholders, who followed Schnittker in the voting, must have gained several ballots with their herculean efforts in the final minutes of the second City-Bradley game. Gene popped in six quick points and nearly gave Nat Holman heart failure.

Rumors, acquainted as one of the East's outstanding scorers, clinched his berth by notching 24 points against the Lavender in the East-West NCAA finals. It wasn't his fault that North Carolina State went under, 78-73.

One of the best shot-sifters in the country, Jack Keiley, who bats from nearby Union City, N. J., sparked Syracuse to its 83-74 victory over the Lavender in regular season play, fashioning 21 points, and broke 26 against both LIU and Bradley in the National Invitation.

Six-six Zawoluk, St. John's All-Met Soph, was the Beaver's final pick. Zawoluk made 21 points against City and led all New York scorers with 126 points.

Some of the other top candidates were Paul Marchand of Oklahoma, Paul O'Neal of Bradley, Chuck Cooper of Duquesne, and George Steinach of UCLA.

Fordham Soph Fans 14 As Rams Triumph, 15-1

By Marty Deutsch and Mary Kilman

Fordham's huge sophomore, Tom "Big House" Casagrande pitched the first no hitter of the season yesterday as the Rams butted City College deeper into the Met-Baseball Conference quagmire.

The 6-2, 230 pounds Casagrande, a masher from nearby Union City, N. J., sparked Syracuse to its 83-74 victory over the Lavender in regular season play, fashioning 21 points, and broke 26 against both LIU and Bradley in the National Invitation.

Although the Montclair game wasn't a league contest, it was tagged for four tallies. Mel Deoul followed for the next three and one-third, giving only one run. Hal Goldstein went the last two and was tagged for four tallies.

This Saturday, the Beavers will meet Hofstra at Macombs Dam Park. Hit Street and Jerome Avenue, in a league game. Last Monday's Kings Point game was rained out and will be played at a later date.

The Beavers absorbed a double-barreled jolt last week-end, when they dropped a 6-5 decision to Manhattan and bowed to Montclair State Teachers, 9-6. The two setbacks were particularly disappointing since only one of these came at a momentary fourth place tie by clipping Brooklyn, 6-3.
