O'D Hails Beaver NIT Champs; Cagers Seek 2-Tourney Sweep

It Had to Be You

Ed Warner, City College's answer to the Backboard Sweepers' and Spin Shot Society was named the Most Valuable Player in the National Invitation Tournament last Saturday night, shortly after the red light wrote final to Bradley in the NIT final.

Six-three Ed, who stood the tournament on its head with his tremendous scoring, rebounding and ball-handling, received a shiny silver mug to prove his supremacy over the greatest cagers in the land. He walked up to accept his hard-won trophy in deep humility, in contrast to his blazing, dare-devil game performances.

The extremely agile and gifted athlete was unbelievably well selected to the All Met first team. Warner scored 67 points in four tourney games, compiling the second highest total in Invitation basketball. George Mikan's 120 points in four games in 1945-46 heads the list.

Warner is the first Negro to ever carry off the MVP award. He won it with a quartet of dazzling offensive games. "Pops" put in 26 against San Francisco, 26 against Kentucky, 19 against Duquesne, and 16 against Bradley. His right and left handed spin shots from out of the bucket, and his clay-pawed rebounding, and even yet, his calmness, gasping the breath and... (text continues)

City College's first National Invitation Tournament champions held the roost yesterday, when they were on the receiving end of the loudest, liveliest reception ever accorded a bunch of New York athletes.

High spot of the day for the Beavers, whose dramatic 69-61 victory over Bradley in the NIT final, wrote another page of Cin-cinella basketball into the tournament records, was a special City Hall meeting with Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Earlier in the day, the team received the stamp of approval from fellow students, who were released from 12 o'clock classes to attend a flagpole rally. A mob of roughly 2,500 people good-naturedly heard the individual players, Pres. Harry N. Wright, Prof. Sam Winograd, Mr. Joe Buffet (who picked Kentucky by the leather-lunged Jerry Jacobson, and Milt "Laughing Boy" Luchan. The Beaver cagers passed the oratorical buck as adroitly as they do a basketball.

Immediately following the campus celebration the squad hopped a chartered bus for City Hall and a date with the Mayor. Also making the trip was the College band, which more than made up for its Garden absence. Wishes Beavers Luck

On arriving at City Hall the team found a sizeable rooting delegation ready and waiting, and ordinarily staid streets rocked to the rhythm of the All-garoo and the Beaver Fight Song. Mayor O'Dwyer came out onto the City Hall steps to individually congratulate the members of the first municipal institution to capture a national basketball crown, as newsreel cameras buzzed away. The Mayor wished the Lavender luck in the forthcoming NCAA Tournament, which starts Thursday night. The Beavers meet Big Ted kingpin Ohio State...

NCAA Too!

RIDING ALONG with the basketball team en route to City Hall and a date with Mayor William O'Dwyer, you couldn't help but get the impression that Nat Holman's unbelievable Beavers will win the NCAA championship just as they did the NIT. This team won't let itself be beaten.

The crisp, sure movements and cool confidence that was missing during the early part of the season is there. Ohio State will have to come and beat them.

The sophs have grown up in a hurry. Ed Roman is battling his heart out, and the same goes for Floyd Layne, Ed Warner, Al Roth and Herb Cohen. The seniors, Irwin Dambrot, Joe Galiber and Norm Mager, never needed any urging.

Make way for the first twin-tourney champion in history... (text continues)

Let's Stay in It

TWO FACTS STAND OUT conspicuously in any discussion of last week's Conference for Democracy in Education. They are:

- Excellent, well-rounded programs for activity on academic freedom, discrimination and economic problems of students were developed in the panel discussions.
- Action on these programs, scheduled to be planned in the Conference's plenary sessions, was buried alive under partisanship and almost-violent political bickering.

Most of the College's delegates, both from Council and various organizations, report that they were disappointed and disgusted at this state of affairs. They traveled to Brooklyn and gave up two valuable days in what was apparently a futile effort to solve some of the many problems facing students today. Some delegates have gone as far as suggesting a complete withdrawal from and disavowal of any further actions of the Conference.

We think that this wouldn't necessarily do any good. Logic demands that efforts be redoubled to call the Conference back into session as soon as possible, quell the attempts to side-track the meetings, and get down to the job at hand: the adoption of satisfactory programs of action on which students of all political persuasions can unite.

To achieve this goal, we urge the widest possible support of Hillel Foundation's meeting this afternoon at 5 at 475 West 140th Street. By working together—in the spirit Hillel suggests—the College's delegates to the Conference can guarantee that the needs and demands of the student body will be met satisfactorily.

Undoubtedly the outstanding portion of the program was performance of the Bach Chaconne for unaccompanied violin. Here was a combination of musical expression and virtuosity that is rarely, if ever, exhibited by any performer and it received the enthusiastic applause it deserved.

The fourth and final portion of the program consisted of shorter pieces by Chopin, Elgar, Prokofiev, and Debussy.

Prelude No. 1 were both transcriptions made by Heifetz himself. Of all the selections, the former was perhaps the least well received but this was the fault of the transcription and not of the performance. The transcription of the Gershwin Prelude was, on the other hand, very successful.

Emanuel Bay was superb at the Steinway and of the concert as a whole, it suffices to say that it was a delightfully unforgettable experience.

Conference

A summary and discussion of the three recent conferences on higher education held at Cornell, CCNY and Brooklyn College will be held at the meeting of the John L. Elliott Ethical Club on Thursday at 12:15 in 301 Main. All are invited.

Berger of BS On Linguistics

The applications of Linguistics to modern life is what Mr. Marshal Berger (Pub. Sp.) will emphasize in his Bull Session at House Plan's 1919 Room this Thursday at 12.

Mr. Berger has long maintained that few people, even among the highly educated, realize that the science of Linguistics can contribute to society. "Psychology was just an extra course in the Philosophy Dept. a generation ago, and yet today it is regarded as one of the more important of the social sciences. All that Linguistics needs is more publicity."

Letters

To the Editor:

Last week's Observation Post carried a letter by Gerald Walpin which was highly mendacious in reporting the facts about the Conference for Democracy in Education. . . . Contrary to what the reader may have been led to believe by Mr. Walpin, there was a great deal of unity exhibited by the majority of the students present. There was open and frank discussion—with no name calling—by representatives of all the organizations, and most of the resolutions in the panels passed by almost unanimous votes. . . .

It is important to note when the breakup of this unity in CDE took place. It came about three hours before the end of the plenary session. After four other resolutions had been discussed and adopted, one was brought to the floor dealing specifically with the economic difficulties facing Negro students on college campuses.

At this point, one delegate decided that the program of CDE was unimportant, and he proposed that a Continuations Committee be set up to carry on the work of the Conference after the sessions ended. . . . The resolution was voted down. The same delegate then moved that all the panel reports be tabled in order. These motions passed by a very close vote, indicating that a great many students were still anxious to see a positive program come out of CDE.

Mr. Walpin's letter only serves to slander groups and individuals, cause disunity and foster more disillusionment. What is needed now is the full support of every campus organization—regardless of political belief—around Hillel's meeting Tuesday afternoon to discuss future action on the CDE.

Tournament

(Continued from Page One) with North Carolina State. The victors meet in the Eastern finals Saturday night. Should the College's standard-bearers repeat their NIT triumph it would mark the first time any team has ever taken two post-season titles in a single campaign.

As is, the Beavers are the second club in history to carry off two bids. Kentucky did it last year, losing in the NIT and coping the NCAA crown.

Buckeyes Scouted

Ohio State, the Lavender's first NCAA hurdle, was scouted last Saturday night in its game with DePaul by Manager Al Ragusa, a senior who gave up his chance to see the NIT finals in order to gather some information on the Buckeyes. "Rags" made the trip in place of Assistant Coach Bobby Sand, who stayed in New York when it looked like a cold bug would keep Nat Holman from attending the Bradley game. What Ragusa saw was impressive. Ohio Buckeyes played a forty-minute zone defense in subduing DePaul, 70-63. Their 6-5 All-American, Dick Schnittler, tallied 30 points.

There is a chance that Bradley's Braves will get another crack at the Beavers, who trimmed them in the NIT. The Peorians met Kansas last night in a special playoff for the NCAA District 5 bid. They could conceivably win the Western regionals at Kansas City and have at their erst-while conquerors in the East-West finals next Tuesday night. This pre-supposes two Beaver triumphs.

Come from Behind

Brushing off Bradley, top-seeded in the NIT and first-ranked AP-wise, took all the "team of destiny" talents the Beavers could muster. Paced by Irwin Dambrot's 23 points, they overcame a 30-27 halftime deficit and cut down the speedy Braves with a spine-tingling surge. Thus did the Invitation victory cup move three thousand miles latitudinally, from San Francisco, whose Dons latched onto it a year ago, to the trophy case on Convent Ave.

Although Most Valuable Player Ed Warner and big Eddie Romar played excellent basketball, the unchallenged hero of the final game was Irwin Dambrot, the

Student Council to Seek CDE Sessions; Pushing 5-cent Tax

By Dave Antin

Student Council asked for a reconvening of the Conference on Democracy in Education at last Friday's meeting. They also decided to go ahead on their own and attempt to call together the meeting in the event that the Continuations Committee does not answer their letter within two weeks.

This action was taken after hearing a report on the C.D.E.'s failure to act upon the reports of their panels. In view of the recognition of several unauthorized groups it was decided that S.C. will withdraw support from the conference if any groups not recognized by the college authorities are allowed to vote.

Action will not be taken against those clubs refusing to pay the club tax before Friday, the deadline. Hillel and House Plan, two of the largest groups on the campus, have already agreed to pay the tax.

S.C. also approved the temporary attachment of the 11-man committee on Discrimination to the Council until a new by-law is created to provide for their existence. It will report next week on its findings.

With respect to the NAACP petition for an open trial of Davis and official support of Swadesh and Lorch, S.C. has decided to wait until they have examined the brief.

Concluding, they set up a seven-man student and faculty steering committee to nominate candidates to the One World Con-

Council, expressing its disapproval over "political factionalism" which prevented the program which had been adopted by its panel requested that all organizations participating in the Conference meet at the Hillel headquarters, 675 West 140th Street, at 5. "This factionalism," the Hillel invitation said, "will not lead to the imposition of any one organization's views, but will delay all honest attempts to solve the pressing problems we now face. A unity of purpose is needed by all organizations in the Conference."

The College branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will present Howard L. Kitts, Chief of the Outside Plant Department Section of the Coastal Laboratory, U. S. Army Signal Corps, at its lecture meeting on Thursday. Mr. Kitts will speak on "Problems in the Design of Military Communications Equipment." The subject includes study of the special military requirements of a global system of communications as well as the methods employed in the design and development of suitable equipment. Mr. Kitts has been working on the development, research and design of such equipment since 1945 with such organizations as International Business Machines, Bell Telephone Labs and the Signal Corps Engineering Labs. The meeting will begin at 12:30 in 126

Say Inbreeding Cover for Bias

Charging that the officially-announced "no inbreeding" policy in faculty appointments and promotions at the College is "nothing more than a new name . . . for other devices of religious and racial discrimination," the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League has asked Education Commission Spaulding to institute "a sweeping independent investigation of anti-democratic practices." The League claimed that one result of this policy was the promotion to a professorship of a man who, while an instructor on the College staff, also served as correspondent to Benito Mussolini's leading fascist newspaper. A second instructor, the League said, was granted a leave of absence to complete a Ph.D. at a university in France under the jurisdiction of Hitler's Vichy regime.

Major Roy Carlson, U. of Iowa, Training Executive, U.S. Air Force!

Born in Red Oak, Iowa, Roy graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School at Council Bluffs. He was ready to enter the University when war changed his mind.

He went to work at Consolidated Vultee in San Diego, building PBV's and B-24's. But it wasn't long until he had put in his application for Aviation Cadet training.

Cadet Carlson won his wings in April, 1943, was assigned to P-47 "Thunderbolts" with the 366th Fighter Group in England, to break ground for the Normandy invasion.

Roy completed 125 combat missions, leading many of them, supporting the invasion and the advances on into Germany. Won Air Medal, D.F.C., many other decorations. Promoted to Captain, then to Major.

Back home, he married the lovely Army nurse from Lowell, Massachusetts, whom he had met at Cannes, France. After the honeymoon, he returned to finish his studies at the University of Iowa.

Major Carlson is now Chief of Operations, 2471st Air Force Reserve Training Center, at O'Hare International Airport, near Chicago. Has two hungry sons, a fine job, a great career still ahead of him!

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 24 1/2, with at least two years of college, consider the many career opportunities as a pilot or aviator in the U. S. Air Force. Recruitment Teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for them. You may also get full details at your nearest Air Force Base or U. S. Army and U. Undoubtedly the outstanding portion of the program was a performance of the Bach Chaconne for unaccompanied violin. Here was a combination of musical expression and virtuosity that is rarely, if ever, exhibited by any performer and it received the enthusiastic applause it deserved.

The fourth and final portion of the program consisted of shorter works by Chopin, Elgar, Prokofiev and Beethoven.

Prelude No. 1 were both transcriptions made by Heifetz himself. Of all the selections, the former was perhaps the least well received but this was the fault of the transcription and not of the performance. The transcription of the Gershwin Prelude was, on the other hand, very successful.

Emanuel Bay was superb at the Steinway and of the concert as a whole, it suffices to say that it was a delightfully unforgettable experience.

Conference

A summary and discussion of the three recent conferences on higher education held at Cornell, CCNY and Brooklyn College will be held at the meeting of the John L. Elliott Ethical Club on Thursday at 12:15 in 301 Main. All are invited.

Berger of BS On Linguistics

The applications of Linguistics to modern life is what Mr. Marshal Berger (Pub. Sp.) will emphasize in his Bull Session at House Plan's 1919 Room this Thursday at 12.

Mr. Berger has long maintained that few people, even among the highly educated, realize that the science of Linguistics can contribute to society. "Psychology was just an extra course in the Philosophy Dept. a generation ago, and yet today it is regarded as one of the more important of the social sciences. All that Linguistics needs is more publicity."

Letters

To the Editor:

Last week's Observation Post carried a letter by Gerald Walpin which was highly mendacious in reporting the facts about the Conference for Democracy in Education... Contrary to what the reader may have been led to believe by Mr. Walpin, there was a great deal of unity exhibited by the majority of the students present. There was open and frank discussion—with no name calling—by representatives of all the organizations, and most of the resolutions in the panels passed by almost unanimous votes...

It is important to note when the breakup of this unity in CDE took place. It came about three hours before the end of the plenary session. After four other resolutions had been discussed and adopted, one was brought to the floor dealing specifically with the economic difficulties facing Negro students on college campuses.

At this point, one delegate decided that the program of CDE was unimportant, and he proposed that a Continuations Committee be set up to carry on the work of the Conference after the sessions ended... The resolution was voted down. The same delegate then moved that all the panel reports be tabled in order. These motions passed by a very close vote, indicating that a great many students were still anxious to see a positive program come out of CDE.

Mr. Walpin's letter only serves to slander groups and individuals, cause disunity and foster more disillusionment. What is needed now is the full support of every campus organization—regardless of political belief—around Hillel's meeting Tuesday afternoon to discuss future action on the CDE.

Tournament

(Continued from Page One) with North Carolina State. The victors meet in the Eastern finals Saturday night. Should the College's standard-bearers repeat their NIT triumph it would mark the first time any team has ever taken two post-season titles in a single campaign.

As is, the Beavers are the second club in history to carry off two bids. Kentucky did it last year, losing in the NIT and copying the NCAA crown.

Buckeyes Scouted

Ohio State, the Lavender's first NCAA hurdle, was scouted last Saturday night in its game with DePaul by Manager Al Ragusa, a senior who gave up his chance to see the NIT finals in order to gather some information on the Buckeyes. "Rags" made the trip in place of Assistant Coach Bobby Sand, who stayed in New York when it looked like a cold bug would keep Nat Holman from attending the Bradley game. What Ragusa saw was impressive. Ohio Buckeyes played a forty-minute zone defense in subduing DePaul, 70-63. Their 6-5 All-American, Dick Schnittger, tallied 30 points.

There is a chance that Bradley's Braves will get another crack at the Beavers, who trimmed them in the NIT. The Peorians met Kansas last night in a special playoff for the NCAA District 5 bid. They could conceivably win the Western regionals at Kansas City and have at their erst-while conquerors in the East-West finals next Tuesday night. This pre-supposes two Beaver triumphs.

Come from Behind

Brushing off Bradley, top-seeded in the NIT and first-ranked AP-wise, took all the "team of destiny" talents the Beavers could muster. Paced by Irwin Dambrot's 23 points, they overcame a 30-27 halftime deficit and cut down the speedy Braves with a spine-tingling surge. Thus did the Invitation victory cup move three thousand miles latitudinally, from San Francisco, whose Dons latched onto it a year ago, to the trophy case on Convent Ave.

Although Most Valuable Player Ed Warner and big Eddie Roman played excellent basketball, the unchallenged hero of the final game was Irwin Dambrot, the

Hillel Council Attacks CDE Factionalism

Stating that "all organizations can and must get together to achieve full democracy in education," the Hillel Council last week called for a special meeting this afternoon to evaluate and plan further action on the unfinished Conference on Democracy in Education, held last week.

The Council, expressing its dissatisfaction over "political factionalism" which prevented the CDE from adopting in plenary session the program which had earlier been adopted by its panel members, requested that all organizations participating in the Conference meet at the Hillel headquarters, 475 West 140th Street, today at 5.

"This factionalism," the Hillel letter of invitation said, "will not lead to the imposition of any one organization's views, but will destroy all honest attempts to solve the pressing problems we now face. A unity of purpose is needed for all organizations in the Conference."

Student Council to Seek CDE Sessions; Pushing 5-cent Tax

By Dave Antin

Student Council asked for a reconvening of the Conference on Democracy in Education at last Friday's meeting. They also decided to go ahead on their own and attempt to call together the meeting in the event that the Continuations Committee does not answer their letter within two weeks.

This action was taken after hearing a report on the C.D.E.'s failure to act upon the reports of their panels. In view of the recognition of several unauthorized groups it was decided that S.C. will withdraw support from the conference if any groups not recognized by the college authorities are allowed to vote.

Action will not be taken against those clubs refusing to pay the club tax before Friday, the deadline. Hillel and House Plan, two of the largest groups on the campus, have already agreed to pay the tax. S.C. also approved the temporary attachment of the 11-man committee on Discrimination to the Council until a new by-law is created to provide for their existence. It will report next week on its findings.

With respect to the NAACP petition for an open trial of Davis and official support of Swadesh and Lorch, S.C. has decided to wait until they have examined the brief.

Concluding, they set up a seven-man student and faculty screening committee to nominate candidates to the One World Con-

The College branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will present Howard L. Kitts, Chief of the Outside Plant Equipment Section of the Coles Signal Laboratory, U. S. Army Signal Corps, at its lecture meeting on Thursday. Mr. Kitts will speak on "Problems in the Design of Military Communications Equipment." The subject includes a study of the special military requirements of a global system of communications as well as the methods employed in the design and development of suitable equipment.

Mr. Kitts has been working on the development, research and design of such equipment since 1928 with such organizations as International Business Machines, Bell Telephone Labs and the Signal Corps Engineering Labs. The meeting will begin at 12:30 in 126

Major Roy Carlson, U. of Iowa, Training Executive, U.S. Air Force!

Say Inbreeding Cover for Bias

Charging that the officially-backed "no inbreeding" policy in faculty appointments and promotions at the College is "nothing but a new name . . . for other devices of religious and racial discrimination," the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League has asked Education Commission Spaulding to institute "a sweeping independent investigation of anti-democratic practices."

The League claimed that one result of this policy was the promotion to a professorship of a man who, while an instructor on the College staff, also served as correspondent to Benito Mussolini's leading fascist newspaper. A second instructor, the League said, was granted a leave of absence to complete a French doctorate at a university then under the jurisdiction of Hitler's Vichy regime.

Born in Red Oak, Iowa, Roy graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School at Council Bluffs. He was ready to enter the University when war changed his mind.

He went to work at Consolidated Vultee in San Diego, building PBV's and B-24's. But it wasn't long until he had put in his application for Aviation Cadet training.

Cadet Carlson won his wings in April, 1943, was assigned to P-47 "Thunderbolts" with the 368th Fighter Group in England, to break ground for the Normandy invasion.

Roy completed 125 combat missions, leading many of them, supporting the invasion and the advances on into Germany. Won Air Medal, D.F.C., many other decorations. Promoted to Captain, then to Major.

Back home, he married the lovely Army nurse from Lowell, Massachusetts, whom he had met at Comnes, France. After the honeymoon, he returned to finish his studies at the University of Iowa.

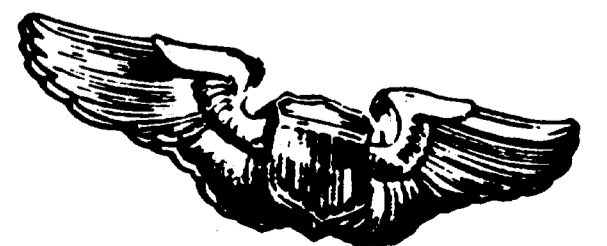

Major Carlson is now Chief of Operations, 247th Air Force Reserve Training Center, at O'Hare International Airport, near Chicago. Has two lanky sons, a fine job, a great career still ahead of him!

Success in Penultimate Bouts Gives NYU 1-Point Triumph

by Marv Kitman

In one of the most heated sword-fights since the days of Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., NYU and Navy sliced through 105 bouts before NYU was tagged as the winner, 73½-72½, in the 53rd annual EFAA tournament held at NYU's School of Education Gym last Friday and Saturday.

The Violets had to wait until the penultimate bout Saturday evening before finally erasing the Midshipmen, who had been following them all the way through the East's big fencing show. City College's parriers, pre-tourney favorites, finished third, 11 points behind the winning pace.

Navy and NYU tied for both the epee and foil crowns at 25½ and 27 wins, respectively. Army's Black Knight sabre three, Bob Willerford, John Matthews and Russ Leggett carried the sabre prize back to their Hudson bastion.

Beaver Hopes Vanish

Smart money liked CCNY, but collapse of its touted epee trio in the opening event Friday evening, left the Beavers gnawing in frustration for the rest of the parry party, particularly with Navy and NYU fencing so heatedly and adeptly.

The Lavender epeemen split their 36 bouts down the center. Gene Bassin, who had performed brilliantly in regular season dual affairs, caved in under the pressure of tournament excitement and a continuous fencing schedule, losing 7½ bouts while winning only 4½. Cliff Roher, next season's captain, split his twelve bouts. Vic Modiano, lean and mustached newcomer, was a pleasant surprise for Coach Montague. Having fenced competitively only twice—against Yale and NYU—he was considered the spot where City's epee metal would buckle. He didn't though, and he went on to sweep 7½ wins off the strip, and was second only to Navy's Tom Stuart in the third pool bracket.

Cadets Prevail

Army lifted NYU's 1949 sabre crown, and City was barely noticed as they finished eighth in the heavy blade event. Gene Natanblut and Irwin Ackerman both yarded 8-4 marks, but a combined entry of Kenny Bassner and Harold Schmukler...

seven times out of eight, and Schmukler, who was on the strips competitively for the first time, three of four.

Coach Hugo Castello's Violets and Joe Fiems' Sailors fight for the "Little Iron Man" trophy in Saturday afternoon's foil events took the spotlight off City College's good 26-point showing. The Beavers were third to NYU and Navy's 27 each.

Kramer, Goldsmith Win

Francois Kramer and Hal Goldsmith posted 9-3 days and both were whisked off to the Individual title fence-offs Saturday evening. They were the only Lavender bladesmen to get tickets to the Individuals, and neither placed well in the event won by Joe Vera, of Harvard, who took all five of his individual matches.

The only fencer to go through his round-robin bouts without losing was Al Pearlman, NYU's converted sabreman, who was switched to the foils on a last minute hunch by Coach Castello. The maneuver paid off with 12 important victories.
