Theft Ruins UBE Best Term
By SIM KANTIN

In spite of the greatest sale of books in its history, the Used Book Exchange will not have a financially profitable semester. All of the reserves of the UBE, accumulated since its inception in 1949, will be gone Tuesday night from the Army Hall before the thief could complete his task. However, they arrived too late.

Police Detective John O'Brien, who is in charge of the case, in an exclusive interview told Observer Press, that a "private citizen who would not disclose his name, saw a man climb over the back wall of Army Hall, remove his gray tweed jacket (possibly to cover the cash box) and climb calmly down the street."

Detective O'Brien added that he expected eventually to catch the thief and that the case would remain open until successfully closed.

The identification of the thief was made by Nick Pakradoonian, the resident manager of the Canteen, who saw the thief climb over the back wall of the building and remove the cash box from the canteen. The police arrived at the scene and were able to operate next semester. The UBE will be able to operate next semester, according to Miss Kopito.

Military people are heard to say that Mr. Halley's decision to enter the Army Hall before the thief could complete his task was "extremely lucky and happily unexpected." Miss Kopito does not expect the stolen money to be recovered in the present state of the war. She considers the thief as having been "extremely lucky and happily unexpected." The insurance company had refused to pay for the stolen money, because it had "quirks" of the UBE staff.

A. H. Door Open
There are a few facts concerning the A. H. Door Open that are known to the police. It was noticed that one of the doors of the Canteen, facing the back door of the Army Hall, had been left open. The chief of detectives believes that Mr. Halley had been the only person who had left the door open.

The police did not arrive until fifteen minutes before the thief had disappeared. As soon as they arrived, the police started to follow the thief. They were able to catch him in the Army Hall, where he was making a noise which normally should be heard.

Of the Russian delegates to the U.N., Mrs. Roosevelt said, "I have talked with them and they have told me that the friction between the U.S. and U.S.S.R. is unfortunate but perhaps inevitable because of the different ideologies our two nations face."

The UBE Repayment Guaranteed By S.C. Loan of 300 Dollars
By HENRY KREICH

Acting swiftly in the wake of the Used Book Exchange robbery, Student Council has approved a $300 loan to the UBE to help carry out SC's president's pledge that no student will suffer loss as a result of the theft.

Chiefly responsible for the loan were President Warren Schwartz and UBE Manager Cecilia Kopito, the Council loan, plus approximately $700 from the UBE reserve together with contribu-
A word of wisdom to the entering Freshmen in these trying times.
No need to worry about your stay at City College. You'll find that things will more or less take care of themselves. If they don't, the Committee on Course and Standing will take care of them for you.

Forgetting to show up for classes, aside from being an indication of "belonging," is a good way to increase the scarcity enough time you have to spend in the cafeteria asking classmates what happened in the class which you just missed. Naturally the classmate you approach will assure you that they weren't in hall the distance of the classroom, being conscientious objectors. If they did happen to attend they did so merely to not take notes or to not pay attention or to walk out in the middle of the professor's grand summation. So be skeptical of answers they give you on exams.

One advantage of attending City College is not having to worry about exams. Exam grades are raised, put on a curve, weighted very heavily or sometimes not. There's a chance that fifty percent of the class may get an "A* calibre. His chances are bettered if he doesn't answer his R.S.V.P. invitations to chat; don't be surprised if after four days of salami sandwiches the cafeteria makes it up to you with fish on Fridays; if you don't pass UMS Speech Exam you can get an engineering degree with a major in education, which is recognized for high paying teaching jobs in New Jersey and all of New England; save up all your drops for one appearance at the Bursar's two-dollar window, for there is often a long line of repentants.

For excellent advice try the Freshmen Advisory Committee in the Main Building. Their experts have gained their experience by enrolling in specific courses term after term. The instructors fail them because they resent the students' knowledge more than they do.

College Riflers Have Guns But Await Targets

Leaving a range, the College Rifle Team will not be able to begin practice until mid-October, McGuirk, Joseph Taylor (Military Science) new coach of the team, said Thursday. The group's old range in Lewishon Stadium was torn down by Civil Defense authorities and they had been shooting in the basement of Drill Hall, but that room was taken away from them to make space for a supply room. The Lewishon targets are being reconstructed.

Alton Moss is the top marksman of this year's team, which is expected to provide valuable assistance as veteran Fiedler are expected to provide.

The Gold Team will hold a practice session Thursday, September 27 at Noon in Room 124 (callitory). Any interested men are invited to join. Entering freshmen who can handle a club are urged to come.

Swimming Varsity Additions Mean Strength, Depth: Rider

A stronger and deeper swimming team than last year is predicted for this season by Coach Jack Rider. The mainstays of the 1950-51 team are still in school and will be supported by freshmen stars just joining the varsity and transfer students from evening session.

Norman Klein, Metropolitan's backstroke, and Morris Silberberg are co-captains of the team. Sidney Schwartz, Kaz Hano and Fred Vicedomini are returning to be powerful additions to the squad. Jay Glalt and Pete Worms are coming up from the frosh, and Emil Hansen and Vic Philosophe, a former breast-stroke winner, are entering day session and will be eligible to compete.

Professor Rider, returning for another year as Coach of the team, feels that he has fifteen varsity or freshmen are invited to see Coach Rider at 4 p.m. weekdays, or at squad meetings Thursday at 1 p.m. in the pool.

The fire is from a 50-foot distance and the precision is great that a shot one and one-half inches from the bullseye gets no points at all. Some marksmen use their own targets, but generally the Department of Military Science provides the guns.
