As Student Aides Are Idle: Council

Walpin Letter
Cites Misuse Of NIF Funds

By Bob Salgado

The lack of funds for student assistants is "both unwarranted and immoral," charged the Executive Committee of Student Council on Monday, Nov. 5. A letter sent to Prov. Harry N. Wright and to Dr. Ordway Tead, Chairman of the Board of Higher Education, stated that while the student aide appropriation has been dropped, thousands of dollars have been appropriated for non-instructional funds (NIF) "as added complications to over and above instructional budget salaries to individual instructors and staff members."

The letter, signed by Gerald Walpin, President of Student Council, for the Executive Committee, alleged that supplementary salaries appropriated from NIF funds "are not legitimate, but probably not in the legal aspect, they are not needed."

The letter also asserted that the student aids, who work for the student aid association, were "to help support the student aide association." It also stated that the student aid association was "by necessity" in financial trouble because of the lack of funds. The letter concluded with the statement that the student aid association was "in need of funds and must be supported."
The Student in an Era of Declining Morality

By Louis L. Snyder

In enumerating the reasons for the decline and fall of the moral order, some will point to the worldwide image of decay and corruption. The face of learning was darkened and the decline of genius was soon followed by a corrosion of taste. Moral collapse and the sentiments of the Romantics, evoked their courage and led them to yang.

But our American society is under the influence, at this moment, of a show and nuisance. We are not only in places actually ravished by world conflict, but also in countries which found themselves financially sterile at the war's end. WSSF has helped in educating these areas with such contributions as textbooks, laboratory equipment, chalkboards, and even pencils and paper. Obviously, all these items have to be paid for by some one.

WSSF has helped in teaching the world about the collision of different cultures. We have helped in the understanding of the different moral codes of various nations.

On Sunday, November 11, a benefit performance of Thorton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth" will be given at the WSSF Theatre at the Pauline Edwards Theatre. The entire proceeds of the show ($38 per ticket), will go to the WSSF to be used as it sees fit to help needy students.

The City College Student

What about the place of the City College student in this era of declining morality? It would be wise to define the trend in the television news, which brought public interest in the morality of the students. The show 'The Student" will give a subject of morality, and there is an expression of opinion.

In my estimation, the students of City College are much the same as the students of other colleges and universities. The value of the student memory is by no means a reflection on the entire student body, but rather a symptom of the widespread deterioration of college and "school" culture.

My point is that there are many students of the same generations who are actually wicked when the announcement is made. We are not to be so ready to accept the majority of students for the sins of a few. The experience of the students in this time of the basketball tragedy, can be seen as the best way of thinking and the worst way of acting.

To the contrary, the course of education is being followed by an institution that is unique in the world. We should not be ready to accept the majority of students for the sins of a few. This is not to say that all City College students are paragons of virtue.

The Study of Student Morals

Editor's Note

Professor Snyder was asked to write this article after an OP editorial voiced his opinion and ideas in class. The author of this book, Professor Snyder has also co-authored the book "The Case Against Good and Evil".

We urge that College examination become a fairer test. If his arrive of doing good remains in low gear, then there is nothing that can be done.

I would say to the student: "The best of all possible worlds." There is no sense nor accuracy in the alleged allegation that "a degree from the City College means as much as a degree from other institutions." Nothing is ever the death of the death of the basketball tragedy, and often the fact that you are attending a college is the highest step that students can take in the history of higher education.

Too many students hear the Euthanistic Ethic for the first time when they first meet the real world. It is unparalled as a personal code of student conduct. The student who founds himself in the middle of the entire course of his undergraduate career, must bear responsibility.

Rams Nip Beaver Harriers, 24-32

By Joe Macdon

The Fordham Rams handed coach Harold Annan Bruce's Beaver harriers their second loss of the season as they defeated the Lavender, 24-32, at Van Cortlandt Park, last Saturday.

Captain Don Anderson of Fordham was the first man to cross the finish line with a time of 28:20. It was the sixth consecutive race that Anderson has been the first Ram to cross the line. Lou Cascino again was the first Beaver to cross the line. Lou was in the second position with a time of 28:21. Tom Brown and Harold Batas both of Fordham crossed the line holding hands to tie for third position with times of 29:28 each. John Beavers also representing Fordham clocked in at 30:21 to capture fifth position. The next five positions were again occupied by Gene Rockes placing sixth with an impressive time of 30:31. Turning in times of 30:35 and 31:12 respectively were Tom O'Brien and Herb Jeremias both of the Lavender rounded out the first ten places, with times of 31:20 and 31:43. Paul Pollack of Fordham was the eleventh to finish.

An odd quirk about the finish was that positions of the first seven men were the same as it was at the three mile mark Anderson with a time of 17:21 was five seconds ahead of Cascino. Kit Euphoria also representing Fordham who occupied tenth position at the three mile mark was forced out of the run because of a leg injury.

Dr. Harold Annan Bruce stated that he was very proud of the team showing. He added, "the boys ran the gamut races of their lives." Gene Rockes ran an even more fine race recovering from his leg injury.

Last in Match...

The College Cross Country teams finished last yesterday at the Metropolitan Cross Country Championships. Lou Cascino was the first Beaver to cross the line finishing fifteenth. His time was 30:20, his best time this season.

Manchester captured its first straight Meet Championship followed by NYU, St. John, Fordham, Columbia and City.
