FLOYD LANE

Floyd Layne, Al Roth, Ed Warner, and Ed Roman, former CCNY basketball stars, were indicted in Felony Court Monday for taking bribes. A few hours later the Board of Higher Education met and decided that the City Colleges could no longer be allowed to play games in a commercially operated sports arena.

Diplomat Hotel Scene of Tech. Ball this Sat.

Darn clever, these Tech men! You know those big blue signs with the name Bella Reginsen at out of them that have been in the windows of several Army Hall dorms? Just a publicity stunt on the part of the T-men. These big social event, the Engineers' Ball, is coming up this Sunday night at the Hotel Diplomat.

(Unscramble the letters in Bella Reginsen and you'll get the idea.) Tickets to the dance will go on sale today from 10:30 to 2 at the newsstands in the Tech Building and are priced at $2.40 a couple. The ticket booth will be marked off by neon signs specially designed for the occasion.

Fisbel, who together with chairman Ike Tiles led the way in planning the Ball, expressed the hope that students other than freshmen would turn out, as happened last year on Engineers' Day.

The Society of Women Engineers will distribute lavender and white flowers to every woman in the house, thus saving escorts the trouble of a corsage. Dress will be formal.—KOHEM

Friday Night Is Still Hop Night

The Friday night dances at the main Gym are still going strong. Expenses to those attending are nil and all that is required is a dance card which can be obtained the night of the dance in room 120 upon presentation of Student Activity stub and library card.

All four of the ballplayers were charged with conspiracy and were named in the following number of counts; the amounts they received are also listed:

"Goose" Roman, four counts, $3,500; "Pops" Warner, five counts, $4,000; "Fats" Roth, four counts, $3,500, and "Slim" Layne, four counts, $3,500.

Pleading "not guilty" on the advice of their lawyers, the former "champs" face a maximum sentence of five years in jail and a $10,000 fine on each of the bribery counts and an indeterminate sentence up to three years on the conspiracy counts.

After the ballplayers were indicted, Salvatore Sollazzo, "master fixer," was called in. Some of the athletes were surprised to see him. The paunchy "jeweler" was slimmer than he had been when he was first arrested. Roman stared at him, his face tightening with hatred, and muttered that it didn't look like he was eating too well anymore.

Criticizing "big-time" basketball as a "shocking and scandalous perversion of educational values," the Board of Higher Education issued a six-point athletic edict to all the municipal colleges—City, Hunter, Brooklyn, and Queens.

Besides barring games in Madison Square Garden and all other arenas not "under complete educational control," the board decided that college athletes could no longer participate in organized competition outside the colleges' regular athletic program.

Barring recruitment of players and special privileges and scholarships to athletes, the board noted that they want "students who play and not players who register." They further decided that schedules of practice and intercollegiate competition will be limited to allow the student adequate time for his educational interests.

The board further deemed that "the managements of intercollegiate athletics will be separated (Continued on Page Four)

Morris Cohen's Works, Letters, to Be Exhibited

Morris Raphael Cohen, noted philosopher and former faculty member, will be honored by the College next week. His works and letters will be on exhibit in Lincoln Corridor.

A graduate of City College, Prof. Cohen realized a life dream when he was appointed assistant professor of philosophy at the College in 1912. Dean Morton Gottschall said that Prof. Cohen "was one of the most remarkable teachers we have ever had in the college."

be presented by Ed Cohen and Irving Ratner, respectively.

At 12:15, the Faculty Dining Room will be the scene of the luncheon for honored guests. After the luncheon, the last event of the day will take place in Jasper Oval, where the Senior-Faculty softball game will be played. Dr. Wright has consented to act as umpire for the affair.—PORGES

'53 Dues

The Class of '53 is assessing each of its members $.50 to cover a $30 deficit in its treasury. At least two-thirds of the money will go toward covering expenses in the senior year. The money is payable in room 120 every day from 12-3. Deadline is May 11.

SC Holds Gripe Session Tomorrow

Students will be allowed to air their gripes on the floor of Student Council tomorrow at three o'clock. The purpose of this special session to be held in the Faculty Room, opposite Great Hall, is not only to familiarize Council with the problems of the students, but also to acquaint the student body with the mechanics of Council.

This "gripe session" was approved at last Friday's SC meeting by an overwhelming margin.

In other action: Student Council voted against condemning the evening session Student-Faculty Committee on Student Affairs for their suspension of Bill Feigen, editor-in-chief of Main Events. Many of the "reps" who were in sympathy with Feigen were wary about approving the motion because of the usage of the word "condemna." During the debate, Council heard from Orville Clark, President of the evening session Student Council and a member of the SPCSA, and from Feigen.

ABE LINN

The resignation of SC Secretary Abe Linn was announced, but no successor to the post was decided upon. Ed Steinberg, SC treasurer, was voted out of office because of excessive absences. Jerry Krauser was named treasurer pro-tem for the remainder of the semester.

Council then passed a motion requesting President Harry N. Wright to instruct the City's police force to stop interfering with the distribution of leaflets on the campus.

Sharp Sidelights on 104 Eventful Years at CCNY

"The City College was conceived in the full flush of the lusty American democracy of 1847," and though things aren't as lusty nowadays as they used to be, the Free Academy now called City College has never ceased adding to its achievements.

- Over a period of years, City College's entering freshmen have consistently ranked within the first ten per cent in the Intelligence Tests administered by the American Council of Education. Upper classmen, however, continue to remain unimpressed.
- Approximately 150 books and 500 articles in technical and scholarly journals were published by members of the City College faculty in 1950. The resulting writer's cramp accounts for the delay in grading exams.
- Fifty-five to sixty per cent of City College students go on to graduate studies in institutions throughout the United States, though the sight of Universities like Miami U. on a musty May morning has been known to make City graduates break down and weep like babies.
- Student Council members to the contrary, the Registrar's Office estimates that requirements for admission to City College are three to five per cent higher than grade requirements for most private institutions of higher learning.
- The College ROTC unit is still the largest voluntary unit in the country.
- No wonder things are the way they are,—more than 33 per cent of the College's graduates enter government service.

• Perhaps the reluctance of college graduates to have children is due to the more than 10,000 City College graduates teaching in the New York City school system.

• Although the Metropolitan press played up City College's role in relation to the atomic bomb, they neglected to mention that more than thirty College graduates held key positions in the organization which developed the bomb while more than a hundred other City graduates worked on the Manhattan Project in lesser capacities.

• As a result of inconsistencies in the menu of the College cafeteria, Joseph Goldberger was started along the road which led to the discovery of the cause and cure of pellagra.

• And to add to the ill-feeling all around, Cleveland Abbe, Class of 1857, founded the United States Weather Bureau.

Finals

You can now purchase final exams given by the Romance language, German, Mathematics, History, Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering and Social Studies departments. The tests have been mimeographed and will be sold for one cent per sheet by the Final exam sub-committee of the Student Council.

The student may purchase these exams in room 20 and use them for purposes of study. They'll be a big help but don't get the wrong idea. The copies are of exams given in previous terms.

Students, Faculty Romp At Valley Stream Picnic

By BOB GUMEROVE and BOB SALGADO

Seeking the college atmosphere lacking on our asphalt campus, students and faculty loaded into five buses for a day's outing on a temporary "campus" in Valley Stream State Park. Undaunted by threatening skies the students sang all the way out. One professor summarized the feelings of the participants when he said, "It's off-key, but it sounds wonderful to us."

The faculty wives and the College coeds set the tables for lunch while the men foraged for charcoal and other picnic necessities. Besides the abundance of food, the Coca Cola Company supplied one thousand bottles of coke, enough to slake the thirst of all. Music to eat by was provided by an impromptu student orchestra composed of a mandolin, banjos, marracas and klaves.

The big event of the day was a softball game between the students and their "profs" umpired by President Wright. Besides this a beautiful leg contest featuring the legs of the reluctant male students and judged by the coeds. The winner chose as a special prize to remain unnamed.

The students spent the rest of the afternoon resting from their hectic day and singing college songs, before going back to city pavements and their books.

President Wright summed up the reactions of his colleagues. "We all agree," he said, "that we ought to do this sort of thing as often as we can."

'Shrew' to Be Tamed at PET For Three Days

By LILA COWIN

Even if you haven't been to sunny Italy or ridden in a Venetian gondola, Theatre Workshop might be able to help you out. They do not promise a guided tour of Italy, but they do promise to bring you within the atmosphere of Padua and Mantua through the medium of Shakespeare's bawdy comedy of marital tussle and conquest, "The Taming of the Shrew."

The play, which is now in rehearsal under the able direction of Mr. Lyle Winter, is being put into shape for presentation on the evenings of May 11, 12, and 13 at the Pauline Edwards Theatre, 100 East 10th Street and Lexington Avenue.

A singularly talented cast of thirty-two, now in rehearsal, is headed by Sonia Kokotoff playing the title role of Katherine, the girl with the wicked tongue and temper to match. Robert Moore will play the romantic and unrepentable Iothario, Petruchio, who ultimately and successfully tames Kate. Charming Joan Omer and Bob Finkelstein play the part of the two lovers, Bianca and Lucentio. Others in the cast will be Aristodios Gazetas, Ignatius Mercurio, and Morris Kam.

Tickets for the "Taming of the Shrew" are on sale at the rear of the cafeteria, the Beaver Book Shop, and by mail to C.C.N.Y. Theatre Workshop Box 54 N. Y. City. All seats for the Friday and Saturday Performances are $1.00. Sunday's admission is only $.50. All seats will be reserved.

So, fellows and gals, if you want to learn how to tame that unruly mate of yours, or prove to your English instructor that you are not as devoid of culture as he seems to think, buy your tickets now to make sure you do not miss a thing.

Kingsmen, Jaspers Next for Nine

By FRANK GIACINO

With twelve of their 19 games in the record books, the Beavers are priming for the final half of the year when Mishkin's men will engage six Metropolitan Conference opponents in succession. The Lavender forces, who have touched upon the light fantastic at times this year, will face Brooklyn College, Manhattan, NYU, Queens, Fordham, and St. John's over the final two weeks of the campaign. Of the above mentioned, St. John's and NYU have previously humiliated the Beavers, 19-2, in non-league affairs this year with the Beavers saving some face with an, 8-0, whitewashing of the Manhattan Jaspers.

Manhattan plays host to the Beavers on May 7. With two regulars returning from last year's squad, Coach Jack Curran has rebuilt his Jasper nine around Captain Dan Koch and ace hurler Regis King, of basketball fame. King was second in the conference with an earned run average of 2.48 as compared to leader Tom Casey's (NYU) 2.45. Curran's sophomore aces include Dave Quinn, former Loughlin star and Journal-American sandlotter and Andy McGowan, basketball ace. Quinn will be at third when not pitching because of his fine stickwork.

Hofstra Tops Beavers, 5-4

Scoring all five runs in the sixth inning, Hofstra College handed the Beavers their first Metropolitan Conference loss, 5-4, at Hempstead on Saturday in the first game of a doubleheader. The defeat, which ended a two-game St. Nick's winning streak, was the sixth in eleven outings for the Lavender this season. It was the fourth victory without a setback for the Flying Dutchmen in the Metropolitan Conference and their ninth straight victory.

A triple by Connie Ricci, said to be Hofstra's greatest third-baseman, an error, catcher Milt Seely's two-run double and pitcher Irv Burton's homer routed Mel Norman, Beaver southpaw ace in the sixth. Neal Deoul took over the hurling duties and held the Hempsteaders in check the rest of the way.

The Beavers scored single runs in the first and fourth innings and tallied again in the seventh with Mel Stich's first four-bagger of the season climaxing the inning.

Starter Burton struck out twelve, walked four and limited the Lavender to six hits.

Miller Sour Over Beavers Play, Losses

By ED MINTON

"I'm disappointed with the boys. They haven't shown the fight or spirit that I have expected." Chief Miller was speaking and he wasn't exuding disgust, acrimony or bitterness—he was talking casually as a matter of record. Standing within the confines of Lewisohn Stadium, the Chief glanced at the Beaver lacrosse squad which was scrimmaging and added, "these boys are better than what they have shown."

Coach Miller had good reason to be disappointed with his ten. It wasn't the fact that Yale and Army have successively defeated the Lavender; it was the ragged, inept, and pitiful play that the Beavers displayed in these games that depressed him. Fifteen goals apiece were registered against the Beavers by both the Eli and the Cadets. Poor play was the reason why the St. Knicks could only tally three and two goals respectively.

That big field house up at West Point enabled the Cadets to practice much earlier than the Beavers and in condition and sharpness of play there could be no comparison.

However, Miller hopes that the boys will pick up when they engage the Rutgers ten May 5. The Lacrosse men are currently sporting a season record of 2-3. "I sure hope it gets better," concluded the Chief.

Petitions for NSA Delegates will be accepted until Friday, 2 P.M.

from the administration of academic eligibility for membership on teams." This move is to make the college's primary concern the educational welfare of the individual student.

In connection with enlarged intramural activities, the board asked the City to appropriate funds for a new field house at City College, which the students have been calling for for many semesters. This would allow the colleges to engage in intercollegiate athletic competition under "educational control."

A. A. Dinner

Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney '35 will be the guest of honor at the 1951 City College All-Sports Dinner which will be held Wednesday Evening, May 16 at the Builder's Club, 2 Park Avenue. Judge Mahoney will be given an award for his long record of service over a period of years to City College sports.

The Dinner, an annual fest climaxing the Lavender athletic year, will be minus much of the pomp and ceremony that distinguished it last year and it hardly need be said why. As of this writing it appears that none of the national sports celebrities who have graced the affair by their presence in the past will be extended an invitation. The All-Sports Dinner of 1951 will be held exclusively for City College athletes and due recognition and awards will be bestowed upon them.

Cliff Anderson '23, chairman of the Dinner Committee has announced that all students and alumni are invited to attend. Tickets cost $5.00 apiece and may be obtained from Marvin Pierce in the AA office.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

Number 19...THE WEASEL

"Who do they think they're kiddin'? I invented double talk!"

No wonder he blew his stack! All this double talk about quick cigarette tests was a flagrant infringement on his patent rights! They couldn't fool this character with "one-puff"—"one-whiff" experiments. Millions of smokers have reached the same conclusion—there's just one real way to prove the flavor and mildness of a cigarette.

It's the sensible test—the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test—which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke... on a pack-after-pack, day-after-day basis. No snap judgments needed! After you've enjoyed Camels—and only Camels—for 30 days, we believe you'll know why...

More People Smoke Camels than any other cigarette!
