Mark’s and M’s: Prof. Tynan Defends Marks: "I am Hard, But Not Unfair"

By Jerry Ludwig

Answering a statement by the Campus on February 7 that he is "allergic to "A,"" Professor Joseph L. Tynan of the English Department declared, "I don’t care how many articles the fellows (Campus) write. It’s silly for me to quarrel with the students. If they think I’ve marked unfairly that’s their business. I don’t think I am unfair."

On February 7 the Campus published a box headed by the statement, "Tynan’s Students Find Prof. Allergic to "A."" The article stated that "a total of 119 students in four basic courses, the professor saw fit to give one A, three B’s, 42 C’s, 43 D’s, and 16 F’s." It also remained an unresolved issue as to why he received incomplete grades due to absence from the final examination.

In an interview, Prof. Jahoda modestly proclaimed that the N.Y. Trio is the only one of its kind. "Though many of the professional quartets, we are the only professional trio to originate at a New York school and probably the only professional trio to originate at any school in the country," he said.

Prof. Weinstock will play the violin in the recital. Prof. Jahoda the piano. Each is an experienced and successful soloist. Prof. Deri, who hails from Hungary, has played with such professional groups as the Hungarian Quartet, and Mr. Weinstock, of Newark, N.J., has played the cello in various musical organizations.

The recital was formed at the college in 1950 when the three musicians met and began playing together occasionally. Finding that "it was good and had possibilities," they continued to work and formed the professional New York Trio.

In April of 1951 the New York Trio gave its first public recital, to an enthusiastic audience. The Times hailed the performance as "superior music-making." Prof. Jahoda, Mr. Weinstock, and Mr. Deri will recital tickets range from 90c to $2.00. However, discount tickets are available at 90c in RM 1180 of Odlin Hall.

Mom, Dad, Avoid Baby Sitter Worries; Kids, Parents Learn

Are your parents having trouble finding baby sitters? Are they bored with television? Do they want to go out more often? If the answers to any of these questions are yes, the Educational Department of the City College School of General Studies can solve the problem.

Organized to promote education for people past the general school age, the Extension Division at 41 Bronx and Manhattan locations is offering more than 200 non-credit courses this spring, starting March 19th.

Because a great deal of the Division’s students have "little students" of their own, some simultaneous courses are offered whereby parents may bring their children (ages five to twelve) to an Arts and Craft class while they study such courses as Batik, Home Decoration, and Child Psychology. While the fee generally $4 for each two-week Division course, there is no charge for the children taking a simultaneous course with their parents. Five dollars however, is charged for each additional child taking such a course.

In the evening, the recital starts at 8:30 P.M.

Information, Please

At its last meeting the Student Council passed a resolution in which it offered a pat panacea to the very important problem of loyalty checks.

We cannot help but feel that their action, in the light of the problem’s magnitude, was hastily considerate.

In passing their resolution, they have made two basic assertions:

(1) the only criteria for the evaluation of the worth of a given teacher is his professional qualification and performance.

(2) a potential teacher is to be considered in the same light as any other student.

In our belief that a potential teacher is in a special category, and as such, should be the subject of careful scrutiny before being placed in a position in which he can influence the minds of our young people. It would reveal a striking ignorance of the true role we should assume in society if we believe that the teacher has no more influence on the formation of opinion than a plumber, patching pipes, has on his customers.

The resolution also calls for Dean Turner to circumscribe the wording law by qualifying all students as loyal. The possible catastrophic results of such a blanket proposal are obvious.

We would, however, like to make certain suggestions concerning "loyalty." The present system, unfortunately, makes use of a somewhat undemocratic method. In order to publish Microcosm, the senior yearbook this term, it was decided on the recommendation of the Microcosm editors that the student body vote on whether to continue the publication. If a majority of the student body voted to continue the publication, the editors would have to have the support of the administration in order to continue. If a majority of the student body voted against the continuation of Microcosm, the editors would have to have the support of the administration in order to continue.

The administration has not been pressured into making a decision on whether or not to continue Microcosm.

We believe that the burden of proof should be on the accuser who charges disloyalty, rather than on the accused who is called upon to prove his innocence.

In all, there are two methods of defining disloyalty are very nebulous and leave too much room for individual interpretation. The Board of Examiners should specifically define the term "disloyalty." We cannot afford to be in a fog on such an issue as disloyalty.

Of course also feels that Council should be more selective about what it accepts as evidence and reason for action. In their latest resolution they have observed procedures which blatantly exemplify what they profess to oppose--acceptance of evidence based on hearsay and emotions rather than on facts.

We are in favor of institutions such as academic and intellectual freedom but we feel that in times like these, the government shows prudence when it takes steps to curtail the activities of those who undermine democracy. We believe that the burden of proof should be on the accuser who charges disloyalty, rather than on the accused who is called upon to prove his innocence.

Hey Athletes! Co-ed Hygiene Activities Starting This Week

By Joe Marcus

With the great influx of female students in the past year, and the general desire of both sexes to get together in all phases of college life, the Hygiene Department has instituted a series of co-ed and educational activities commencing this semester. The Hygiene Department will be co-ed, and according to the plan many students will benefit from the many activities offered.

The program includes Badminton, Basketball, Baseball, Golf, Handball, and Softball. The indoor program begins this week, and the outdoor phase will begin in April with the coming of the fresh-air phase and later in the shallow portions. Indoor activities will be held every Tuesday and Thursday between 5 and 2 p.m. The outdoor activities will hold open Fridays.

Those interested in Square Dancing will find the paved area behind the gym and the physical education gym available for practice. Social dance adherents will find the same. The beginner groups will be directed by Prof. Richard Harris and Chem de-ans, and Bocce (Italian Bowls) will be co-ed. The swimming facilities will also be co-ed. Professor Ferguson and Mrs. Shrike Means will take charge of the swimming classes. The classes will be held every Tuesday and Thursday between 5 and 2 p.m. The pool will not be open Fridays.

Weekend Sports Roundup

By Joe Marcus and Leo Desler

Swimming

Although paced by the amazing swimming of Howie Schloemer, who won each of the three races he was entered in, the college swimming team dropped a close decision to New York University, 45-30. This was the Beavers third loss in eight meets, giving them an overall average of 4-3-1. The only other Lavender win came in the 440 yard relay. The team was composed of Murray Silberberg, Charlie Schlacterlein, Fred Vicedomini, and Jay Glat. Glat, incidentally, performed well in the two relays despite the fact that he was shaken up in an auto accident. The Violet power was distributed evenly, only co-captain Lenny Silverstien took more than one match; he captured both the 200 yd. breastroke and the 150 yd. individual medley.

Fencing

The City College Fencing team gained their third victory of the season by trouncing Fordham University 19-8. The defeat, the sight of the campaign for the Hanna, marked the twelfth consecutive year that City has beaten their Metropolitan foe.

The Lavender Fencers dominated the Full Saber competition capturing 14 out of the 18 bouts. The Lavender Epee squad won five bouts while dropping four. The meet started slowly but the Beaver Fencers opened up in the third round as they captured eight straight bouts. In the opening round Hal Goldsmith overcame a 4-3 lead by Jack Hansen to get the next two touches and win the bout 5-4. In the following match Charles Piperno was upset by Casino Magarelli 5-3. Bobby Byron returned to his early season form as he nipped Fordham aces Rudy Dougs and Jack Hansen 5-3, 5-2. Al Gordon substituting for Byron defeated Cosmo Magarelli 5-2. The meet was clinched when Charles Piperno won his first match of the day by winning three bouts out of four.

Wrestling

Breaking into the victory column for the first time in two months the City College Wrestling team defeated Brooklyn Poly Institute 18-11. The victory was their second of the season against four defeats. The Beavers overcame an early 8-3 deficit to win. Jack Guind started the Lavender off with flying colors as he pinned Leo Caprutsa with a half pin at the 2:30 mark. In the 138 lb. weight class Arnie Landesman of Tech outpointed Herman Walzry 8-3 thus cutting the City lead to two points. Frank Gallaher of Brooklyn defeated Coco D'Angelo 8-4 to put the Techmen in front 6-5. Connie Norman shut out John Bautch in the 147 lb. match 5-0 to give the Lavender an 8-6 advantage. In the hardest fought match of the day Frank Evangelista of Brooklyn defied Mickey Diamont 8-4 to put the St. Nick forces an 11-3 lead. The 167 lb. contest saw Jim Farlek of the Beaver matmen defeat Pete Cettina 6-2 to give the St. Knick forces an 11-3 lead.
