December 11th Conference to Enable Students and Faculty to Air Opinions

By Herman Cohen

For the first time in the College's 105-year history, all members of the student body and the faculty will be able to voice their opinions in the All-College Conference beginning Thursday, December 11. Twenty-two workshops, covering as many phases of collegiate activity, will gather information and ideas, from all who have anything to offer, toward the end of making recommendations and suggestions for change.

Classes on December 11 will be suspended between 11 and 2 during which time the workshops will

Was Unaware Of Employee's Status: Taylor

When confronted with the statement in yesterday's New York Times that a member of the Registrar's staff was on the payroll of the "athletic department," Robert L. Taylor (Registrar) said: "I don't know of a member of my staff on the payroll of the athletic department. It's not unusual for employees to have compensation jobs. The nature of this employee's athletic job was to do it on his own.

"I did not know of anyone clear of us who would treat them favorably. Under the pay of employees (of the Registrar's Office) there is no fool-proof set up which would guard against 'tampering of records.'"

Friday Dances Now First-Chairman

The new policy regarding Friday night dances is working out very well according to Jerry Phillips, chairman of the Student Council Social Functions Committee. Beginning this term all dances are coordinated by the Friday Night Dance Committee so that only one will take place each week and there isn't any duplication of effort or expense.

The dances, which are held in the main gym, feature live refreshments, and two bands which alternate every other week. The attendance and the ratio of girls to boys has improved tremendously this term. The greatest success has been with Square Dances to which the students have been flocking in ever-increasing numbers.

Sat. Game for Stein Fund

The City College Basketball Team will play host to Hunter College in the Main Gym, this Saturday evening. The proceeds from this contest were set up several years ago in honor of Dr. Sidney A. Stein, who donated a great deal of time and money to aid injured City College athletes.

First Discussion on Education Curriculum on December 4th

On Thursday, Dec. 4, the first of a series of discussions concerning possible improvements in the Education Curriculum will be held. Students will be given an opportunity to present their ideas on specific courses, what is lacking in them, and how they can be made more interesting.

Lobbyed Insufficient

The President of the discussion he expects to produce more interest in the Education Curriculum. The meeting will be held in Room 307, Tower Hall.

Marks And The Man

1–The Marks You Received

By Jerry Ludwig

An OP survey of the grading system in basic required courses has revealed a wide disparity among instructors in marking standards. On some courses, instructors often showed considerable variation from one another and from their departmental average, and from the national average.

The survey figures were compiled over a span of some two semesters, with each instructor concerned having taught a minimum of two classes, and the marking scales used were very similar in some cases as many as eight. The names of all instructors were withheld, but still comparatively low.

An examination of the records of two History I instructors revealed that the two were among the lowest covered by the survey, one instructor failed more than six times as many students as the other. The contrast between the two instructors was shown to go even further, when it was found that the instructor who failed fewer students gave out approximately eight times as many A's as his colleague, and more than twice as many B's.

Math 61

A similar examination of 3000 grades distributed in several courses, encompassing nineteen sections, also revealed considerable differences. Instructor No. 1 failed ten percent more students and gave out six percent more A's, while instructor No. 2, gave out approximately six times as many A's as instructor No. 1.

Math 61

In the basic Economics courses, 1, 101 and 102 the number of A's given by the instructor of these courses, approximately one out of four students, instructor No. 1, the second instructor also gave out instructor No. 2, and No. 3, the instructor No. 1, the instructor No. 2, the instructor No. 1, and the instructor No. 2, the instructor No. 2.

THOU SHALT NOT KILL

As a CCYV alumni Club of 1939 and World War veteran, the observer object that I want to congratulate the Observer Post for running the fair and objective articles by David Elizer on pacifism, in which Professor Gustave Bischoff's views are given.

I do want to correct one misstatement of fact which marred the reader's view of the article. In the discussion between the reader and the actor, there is an unbroken line of thought that is certainly true that athletics should complement, not conflict, with the basic aims of education. However well you stated these views in your editorial, you George will have to move. In the article, you do not state what standards are used for the marks they give, or in what way the marks are determined. The overall picture, as presented in the survey, was very definitely toward a new exploration of the possibilities for a more uniform marking system.

The possibility of two students doing the same work, in two different classes, in which Professor Gustave Bischoff's views are given, may be found in the number of A's distributed. The Tempest' Only a Drizzle in FW's Production of Shakespeare's Comedy

Under Theatre Workshop's competent but uninspired directing, William Shakespeare's 'The Tempest' was retold two weekends ago, and emerged more of a drizzle than a heavy storm.

The serious problem raised by the plot of 'The Tempest' is the problem of time. The Shakespearean world of action is not neatly solved at the end of the play, as is often the case in other Shakespearean comedies.

The evil characters have not been punished when the play closes, nor is their any indication that they will receive justice in the afterlife. The good are not necessarily rewarded, either.

'Vestiges' affords us a glimpse of life, complete with tragic overtones.

Because of this unusual character of the play, the actors have an opportunity and a duty to interpret the roles which will make individuals of the characters they portray.

Stratos Kantounis, U.Jr.-3. says, "The quality and quantity are bare enough to sustain life, and more than enough to give me a pleasant light moment to the play.

Lyle Winter directed the production but left the interpreting to the actors. It was a drizzle, but perhaps it is better this term than the past. It is reasonably priced and one quality is good."

Ruby Spector, U.Jr.-l. has nothing to say about the food in the City College Cafeteria. She says, "On the whole, the food is all right. Although the prices are a bit higher than other places, the food I get at home but it will cost you more there."

Eleanore Chapman, U.Jr.-1. says, "I have nothing in particular to praise or to criticize about the food in the City College Cafeteria."

and unreserved in the role of Ariel, a 'Puckish' spirit in the service of Prospero, and portrayed a supernatural character with admirable realism.

George Greenfield as Stephano, drunkard heft whom Caliban believes to be a god, and Edward Hattemer, a pathetic monster, were well cast in their roles. In the scenes together with Caliban, they added pleasantly light moments to the play.

'Vestiges' ports of science, technology and mathematics, with special emphasis upon those aspects of science which are related to engineering.

'Vestiges', a School of Technology publication, offers the Technical student worthwhile and interesting reading. There will also be an article on industrial diamonds, and a special statement by Dean Allen, of the School of Technology. There will also be the usual "Industrial Highlights" section, which is a survey of the last industrial developments as reported by each of the engineering sections, as well as reports on the work of the various engineering societies, and important notices to engineering students.

A copy of 'Vestiges' will cost fifteen cents, or two issues for a quarter.
Booters Drop Final to Tech
By Joe Marcus
The City College Soccer team finished out its season, last Saturday, by hosting to a surprisingly 0-0 tie with the Stevens Tech 4-3. The Techmen overcome an early 1-0 deficit to steal the Beavers' second defeat of the year.

The Lavender pressed the Stevens Tech goal throughout. The initial stanza forcing net-minder House Strong to make three hard saves. At the 4:15 mark of the opening period, Team Captain Don Holm took a pass from Bill Schreiber to tally the first goal of the game for Coach Rothschild's crew.

On the first play of the third period, Gil Glodstein took a pass from Joe Atkinson to tally the second goal of the game. At the 19.00 minute mark Dennis Leaders cut the City lead in half as he blasted a high scorcher over Urban's head kick by Hans Kulleseid. Five and one-half minutes later Will Altschiller scored his second goal of the game as he faked Hal Friedensohn, Urban's goalie, to the outside to tie the contest at 2:2.

Final Period
An inspired Stevens squad took the offensive the opening minute of the final period. At the one minute mark Mr. Anany took a pass from Kulleseid to the outside of the net. Urban had little chance and the ball rolled in.

With cheers still resounding, six members of the soccer team walked off of the field, the last for the time.

Captain Pinky Pinecower, still must wait a year before he receives his Electrical Engineer degree, but has already next to his four years of eligibility. In 1962 he played with the City College Freshman Soccer Team. Many people who come to the City College and Natural Science departments are interested in the game, which is held on the field.

Gil Glodstein has also played his last game for the Lavenders. After serving three years of varsity experience, Gil's "big boot" came in the 1960-61 season when he defeated the Scarlet. He has always been a hustling performer for the Beavers.

Although a second substring until the middle of the '52 season, Phil Land has done very well for the Lavender. Phil, who is majoring in Physical Education, was called on in the Yale game to replace the injured Herb Altschiller.

Herb Altschiller plans to double in chemistry when he graduates for a law degree. He is a vital man in the soccer picture. But the Stevens game marked his final one, and he will be missed.

Sid Glodstein who has had only two years of competition, has been called upon many times, when the pressure was on and has come through in fine style.

For a CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER SMOKE...
Be Happy—GO LUCKY!

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!
They're made better to taste cleaner, fresher, smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke? You know, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Luckies taste better-cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Because Luckies are made better to taste better. And, when you smoke Luckies, luckies are made of fine tobacco.

All around Height
The team will feature good all-around height, with Buss, Domer, Shorr and Gurkin all ranging from 6'2 to 6'6. The little man, 5'7 Jack Chudnof will be counted upon for most of the playmaking. A very fast man, Chudnoff possesses an excellent variety of driving shots.

Rounding out the team will be Artie Dietz, Warren Goldfarb, Tommy Holm, Ronnie Kowalski, Irwin Lit, Charlie Rowe, Artie Givinski, and Walter Tannenbaum.

Hunter, coached by Jack Begelman, has already played one game, having defeated a make-shift Alumni team, 31-26. The Bronzites did not look too impressive in that game, and the Lavender will have an advantage in height and experience.

The main trouble with the Hunter team is its greenness. All Altshiller 6'3 and Randy Nugent 6'2 are two alternates in Coach Begelman's double pivot setup, but Dick Scott may take the former's place in the starting lineup.
