OP ENDORSES STEVENSON
By Leonard Lerner

The strong rumors that members of the City College faculty would be questioned by the Senate Internal Security Sub-Committee (McCarren Committee) at its hearings originally scheduled for this past Saturday seem to have been unfounded. The committee has continued its investigation into Communism in the school system, called off its scheduled meeting at the United States Courthouse at Foley Square and met Monday instead.

No Profits at CCNY Called to Testify

Monday's hearings were concerned with teachers at other colleges. The police denied an OP reporter admittance to the Court House Monday. No members of the City College faculty have yet been implicated. Some seventy students were down at Foley Square Saturday at 10 AM to demonstrate. Inasmuch as these students were at Foley Square anyway, they held a rally in the park.

According to Dean Leslie Eng- (Admissions), the committee was reported to have already made its investigation of the College's faculty, and has not ex- erected all faculty members. Previously, faculty members from Brooklyn College, Hunter College, and Queens College were suspended by the Board of Higher Education for refusals to answer questions before a sub-committee of the McCarren Com- mittee, which was presided over by Senator Homer Ferguson (R. Mich.). Their right to refuse to answer was upheld by Supreme Court, but the dismissals were mandatory under section 502 of the City College Act. This section, which is self-executing, states that municipal officials shall be dismissed if they refuse to answer questions regarding their "official conduct."

Mrs. Guggenheimer to Be Recipient of Finley Award

Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheimer will receive the 1952 John H. Finley Award for "significant service rendered to the City of New York," it was announced last week by Dr. Gabriel R. Mason, president of the City College Alumni Association.

The award, which is made yearly, will be presented at the association's 72nd annual dinner on Monday evening, November 10, at the Hotel Astor.

In announcing the award, Dr. Mason cited Mrs. Guggenheimer's "long record of service to the cultural improvement of the city.

Since 1918, Mrs. Guggenheimer has been chairman of the Stadium Coterie, which are held outdoors each summer in Lewisohn Stadium.

Groups Plan to Participate in Activities Fair for Freshmen

This semester the Department of Student Life and Chi Lamba will sponsor an Activities Fair.

It will be presented to the Freshman assemblies on November 25, and is designed to acquaint the newcomers with extra-curricular activities available to them.

Rather than have a series of speakers address the students, each organization participating in the Fair will have a booth in Great Hall. The event will provide organizations with the opportunity to meet with people interested in their activities.

This plan has been used at Downtown City with excellent results. All organizations interested in participating in the Activities Fair should contact Laura Brunkeler, Chairman of the Fair Committee.

The newly re-organized Young Republican Club held its first meeting last Thursday. Fred Proctor and Martin Grundzweig are the co-organizers of this group. The club has chosen to affiliate with the Republican Club of City College, as a means of symbolizing the pledge taken at each organization participating in the Fair will have a booth in Great Hall. The event will provide organizations with the opportunity to meet with people interested in their activities.

Latest Report: Senior Doings In Full Stride

The Senior Class has already organized itself, and a full program has been planned for the semester. Several committees have been established to organize a variety of activities.

A meeting of the class of '53 in Great Hall is being arranged for sometime in October. The purpose of this is to give the students a general outline of the activities planned.

The Senior Tea will be held on November 7 in Knittle Lounge, and will give the seniors an opportunity to become better acquainted with their instructors, and further familiarize them with the term program. However, only those students with this semester's class card will be admitted.

Social Season to Start Off With Saturday Mystery Ride

The Class of '55 will start its Fall social season by having a mystery bus ride Saturday, October 18, to an unknown destination. The price per couple will be $2.50, and the buses will leave from the Main Building at 7:30 PM. As in the past, it is rumored that the couples will be made up of a male and a female.

As an added attraction there will be a contest on the length of the ride. The couple that will pass the actual amount of miles traveled on the way will win a $200 travel in reaching the mystery destination will receive the contest entry prize. Those who want to bring along their own bus to follow will be charged $2.50 per bus ride a Saturday, October 18, to an unknown destination. The buses will leave the Main Building at 7:30 PM.

College Dem Tours State

Gary Schlesinger, of City College, chairman of the College Council of the New York State Young Democratic Organization, and Jim Brown, the College Director of the state group, will co-sponsor a mystery bus ride for the Fall social season at Colgate. The group is planning to take a poll to determine how the students of all the New York colleges would vote.

Students for Stevenson

A "Students for Stevenson" club has recently been formed at the College. The organization was formed from two rival groups: one independent, and one sponsored by the New York Young Democrats. The new club was organized from these two rival groups with the realization that only one Students for Stevenson Club could be created. Because of the amalgamation of these two rival groups, the club will operate with co-officers until an organizational meeting can be held. The co-presidents are Gerry Goldstein and Susan Goldman, while the two vice-presidents are Dave Silver and Gerry Santora. Other officials are Hank Siemen, secretary, Harry Synet, treasurer, and George Kramer, secretary-treasurer.

College Dem Tours State

Gary Schlesinger, of City College, chairman of the College Council of the New York State Young Democratic Organization, and Jim Brown, the College Director of the state group, have spent the last two weekends traveling upstate to form Young Democratic Clubs in various colleges.

Two weekends ago they visited St. Lawrence College and St. John's. This past weekend they traveled to Colgate University to meet with representatives of Colgate, Cornell, and Syracuse. They also met with County Youth Division officials and College Division Officers and Political Science teachers.

Intellectual Program Adopted By Hillel to Inspire Learning

Hillel, the Hebrew organization at the College, has adopted a new program which has been termed "intellectual approach."

The main purpose of this program will be to stimulate learning and thinking. In this program Hillel hopes to give the student a mature conception of Judaism. The classes will include such topics as Jewish History, Hebrew and Talmud. These classes will be held on an informal basis and will be taught by Rabbi Zuckermand.

POETRY CIRCLE

The poetry circle and the Yiddish Literature and Culture Club are among the many new groups that have been formed at Hillel. They are also planning a large social program that will include Sunday and Monday events.

The group was recently charted by the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Affairs. The main function of the club will be to work for the election of Adlai E. Stevenson, a Democrat.

To Save Lives

Of strangely urges all students who have not yet signed up for the blood bank to do so. It is regrettable that there are some students who will not contribute to save lives: the lives of a fellow student as well as the lives of our fighting men.

Many students in the past have had occasion to draw from the blood bank for themselves and their families. If the College meets its quota this year, the College can be proud of having contributed to the bank for his family as well as for himself.

During the past few years, many college students have given blood and have suffered no ill effects from the sacrifice. In fact, many have felt rejuvenated after giving blood. The Cross is known for the careful, efficient job they perform when they receive the blood.

When you give blood you can feel proud in the thought that your blood will be used to help save a life.

Prof. Berger Teaches Roman Law
Both As An "Art and as a Science"

Imitation pearls can be purchased by the string for a nominal price. Almost every where in the world people are trying to sell glass and brass, swearing that they are the real thing. The "real thing" is still hard to find. In many cases, even scholarly and peda- logy, Professor Adolf Berger is very active in this field. The author of the first Latin-English "Encyclopedic Dictionary of Roman Law" (first publication in 1953), Prof. Berger is now teaching Latin 26, which is a course in Roman Law. A knowledge of the ancient language is not required. This law of the Romans of antiquity has such a wide application. Roman Law was the basis for modern European law. This legal system, which is the basis for many foundations of constitutional law, is still in use today.

Prof. Berger, a scholar of jurisprudence, many covers the basic principles and theories of history of Law, Political Science, and literature. One of the authors of the Roman Law sec- tor of the Seminary of Roman Law, earning a Doctorate of Law at the University of Washington. Prof. Berger holds one of the most respected handles in his field. His scholarship consists of total work over 3000 pages. While not a student of ancient legal history, he has become familiar with Roman Law in a very practical way.

Prof. Berger has applied his rigorous training to his teaching. It is not unusual for him to spend hours with students on the details of a problem. He is known for his unique approach to teaching and his ability to make even the most complex topics understandable.

People are forever trying to better themselves and humanity both physically and mentally. Fat women squeeze their way into reducing salons hoping to have their surplus natural resources redistributed and discarded. Mothers are frustrated by their children's refusal to eat in psychology classes hoping to learn to reconcile the conflict. Men engage in such good health while literary pursuits are compelling anecdotes of the poet written on men's-room walls. Students at the College seek a more aesthetic self improvement activity and take courses in the modern dance. In these dance classes the students are supposed to learn how to manipulate their bodies so as to be able to express themselves in a modern way. I had the unique experience of watching one of these modern dance classes, and I must say that I found it hard to believe that anything even remotely organized could ever be developed by the people in the class. First I saw two boys walk and turn across the floor in a Frank- enstein-like manner. Next a very young and sweetly dressed young man was improved further when Miss Raphael, the instructor, accompanied the jumping class by playing the same tune on a tambourine drum.

The telerepulsive exhibition presentation is not rare at all. It now is more popular at the College. Who knows, modern dancing may even replace walking here on the campus. Students perhaps will be leaping across Convent Avenue stairs (dropping open book behind), walking and -turning through the revolving doors and walking across Lincoln Corridor to the beat of a drum.

Miss anyone?

Good Issue, Boys

Last Thursday, October 6, at 12:30 PM, Dr. Buell Gallagher, the new president, met for the first time with the student body.

The turnout of approximately 1000 students to hear and speak with Dr. Gallagher was disgracefully low.

It is a sad commentary on our school "spirit" and on our common courtesy when such a small segment of the student body shows up to greet and follow through with the new president. His warm welcome of the students deserves a better fate. He took part in a unique question and answer session with students last Thursday and, in general, has shown a heartening and active interest in the student body and its activities.

The complaints about a remote and uninterested president are no longer valid. The complaints about an indifferent study body, it seems, are still of substance.

However, the apathetic student was not alone to blame for last week's poor attendance.

The other newspaper on the campus, in a childish and ridiculous attempt to come up with a "scoop," planned an intended scrap on Thursday morning to publicize the assembly, as had been planned. OP had wanted to publish Thursday morning, but on the insistence of the other paper, had rolled it out on Wednesday. Our lead story on that morning was an announcement of the coming Great Hall assembly. The other paper did not follow suit on Thursday morning, and neither did we, only on the insistence of the other paper, had rolled it out on Wednesday. Our lead story on that morning was an announcement of the coming Great Hall assembly. The other paper did not follow suit on Thursday morning, so that they could cover the assembly and bring home their coveted "scoop."

Both the student body and the assembly suffered by this downright stupid stunt. Had we known that the paper down the hall had intended to come out Friday, we would have gone to bed and let the other paper have their coveted "scoop."

At any rate, it's about time they grew up.

Speaking of juveniles, there was another group directly responsible for the small attendance in the Great Hall. This particular organization, which prides itself on being "collegiate," is the Young Democrats. The attempt on the part of the Young Democrats to imitate Ivy-League concepts by being shrewd, "artificial" and useless. The fact that they choose to ignore a very real "mess" of igniting school feeling seems to bear this out.

White buck shoes, tweeds, slip-jan ties and loose hours are not the mark of unity at Yale and Harvard—at City College, these are still of substance.

The Young Pidocieks of America, as they are known, certainly have strained standards. What could be more "college" than a very informal get-together with the new president, to enhance and cement "school-spirit?" We don't know.

The attempt on the part of the Young Pidocieks to imitate Ivy-League concepts of which we have heard so much, is a shallow, "artificial" and useless. The fact that they choose to ignore a very real "mess" of igniting school feeling seems to bear this out.

However, the apathetic student was not alone to blame for last week's poor attendance.
Past CCNY Publications Reviewed by Editor

Looking down the road into the past via old magazines well as nostalgic experience. All college publications of the College of the City of New York, past and present, are excellent stages upon which to place a setting of days gone by.

Innovation, the College library magazine, is being one of the best college publications at the College as its theme for its November issue. The editors have compiled the contents of the magazine to include almost everything from dramatic material extracted from past Lavender publications. Recounts many of the articles on trends, style, and content of College magazines, as well as samples of articles that appeared in the old publications are highlighted in the coming thirty-two page issue.

When asked if there were situations that would have occurred many years ago, Selwyn Rosenthal of the editors, found a vast collection of musicals, records, and books.

"Around the School:

Music Library Offers Classical, Folk Music

The City College Music Library, located on the third floor of Townsend Harris, is a room not much larger than most classrooms. It is cramped with large bookshelves, several desks, and many chairs. The library also has a vast collection of musical scores, records, and books.

Founded in 1948, as a part-time library, the library was expanded in 1953 to its present size. The library operates under the direction of the City College of New York, with full-time staff under the supervision of the Department of Music.

Miss Theda Fleischer, a member of the City College staff, has been in charge of the library since its inception. A graduate of City College, Miss Fleischer is also a graduate of Columbia University School of Library Science.

In stating some of the difficulties that the library must contend with, Miss Fleischer noted that the lack of funds, records, and training facilities was most important. The present regulations under which the library operates limits its use almost entirely to music majors. Other students may use the library by appointment, between the hours of 9 AM to 9 PM.

The library's collection of 2000 long-playing records and 750 albums of classical music is almost exclusively classical pieces. In addition to the records, there are small collections of musicals, operas, and folk music.

"School Scraps Will Hell" — Shiller

Manhattanville Manhattanville—The very music of the word makes one tremble. Our, our dear Old Shiller. Well, to quote Mr. Arthur A. Shiller, Director of the Architectural Engineering Unit at the City College of New York, "I am proud of my former students who have contributed to the theatre, music, and other fields of lasting knowledge.

Playwriting Instructor Is "Jack-of-all-Trades"

Author, writer, producer, director, teacher at two colleges, Mr. John F. Matthews, Instructor of Speech 26 (Playwriting) at the College, can truly be called a "jack-of-all-trades."

Mr. Matthews attended Northwestern and graduated from the University of Cincinnati in 1942 with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Drama. He has done radio work, acting on such shows as "Bright Horizon" and "Detective Mystery Theater," where he has contributed to the writing of "City Hospital," "Big Sister," and "Suspense," and has been associated with the "Jack Berkoff" and "Kate Smith" shows.

In his thirty years, Mr. Matthews can include Warner Bros. among his "credits." He has worked on short subjects and features for them. He has taught playwriting at the New School, and is presently the playwriting instructor at Brandeis (in Boston), besides teaching the course this semester at CCNY.

Aside from his busy schedule, which calls for a four-hour car trip and from Boston a few days a week, Mr. Matthews finds time to write plays. He has received a grant of the Arts of Theatre Foundation award for playwriting as a project currently under way.

Besides his wide range of dramatic activities, Mr. Matthews took time out of his busy life (he's married) to write a book last year about El Greco, the Spanish painter. Mr. Matthews is proud of some of his former students who have achieved successful playwrights. He is quick to point out, however, that Speech 26 is not only intended for future playwrights, but for anyone wanting to know how it works. He often refers to the book as a "playwright's guide," he says, "I hope the course will be interesting to people who are never going to write a play."

Cuties...

Female students intending to compete in the biggest, most important, and certainly "bread-and-butter" election in the college—the HP carnival queen contest, and who wish to get OP's support, should contact Andi Metellis, OP's features editor. Each prospective "OP Cutie" will bring a photograph of herself. These photographs will be carefully considered by the managing editor of this board of the evening paper, and a limited number of them will be printed with OP's endorsement.

"Represents education that continues,"

By GEORGE GALLUP

A serious weakness of the American educational system, as George Gallup has pointed out, is the missing link between what we are taught in school and what we learn after leaving school. The Reader's Digest represents education that continues. It arouses and satisfies keen interest in the vital issues of the day. And it is of interest in many fields of lasting knowledge.

Look at the wide range of subjects in any issue. The Reader's Digest offers a course in liberal education for millions of men and women with alike, open minds.

In October Reader's Digest, you'll be interested in Carl Hoffman's report on the White House and the "Secret History of the White House," and in the Medical Discovery of the Year. In November Reader's Digest, you'll be interested in the Inside Story of the Third World War, and the "Secrets of the Millionaire Millionaire."

It is fortunate that we do have a championship team, because a number is always said to be a drawing-card. To illustrate this point, we can start with the crowd in the stands which showed up like a 14-in. phage picture, an astronomical 14.

Students are to be congratulated for taking the team to the next level of competition.

- 15:00—Third period.

POST-GAME THOUGHTS

Throughout the game, Coach Werner Rothschild walked up and down the sidelines directing his team. Though the game was a 1-1 battle, he instilled in his players the need to keep the momentum going.

The game had a lot of hard work, and the team showed that they are capable of competing against the best. Coach Rothschild emphasized the importance of teamwork and communication.

Eight Returning Vets Bolster a Freshman Team

By Joe BUNTON

Coach Yutin Sirutis is readying his Banting team for the season, although one of the smallest, in the history of the City College of New York, with a total of eight veterans and a freshman class.

The only returning player from last season's co-captain and leading scorer, who has graduated, is Howie Maderio, who has joined the squad as a freshman.

Eight performers from last year, who dropped out of the game, will return to action this year. The eight returning players will bring the experience of winning the Mids-League title to the team.

The game was a 1-1 draw, but the veterans showed their ability to compete against the best. Coach Sirutis emphasized the importance of teamwork and experience.

Intercollegiate Action

On the sidelines, Coach Sirutis said, "The team is doing very well. We have a good number of returning players, and the freshmen are showing promise. The team is coming together, and we hope to do well in the league.

St. Nick's Booters Whip L.I. Aggies in Metropolitan Conference Opener

By Herschel Minson

Coach Werner Rothschild threw his best men into the fray as the College's soccer team opened its Metropolitan Conference season last Saturday, at Lewisohn Stadium by beating the Long Island Agricultural & Technical College, 3-1.

The Long Island Aggies made an unexpectedly good showing against the Beavers, who played surprisingly sub-par.

As a matter of fact, the Beavers were lucky not to lose by a larger score. They were off formation, at least, at what their first two goals were scored. Their final tally of game, giving the Beavers a 3-2 victory over the Aggies, was due mainly to the efforts of an outstanding goalie, Hank Guyer.

The Aggies, a tremendously fast and aggressive squad, had the upper hand in the first half, with two buts left in the half, but inside Right John Fiere converted a pass from Ted Messinger, beating City goalie Hank Guyer.

The score remained tied, and following up a pass was in the offing, until the 15:20 mark of the third quarter. Center Halfback Tommy Hoels booted a long shot into the Aggie goalmouth, and Goalie Hank Guyer went down on his hands to save the score. However, the ball spun out of his hands, up over his shoulder and into the nets.

The Lavender seed at the 17:20 mark of the final period, as Lucien Dauphars, the Beavers' outstanding player all day, as Inside Right John Fiere received a corner kick from Gun Harris.

Outstanding in a losing cause was Aggie netminder Guyer, who made the best save of the day, as he leaped high to keep warm, because the performance of the team at the front of the goal was so bad.

Their passing was up-to-par, but an inexperienced though handicapped team opened its Metropolitan Conference season, last Saturday, at Lewisohn Stadium by beating the Long Island Agricultural & Technical College, 3-1.

Lou Cacino Stars as Beavers' Marquee Player

By Steve BEAN

In the same spirit of the city College's varsity soccer team last Saturday, the first of the fall season, the Beavers' varsity soccer team held their first practice last Saturday, at Lewisohn Stadium.

The score remained tied, and following up a pass was in the offing, until the 15:20 mark of the third quarter. Center Halfback Tommy Hoels booted a long shot into the Aggie goalmouth, and Goalie Hank Guyer went down on his hands to save the score. School Intrars To Make Use Of New Land

Make way for the Baba DiGamma, the new sports building.

This year with the increased emphasis on intramural sports, women will be getting into the more and more. The new campus at Manhattanville will considerably broaden the athletic scene for the females.

By Burton Rich­ard, head of the intramural program the tremendous facilities have been made available as soon as they can be put into shape. A bowling alley will give some of the weaker sex a chance to take part in sports that they can do with the ten pins.

Tennis courts will bring in the new season. A curling rink, and a swimming pool will give the girls their first opportunity to compete in these sports.

To top it all off, there are grounds for field hockey. Field hockey, long a popular interschu­lar sport among women, is about to lose its position because they need one needs no skates or cold weather for the former.

There will be a, a diet of basketball, wrestling, touch-football, and a road race. The program will be a score of sports.

To take in all these, there are, to get in the girls' way for the public school.

A basketball tournament will be held on the new courts in the Main and Tech Gyms.

Table-tennis enthusiasts will take their place in the sun, starting on October 16, in South Hall. The date of the first game will be held on Tuesday.

There is an urgent need for referees.

All those interested in entering or organizing the intramural games should report to Prof. 107 Hygiene.

Yale Game Tough Test for CCNY

In what has been termed by Coach Werner Rothschild as "our toughest test of the season," the College's soccer team will face the University of Pennsylvania this afternoon to tackle the extremely powerful Yale Bulldogs.

The game was arranged by John Mar­tin, coaches four all-New England players including a number of All-Americans in Alex Athenas, while other Yale stars were Bob Armstrong and Paul Dickie.

Two impressive freshmen are featured for Yale in Flanagan and Building Brothers. Ed Flanagan played a second half game at goalkeeper, and was given up eleven shots, while Yale won nine of its own.
Just as there is no such thing as a second-class citizen, there is no such thing as a second-class student at this college. Any student who has qualified to enter this institution has paid his fees, is thereby entitled to participate in all activities. This holds not only with the extra-curricular activities of his choice. In theory, this is the situation existing at the College. In practice, however, one student, at least, is being denied his rights.

His name is Ed Chenetz. On November 20, 1951, Ed was informed that he was therefore ineligible to play basketball for the Lavender. He had been admitted to the College with a high school average of 85%, which would probably have admitted him to almost any school in the country.

In an exclusive statement in the Observation Post of December 19, 1961, Chenetz said in part that: "...we had not any knowledge of, or connection with, the record tampering and was willing and eager to stop affidavits in that effect."

The extent or type of falsification has not been made clear. We believe that Chenetz and the other players were not aware of any tampering whatsoever.

By the very fact that Chenetz is not allowed to participate in the extra-curricular activity of his choice—It happens to be basketball, but could be the debating team or any other—it might appear to the average observer that either Chenetz himself had tampered with records or that he is in some roundabout way responsible.

We sincerely hope that the whole affair will not simply be dragged out into a death by fussiness. We certainly have no desire to prolong an unpleasant thing of this sort, but we insist that either those responsible be brought into the open, or that some statement be made by the BHE concerning the outcome of the case.

We are not asking special consideration for a special student. As far as we and he are concerned, Eddie Chenetz is a student who happens to play basketball. He must be allowed to play on the team. There is an opening in our philosophy for second-rate students at this college. We are, asking for justice.

Gal Basketball Team the Top Drawer, Guys

The co-captain of the CCNY basketball team last year, believe it or not, failed to score a single point at all! Moreover, only five players scored any points at all.

That's what you say! The basketball team only had one captain last year and he led the team in scoring with 285 points! Certainly more than five players figured in the season's scoring! Why more than five players scored a single point is beyond my comprehension.

Held on a second? The statements in the preceding paragraphs are correct.

Missie Walser
Girls’ Sports Writer

The only catch is that this article refers to the women's basketball team.

Under the leadership of Miss Margarette G. Walser, the Lady Bears knocked over nine teams as Queens, Wagner, Brookdale College, Hofstra, and St. Joseph's College during last year.

The co-captain who did not score, although she played an important role in the team's defense as a guard, was Pearl Zarember, whose counterpart, Ann Ulrich, became the Lady Bears' forward position, netting 119 points.

This year's squad, co-captained by Barbara Detle and Linda Pastasine, faces an eleven game schedule, opening on Dec 4 against the Alumnae, in the Main Gym, although all other home games will be played in Manhattanville.

NOSE, THROAT, and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."
