College's Right to Name Itself Beneficiary Upheld

The right of City College to be designated a $250,000 beneficiary to the estate of Jacob R. Schiff was upheld on December 24 by Surrogate William T. Collins.

Under the provisions of Mr. Schiff's will, an advisory board consisting of the presidents of City College, Columbia University and the Jewish Publication Society of America, are to manage the residuary estate and contribute funds, income and principal, to such institutions as they feel are attempting to "further the ideals of American democracy."

The legality of City College, a member of the advisory board, to designate itself as beneficiary, was questioned by the Chase National Bank, a co-trustee. The bank felt that "a conflict of interest disqualified from dealings" with the trust under his supervision.

In handing down his decision in favor of City College, Surrogate Collins noted that the bank had conceded that the advisory board was influenced "only by the highest of motives."

At the time the will was drawn up, Dr. Harry N. Wright and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower represented City College and Columbia, respectively. President Gallagher and Dr. Grayson Kirk, who succeeded Gen. Eisenhower as President of Columbia, are now on the advisory board. Mr. Louis E. Leaventhal represents the Jewish Publication Society of America.

The Chase National Bank may appeal Surrogate Collins' decision, but as yet no such action has been taken.

Silver Elected SC President; Merger Nixed

By Fred Boratz

Dave Silver was elected president of Student Council by a 389 vote plurality and a proposed merger of the Observation Post and Campus was once again overwhelmingly defeated in this semester's SC elections.

Mr. Silver, with 1356 votes defeated Gerry Smetana (967), and Harry R. Pollak (735). The new vice-president is Hank Stern, who nosed out Stan Friedman by thirty votes. Mr. Stern received 1210 votes; Mr. Friedman, 1180, and Stanley Tarnell, the third contestant, 481.

The vote against merger was 2299-988. This vote bettered last year's margin when 1949 favored merger and 1021 opposed it. Although voting against merger, the majority of students voted

To Call College Students If Draft Quota Not Filled

Unless local draft boards begin calling 19-year-olds for military service they will be forced to rely upon college students to meet their monthly quotas. This was the forecast of Stuart Clarkson, the College's Director of Armed Forces and Veterans' Counselling Division.

The local draft boards are presently beginning to run out of their supply of available 20-year-olds and they are faced with the problem of either drafting college students or 19-year-olds. A recent indication of this situation has been the induction of more than the usual number of students from City College for the December and January draft calls. These recent inductees ranged in all classes from Freshmen to Seniors. The Defense Department has not yet sanctioned the calling of 19-year-olds, although there have been persistent reports that they are about to do so.

Mr. Clarkson advises all students whose 2S or 1S deferments expire in February to file immediate appeals with their local board, requesting an extension until graduation, for graduate school or employment in an essential industry, whichever is applicable. If you then receive a 1A classification you still have the further right to appeal within 10 days.

Students desiring further information should consult the Armed Forces and Veterans Counselling Office, Rm. 208 Main.

Roab

Senior Office Suffers Theft

Walter Urban, President of the Senior Class, reported that the Senior office has been burglarized with the resultant loss of several hundred dollars' worth of senior jewelry.

Mr. Urban expressed the belief that the robbery probably took place on the night of December 17. The door of the senior office was found to have no marks off it which would indicate that a jimmy, or some other device for forcible entry, had been used to open it. It is therefore believed that the thief may have used a key in order to gain entrance into the office in which the jewelry was kept.

Mr. Urban stated that because of the robbery there would be a delay in the delivery of rings and keys to the seniors. He added, "I hope the seniors will take the robbery into consideration and be patient while awaiting delivery of their jewelry."

Present BDM Frat Pin To President Gallagher

By Allan Sarath

Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, president of City College, received an honorary membership at the Tenth National Convention of the Beta Delta Mu Fraternity on Sunday, December 28, 1952, at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

One hundred members, alumni and their families heard Dr. Gallagher tell of his experiences with racial bigotry in fraternities. Upon becoming a member of the Beta Sigma Rho Fraternity at Bucknell University, he discovered that there was a clause in its constitution which prohibited membership in the fraternity to any person of dark skin. He refused to wear the fraternity pin until recently, when the constitution was revised and the discriminatory clause stricken out.

Dr. Gallagher condemned this sort of prejudice and further stated that "those organizations which are entitled to the name of 'fraternity' should be able to live up to the full meaning of brotherhood. Others should, perhaps, call themselves 'Hob Snobberies.'"

Others who received honorary memberships in the fraternity were Dr. Harry D. Gidoune, president of Brooklyn College; Mr. Walter White, secretary of NAACP, and Mr. Edward Townsend, faculty advisor of the Beta chapter of BDM at uptown City.

In another address, Dr. Alden N. Hafner, Grand Chancellor of BDM, expressed a desire on the part of the smaller organs of the NIPC to break away from the suppression of parent organizations which continually thwart attempts to eliminate discriminatory clauses from their constitutions. By a unanimous vote it was resolved that BDM should denounce NIPC for the policy shown by its vote to limit membership in fraternities because of racial qualifications.

Dr. Hefner was presented with a plaque for his work in extending the interests and making a success of all of the endeavors of BDM in 1952.

Marv Stevens
 Wins for Secretary

for having a merged paper come out at least three times a week, "if there is such a merger."

Marv Stevens handily defeated Allen J. Bard for secretary, 1401-1153. In a closer contest, Barney McCaffrey edged out Herbert Viebrock for treasurer, 1328-1246.

The winners for National Student Association delegate positions were Manny Halper, Hank Stern, Arnold Bergman, and James Berry. Horace Manner and Manny Solon were elected alternates.

A referendum favoring a twenty-minute break between classes was rejected by a vote of 1791-1251. The students overwhelmingly stated their preference for the present system of one two-hour break on Thursday for club activities. The alternative plans on the ballot were for two one-hour breaks or two two-hour breaks.

Sheldon Halpern (227 votes) defeated three other aspirants for the office of Senior Class President: Bernard Landa (204), Murph Kazim (114), and Herb Isaacs (89).

Sol Rosenthal (226) narrowly beat out Will Viertel (200) for the post of Junior Class President.

In another close contest, Paul Sevransky (300) became President of the Class of '56 besting Sam Landa (327).

James Brussel was unopposed for the office of Freshman President.

Hear CCNY's TV Application

There will be a hearing Tuesday on the College's application for a television station under the FCC's provision for setting aside certain channels for educational purposes. The hearing will be before the state committee on educational television.

It is up to this commission to decide first, whether the state will allocate any funds for the program, and second, which institutions would receive such aid. Without state aid, the College could not finance the operation of a television station.

OP Elects...

At a meeting on December 18, the OP staff made the following elections to the Managing Board:

Andy Molish, Editor-in-Chief; Ed Lipton, Managing Editor; Jerry Brown, News Editor; Jerry Ludwig, Features Editor; Walt Porges, Sports Editor.

Pete Kachant, Harold Hirschman and Stan Wecher were elected to the Associate Board as Copy Editors.

Gallagher, Other College Heads, Give Views on Communist Inquiry

In a statement requested by James Wechsler, Editor of The New York Post, concerning the recent disclosure by Senator Joseph McCarthy that he would launch an investigation of college faculties for subversive influences or "Communist thinkers" President Buell G. Gallagher stated that he is unalterably opposed to the hiring of known Communists or fascists as teachers at the College and that the process of identifying Communists is one which must include the safeguarding of civil rights and academic freedom, including refusal to identify publicly any names of persons under suspicion unless and until there appears to be clear ground for presenting formal charges.

Dr. Gallagher stated that whenever possible, the normal processes of law enforcement should be used to take care of any suspicion of disloyalty. The President added that "dragnet methods accompanied by frenzied publicity tend to create an atmosphere of fear rather than faith, of hysteria rather than confidence."

President Gallagher concluded that every group must produce an occasional scoundrel without being condemned as a group before the public. He stressed that boards of trustees and college officials were responsible for defending the integrity of schools and colleges against outside pressures, but they should also facilitate the discovery of the guilty.

Dr. David M. Delo, President of Wagner College on Staten Island, expressed wonder over how Senator McCarthy defines the expression "Communist thinkers." Dr. Delo said, "If he means anyone who does not think the same as Sen. McCarthy, then we are in for a lot of trouble." The Wagner President emphatically stated that "We have no Communists at Wagner College. I do not expect that there will be any." He warned that we are doing just what the Communists want done when all men with new and different ideas are tarred with the same brush.

The permanent Senate Investigating Committee, of which Senator McCarthy becomes head in the new Congress, is one of three investigating bodies that will be in the field of alleged subversion. The other two are the House Un-American Activities Committee and the Internal Security Subcommittee.

Dr. Vincent Hart, director of university development at Fordham University, said it was embarrassing that a government investigation of a college was "even necessary." He stated that "Fordham has not on her faculty or staff or in the student body one member in sympathy with Communism."

Executive Committee of NSA Meets; 'Leftist' Charges Vehemently Denied

By Hank Stern

Meeting in frost-tinged Detroit for five days during the Christmas vacation, the national executive committee of the U.S. National Student Association (NSA) discussed attacks on NSA, the 18-year-old vote, and policy and program for the association for the next six months.

Techmen May Apply for Test

On February 28, a civil service examination to qualify senior engineering students, who desire to work in California after graduation, will be given on a nationwide basis. Applications must be in the hands of the California State Personnel Board, Sacramento, by January 31.

Graduates can go to work at once on California's giant highway expansion program, the board said. The beginning rank of junior civil engineer carries a starting salary of $341 a month, a top of $395, and frequent opportunities for advancement. Positions exist in nearly all parts of the state.

The examination will be given at or near all campuses where there are qualified applicants. Descriptive bulletins and applications are available at the placement office in Townsend Harris.

Mid-year graduates may apply for temporary appointment and qualify by examination later.

NSA was an "insidious leftist pressure group" were vehemently denied by leaders of the association. They pointed out that NSA was "non-partisan and non-political," and that its efforts to end discrimination and maintain academic freedom were being misconstrued.

Allegations that NSA was both "dying of stagnation" and "overly conservative," made in an editorial in the NYU Heights Daily News, were not publicly denied.

The executive committee approved by a 12-4 vote, a proposal that the 1950 NSA National Congress stand, in favor of an 18-year-old vote, be reaffirmed, and that the officers be directed to lobby for this proposal before the U.S. Congress.

'Oh Ugliness, Thy Name Is Gabe Silver,' at City

By Stan Weeber

The mob in Lincoln Corridor surged restlessly, waiting for the victorious candidate to put in an appearance. For weeks they had been voting but the issue had remained in doubt until a few well placed coins had swung the election. Then, loud footsteps were heard down the hall. The crowd shuddered and turned away. The Ugly Man had come.

Many of the disgusted observers felt that the campaign promise of going to Korea to scare the enemy had carried him through to victory, but Gabe Silver disagreed, stating that his opponents never had a chance. "Some of them even tried taking ugly pills, but they were no match for my natural, unadorned repulsiveness," he added, proudly displaying his biggest attraction, a pair of size 16 shoes. While it's annoying to have to walk up a flight of stairs sideways, he pointed out that his outside tootsies became handy weapons during the subway rush hour, or in a crowded elevator.

"It all began when I was born and the doctor slapped the wrong end," said Gabe, brushing the tears from his three eyes. "Because of my feet I can't get within a yard of a partner when dancing. This has served to give me a permanent look of frustration which does much to add to my unsightliness."

Last term's Ugly Man is a relative, and it was not vanity, but a burning desire to keep the distinction in the family, which prompted Silver to run.

When asked how his hideous features affected his sex life, Gabe replied that he believed in the theory that opposites attract, and was at present engaged in an all out effort to date the Carnival Queen. Having had such great success in his dealings with the female sex, he feels

Obsolescence, Fluorescence, Quintessence

An unprecedented action, seemingly without any possible parallel in CCNY's recent history, has occurred this week in various places around the campus. Fluorescent lighting has come to be a reality at City College.

The reports from awe-stricken students have been trickling in all week. One student, wrathful, righteous, and bleary eyed was seen stumbling out of the brilliance and glare that is now Knittle Lounge. "You can't sleep there no more," he was heard to say.

Whether these first innovations will prove to be merely the forerunner of things to come, and indicate a general trend toward better lighting, is still doubted by many of the students. These fatalists refuse to believe that the long heralded preparations may conceivably be coming to an end.

At the risk of disillusioning and/or disgusting these students, it must nevertheless be reported, in the light of these happenings, that the age of fluorescence is very surely upon us.

Gripes . . .

The Student-Faculty Committee on Student Affairs will shortly conduct an open hearing of grievances against The Observation Post and Campus. Any students wishing to bring forth complaints should contact the Department of Student Life.

that the time has come to try his technique on human beings.

The old adage that some good will come of everything—even ugliness—was borne out when Alpha Phi Omega, which sponsored the contest, announced that $60 had been collected for the Manhattanville Community Center.

The 19 year old Silver, supported throughout by his fraternity, Tau Delta Phi, is an English major and hopes to enter the teaching profession.

To those repugnant individuals who hope to follow in his rather preponderous footsteps, he has this message: "Either you're born with it, or you're out of luck. Ugliness is God's gift."

CCNY Student Finds Coolest Answer to Summer Problems

Dear Mom,

Don't wait up for me. Have gone to Alaska.

Your son,
Lloyd

Last June, Lloyd Bayme was faced with a problem common to all students. What should he do with the summer months?

Unlike most of us, who resolve the question by finding a job in an office, a factory, or in the mountains, Lloyd decided to get away from it all. So he went to Alaska.

He bummed his way across the country to Seattle. He drove a car 1200 of the miles without knowing how to drive. By some fast talking he got himself into a cannery union that was sending men to Alaska.

The job wasn't all work. There were other things that might be classified as play. Like the time Lloyd went fishing and shot a bear who tried to interrupt him.

Lloyd takes stock of his summer and he feels pretty good. He had left his home in Brooklyn with $70 in his pocket, and the clothes on his back. He had returned home with $800 clear profit, a wealth of memories, and many more friends than when he started, not to mention two 300-lb. barrels of salmon and herring.

OPinion

By STAN WECKER

Question: How did you decide whom to vote for in the recent Student Council elections?

Philip Corner, U. So. 1

"After a careful study of the qualifications of the candidates, which I was able to obtain by reading the newspapers and mimeographed sheets, I voted for the two people I had heard of."

Irwin Millman, U. Fr. 1

"Eenie meenie meinie mo..."

Morton Libarkin, U. So. 3

"I first voted for those people whom I knew. Then I selected the candidates with the least letters in their names."

Ira Klosk, U. So. 2

"Since I have participated in some of the politics that take place in the College, I was able to base my choice on a personal knowledge of the candidates. However, I feel that too many students do not take the trouble to find out who is running."

Jean Mlotok, LrSr. 7

"As I am a senior, I knew most of the candidates personally. In several cases I voted for those with whom I was not acquainted, as I disliked their opponents."

Alex Goldwasser, U. So. 1

"As I didn't know who was running, I got my advice from a friend. I do not remember whom I voted for. I do not know who got elected, and furthermore I do not care."

Jean DePietri, L. F. 1

"I closed my eyes, and used the pin they gave me."

The Aftermath

Student Council elections are over. A new set of representatives has been elected, but, frankly, we fail to see what has been proven. Most students didn't know the candidates, didn't know what they stood for, and seemed to care less.

There was little campaigning. Students were not able to learn about programs or qualifications. Most candidates decided to rely on anonymity to insure election. If their name was euphonious or unusual they knew that their chances were good.

It seemed to us that a solution to this problem would be the proposed revision of Student Council. By this system Council's membership would consist of two representatives from each class instead of the present six. This revision would stimulate campaigning. With but two positions, candidates will have to fight harder to get elected.

This change of Council's structure, in addition to all its other benefits, would result in the phenomenon of having the students know who they are voting for.

No!

One year ago, a student referendum was placed on the ballot for the purpose of enabling students to voice their opinions on a matter concerning their welfare.

They did. The proposed merger of OP and Campus was defeated 2-1.

This term, a student referendum was placed on the ballot for the purpose of enabling students to voice their opinions on a matter concerning their welfare.

They did. A proposed merger of OP and Campus was defeated 2 1/2-1. The margin of defeat for merger showed an increase of 400 ballots over last year's referendum decision.

In the light of these figures, we hope the question of merger will be forgotten for some time to come. We hope that both student and faculty groups realize that any attempt to effect a merger of the two newspapers in the light of these facts would be a denial of our democratic rights and a slap in the face of every student who believes that his ballot should mean something.

The General Senator

Senator Joseph McCarthy recently disclosed that he intends to investigate college faculties for subversive influences and "Communist thinkers."

One thing that we have learned at college is the danger in general statements. McCarthy's nebulous phrasology has aroused our curiosity.

We wonder, for example, how the Senator expects to differentiate between "Communist thinkers." Marxists, card-carrying Communists, liberals, and open-minded instructors.

We hope that McCarthy has a specific remedy for the specific disease of Communism which he claims has developed into a plague in the nation's colleges. A harsh, all-purpose medicine often kills the patient, and if the Senator from Wisconsin has no infallible method which will root out only those whose teaching activities harm the American form of government, we hope he stays away from City College.

In a democratic college in a democratic society, it is a necessity that students be given access to all philosophies and all doctrines, regardless of how foolish these doctrines may be. The best way to teach democracy in a college—or in a community—is to practice it.

Permitting instructors to teach only one doctrine is typical of totalitarian regimes. We hope Senator McCarthy will not aid by his investigation the development of a type of government which he professes to despise.

Finnegan Rigs Violin Besides Binding Books

John Finnegan, who forsaked the fiddle and a possible musical career for the archaic art of bookbinding, is employed at the 141 Street City College Library. He abandoned the bow in 1929, and today, after 33 years, Mr. Finnegan is recognized as a master of his chosen profession.

Besides his meritorious efforts to restore time scarred writings, he has succeeded in retaining a live musical spark in his soul. Fortunately, he is equipped with the faculty for capturing a melody and writing it down after hearing the tones for the first time. A few years ago, Mr. Finnegan assembled his own violin.

As to his binding skill, he has the knack of systematically weaving the most untidy assortment of papers into neat, durable, and yet delicately bound leather books. His hand laboring is facilitated by modern techniques, as photostating, which enables him to transform unrecognizable documents into cognizable and time resistant volumes.

The service he performs is regarded as essential to the College, which, in many cases, is unfortunately unable to secure new editions of rare works. He accomplishes his quality work in a much shorter time than many commercial bookbinders require.

Although bookbinding by hand is a meritorious occupation, Mr. Finnegan optimistically stated that, "I am trying to restore a dying art."

Bookbinding is taught in American schools, but students have found that they can learn more from this master book-binder than from any classroom instructor.

A Review 'Anything Goes'

By IRVING COHEN

A new star was born and another continued to shine in the persons of Arnold Kelman and Ivan Lyons when Deamus brought Cole Porter's "Anything Goes" to the Pauline Edwards Theater.

Arnold Kelman, an engineer, revealed himself to be as adept in the manipulation of comic lines as he doubtless is with the slide-rule. He played the role of Public Enemy No. 13 with a great deal of feel for the effects of his lines upon the audience; he was right in the groove from his first appearance to the final curtain.

Ivan Lyons-Pleskow played the role of a superficially sexually inert English nobleman. To this characterization, he gave a generous helping of personal wit and imagination. He was in constant touch with the audience and played upon their funny bones with the dexterity of a skilled flutist.

Called upon to make this comedy musical were Roslyn Yager and Ted Rifkin. In this production, as in previous City College musicals, the singers did little to enhance the quality of the show. Miss Yager has a pleasant voice, but it is not built to the specifications called for on the stage. She is, nevertheless, very effective in her characterization of Reno Sweeney, a famous night club thrush. Ted Rifkin is a better than fair actor but is completely miscast when placed in a role that requires him to sing. His flat renditions of Mr. Porter's ballads marred an otherwise good portrayal.

It never ceases to puzzle this viewer why the College's dramatic groups persist in producing shows which require a kind of talent they simply do not possess. They can't be taken to task for not having the required material, but they are certainly to be criticized for their poor judgement when they select a musical as their semester's effort.

Sandra Shierr, as Hope Harcourt, did little more than merely voice her lines. Performing well in support were Marvin Gage, Seymour Metzger, Alex Broden, Bernard Landou, Walter Levy, Zara Anelian and Lois Unger.

The timing and dancing of the ensemble was very poorly organized and added no luster to the production. A solo dance by Sandra Pecker and David Andourian was well done.

George Feigelman, the director, skillfully interpreted the show's comedy and kept it moving briskly but could do little to keep the show from dragging during the "musical" interludes.

Grapplers Warm Up To Pin L. I. Aggies

While most students were enjoying their Christmas vacation, the Beavers matmen were preparing for tomorrow's match against the Long Island Aggies, in the latter's gym. The Aggies are an undefeated array, heralding Skippy Arvel, a former senior metropolitan 115-pound champion, who now wrestles in the 137-pound class.

There is a decided note of gloom about the usually jocund squad. They wonder what is responsible for the undergraduates' lack of enthusiasm for the sport. Coach Sapora underscored the dilemma by stating that "we're looking forward to better crowds at our future matches."

The matmen, besides handling their own publicity, just recently purchased the uniform for their cheerleader, Evelyn Price, the first member of an anticipated cheering squad. She holds the burden of lifting the grapplers' morale, ebbing with the vacant seats.

Coach Sapora lauded the squad's aggressiveness. He emphasized that his "fine bunch of boys" compete without the benefit of high school tutelage in the sport since "City College doesn't "cater" to high school wrestlers, but the mentor expects the team, barring injuries, to continue its rapid improvement.

Co-captain Connie Norman, absent since the season's start with a severely torn ligament in his elbow, gave the Beavers a lift by announcing that he may be ready for duty tomorrow.

Bernie Lloyd, Jack Gesund, Steve Levin and Norman Balot competed against Long Island last season. Heavyweight Lloyd and 123-pound Gesund, both currently undefeated, captured their events while Levin was held to a draw in the 130-pound fracas and Balot, the 157-pound blind grappler, lost the match.

The Aggies will face Rocco D'Angelo in the 137-pound attraction; 147-pound Stan Kaplan, and Milt Miller and Hal Goldman, who scale 167 and 175, respectively. Sapora hasn't definitely decided between Balot and Marv Zaro in the 157-pound pairing.

The next match in the Tech gym is on February 21, against New York University. Ex-Lavender wrestler Henry Wittenberg, Olympic gold medal winner, will referee the contest.

Ping-Pong . . .

A group of City College students defeated Temple University in table tennis on Sunday, December 28, 1952. The group is now unbeaten in three years of competition. After splitting the first six matches, the City College squad picked up momentum and completely dominated the remaining contests.

Temple failed to win any of the double matches, with every member of the Beaver squad contributing to the victories. The group has accepted all intercollegiate challenges over the past three years, and is anxious to attain team status.

Beaver Natators Dunk Lafayette, 49-35; Fulladosa Sets Mark, Glat Wins 2 Races

A spirited City College swimming team hit some of their best times and sank the Lafayette natators by a score of 49-35, last Wednesday in the City pool.

Vic Fulladosa won the 200 yd. breaststroke event in the time of 2:38.2 and broke the existing CCNY record. Jay Glat, winner of the 50 and the 100, broke 56 seconds in the century. The relay team broke four minutes for the first time this season, and Bernie Lloyd won his first victory in the dive.

The meet also featured the return of Norm Klein to the aquatic lineup. Klein, who had not participated this season, took a load off Tony Sousa, who eventually hit his best time in the individual Medley, though he did not win the event.

The Leopards from Easton, Pa., were paced by Larry Plummer who won the 440 and Bill Montague who, though plagued by a strained groin muscle, managed to win the 150 yd. individual Medley. The City swimmers now have a record of three wins and two losses. They have beaten Manhattan, Lafayette and Brooklyn Poly, and have lost to Columbia and Fordham.

The Ridemen now have a lay-off for a month. On February 7, when they meet Kings Point, they will have the services of Howie "Cosmo" Schloemer and also some freshmen prospects. Schloemer, the mainstay of last year's squad and also Met 200 champ, should make a whale of a difference (no pun intended) in the final three dual meets. The Bronx and Norm Moskowitz, by Ben Trasen, a freestyler from Bronx and Norm Moskowitz, a backstroker. Hank Kyhl is a breaststroker who will probably take some of the burden from Bob Kellog and Vic Fulladosa. Last Saturday, a powerful Fordham team outsplashed the Lavender, 52-32.

Beaver Hoopsters Beat Lafayette, Tufts, Rutgers

Santa Claus was good to the Beaver hoopsters this season as he brought them three consecutive victories over the Christmas vacation. In turn the Lavender defeated Lafayette, 83-59, on December 20, Tufts, 81-58, on December 27, and Rutgers, 86-84, last Saturday.

Lafayette, surprisingly weak this year, was mauled murderously as the Beavers won every period, by scores of 25-16, 16-11, 21-12 and 21-20.

The Tufts game, a very well-played contest, saw the Beavers take the lead in the first minute of play on two foul shots by Domershick, and they were never headed.

Despite a tremendous last-minute rally, the City College team won its fifth game of the season by defeating the Scarlet, 85-81.

The Beavers held a 10-point lead with two minutes to play but quick baskets by Porter and Larry Gordon, in addition to a pair of free throws by Jack Villani, cut the Lavender advantage to 4 points. With the score 84-81, Howie Buss converted two free throws to clinch the game for the Beavers.

The Scarlet got off to a flying start in the opening five minutes of the first stanza. Porter sank three field goals to give the Queensmen a 6-point advantage with three minutes gone in the initial stanza. After Domershick scored his seventh point of the quarter to cut the lead to 2 points, Rutgers' ace George Sundstrom converted a foul shot to move the Scarlet 3 points ahead. With one minute remaining to play the Beavers trailing by 3 points, Domershick scored on a driving layup and Artie Diott converted a free throw to make the score 18-all at the conclusion of the first quarter.

The lead changed hands several times in the opening minutes of the second period. With the score standing 29-28 in favor of Rutgers, City tallied seven consecutive markers to give them a 6-point lead.

Mervyn Shorr sank three spinning jump shots in the opening minutes of the second half to give the Beavers a 15-point lead. The Beavers continued to pour it on in the opening five minutes of the final stanza as Shorr tallied eight fast points. Rutgers closed the gap but never could catch the Beavers.

Sirutis, Montague, Optimistic; Boxers and Fencers Unlimber

Despite the loss of last year's foil team, which captured the Intercollegiate Fencing Association Iron Man Trophy, Coach James Montague holds a surprisingly optimistic view of City College's saber, epee and foil prospects for this year. Although he doesn't expect to capture any national championships or titles in individual events this season, the coach is looking forward with great enthusiasm to the season opener on January 17 at Yale University.

Hal Goldsmith, Charles Perno, and Bobby Bynon, the dynamic foil trio which catapulted the Beavers to the Little Iron Man title, have all been graduated along with Jack Benonie and Lenny Bloom, also important mainstays of last year's squad.

Goldsmith's absence will be particularly noticeable for he not only won the I.F.A. and N.C.A.A. foil titles, but also captured a berth on the United States Olympic fencing squad.

While depending primarily on his saber and epee teams this season, Coach Montague will have Ray Schwartz, Stan Zwiren and Boris Patchowsky in the foil. Zwiren and Schwartz are members of last year's varsity, Ray being one of the top members of the saber team and Stan the winner of the fifth place in the A.F.L.A. Championships. Patchowsky was an outstanding member of last season's frosh squad and will be heavily counted upon this year.

Bolstered by a corps of returning veterans, Lavender Boxing Coach Yustin Sirutis is looking forward to the coming campaign with optimism. The feature of the season will be the first entry of a City College Boxing team into the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference Tournament. The tournament will be the culmination of the toughest boxing schedule in years. The Beavers will trade blows this season with West Point, Catholic University and Howard University.

Among those returning from last season's team is Dick Eyrans, who will compete in the 123-pound division. In the next class, the Lavender will be represented by Murray Rothstein, a very promising performer. Ron Ershowsky will trade leather in the 139-pound division, while Shelley Friedman will don the gloves in the welterweight class.

Jimmy Heas is slated to handle the middleweight chores. Jimmy, one of the top performers on the squad, is also the co-captain.

Among the substitutes, two are particularly outstanding. They are Frank Quinlan, understudy to Heas, and Sid Beakin, a lightweight.

Harry Karlin Appointed Varsity Tennis Mentor

It's still a bit early to say that spring is in the air, but the College's sports program for the coming semester began to take form this week with the confirmation of Harry Karlin, as varsity tennis coach.

Dr. Karlin, who will complete his thirty-third year in CCNY's Hygiene Department on March 1, is well known by all students who have seen him either in the gymnasium or down at the pool. He is also no novice to the coaching game, having mentored the Lavender swimming and water-polo teams during the 1920's.

Holder of an associate professorship in the Hygiene Department, Dr. Karlin classifies himself as "just an average tennis player," who will attempt to learn along with his team.

"I am getting something that I really want by this appointment," he said.

A native New Yorker, Dr. Karlin has always lived in the Sheepshead Bay section of Brooklyn. "I once lived in a large apartment house," he recalled, "and I almost went nuts!" He is a graduate of New York University and the Savage School of Physical Education.

The new net coach is married, and has two children and one grandchild. He replaces George "Red" Wolfe, who is presently the freshman basketball mentor.

Beaver Hoopsters Down Wagner, 73-60; Polansky: 'Best Game of Season By Far'

By Walter E. Porges

The CCNY cagers took their longest road trip of the season last Wednesday night when they journeyed to Grymes Hill, Staten Island, and captured their sixth victory against two losses, defeating Wagner, 73-60. The contest was nip and tuck until the 2:45 mark of the fourth quarter when, with the score tied at 51-all, the Lavender broke loose and put the game on ice with a floating hook by Artie Diott, a lay-up by Jerry Domerschick, and a hook, a jump shot and two fouls by Howie Buss, who led the Beavers with 22 markers. In the opening game, the Beaver Frosh, 84-61.

The game was a wild and woolly one, marked by a sloppy first half at the end of which the Beavers led, 20-29. The Seahawks took the lead only once, at 31-30, on a spinning hook by Bob Bosley, who piled in 24 points to lead his team. A jump shot by Buss regained the lead for the Beavers, and, save for two ties at 44-all and 55-all, the Beavers held their lead until the final buzzer.

Beavers Take Lead

The Beavers jumped out in front, 3-0, on a foul by Domerschick who netted 17 points, and a push shot by Marty Gurkin, who scored 9. After a foul and a lay-up by the Seahawks' Charlie Harreus, sets by Domerschick and Jackie Chudnoff, who scored 11 and sparkled on defense and assists gave the Beavers an 8-3 lead. Two jump shots and a set by Bosley were matched minutes later by a driving hook by Chudnoff, a long one-hander by Gurkin, and a beautiful follow-up by Domerschick, bringing the score to 18-11. Buss' jump shot gave the Beavers a 20-15 lead at the quarter.

The second quarter was marked by poor shooting by both teams. Play was fast and ragged. Two jump shots and a foul by Domerschick gave City a 27-19 lead. A jump shot by Bosley, and a foul and a jump shot by Rotelli following a one hander by Chudnoff cut the Beaver margin to 29-24. The Seahawks came with a rush to close out the quarter with five straight points, trailing 30-29 at the half.

Improved Half

The second half was characterized by vastly improved passing and shooting by both teams.

with Merv Shorr excelling off the boards and Jackie Chudnoff and Jerry Gold setting up numerous scores with their fine ball-handling. Half-way through the period, a set and a lay-up by Rotelli drew the Seahawks into a 44-44 tie, but two sets by Domerschick gave the lead back to the Beavers at 48-44

Bosley opened the final quarter with three straight points as Wagner drew to 47-48. A lay-up by Buss and a foul by Gold regained a four-point edge. A tap by Bob Mahala and Bosley's lay-up knotted the count at 51-all at 2:45 of the period. After Diott's hook and Domerschick's lay-up, the Beavers went on to widen their lead.
