Speeches Launch Freedom Week Program at College

By JOAN SNYDER

Vigorous verbal defenses of academic freedom launched yesterday in Great Hall the College's participation in a nation-wide Academic Freedom Week. An estimated 350 students and faculty members attended the ceremony.

President Buell G. Gallagher yesterday called for "free market of ideas" not open to those who "enter with a blackjack."

President Buell G. Gallagher called for a "free market of ideas," reiterating his belief that Communists should not be allowed to teach because their "distorting and perverting of truth" disqualifies them from participation in this market. He cited Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), too, as a "perfect example of disqualification of the right to participate" in the free interchange of views. The free market, he said, should not be open to "those who enter with a blackjack." Dr. Gallagher defined freedom as "the absence of external restraints plus the assumption of personal responsibility."

The President looked forward to a day of moral freedom, when "each man, respecting his neighbor, can walk without fear."

Student Council President Manny Halper warned against censorship and conformity. Asserting that students are now afraid to hold opinions, he said that Education majors, in particular, "won't join, sign, or say anything."

The basic threats to political and intellectual freedom in the United States were pointed out by Professor H. H. Wilson, of the Political Science Department at Princeton University. There is a pervasive atmosphere of anti-intellectualism in this country, he said, manifested by a "cheapening and disparagement" of Liberal Arts courses and by a suspicion of nonconformists in all fields.

Educators have failed to convey to students and to the general public the meaning of academic freedom, Prof. Wilson declared, adding that teachers who dwell in an "ivory tower" apart from society may fall victim to "political primitives."

He advocated a "return to reason." Colleges and universities must deliberately recruit "the critics in every field of human learning," he said.

Rabbi Lelyveld, National Director of Hillel Foundation, termed this generation "soft." "We want freedom without having to fight those who would curtail it . . . but we cannot afford to be soft . . . As long as there are courageous administrators, courageous faculty members, and courageous students, we won't be pushovers to the enemies of freedom," he asserted.

The ceremony was concluded with an address by Osmond K. Fraenkel, a member of the Board

Heard McCarthy Apologize To Baruch: Says Sokolsky

By AL WEINSTEIN

Columnist George Sokolsky yesterday endorsed Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), "When he is fighting Communists, but not when he is injuring non-Communists."

Speaking before a Robert A. Taft Young Republican Club meeting, Mr. Sokolsky said that Sen. McCarthy apologized to Bernard Baruch, during their much-publicized recent meeting, for his jibes at City College. Sokolsky said he attended the meeting.

Attended by more than 100 people, the meeting was interrupted by heated disputes between Mr. Sokolsky and some students during a question and answer period.

Told by Bob Wachsler, a student, that Daily Worker editorials blasting Ed Murrow had exceeded those favorable by a 3-1 ratio, Sokolsky offered to write a column based on the material, if Wachsler could prove the charge. "I hope Mr. Sokolsky is more honest in his statement than Senator McCarthy was in his. I intend to prove my charge," Wachsler declared.

Commenting on Academic Freedom Week, Mr. Sokolsky conceded that educators today face problems in this matter. He added, however, that "Only free men can preserve academic freedom, and Communists are not free men. They should not be allowed to teach in America."

Mr. Sokolsky also objected to depriving any person of his American citizenship for membership in the Communist party. President Eisenhower made this proposal in his State of the Union address.

"Ed Murrow," said Mr. Sokolsky, "was not unfairly treated by Senator McCarthy in his recent television show." "Murrow should have debated the issues with McCarthy face-to-face," Sokolsky added.

Probe Ex-Hoop Players' Admission Irregularities

President Buell G. Gallagher has started a full scale probe of alleged irregularities in the admission of several former basketball players at the College. This investigation, according to the New York World Telegram and is in addition to Dr. Gallagher's investigation of a report issued by former New York City Investigations Commissioner James H. Shields. This charges that basketballs, uniforms and other athletic equipment had been purchased by the College on a biased bid arrangement resulting in CCNY's being charged higher prices than any other colleges in the city.

Dr. Gallagher is reportedly trying to find out how fifteen or more athletes were able to become members of the "Cinderella" basketball teams under Nat Holman when they lacked the necessary academic requirements for admission to the College.

Under investigation by the president and two special investigators are the records in the Registrar's Office which were supposedly tampered with so that some of the players who had flunked out of high school were admitted to CCNY with "approved credit rating".

Although the accused players have since been suspended and two were sent to jail, neither College officials nor District Attorney Frank Hogan's investigators were able to discover who had tampered with the records.

The current investigations are an aftermath of the Basketball Fix Scandal of 1950 when members of the City College NIT and NCAA championship basketball teams were accused and subsequently convicted of "shaving points" over a period of several seasons.

Dr. Gallagher declined to say what his probe had disclosed thus far but he admitted that his "investigation at the College is going forward in other areas and we shall see what action may become necessary."

By "other areas", President Gallagher said he meant that he had gone beyond the basketball scandals.

Cohen to Win Dewey Award Posthumously

Dr. Felix S. Cohen '26, visiting professor of philosophy at the College who died last October, will be posthumously awarded the John Dewey prize for distinguished student leadership by the League for Industrial Democracy tomorrow night.

An active member of the League for Industrial Democracy for many years, Felix Cohen was the son of the noted philosopher, author, and City College professor, Morris Raphael Cohen.

While an undergraduate, Cohen exerted student pressure on the College administration to make ROTC a voluntary rather than compulsory course. In later life, he served as Associate Solicitor of the US Department of the Interior, and made valuable contributions to the American Indians' fight for equal rights.

After he resigned from the Interior Department, Dr. Cohen, an attorney, acted as consultant to many Indian tribes, and taught a course in legal philosophy at the Law School and City College.

This semester, Student Council named its annual award for "contributions to campus democracy" in honor of Dr. Cohen. The first recipient of the award was Prof. Buckvar (Government).

Pick Marshall For May Ball

The Ray Bloch Orchestra under the leadership of Ray Carter has been signed to play at the College's first annual Charter Day Ball on Saturday, May 1st, in the Great Hall. Television star Jim Moran will be the Grand Marshall of the Ball. President Buell G. Gallagher has also accepted an invitation to be the guest of honor.

According to Philip Stutzel, Director of the Student Government Social Functions Agency, "This affair is going to be a great social event and I can honestly guarantee that everyone will have a very enjoyable evening."

Tickets are $3 per couple and can be purchased in the Student Council Office, Room 20 Main.

OBSERVATION POST

JEROME R. LUDWIG
Editor-in-Chief

The OP Report

The meeting next week of the General Faculty will be the arena for the resumption of the forty-year struggle for democratic student government at City College.

Before it, the General Faculty will have four reports for consideration. These reports differ substantially in their treatment of a big problem, which is how to secure the most possible student participation in College administration, consistent with safeguards assuring faculty responsibility.

The four reports were submitted by:

1. Presidential Committee on Student Faculty Relations, chaired by Prof. Oscar Buckvar. Asks revision of SFCSA to Appeals Board, abolition of SF Fee Committee, rotation of faculty members on Appeals Board, and creation of Board of Advisors for Student Council.

2. General Faculty Committee on Student Activities, headed by Prof. Michael Kraus (History). Recommends not a single change in status quo. Dismisses some of Buckvar report's suggestions, ignores others.

3. President Gallagher. He wants SFCSA changed to Review Board, to act with Student Council as bi-cameral legislature; abolition of SFFC, its business to go to the new SFCSA; rotation of faculty members on SFCSA; Board of Advisors for Student Council; plus one-year term for SC officers and revisions in its structure.

4. Observation Post. Our recommendations to the General Faculty, which Dr. Gallagher called for in his Great Hall speech two weeks ago, are listed here. They are:

1. Rejection of Marxist and police-state theories of student government.

We go along with Dr. Gallagher when he attacks the idea of students, faculty and administration, corresponding to proletariat, petit bourgeoisie and millionaires, engaged in perpetual class struggle. That idea, advanced by some students, seems to be rubbish to us.

But there is another idea that is equally dangerous. That one is that we have SFCSA so that the faculty may have a chance to modify and subdue the City College students, who are oppressed in their environment, and seek to use the College to disturb the status quo. If this idea were not advanced by a man who signed both the Presidential Committee and GFSCA reports, it would be dismissed at once. We believe its fallacy is clear in that it denies the free will and basic intelligence of the student body, as well as of the faculty.

2. Rotation of student and faculty members of SFCSA.

We go along with Dr. Gallagher and the Presidential Committee report on this point. It is a long-overdue reform.

3. Abolition of the Student-Faculty Fee Committee.

This Committee is undemocratically elected, and has been a sore spot for some years. In our mind, an Appeals Board over a student fee committee could do the job better.

4. No Upper and Lower houses needed here.

The bi-cameral system the President proposes is a step in the wrong direction. Bi-cameralism is a devious method to enforce the status quo. Historically, it is the result of political compromise, not of general agreement. We think everybody who has ideas and who deserves representation should be part of the group that makes the decision. Two groups lead to disunity and competition, rather than harmony and achievement.

5. Needed: An Appeals Board, not a Review Board.

An Appeals Board would consider those cases where dispute arose, on the basis of whether laws had been violated. It would act as a higher court to curb illegal actions, and would provide an adequate safeguard against rash or irresponsible actions of student groups.

Since SC is elected entirely by the student body, it is the most representative student group existing. To have a 'Review Board' consider its resolutions would be the equivalent of having the British Parliament review the sentiments of the Continental Congress before they could be adopted.

6. No man may act as both judge and litigant.

Just as the Presidential Committee and Dr. Gallagher agree in recommending that no member of Student Council shall be a member of SFCSA; so we recommend that no member of SFCSA shall be a member of the General Faculty Committee on Student Affairs (GFSCA).

7. No revisions by the General Faculty in Student Council's internal structure.

Dr. Gallagher's plan for a one-year term for SC officers, for example, was defeated twice in student referendum. We feel that these matters should be considered by Student Council and the student body.

Wednesday afternoon the General Faculty will have the opportunity to uphold the tradition of John H. Finley, Felix S. Cohen and Morton Gottschall, or be glued to the ways of Frederick Robinson, Harry Gidson and Kenneth B. Clark.

Observation Post sincerely believes that if the academicians and scholars on the General Faculty knew all the facts on the student activities situation at the College, the great majority would unhesitatingly support either the OP plan or the Presidential Committee report.

Bushy?...

Hirsute students at the College are eligible in the beard growing contest being sponsored by Jim Moran, who will act as Grand Marshall of the Charter Day Ball.

Contest ends April 10, and finalists will be selected from photographs. The best beards will be judged on the following features: length, texture, style and artistic design. All finalists will appear on Moran's television.

Prizes will include a date with film actress Roberta Haynes (who is beardless), and a battery operated electric razor.

The bearded panel of judges will comprise Burl Ives, Mitch Miller, and Jon Gnagy, among others.

Both men and women are eligible. For particulars, go to Room 20 Main.

Commemorate Religious Fete

Religious ritual thousands of years old will be observed at Hillel House, 475 West 140 Street, this Sunday at 6 PM.

A model seder will be held inaugurating the Jewish holiday of Passover in the Hillel lounge. A brief meal will be served in addition to the traditional wine and unleavened bread. The "Song of Songs," attributed to King Solomon, will be depicted by choral and dance groups.

All students are welcome to attend, but reservations must be made in advance at the Hillel Office. The charge is fifty cents.

Unsavoury Student Habits Codified; Profs Beware

HUNTER COLLEGE (ACP)—Virtually every student has at one time or another has found a system of culling favor with his teacher. Though such a system is sometimes considered unethical and the vulgar use a rather obscene term to describe the practice, it is nevertheless widespread.

The latest, refined techniques of this system have been compiled, strangely enough, by a teacher: Robert Tyson, of the Hunter College department of psychology and philosophy. Mr. Tyson presents the following suggestions on how to stay in college:

1. Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with the subject. Demonstrates interest and gives him timely items to mention in class. If you can't find clippings dealing with his subject, bring in any clippings at random. He thinks everything deals with his subject.

2. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievably and shake it.

3. Nod frequently and murmur, "How true!" To you this seems exaggerated; to him, it's quite objective.

4. Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake.) If you're going to all the trouble to make a good impression, you might as well let him know who you are, especially in a large class.

5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell. If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.

6. Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.

7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.

8. Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. If you do math in psychology class and psychology in math class, match books for size and color.

9. Ask any questions you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he couldn't answer, and in your brother's second grade reader at that.

10. Call attention to his writing. Produces an exquisitely pleasant experience connected with you. If you know he's written a book or article, ask in class if he wrote it.

Any further suggestions?

Skeleton in a Closet Not Unusual in Anatomy Lab

With sixteen human skulls and one whole skeleton at hand, a performance recitation of "Alas, poor Yorick," should be particularly inspired. This grisly host, however, does not grace a theater but the Comparative Anatomy lab in Room 300 Main.

The lab is a necromaniac's heaven. For more company, there are about a half dozen skeletons scattered about the school, hanging on their gallows and smiling with beatitude at the tickling made by students examining their bones. Their sex? It can be distinguished by all sorts of minute details. According to Professor Leonard P. Sayles (Biology), they can be recognized by the difference in thoracic and pelvic width and other characteristics.

Just last year, a charming lady skeleton was acquired and is now being used by elementary Bio students. Skeletons are very difficult to obtain in New York State because of very strict laws concerning the acquisition of dead bodies. Only in the event a body is not claimed after all possible search has been made for relatives, can the body be given to a medical college for study. Then after the study has been completed the bones are extracted from the surrounding tissue, assembled and sold. It is much easier to import skeletons from oriental countries, where, supposedly, people die at a faster rate, and dead body regulations are no so strict. There are a few companies in this country which specialize in that import. They are doing a thriving business.

The students in Biology feel tender emotions for their bony, forever smiling companions in work. One of the skeletons is fondly called Hubert. Evan Hersh, a student majoring in Biology, recalls happy memories of his Biology classes. He remembers how one of his classmates pitying a poor wallflower skeleton took him in his arms and danced around the lab with him.

The electrical engineering society of City College, Eta Kappa Nu, has instituted a semi-annual award to be given to the College's outstanding electrical engineering sophomore. The award is intended to be in recognition of outstanding work, and to serve as an extra incentive for the continuation of such outstanding work. The award consists of a pocket size log slide rule.

Ancient Sport Revived; Return to Bows, Arrows

Shades of Sherwood Forest—Robin Hood and his merry men, in modern dress, have appeared at City College.

The leader of this reincarnation is a lower freshman in the Tech School, Benjamin Weiss, and the band he commands is the newly-formed Archery Club. Having learned the art of bow-twanging prior to his entry on the college scene, Mr. Weiss felt that an introduction of the ancient sport on these grounds would be welcomed. He was right. Numerous students, both male and female have already taken interest in the venture.

Ignorance of the sport will not disqualify a prospective member, Mr. Weiss said. Neither will lack of equipment, although many of the archers own a bow and shafts.

The girls on the club have the advantage of being able to practice on the South Campus, since archery is part of the curriculum of the women's Hygiene Department.

The rest of the troupe will have to repair with their weapons to an outside range. Mr. Weiss has his eye set on one in Pelham Bay Park.

Opinion

Question: Do you favor the installation of an Honor System at City College Main?

Howard Graybaw, U So. 1:

No, I don't feel that the individual student would report any cheating.

Ignatius Mercurio, U Jr 1:

No, the Honor System defies itself, if one subscribes to it through fear of being caught. Honor should be left to the individual.

Josephine Waldgeir, U F 1:

Definitely—because most people are basically honest and those who would cheat would manage to cheat with or without an Honor System.

Bob Sylvor, U So 3:

No, it won't work. The students at CCNY don't think that cheating is morally wrong and hurt anybody.

Henry Katschke, U F 1:

It's a good way to throw your enemies out of college.

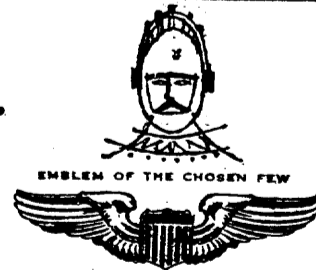

Phyllis Selterman, U F 1:

No, I think that everyone should be responsible for his own honor.

Baseball Titans Clash; City Meets St. John's

By Herschel Nissenon

Shades of Warren Neuberger! For the time being, at least, righthanders Bill Konig and Joe Galletta have thoroughly wrung out Coach "Skip" Mishkin's crying towel to be stored in the Hygiene Building trophy case until needed. In the wake of Konig's 7-1 triumph over NYU on Monday came a sparkling 5-hitter thrown by Galletta at Army on Wednesday as the Lavender 'nine' upped its record to 2-0 with a 6-0 victory over the Cadets.

Tomorrow afternoon at Dexter Park in Jamaica the Beavers face St. John's University. The Brooklyn Redmen were the pre-season favorites to dethrone the Lavender, the defending champions of the Metropolitan Conference. Game time is 2 P.M.

The Redmen opened their season on Wednesday with a 17-3 win over Bridgeport University, as basketball star Marty Satalino collected four safeties. Star righthanders Dick Eichhorn and Bud Heerlein shared the pitching chores and Coach Al "Dusty" DeStefano will probably select one of those two to face the Beavers.

The Brooklynites have five good outfielders with whom to man their picket forces. Up from last season's freshman team are gardeners Charlie Lehman, Bruce Windorf and Bob Bohner who hit .500, .445 and .320 respectively. Also in the outfield are Satalino and John Sisko, two returnees. From left to right the St. John's outer garden will probably read: Satalino, Sisko and Lehman.

At third base the Johnnies have last season's all-league third sacker, Matt Sczesny, the team captain, who led his mates in all departments last year with a .385 batting average and a .948 fielding average. Sczesny was also the Conference leader in runs batted in with 14 and in stolen bases with 5.

The Redmen's shortstop will probably be Marty D'Amico, with Gerry Mayer, the other half of the keystone combination, at second base. At first base is Gil Brady. All three are returning veterans.

Backing Eichhorn and Heerlein ano has three veterans to choose from. Jack Mullee, Dick Paton, and Frank Badali.

Runners Set For Upsala

Fresh from their stunning 87-53 romp over Farleigh Dickinson last Saturday, the tracksters are slated to meet Upsala at Lewisohn Stadium, tomorrow afternoon.

Captain Paul Pavlides and newcomers Morris Hocherman, who also plays on the soccer team, and Bill Kowalski should draw the nod from coach Bruce in the two-mile run. They finished one, two, three against Farleigh Dickinson.

Tom O'Brien, who won both the 880 yard and mile events; Gene Forsyth, second in the mile; Abe Blum, 100-yard dash winner; Jim Spencer, winner of the 440-yard race; Fred Thomson, who copped the 220-yard run, and Bernard Schiffer, in the high and low hurdles, are the main entrants in the track events. Thomson, Spencer, O'Brien and Blum will team up again in the one-mile relay.

In the field events: Irving Stein, in the shotput and discus throw; Melvin Cutler, in the hammer throw; Joe Gold, in the high jump and broad jump; pole vaulter Ants Tomson, round out the field.

Sport Notes

SWIMMING

Vic Fulladosa, star breast stroker, has been chosen to receive the Gartner Award, emblematic of the outstanding performer on the swimming team. Howie Schloemer, last year's winner, and Tony Sousa have been elected co-captains of the squad.

Tennis Squad Preps Vollies

The tennis team, seeking its initial win of the campaign, plays host to Manhattan College tomorrow afternoon. The Jaspers humbled the Beavers, 7-2, last season.

Last Saturday, the Lavender was unable to win a set against Hofstra, and lost, 9-0. However, coach Harry Karlin expects his charges to give the Jaspers a rough time.

"We're much better off than at this time a year ago," he commented. "This year the team has balance."

Millermen Set Sights For Nod Over Adelphi

By JOE MARCUS

The lacrosse team will open its regular intercollegiate campaign tomorrow afternoon when they journey to Garden City, Long Island, to face a well balanced Adelphi College array. Coach Leon Miller expects the contest to be hard fought.

Ronnie Reifler, who performed

well against the Alumni two weeks ago, will open for the Lavender in the goal. Ronnie has had only one varsity game under his belt. Arnie Levinson, who tallied five goals against the grads, will be the key attackman. Coach Miller expressed satisfaction with the fine play of Levinson. The probable other starters on the attack line are Ralph Kelley and Milt Perlow. Hanrahan Sparks Midfield Fred Hanrahan, 6'3" sophomore is the key man on the midfield line. Fred has developed so quickly that Miller expects him to be one of the all time greats at the College within the next two years. Al Spitaler and Thomas Federico are counted on to help Hanrahan out on the midline.

Co-captain John McMahon, Leslie Wiger and William Epstein, the defensive line, are expected to halt the Adelphi Seahawk drive. The Beavers are hoping to repeat last year's 5-2 upset victory over the Long Islanders.
