

'Times' Mag To Run Story By OP Editor

This Sunday's New York Times Magazine Section will feature an account of present day life in Budapest, Hungary, written by Andrew Meisels, a City College student who recently returned from a CCNY-sponsored tour of the Soviet Union and several of its satellites.

There will be photographs accompanying the article, taken by a French photographer. Meisels is Editor in chief of the Observation Post.

On Air

He has announced his intention of returning all funds supplied by the College towards the tour by the sale of articles to various publications.

Meisels will report further on his experiences in Communist countries when he is interviewed this Saturday at 5:00 PM on the "Campus Press Conference" over Station WNYC.

The interview will be conducted by Moderator Gabriel Pressman, formerly of the New York World Telegram and Sun and currently a liaison man covering spot news events for television station WRCA-TV. The "Campus Press Conference" is a radio panel whose members are drawn from the ranks of present and past members of college newspapers.

Meisels is a regular member of the Campus Press Conference although his outside work on the Russian articles has not given him time to appear on the show this semester.

Novelist Will Speak at Hillel Today on US-Jewish Writing

Charles Angoff, novelist and former editor of the old American Mercury, will speak today on "The Evolution of American Jewish Literature." The address will be given at 12:15 PM in Hillel House.

Mr. Angoff is the author of two books of short stories—"When I Was a Boy in Boston" and "Journey to the Dawn." He also wrote two plays about American Jews which were produced in off-Broadway playhouses.

His talk is in conjunction with Hillel's celebration of a Tercenary Program commemorating the 300th anniversary of the Jews' arrival in America.

Last Tuesday, in line with the program, Hillel members participated in a seminar on Jewish life which was held in Mount Kisco, NY. The aims and program of Hillel were among the subjects discussed by the seminar.

Rabbi Arthur Zuckerman presented the purposes of the group as designed "not to prepare students to enter the world as it is, but to teach them dissatisfaction with world conditions, which emphasizes values contrary to those of Judaism."

"Society," he continued, "sanctions murder and war, and is

Peace Says Unchartered Group Got Illegal Funds

The unchartered All-College Committee on Academic Freedom has been soliciting funds illegally, Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) revealed yesterday.

No group on campus without charter is allowed to receive money. The Committee applied to Student Council's Executive for a charter this semester, but was turned down. SC President Ira Klosk said the rejection was based on these grounds:

Its name and charter imply that the group represents all of City College, while in reality it represents only its members.

Chartered groups are required to deposit their funds with Mr. Irving Slade, Central Treasurer. The Committee, however, has made no accounting of its funds to the College, Dean Peace said. He added that he would demand such an accounting by members of the group.

Other questions involving Green Feather action at the College were raised yesterday. Jim Liburd, one of the students questioned in Dean Peace's office in connection with the petition calling for the censure of Senator McCarthy, declared that some of the questions asked him were irrelevant and personal.

He said that he had been asked whether he was a member of the Labor Youth League, listed as subversive on the Attorney Gen-

BHE Criteria For Judging Profs Attacked by Council

Student Council last night reaffirmed the principle, contained in one of its by-laws that the standard of professional competence alone should be used in determining an instructor's fitness to teach.

By a vote of 8-5, with two abstentions, it applied this principle to condemn the criteria used by the Board of Higher Education in judging the competence of teachers of the municipal colleges.

These criteria were contained in a statement issued on April 12, 1954, by the BHE's Special Unit investigating subversion in the city colleges. "Conduct unbecoming a member of the staff," was defined by 1) Present membership in the Communist Party. 2) Nature, extent, and duration of past membership in the Party, to determine whether or not membership has been terminated.

Joan Snyder, Chairman of the SC Civil Liberties Committee, which had formulated the motion condemning the BHE's criteria, contended that nowhere in the Board's declaration of policy was classroom competence mentioned.

Moreover, Council rejected 9-4, a motion that it oppose the calling of students by the BHE with regard to "their personal political activities, beliefs, or affiliations."

Charges of ambiguity were labeled against the motion by several members of Council.

Fred Israel, senior representative, argued that no students had eral's list, and whether one of his colleagues at Camp Unity this summer was a fellow-traveler.

Liburd had received a box of "Joe Must Go" tags, whose ownership Dean Peace is trying to determine. He had testified in the Dean's office voluntarily.

Sarnoff Predicts Future In Baruch School Address

Brigadier General David Sarnoff told students of the Baruch School of Business that "they were fortunate to be young with the atom and the electron."

Speaking before the students last Monday General Sarnoff, who is Chairman of the Board of Radio Corporation of America, predicted a new era in electronics by 1961. He stated that "Seven years from now half of the electronic business will be devoted to devices that do not now exist," and added that "We are witnessing the dawn of a new era, which we call automation."

This new era will create a great many new jobs which will replace those which are made obsolete because of increased mechanization.

General Sarnoff praised the electronic industry and listed its many achievements: radio, television, phonograph, tape recorders, radar, and the atom and hydrogen bombs.

He predicted, in addition to widespread automation, tubeless television, great advances against disease through the use of electron and television microscopes, home-sized atomic electrical generators and many other devices.

Ira Klosk Rules Out Motion

been called by the BHE as students, and that the BHE had disavowed any intention of doing so.

A motion condemning the dismissal of the three Hunter College professors by the BHE was ruled out of order by SC President Ira Klosk on the ground that it dealt with policies outside the jurisdiction of Council.

Fiftieth Anniversary

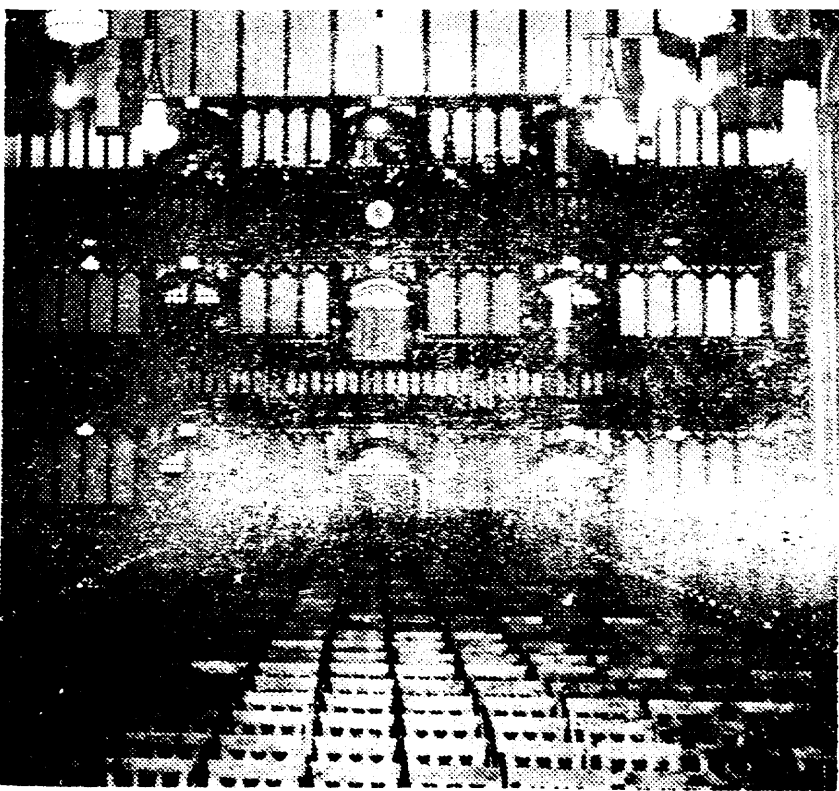

In addition to considering the report of the Civil Liberties Committee, Council heard committee reports and took steps to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary on the campus.

Friday, December 17, was set as the date for SC elections. Paul Siegerman and SC Treasurer Stanley Sokol were elected co-chairman and representative, respectively, to the Election Agency. They and two members of Alpha Phi Omega (APO) will handle election disputes and act as poll watchers when the ballots are counted.

A three-man committee was set up to publicize and plan anniversaries of campus organizations. SC also voted to award a plaque to APO for its fifteen events for the fiftieth anniversary of Council. In addition a committee was set up to honor years of service to City College.

In response to a request from President Buell G. Gallagher that Council take an active part in the second All-College Conference, tentatively scheduled for December 16, Edwin Trautman was elected chairman of Council's delegation to it.

Not Speaking

President Buell G. Gallagher won't be on the podium on the evening of November 25.

Like over 1,000 City College students, the President will be in the Waldorf Astoria's Main Ballroom, enjoying himself at the school's first All-College Thanksgiving Prom.

All the tickets for the affair have been sold and 1,500 people are expected to attend. Fred Israel, Co-Chairman of Student Council Prom Committee, warns all people who have made reservations, and not as yet purchased their tickets, to pick them up by tomorrow. Otherwise, he said, they will be placed on sale.

therefore, contrary to the Society that the authors of the Bible favored."

Refuse to Aid Woman Hurt Outside AH

A woman struck by an automobile Monday evening, was refused help by the medical division of the City College Hygiene Department.

Ida Davis, 41, was hit crossing Amsterdam Avenue at 139th Street. The accident occurred at 6 PM. A student passer-by, Edward Lipton, rushed to the Hygiene Building to get a doctor to help Mrs. Davis, who was lying in the street. However, none of the medical staff would go to the scene.

A secretary in the Hygiene department explained the incident to OP, saying "We are not allowed to work with people not associated with the College."

Mrs. Davis was taken to Knickerbocker Hospital with a fractured hip.

A New Look At New York

Here, There, Everywhere

By Stan Zarowin

Opening up the file marked, Rainy Day, one finds a few things left over: places to visit, things to try, and a few general suggestions that got squeezed out of previous issues.

On Saturday mornings and afternoons at 11 AM and 3 PM the Museum of the City of New York (1221 Fifth Avenue at 104th Street, LE 4-1672) shows free documentary films concerning nature, education, etc. In the past the museum showed films such as: "Transporation in the USA," "The Gay Nineties Live Again," and "Stepping Along with Television."

Every Sunday afternoon at 2 PM, the Brooklyn Museum schedules over a hour of either solo singers, solo instruments, or chamber groups. The setting is the sunlit Sculpture Court on the third floor of the Museum. The Brooklyn Museum is at Eastern Parkway near Washington Avenue (NE 8-5000).

If interested in unique films of yesterday and today, one may visit the Museum of Modern Art, at 11 West 53rd Street, near Fifth Avenue (CI 5-8900) shows these movies in their modern theatre. Admission is sixty cents for both the films and Museum exhibits. Art and films students at the College can obtain special Artists' passes for $2 which entitles them to unlimited free admission for one year. The film programs begin at 3 and 5:30 PM.

At 225 West 46 Street, The Gagwriters Institute enables members to hear and judge each other's writings. They read or act out scripts for comedy shows or humorous articles for magazines. This is on Monday evenings at 8 PM, and on Wednesday evenings at 8 PM radio and television comics try out their new acts. Occasionally guests such as Jan Murray and Milton Berle make appearances. Admission is fifty cents.

Many people have heard of Alcoholics Anonymous, but how many have ever visited AA. In order to learn first hand how they work and just what goes on, call OR 9-3355. They have different meetings almost every day in the week. You may write to 114 East 14 Street for meeting schedules. Admission is free to the meetings, which usually begin about 8:30 PM.

Between 111 and 116 Street on Park Avenue under the Grand Central tracks the Park Avenue Market sells food which you probably never saw or heard of before. They sell such things as apios, eddo, casava, mango, papaya, and pickled herring. There are over 400 food stalls, and they are open every day from 7 AM to 7 PM, except Sunday. If you're really interested in new foods, inquire at the food stalls and they'll be glad to tell you how to select and cook them.

The Cooper Union Forum at Eighth Street and Astor Place (TE 8-0230) offers New Yorkers a free opportunity to hear lectures on topics such as "Women," "Music — Classical, Folk and Jazz." For a full program write Division of Social Philosophy, Cooper Union Institute, Cooper Square, New York. The programs run from October through to April on Sunday, Tuesday, and Friday at 8:15 PM.

On Thursday evenings at 8:30 PM, the Dramatists' Forum at 159 Bleecker Street (GR 7-2844) offers those interested in Drama an opportunity to hear new plays read and discussed. The sessions are held at the Green Room in the Amato Opera building. They begin the evening at 8:30 PM. A collection is usually held.

If you like Art, take a trip down to 57 Street and about 6th Avenue. The area is filled with Art Galleries, big and small. You don't have to buy anything. You can just browse. The people in the shops are very friendly, and they usually take you around the Gallery to point out interesting works.

There are a number of guides for New York which bring out the little known places of interest. Some of the best ones include a book put out by Young's Research Service, PO 72, Gracie Station, New York 28, N Y (the booklet costs one dollar) and the WNYC radio program, "Around New York" at 8 AM, which each weekday gives daily suggestions on where to go and what to do.

Last of a Series

Elan . . .

All writers, artists, and photographers are invited to contribute the fruit of their talents to Elan (French for Spirit) a new experimental literary magazine.

The title is a temporary one. All interested parties are invited to show up for today's meeting, at 12:30 PM in Room 18 Main.

Opening Doors

After six years of closed sessions, the Student Faculty Fee Committee voted Monday to open its meetings to the student body. We welcome this decision as an acceptance of the democratic method.

For years, the pseudo-secrecy that surrounded the meetings of the Fee Committee has aroused suspicion and distrust about the way student money was distributed. The Fee Committee decision to meet openly will help clear the air surrounding these dealings.

Observation Post notes that the Fee Committee decision followed by but three weeks a similar move by the Student Faculty Committee on Student Affairs. This indicates a healthier attitude toward the students' "right to know" than previously shown by these committees.

Although open meetings may not completely solve the problems of insufficient student participation in College affairs, they are a definite step in the right direction. For further steps long overdue, we turn our attention to the Committee of Five.

Closing Game

On Saturday City College's undefeated soccer team will play its final home contest of the 1954 season. The site is Lewisohn Stadium; game time is 1:30 PM, and admission, as usual, is free.

For the first time in the history of the sport at the College the soccermen are seriously bidding for a high national ranking. They have rolled over six opponents, including five Metropolitan Conference foes, in succession, and have yet to win by less than two goals. In the two games in which the margin was as low as two goals the team jumped to quick 4-0 lead at the halftime and coasted the rest of the way.

On Saturday the booters will engage the New York State Maritime College (Fort Schuyler) and a win will enable the Beavers to clinch at least a tie for the Conference championship. The soccer team's one complaint in the past has been poor attendance at home games. It would be nice if a good-sized portion of the student body were on hand to give the squad a nice send-off prior to the games with West Point and Brooklyn College next week. There's no need to worry about seats! That's one thing of which there are plenty.

Untapped Vein

Whenever the Blood Drive comes to the College, there are many who do not give because they think of the pain—yet giving blood is painless; sor because they think they're not up to it—yet a medical examination is given before you are allowed to contribute blood and they won't let you if it would be at all harmful. There are those who grow queasy merely at the sight of nurses and an antiseptic smell and this is most likely a sorry remnant of childhood when imagination impressed more than reality.

The paradox is that giving blood is not an obligation but rather an opportunity. For the one pint you give you can draw an unlimited amount for yourself or for members of your family when the need arises, and you can never tell when the need will arise.

The Bloodmobile will be at the College Thursday and Friday, November 18 and 19. You can sign up now in the many registration booths throughout the school. Don't hesitate. Your life or the life of someone in your family may hang in the balance.

Prom Pledge Deadline Near

The Senior Prom is in danger of being cancelled unless a sufficient number of $5.00 pledges are received by next Wednesday. The Senior Class Council announced yesterday.

All pledges for the prom must be in by then, the Council said, to meet the deposit deadline for the ballroom of The Park Lane Hotel where the affair will be held on December 25. No pledges will be accepted afterwards, it asserted, and if enough money is not received by then, the event will probably be cancelled.

Although pledges have been coming in at a good rate, the class said, the pledge deadline was necessary because the class treasury was being depleted. It blamed this depletion on the failure of Seniors to buy class cards.

Pledges can be paid in the Senior Office, Room 109, Army Hall, from 9 AM to 4 PM.

Although it was an official tie, the totals of touches gave first place to the CCNY "B" team. NYU's "A" team and the Beaver "A" team followed.

For the greater part of the competition the CCNY "A" team was in the lead. This aggregation included Ancile Malden, Jonas Ulenas, and Martin Wertleib. However, in the final match with NYU they lost, 3-6, causing the eventual tie.

Miss Marguerite "Maggie" Wulfers (above), coach of the Women's Basketball team for the past few seasons, has resigned this year due to the illness of her mother. The new mentor of the gal cagers will be Miss Barbara Schamel.

Holman Starts 34th Season With Cagers

Nat Holman has come home. The man who has frequently been referred to as "Mr. Basketball" by sportswriters and his fellow colleagues throughout the country, held his first practice session of the 1954-'55 hoop season, on Monday afternoon, in the Main Gym. The occasion marked the beginning of his thirty-fourth year as the College's hoop coach and his return after a two-year absence from the College.

More than thirty candidates were on hand for the opening practice which was greeted by a flock of reporters and photographers. The occasion was also marked by prominent stories on the sports pages of several metropolitan newspapers.

The New York Post headline on the story was "Holman Returns—Without Fanfare."

Double Trouble

Double trouble is the keynote of Dramsoc's production of Jean Anouilh's musical comedy, "Ring Round the Moon." The play, which will be presented this Friday and Saturday night at the Pauline Edwards Theater (at the Baruch School), tells a tale of identical twins caught in a merry whirl with an unhappy millionaire.

The play will feature Edward Heffernan, Barbara Kaden, Zara Aneljan, Alan Marlowe, Nan Wagner and Burton Cohen.

Tickets for the show are on sale in Room 120 Main and cost eighty-five cents and one dollar. They are also available at the door before the 8:30 curtain time.

Depositor Can Overdraw On Blood Bank Account

On November 18 and 19, students will be able to start a unique bank account, from which, after a small deposit, they can overdraw without fear of prosecution.

This remarkable institution is the Red Cross Blood Bank, open to all students and teachers between the ages of eighteen and sixty.

The advantages to depositors are two-fold. First, it permits a donor to withdraw immediately, as many pints of blood as is necessary, whether for himself or members of his immediate family. Secondly, a pint of blood would regularly cost between twenty-five to fifty dollars a pint depending upon the distance from the hospital. The blood a donor withdraws is absolutely free of charge.

At booths, situated opposite Knittle Lounge, Lincoln Corridor and the Army Hall foyer, depositors can sign up. Students under twenty-one must have a parent's consent slip. The booths will supply these forms and any additional information.

A light diet is suggested for the four hours preceding the donation. Butter, cream, fried foods, fatty meats, cakes and pies, should not be eaten.

The co-banking managers at the College, the Department of Student Life, Sigma Alpha Sorority and Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity are setting their sights on the Metropolitan Blood Drive record which the College held last year.

Miss Cynthia Benzing, (Student Life), is urging more teachers to participate in the drive, especially since a few student rumors have been heard to the effect that teachers have no blood in their veins.

Banking hours will be extended to late afternoon on both Thursday, November 18, and Friday, November 19 and depositors will be treated to a free meal after they finish their transactions.

Booters Beat Stevens Tech By 4-2 Score As Morris Hochoerman Turns 'Hat Trick'

By SHELDON PODOLSKY

HOBOKEN, NJ, Nov. 3—If there were any racing fans at the rainswept Stevens Institute of Technology field today they might classify the College's undefeated soccer team as expert "mudders." Contending with rain and freezing weather, mired with heavy winds, the Beavers picked up their sixth victory of the season, 4-2, in a non-league game. Changing around the script a bit, Morris "Crunch" Hochoerman proved to be the hero this time. Last year's high scorer took the play away from the more-publicized duo of Johnny Koutsantanou and Wolfgang Wostl and scored three goals. Koutsantanou, who was off on his shooting throughout the contest, still managed to score his ninth goal of the season to tie stitches in his head, the result of a collision in the Queens game last Saturday. Hochoerman went to work again at 13:32, taking a pass from Koutsantanou on the run and tallying.

From the third period on it was a case of holding the fort. The few times the Beavers did get into Maroon territory in the second half, Engineer goalie John Tunney was equal to the occasion. If he wasn't, then neither were the Beavers, missing at least two shots at open nets.

Stevens Scores

At the 9:40 mark of the third quarter, John Sarnecky, the Techmen's leading scorer, led a fast break to a successful termination. With goalie Meisen drawn ten yards out of his nets in an attempt to pounce on the ball, Sarnecky kicked it past Meisen's eager reach for the first Stevens score.

In the early moments of the final period, Bob Hayum, back on defense, accidentally deflected a loose ball with his hand. Walt Schultz converted the penalty shot at 2:55, a boot inside the left post, to end the scoring.

The Beaver defensive standouts were co-captain Eddie Trunk, described by Coach Harry Karlin as "the bulwark of the defense," Hayum, and Gedamke. Time and again this trio thwarted Stevens advances with fine defensive maneuvers.

On Saturday the Beavers will

Eddie Trunk
Defense Bulwark

tangle with the New York State Maritime College. This will be the team's final game of the season in Lewisohn Stadium. Game time is 1:30 and admission is free.

While the Mariners are in the Metropolitan Conference's second division, they are far from a bad club. Coached by Myron Reddon, the team from Fort Schuyler in the Bronx bowed to powerful Brooklyn College by a close 3-2 score.

The Beavers will be seeking to clinch at least a tie towards their second straight league championship. Should Brooklyn College get anything less than a win against Queens on Saturday morning, a City win could end it right then and there.

Morris Hochoerman
'Hat Trick'

the CCNY record set by Freddy Goldhirsch in 1948.

The Beavers scored twice in each of the first two periods to leave the field with a 4-0 halftime lead. The Stevens defense tightened in the second half, however, and the Engineers scored twice, once on a penalty shot.

Beavers Attack

The Beavers were everything a championship club should be in the first half. They were the relentless aggressors, keeping the losers off balance throughout. The play was concentrated almost entirely in Stevens territory. Lavender goalie Wally Meisen making only two saves, both easy chances.

After Koutsantanou and Wostl missed easy chances in the opening minutes of play, Koutsantanou, the all-American from Cyprus, registered the first Beaver goal at 19:25 of the first quarter. He scored with the help of brilliant passes by Rudi Gedamke, Wostl, and Hochoerman. Less than a minute later, at 20:05, Hochoerman came driving in to convert a loose ball, the rebound of a shot by Koutsantanou, making the score 2-0.

At 12:25 of the second period, Hochoerman bounced in another rebound, this one following a shot by Robert Lemestre, who played the entire game with three
