

Join a Club' Week Planned For November

By BARRY WEINBERG

The College's first "Join a Club" week will get under way Monday, November 15, and will last until November 19.

On Thursday, Nov. 18, from 12-2 PM there will be an Activities Fair in the Great Hall. In addition to booths set up by various organizations, a Variety Program consisting of performers by Dramsoc, Hillel, and an exhibition by the Varsity Club is scheduled for the first hour of the Fair.

"Ox Bow Incident" starring Henry Fonda and Dana Andrews will be presented Monday from 3-5 PM opening the week's festivities. A debate by all the political clubs moderated by the Debating Society is scheduled for Tuesday afternoon. Hillel's "Open House" rounds out the events for the second day.

Wednesday, Nov. 17, will feature "Varsity Club" day at which time the Varsity Club will give students an opportunity to see the College's athletic clubs in action. The first day screen showing of Hans Richter's "Dreams" will be shown the same afternoon.

The last evening scheduled for this "Week's" activities is the Friday Night Dance. Also set for Friday is Hillel's "Oneg Shabbat" and the afternoon Tea.

The last meeting of the organizations interested in participating in "Join a Club Week" will be tomorrow at 12:15 PM in Room 20 Main. All clubs are urged to attend.

Y'All Come

A crowd is invited tomorrow to cheer on a Motor Cavalcade, which will kick-off the Carnival Queen Contest and this year's Carnival.

The procession will consist of fifteen cars, five motorcycles and a contingent of bicycles, which will carry the contestants. The parade, which will start at about 12:30, will begin at the House Plan building at 141st Street and Convent Avenue, and will end at Manhattanville, after pausing at the Main Building for five minutes.

The Carnival Queen Dance will be held on November 10, at the Hotel New Yorker, and the Carnival, December 8, at the College.

Anti-McCarthy Students Plan Lobby in Congress

A group of students at the College is trying to initiate a national college delegation to lobby in Washington, DC, for the Senate censure of Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The ten students, unaffiliated with any other group, are drafting a letter to send to colleges throughout the country asking students to join them in Washington. The Senate will reconvene on November 8. One of the motions facing it is the censure of Senator McCarthy recommended by the Watkins committee.

The action of the anti-McCarthy group is an outgrowth of the "Green Feather" movement to support academic freedom.

Jim Liburd, one of the leaders of the group, said that yesterday some of its members visited colleges in the metropolitan area to enlist the support of their "student leaders."

Petition

The anti-McCarthyites are also preparing a petition to be sent to the Senate, signed by students of the College, urging the body to adopt the recommendation of the Watkins committee.

Tomorrow and Friday, a Students for Democratic Action booth in Lincoln Corridor will be the center for distribution of tags stating, "I Go Watkins," on one side, and "Just Must Go," on the other.

College Delegation to Attend NSA Leadership Conference

By JACK LEVINE

A delegation from the College will attend the annual Leadership Training Conference of the National Student Association's Metropolitan Region next month. The conference will take place on November 12-13, at the uptown campus of New York University.

The aim of the meeting is to assist student leaders in setting up individual campus programs and acquaint them with techniques of discussion and group dynamics to implement it. Members of the student government and participants in the Student Government's own leadership program will make up a twenty-five man delegation from the College.

Interested students may attend, according to Martin Gruberg, chairman of Student Council's leadership program, by paying a $1.00 registration fee at the conference.

The conference which will begin at 5:00 PM on Friday, Nov. 12, and run through Saturday, will be held in NYU's Student Union.

Discussions and panels on techniques and problem facing campuses in setting up leadership programs and NSA activities on the campus will be the featured points. A key-note speech by an as yet unknown government figure has also been planned.

Gruberg emphasized that, "although attending the conference would be a valuable experience for anyone interested in student affairs, it is no substitute for participation in the College's own leadership program."

The workshop sessions are scheduled for:

Mondays, 11:00 AM, Room 20 Main.

Tuesdays, 1:00 PM, Room 205 Main.

Thursdays, 12:00 AM, Room 310 Townsend Harris; 1:00 PM, Room 3 Townsend Harris.

Fridays, 1:00 PM, Room 216 Main.

WUS Week Show Set for Great Hall

By GLORIA KINGSLEY

A variety show in the Great Hall in December, featuring celebrities and student talent, will highlight the World University Service Drive. A concentrated week of activities will be held from Thursday, December 16 to Thursday, December 23, when the show will be held. A goal of $1,000 has been set as the college's contribution to World University Service (WUS).

Machine Will Vend 'Times' In Cafeteria

The New York Times will be available to students within the next two weeks at regular prices through the installation of a Times vending machine in the Cafeteria.

George Shuster, Manager of the Cafeteria, approved the installation since he feels that the students would appreciate it. The Cafeteria will receive a small commission for each paper sold.

The vending machine will have a capacity of fifty papers, with storage inside for seventy-five more. The top half of the current front page will be visible through the glass front.

The machine will be serviced by two College students, Gerard Grant, and Bernd Lorge.

The exact location of the "Times" vendor has not yet been decided upon, although Mr. Shuster is thinking of placing it against one of the front walls, near the Cafeteria offices.

City College is the third of the local municipal colleges to install vendors; Hunter and Queens each have one. Plans are in progress to install one at Columbia University also.

The idea of a Times vendor is not a new one, as several cities have been using them for years. Some even have them in the subway.

Advisors...

The Student Council Freshman Advisory Committee has announced that it is accepting applications for positions on the committee. All applicants will be screened to ascertain their ability for the position. Applications may be obtained in Room 120 Main.

Added Feature for '56 Ride Is 'Guess the Time' Contest

A "guess the Time" Contest has been announced by the Class of '56. According to Dave Pfeiffer, Junior Class President, the contest is in conjunction with the '56 Mystery Bus Ride, to be held Saturday night, November 13. Everyone buying a ticket, at $2.50 per couple, is entitled to guess the time of arrival at the mystery spot.

The buses will leave promptly at 8:30 PM, and the person coming closest to the actual time of arrival will win back the price of his ticket. Tickets are on sale now in Room 200, Main. The mystery destination will feature dancing, entertainment and refreshments.

Other activities to be sponsored by the Junior Class later this semester include a Friday Afternoon Dance, December 11. A theatre party to Greenwich Village for late December is also scheduled.

Under consideration at the present time are a Friday Night Dance, organizing a ski trip, and beginning a College Date Bureau, if enough people are interested to work on it.

'Times' Writer To Talk Here About USSR

Harry Schwartz, specialist on Soviet affairs for the New York Times, will speak to the Economics Society tomorrow at 12:15 in Room 219 Main on the subject of "Present Russian Economy."

Mr. Schwartz is the author of several books on the Soviet Union, among them "Russia's Soviet Economy," "Russia's Postwar Economy" and "The Soviet Economy." His articles have appeared in such magazines as "American Economic Review" and the "Journal of Farm Economy."

In 1942 Mr. Schwartz became an economist for the War Production Board, and in the same year joined the Department of Agriculture. He later worked for the Office of Strategic Services (OSS).

Following an association with the State Department from 1946-48, Mr. Schwartz was an Assistant Professor of Economics at Syracuse University until 1951. He then joined the New York Times with which he had been associated since 1947, on a full-time basis.

A New Look At New York

3 Cents, 5 Cents, and Up

By Stan Zarowin

Last week we tried to give a close-up of New-York-Saturday-night style. Well let's try it again with this in mind: it isn't money that makes a stag or drag evening enjoyable, it's imagination. So combine modest funds with imagination and come up with a weekend of fun.

The price of a phone call plus carfare entitles you to an evening of intimate entertainment ranging from original one act plays to well known Shakespearian productions. The place for this is the Brown Adams Studio, at 306 West Eighty-first Street, between West End Avenue and Riverside Drive (TR. 3-0870). The theatre was transformed from a first floor Brownstone house; the audience is therefore limited to about thirty people. Reservations are taken over the phone on a first call first served basis.

The Columbia Music Department offers music lovers in New York a unique musical experience: the Composer's Forum. These concerts present works by contemporary musicians. After the concerts, the composers are "cross examined" by the audience. The concerts are free and are given at Columbia's McMillan Theatre at Broadway and 116th Street. There are usually six concerts which run from October through May. For information about the next concert call UN. 5-4000, ext. 2081.

Free Opera

Down at 159 Bleeker Street, near Sixth Avenue, the Amato Free Opera (GR. 7-2844) presents bona fide grand opera with all the trimmings. Only the audience doesn't get trimmed. Performances of Carmen, Faust, Aida, etc. are produced on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings. The company is supported by contributions. Attendance is so large that one should write for tickets at least three weeks in advance. Enclose a stamped, self addressed envelope.

Cinema 16 might at first seem to be an expensive type of entertainment, but the membership fee, $10 per person and $17 for a couple, is relatively low compared to what Cinema 16 offers the discriminating movie goer. A member is entitled to view fourteen performances of remarkable films, not available to the public. The performances range from films about child birth to surrealistic and color abstractions.

For information write: Cinema 16, 175 Lexington Avenue (MU 9-1288).

For those gentlemen who feel that the human female body should be viewed with objectivity, with a straight forward moralistic, artistic eye, we say: don't read the next paragraph.

Ever since New York banned burlesque, strippers have taken their G-strings across the George Washington Bridge and into the "progressive" state of New Jersey, and scores of patrons have obediently followed. The name of this famous meeting place is the

Jersey Delight

Hudson Theatre Burlesque and it's at thirty-eighth street and New York Avenue, Union City, N. J. (Union 3-9772). The Orange and Black Bus Line at Forty-first street and Eighth Avenue takes you directly to the theatre. On Friday and Saturday nights there are two shows, one at 8:30 PM and the other at 11:30 PM. Admission is $1 and $1.50. Bring your lunch.

Next to the Automat the second most popular place to get rid of your spare nickels is the Staten Island Ferry. So if you've got seafaring blood in your veins or too much liquor under your belt, or if you just want to cuddle up with your best girl under the harbor moon, invest five-cents for a three-quarters of an hour ride. Traveling through New York's harbor you can see the Statue of Liberty, and at night, the outline of the New York skyline. Ferrys leave regularly from the Battery in Manhattan and from Sixty-ninth street and Belt Parkway, in Brooklyn.

Bowery Soiree

During the winter, starting around Thanksgiving, the Bowery News, at 176 Lexington Avenue, near thirty-first street (MU 4-2161) invites cartoonists, editors, and writers of their paper and personalities from all over the world for an informal Saturday night gathering. The public is invited to join in the fun. The affair usually starts about 10 or 11 PM. It's a place to meet "rare" personalities and share a mug of beer with them.

If you like German beer, German food and spontaneous college songs, then you've no doubt heard of Joe King's Rathskeller (also known as the G-A, for German-American), at 190 Third Avenue near Seventeenth street (GR-5-7623). There's food and beer. But more important the singing is loud. There is a small orchestra but no dancing. Lining the walls and ceilings are old photos, beer mugs and assorted souvenirs. The G-A is open every night to 2 or 3 AM.

It isn't often that a restaurant gets a double recommendation. The Jumble Shop is one of those places with red brick walls, a dim candle room with a fireplace, where the atmosphere adds to the taste of the dinner. The Jumble Shop's dinners at 28 West 8th Street, between 5th and 6th Avenues (SP-7-2540) cost $1.50 and $1.75. It's open on Friday and Saturday nights until 3 AM.

For some interesting, expert tips on New York and what to do in New York, tune in to WNYC tonight at 9 P.M. for Professor Frank Davidsohn (Speech) on the CCNY Extension Course program.

Wuxtry!

Since 1953 a learned society of six faculty members from the Main Center and the Baruch School have been mulling over a report on the All College Conference held that year. After exhaustive meditation this committee has come up with some conclusions that are startling and thought provoking to say the least.

The first enlightening tidbit given in the report is: Overcrowded Classes. It notes that classes are overcrowded and efforts should be made to relieve the situation. Is this gem the product of a year and a half of deliberation? Need this fact, obvious to every student at the College, call for a mammoth All College Conference?

The other twenty-nine suggestions are either as astute or so vague that the evaluation of their merits is difficult.

Another All College Conference is now being planned. If similar results are expected to come from this Conference perhaps it should be replaced by an All College Holiday. This plan would undoubtedly be popular with both students and faculty and its immediate results will, without a doubt, make better listening than does this insipid All College Conference report. Much milder.

How to Test for Telepathy

By Paul Weissler

Telepathy, once akin to the black arts, is now gaining respectability as a result of scientific investigations. The part played by J. B. Rhine of Duke University is a well-known chapter in the story of Extra Sensory Perception. It was here that the modern tests for telepathy were devised. The ESP deck of cards was made and first used in this North Carolina University.

This deck, which is now standard equipment for all ESP investigators, consists of twenty-five cards, divided into five groups, each with a different symbol. The symbols are a star, cross, circle, square, and three wavy lines.

Testing Factors

These cards are used to test telepathy under different conditions. However, special care must be taken to find out whether the person tested is reading the card by clairvoyance or reading the mind of the investigator by mental telepathy. Another problem facing the investigator is whether distance or walling off the medium from the cards will affect telepathy. These and other situations must be tested for, as regards their effect.

There are several ways of investigating the presence of telepathy in an individual. Personal contact and relaxed mind are believed important by many, if only to give the person being tested confidence, so these factors should be taken into account by the investigator. The amateur wishing to make simple tests need only to sit in the same room with the person being subject to investigation. This person should not be given hints unconsciously (i. e. knuckle rapping) or be permitted to sit in a position to see the tester and his deck, but of course, must be told the five different symbols used for the deck. The subject then runs through the deck, naming each card starting from the top. He is not to be given any indication of his success along the way.

Results of these tests are inconclusive, unless they are sufficient in number. For example, nine runs of the deck would mean that the subject would need an average score of seven correct choices in order to have his total equated with an average of 5.6 right per deck, for one hundred runs. Even one hundred tests do not necessarily prove the existence of telepathy. They do indicate a score considerably above normal, which is about five correct picks in one deck. Professor Schneider (Psychology) has conducted tests on over a thousand people for the past ten years. Her subjects have compiled an average of about 5.2, which she feels is an indication that perhaps almost everyone tested had a certain amount of ESP in them. High scores, in over fifty to one hundred runs, are signals for further testing. If a person obtains a phenomenally high total over a long period of investigating, clairvoyance is definitely indicated.

"Too Many Frauds"

Both Professors Schneider and Woodruff (Psychology) see a long road ahead until ESP is generally accepted. "Too many frauds have been associated with clairvoyance and telepathy for people to accept inconclusive results," Dr. Schneider noted. "Enough evidence has, I believe, been gathered, so that ESP demands recognition from those who are familiar with modern research."

For those who do believe in ESP, or for those who are just curious, this new activity of testing is offered as a good bet for that rainy day or as the party ice-breaker.

Debating Society Roams Far; Word of Mouth Gains Fame

There are some students at the College who travel almost two thousand miles a year just for the sake of a good argument.

The members of the City College Debating Society take to the road every season by car and train to take on the teams of other colleges and universities all over the east coast. After waging a war of words against colleges in the New York area, they literally talk their ways to debating conferences in Vermont, Massachusetts and Washington, DC. There are also invitations to California, but, to the regret of the debaters, there just isn't enough money to go.

Seemingly impervious to travel fatigue, the team finished last season with an enviable 95-35 won-lost record. Even in the unconventional setting of a radio studio they ply their art skillfully. Last season, taking on Brooklyn College on the Barry

Gray Show, they quashed their opponents by a 289-109 score. This season, wishing to be seen as well as heard by a mass audience, they are negotiating with the Columbia Broadcasting System for a TV debut.

To train this formidable band, the society has a guidance system which includes novice debates to familiarize newcomers with the intricacies of actual debating. After six months, according to Morton E. David, president of the society, the beginner will be able to think on his feet and not be afraid of an audience. Lest a prospective debater be dissuaded by this talk of near perfection, David has a comforting confession: "I lost my first eight debates."

Not limited to English majors or their ilk, the society boasts members from every school at the College and recommends it to "anyone interested in talking of traveling." David suggests this as a particularly good time for new members to join since many of the society's big guns (or big mouths, in this case) graduated last term.

Though the teams successful efforts against other college teams is a matter of record, there is as yet no account by any member of the supreme victory over every debater's most difficult opponent: the traffic cop.

Undefeated Booters Retain 1st Place As Queens Is Upset by Pratt, 2-0

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

The College's soccer team, eased out of first place in the Metropolitan Conference for several days last week by virtue of Queens' having played an extra game, found itself pleasantly and unexpectedly back on top of the heap as a result of a stunning upset last Saturday.

The reversal of form occurred at Remsen Field on the Queens campus where Pratt Institute turned back the Knights, 2-0. The loss gives the Flushing school a record of 3-1-1 and the Knights are technically in third place, al-

Jordan, and right halfback Bob Hayum. Hayum, an all-conference selection last season, suffered a slight concussion in the Long Island Aggie game two weeks ago, and sat out last week's contest against Kings Point. Jordan, playing an inspired game against his former teammates, took the ball away from Hunter forwards time and again.

Scoring Leader

The Beaver scoring was divided between Johnny Koutsantanou and Wostl, each tallying twice. Koutsantanou's two markers shot him into the lead for Met Conference scoring honors. Johnny has seven goals in four games, while his closest competitor, Pete Meyer of Queens, has six in five games. Wostl's scoring achievements moved him into a third-place tie for the goal-getting lead. Morris Hocherman set up two goals, while Gus Naclerio and Robert Lemestre set up one each.

though they have seven points to Brooklyn College's six.

This Saturday's clash between CCNY and Queens, still remains a big game, however, since the Knights must win or tie to stave off mathematical elimination. The kickoff is slated for 10 AM at the Queens field.

In the game played at Hunter College, CCNY downed the Hawks, 4-0. Hapless Hunter, which has yet to score in four league contests, played a defensive game, apparently hoping for a scoreless tie. There is no immediate prospect for the Hawks to score, since they entertain Brooklyn College on Saturday morning.

Brooklyn Wins

Brooklyn racked up its third consecutive loop triumph on Saturday by edging the Long Island Aggies, 2-1. The Kingsmen have apparently hit their stride since the opening loss to Kings Point. The odds now are that the title will not be decided until the Conference finale on November 13 between CCNY and Brooklyn on the Flatbush field.

In the City-Hunter tilt the Lavender apparently suffered from overconfidence. Following a quick opening goal by Wolf Wostl, the Beavers failed to score until the final quarter when they tallied three fast scores, and at times were outthrust by the less-skilled Hawks.

Particularly outstanding was the defensive play of goalie Wally Meisen, left fullback Vahe

Frosh Cagers Start Practice As 50 Attend

Some fifty freshmen basketball hopefuls reported to Coach Dave Polansky on Monday afternoon in the Tech Gym as the frosh cagers began their workouts.

Included among the candidates were Alton Waldon, a starter for two seasons at Boys High School; Frank Shovlin, a former army sergeant, who played four years at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, where he was a starter on the same team with Floyd Layne (former CCNY star); Carl Braun (high scorer of the New York Knickerbockers), and Earl Lloyd (starting center for the Syracuse Nationals); and Richie Garber, who played two seasons at DeWitt Clinton High School where he was co-captain last year.

Others with high school experience were Alvin Geller (two years at Clinton), Marvin Steinberg (½-season at Seward Park), and Bruce Schwed (two years at Bryant).
