UNDERGRADUATE NEWSPAPER OF CITY COLLEGE

TUESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1955

Board Seeks 9% Increase In '55 Funds

A nine percent increase in the budgets of the municipal colleges has been requested by the Board of Higher Education from the City. The increase is being asked to maintain the educational standards of the colleges, Dr. Joseph B. Cavallaro, the Board's chairman, said.

Included in the proposed budget, whose $25,264,385 total represents a $2,121,147 increase over last year's request, are funds for the operation of the Manhattanville campus and a provision to add twenty instructors to the faculty of the School of Technology. The increase is being asked to meet the thirty-four percent rise in enrollment at the School in the last two years.

Teaching Program

The Board also asked for increased funds to inaugurate new teacher preparation programs and improve ones presently in operation on the undergraduate and graduate levels. They also proposed increasing the administrative, clerical, and custodial staffs to better meet the needs of the 70,000 students at the four colleges. Four hundred thousand dollars was added to this year's budget as a result of automatic salary increases.

Small Cost

In the request Dr. Cavallaro stated, "Nowhere in this country are so many young people trained at so little proportionate cost to the public which they later serve by the ten thousands—in every conceivable agency that touches the citizen's life."

—J. Levine

Seniors...

Meyer Baden, newly elected Senior Class President, has announced that next semester's '55 Class Council will hold a meeting today in the Senior Office in Room 109, Army Hall, at 6 PM. Next term's Senior program will be planned. All seniors interested in working with next term's Class Council are invited by Baden to attend.

College Community Raises $1500 in WUS Campaign

By SAUL SOFER

The united efforts of students, faculty and alumni of the College have raised a record breaking $1500 for the World University Service (WUS). The goal set by WUS was $1000, to be raised in a week-long drive at the College. Student Council, which sponsored the campaign, set aside the week of December 16-23 as "WUS Week."

Members of campus organizations and the faculty who served in various capacities from boot-blacks to waiters raised $750. The Alumni Association which was pledged to match every dollar raised by the students, donated another $750.

WUS is an international organization which helps needy students all over the world.

Pres. Calls WUS 'Blow For Freedom' at Revue

The first annual World University Service Revue was presented in the Great Hall to a near-capacity audience on Thursday, December 23.

President Buell G. Gallagher, national chairman of WUS, addressed the assembly and reof WUS, contributions will grow from WUS to better."

Barry Sullivan, starring in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," was presented with the "Outstanding Actor of the Year Award" by Ira Klosk, President of Student Council, on behalf of Council. Mr. Sullivan remarked that he had been once honored with a similar award by Hedda Hopper. "My friends wouldn't talk to me for six years after that." The only reason he didn't go to CCNY, Mr. Sullivan, a native New Yorker, said, was that at that time the College was not co-ed.

The rest of the revue was produced and directed by Michael Rizzo, and featured Student Council President-elect Barney McCaffrey singing and accompanying himself on the accordion.

Suggestions for such a revue were advanced last June by Council. Representatives of WUS asked this semester that the show be held as a benefit, with any donations collected during the performance to go to the WUS Fund.

Barney McCaffrey Entertainer

mind them of their "opportunity to strike a blow for freedom and brotherhood" by contributing to WUS. He said that the goal the College was hoping to reach this year was $1,000 in contributions. "The University of Minnesota," he said, "raises four times as much for WUS with a far smaller student enrollment." Pres. Gallagher went on to say that as the College realizes the significance

Pres. Buell G. Gallagher WUS Chairman

Money is collected only from university communities.

Highlights of "WUS Week" were a Variety Show in Great Hall on December 23, featuring Barry Sullivan, one of the stars of the "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" on Broadway, and a Miss World Beauty contest, sponsored by Zeta Beta Tau on December 16 and 17.

Hillel began "WUS Week" with a Maccabean Festival dedicated to WUS in Townsend Harris on December 16. On the following day the Carol Brown Hellenic Society dedicated their Tea in Knittle Lounge to WUS.

On Monday and Tuesday, the 20 an 21, sorority members of Sigma Tau Delta shined shoes while Sis Jaffe and Wingate '57 sold their own home-made cakes.

Faculty members not only contributed money but also waited on the students in the cafeteria; all gratuities collected went to WUS. The waiters were supervised by Phi Epsilon Pi and Sigma Delta.

Nearly 500 students contributed over $50 to place their names in OP's special overseas edition which will be put in water-tight containers and attached to helium balloons. The balloons will be launched this Thursday at noon from the quadrangle.

President Buell G. Gallagher, who is national chairman of WUS, speaking at the Maccabean Festival, summed up his ideas on WUS, saying, "Help for self help... that is WUS; where student need and initiative converge. WUS brings its encouraging and strategic help. Bound by no political strings and reaching across racial, religious and national barriers, WUS expresses the world unity of the University community in action."

New Program Is Set Forth By Veep-elect

Student Council will embark on an "ambitious program" next term, according to Martin Gruberg, SC Vice President-elect. Proposed additions to the regular program range from a City College Ice Skating Party in February to a Career Guidance Day.

Gruberg said that he will recommend the formation of twelve Student-Faculty committees. The groups' work would cover foreign students, the intellectual climate, non-instructional fees, curriculum revision, College personnel, libraries, admittance policies, honor system, public relations, the College budget, "calendar" and special events.

Career Guidance Day, as proposed by Gruberg, would be a day set aside to enable students to find out more about various fields from professors and representatives of business and trade union groups, who would be invited.

A Contest Division is another recommendation. The SC agency, said Gruberg, would run such events as a pipe-smoking contest and a variety show competition.

The Vice President-elect proposed an election forum sponsored by Student Council and the College newspapers. Editors of the newspapers would interview the candidates for office at the forum so that students could be informed of the candidates' program and views.

Instructions in dancing and music lessons is another Gruberg proposal.

Weird...

Theodore, monologist of the weird, will appear at the Pauline Edwards Theatre, 17 Lexington Avenue, on February 19, at 9 PM. The dire event, sponsored by Phi Epsilon Pi will have tickets on sale today in Room 120 Main.

City Tops U. of S., 87-68

By ED LIPTON

The University of Scranton '5' ran into a red-hot CCNY '2' last Tuesday night, namely Jack McGuire and Merv Shorr, as the Beaver hoopsters rolled over the Pennsylvanians, 87-68, on the loser's court. Hitting mostly on driving layups, McGuire played his finest game for the Lavender as he piled up 33 points, the fourth highest individual performance in CCNY history. Captain Shorr also turned was able to watch "my kind of team" out on the court.

The Beavers displayed a potent offense featuring precision passing, a good driving game, and strong rebounding in moving to a 46-34 advantage at halftime. A full-court press by Scranton and tiredness combined to slow the Beaver machine in the second half but the home team missed too many opportunities and the outcome was never in doubt.

City was behind only once in the ball game when Tom McHugh sank a foul shot to put the Royals ahead, 1-0. McGuire sank a driving layup to make the score 2-1 and City was never headed as two free throws by Shorr and a basket by Herb Jacobsohn pushed the Lavender out in front, 6-2.

With the score 10-6 McGuire cut loose. A foul shot, plus a field goal by Jacobsohn, plus three field goals by Jack made the

New President Elected by HP

Al Eisenkraft was elected House Plan president in elections held Thursday, December 23. Eisenkraft, current HP vice-president received 290 votes against 153 votes cast for his opponent, Joel Resnick.

Dave Garfein won the vice-presidency by a margin of four votes, defeating Phil Mischel. The final count was 198 to 194 votes.

Bernice Farber and Larry Shulman will serve as secretary and treasurer respectively, during the coming spring term. Both offices were uncontested.

The election, according to a HP representative, was of great importance since these are the officers who, working in conjunction with House Plan Council, will determine the policy of House Plan's integration into the Student Union.

'Thirty'

By Ed Lipton

Mr. Lipton has served on OP as Managing Editor, Sports Editor and News Editor.

This one came hard. There have been times in the past when the words just poured out and the column was done in no time at all. But this is a "Thirty" column and I find it hard to sum up four years of my life in twenty-two inches of cold type.

There is no group of courses leading to a license in a particular field for me to look back on, because I want to be a writer, and no course ever made one. A man's a writer or he isn't and all he can do academically at the College is to pick up a few pointers and a few interesting facts that he might use later on.

For me, the real value of my four years at City College lies not in the curriculum, but in the field of human understanding. Here I learned about different kinds of people, as individuals, and as they are in a working relationship with each other. I learned that two individuals can be so different from each other that there can be little or no common meeting ground.

I learned that there are people in this world who will take any means to an end; that these people can be so differently oriented from most of us that they feel no remorse at anything they do, no matter how underhanded, nor do they feel compassion for any living creature, unless it suits their purpose. To them, compassion, decency and integrity are words to be twisted and used as they see fit, not a moral code to live by.

And I learned that these are the individuals who will usually get ahead in the world. Often they are the leaders, for few are as ambitious as they, and few will go to the lengths that they will to achieve their ends.

People as self-centered, as bent upon defending their own "fair honor," as completely wrapped up in themselves, as these, cannot really relate closely to others, and must miss out on a good deal of the beauty of life. They cannot be very happy individuals. Neither can they be very deep, when the very word depth implies understanding. And little by little, I've learned that such "successful" people are to be pitied, not envied.

But these men as leaders would be nothing without followers. I learned about other people too: about the coat-tail riders; about the ones busy playing their own private "games" to achieve their own private goals; about the people who like to think of themselves as highly moral but who are quite willing to "cut corners;" about the weak who are overwhelmed by the sheer dynamism of a leader; and about those who go along for varied personal reasons.

I also learned about the majority of people at the College. Real nice ones, even harboring among their ranks some idealists disguised as cynics, and a few who fight honestly and openly for what they believe is right.

Perhaps I could have gained as much knowledge of people without having attended College, but I think that at best it would have been a much slower process. At City College I was able to learn from a relatively small cross-section of humanity, above average in intelligence, but average in their emotional behavior. And I learned much.

I am neither dissatisfied nor elated to find that the College is but a mirror of the outside. I have gained in understanding, and that is very important for one who hopes to write and for one who just hopes to live. City College has helped prepare me for my vocation and for living.

No one is entitled to ask more of his Alma Mater.

There were a few instructors who I feel gave me something above and beyond the subject matter of the course . . . Prof. Parsons of English . . . Prof. Yohannan, a man for whom I have the greatest respect and admiration . . . Prof. Leonard of History . . . Prof. Page of the same department . . . Mr. Bortnick of Spt. . . Messrs. Richter, Knight, Freund and Robins of the Films Institute . . . Prof. Rosenthal who gave me a lot more than I gave him.

ALONG THE SIDELINES: I found most of the people connected with athletics, the field that was usually my beat, to be decent men . . . but I must say a special farewell to retired head Col. Purcell . . . to Chippy Spohr and Tom Reilly . . . and to Dave Polansky, one of the finest men at the College, and a real credit to any organization anywhere.

I hope that City College's sports program is kept on a small-time basis. It can be if the authorities always keep in mind that City College is primarily an institution of higher learning, not an athletic club.

STRICTLY PERSONAL:

To my sister Reva whom I told three years ago that she would see her name in print in one of my columns.

To my parents: My deepest thanks for seeing me through College.

To Richard Robert Edward Michael who has such abominable tastes.

S'long, Walt.

Vet Allowance To End Jan. 31

An executive order issued by President Dwight D. Eisenhower will end wartime educational benefits for veterans on January 31. Those now in the armed services and those who join before February 1 will be able to claim veterans' benefits.

"No Interpretation"

Dr. Arthur Taft, Director of Armed Services Affairs at the College, saw little chance that Congress will include the benefits in the new draft bill. He added that "we have received no official interpretation from Washington" as to whether men in the armed services now will receive full benefits or will be given only partial benefits for service up to January 31.

At present, education and training allowances range up to $160 per month for not more than three years. Under the order, educational benefits under the GI Bill will end eight years after January 31. Disability benefits regarding education will continue, however.

Office Stays

The Veterans' Office in Room 208 Main will not be abolished as a result of the ruling, Dr. Taft said. Disability and state benefits to veterans will necessitate the continuance of the office, he added.

List Eighteen In Who's Who

Eighteen City College Seniors will appear in the 1954-55 "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." The directory lists the graduating seniors who are considered best qualified on the basis of their academic records, citizenship, participation in student activities and future promise.

At the College the selection is made by the Department of Student Life on the basis of nominations from various student organizations including the two newspapers, Student Council and the Technology Intersociety Interfraternity Council (TIIC).

Included in the list are Joan Shaiken, former president of House Plan; Robert Weiss, president TIIC; Daniel E. Rosner, president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; and Ancile Malden, former editor of Vector.

Present and future SC Presidents, Ira Klosk and Barney McCaffrey, and SC's next vice-president, Martin Gruberg, are also noted.

Six students who are or have been editor-in-chiefs of college newspapers received mention in the directory. They are Jerome Ludwig and Andrew Meisels of Observation Post and Meyer Baden, Jack Billig, Francine Marcus and Edwin Trautman of Campus.

Also listed are Student Colonel Arion Pattakos, pitcher William Konig, Senior Class President Allan Bard and the chancellors of Sigma Alpha and Alpha Phi Omega, Herbert Rappaport and Walter Feller respectively.

'Thirty'

By Jerry Rosen

Mr. Rosen was formerly Copy Editor, News Editor, and Features Editor on OP.

This is my thirty column: my last will and testament to City College.

Somehow I've had a great deal of difficulty with this column. I don't know why exactly. I've started it on several different occasions and each time I've dealt with a different topic and each time, too, I've abandoned the project. This time I will finish the job. Good, bad or indifferent, this is my thirty column and the things I say in it are the things I should say and the things I want to say.

How, then, to say goodbye to City College? I've spent four years here, four very important years here. I have not enjoyed those years. In many respects they have been the worst I have ever lived. I guess maybe I was never cut out to be a student. I can't conform to certain things, for example this business of taking a course or courses which I do not want or need. I have often been quite disgusted with classroom procedure, which requires an instructor to take attendance, give examinations, and in some instances to be a lord and master over his students. I find it hard to give in to these and other features which I consider distasteful. To be honest, I have attended college over the past year and a half only to obtain my degree.

But although my objective has in this sense been rather narrow and not very idealistic, in another sense it hasn't really been of much consequence. For, in spite of why I have been here, I have gained a great deal of knowledge and, I think, even understanding. I think I rate that degree, not alone from an academic and textbook point of view, but because I have gotten a college education in spite of myself, and to me a college education means an acquaintance not only with facts but with humanity. I have learned my math and chemistry and economics and history and government; I have also learned a little more about life itself. City College to me has not been an "ivory tower," isolated from the "real" world outside; it has been a means of penetrating that outside world. I have learned of books and of people and I'm satisfied, for the moment, in that respect.

And yet, I have not enjoyed my stay here.

I liked City College the first time I ever saw it. I have never ceased to like it. I was amazed and pleased four years ago at my initial transition from high school to college life. No matter what anybody tells you, City is a wonderful school and, for the most part, the people in it are just as wonderful. There has never been a time when I have held a different opinion.

Yet, it's not for me.

I hope someday to be a writer. Perhaps, accordingly, my imagination is too vivid. Perhaps also what I ought to do is go somewhere and write. That is my intention. But in a classroom somehow I felt restrained and hemmed in, as though I did not belong there. I never liked it. I could never really associate myself to what was around me because I felt out of place and because in the back of my mind I have always had this notion that I can write. But not here. A rationalization? So I have been told by some and so I have often thought myself. But I've got to find out for myself.

I'm sorry if what I'm writing is not interesting to you. It's interesting to me, though. Ten years from now I'll be able to re-read this and perhaps know the answers to some questions:

- Was I, at the moment when I wrote this, being too maudlin? Was I being too pompous? Was I expressing false, insincere emotions? Was I making a fool of myself? Should I have written this at all?

So you see, I am writing this thirty column, in the last analysis, for myself.

But the dedication is not to myself: it is to my parents, to whom I owe much more than I can ever hope to repay; to my brother, who has shown me the two sides to every argument and who has helped me more than even he knows.

In addition, I cannot evaporate before saying:

"Wally" sends regards to Melinda and June.

The "cynic" sends regards to Mr. Strear.

S'long Ed, and Walt, wherever you are . . .

Professor Edgar Johnson (Chmn. English) has announced the engagement of his daughter Judith Emlyn, to James T. Sherwin, son of Professor Oscar Sherwin, (English).

The prospective bridegroom graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Columbia College, and is now attending Columbia Law School. He is a national United States speed chess champion.

Miss Johnson is a freshman at Radcliffe College.

Student Keeps the Pipe Fires Burning for WUS and Prize

Sparks flew in a worthy cause at the College the Thursday before Christmas vacation. A group of thirty professors, male students and co-eds competed in a pipe-smoking contest as part of the College's month-long drive to raise funds for World University Service.

The service gives aid to needy foreign students. The object of the contest was to keep a pipe lit as long as possible. Entry fees came to $15.

Top Puffer

As the smoke cleared, J. Stanford Axel, a graduate student, was seen to be the winner—with a puffing score of one hour and thirty-three minutes. Prof. Frederick C. Shipley (English) won out over his professorial colleagues. He kept his pipe burning for forty-five minutes. Eva Zeitlin, a 19-year-old junior who had never smoked a pipe before, was the winning co-ed, with a smoking record of half an hour.

One member of the faculty entered the contest with a Turkish hookah but the glass water pipe broke under the strain. The contest was arranged by the Webb Service Society.

Naclerio Gets Outstanding Player Award at Florida Soccer Forum

Gus Naclerio, co-captain and outstanding player of the annual soccer forum held last week in St. Petersburg, Fla. Naclerio received an Eternamatic watch for his sparkling performances.

The highlight of the forum was the Sunshine Soccer Bowl game last Wednesday night. The South by Joe Palone of Army. Also in the starting line-up was co-captain Eddie Trunk who played brilliantly on the halfback line.

The two Lavender stalwarts combined Monday night to help a North-South array turn back the University of Florida, 3-1. Naclerio took a pass from Trunk to tally the winning goal.

Miss America Presides

The 90 odd all-stars participating in the forum had a special treat. Lee Ann Meriwether, Miss America, presided over the game as honorary queen.

Johnny Koutsantanou, the College's all-time high scorer, was also supposed to attend the forum but circumstances forced him to pull out at the last moment.

The forum included representatives from CCNY, Army, Brooklyn College, Cortland State Teachers College, Ithaca College, Springfield, Duke, University of Florida, Johns Hopkins, University of Pittsburgh, Penn State, Swarthmore, Slippery Rock Teachers and Navy.

Cagers Rout Scranton U., 87-68; McGuire and Shorr Total 61 Pts.

score 19-10.

The Scranton team closed the gap to 21-16 but three more field goals by McGuire and a pair of fouls by Shorr enabled the Beavers to open up a 9-point margin, 29-20.

Shorr scored CCNY's next eight points as the Holmanmen went out in front, 37-25, but the team was unable to widen that gap before halftime. All told, McGuire garnered 21 points and Shorr 16 during the first twenty minutes.

Close Press

At the start of the second half the Royals began to press more closely. A hook shot by Frank Germain closed the gap to 10. The irrepressible Mr. McGuire sank a jump shot but a foul by Linzo Jenkins and two charity tosses by Germain made the score 48-39. It stayed that close for a while but then the Beavers opened up a 17-point margin.

With the score 56-47 Ralph Schefflan dunked two foul shots to give City an 11-point spread. After McHugh sank a foul shot, McGuire hit on a layup and Schefflan netted another brace of free throws. A foul by McGuire and a one-hander by Shorr moved the Beavers in front, 65-48.

Team Rolls

Leading 66-53, CCNY, or rather Shorr and McGuire, rolled up eleven straight points. Shorr started the barrage with a hook shot and a tap-in. McGuire's layup and foul broke the Beaver captain's monopoly on the hoop but Merv came right back with two free throws and a jump shot from the keyhole.

With eight minutes to go the Royals began whittling away at the Lavender lead. Two jump shots by Bob Bessoir, the Pennsylvanians' captain, and Jerry Curtis preceded a layup by Schefflan, and then the home team, paced by Bessoir's five points, moved to within 15 (79-64) of the Beavers with five minutes remaining to play.

Clings to Lead

Although tired and rattled by Scranton's close guarding, CCNY clung to the lead, and with the score 83-68, Dave Simmons entered the scoring column by sinking two foul shots and Ronnie Kowalski sank a rebound to give the Beavers their final 19-point margin.

Merv Shorr
Ruins Royals

Other Standouts

Playing before approximately 1,500 spectators in Scranton's beautiful Catholic Youth Center, City had several standouts besides McGuire and Shorr. Simmons pulled down 11 rebounds, second only to Shorr, and played a fine floor game. Schefflan and Bernie Cohen worked the ball nicely while Kowalski and George Jensen rebounded well.

Coach Nat Holman, however, was not fully satisfied by the team's second victory in five starts. "I saw too many mistakes," he said after the game. "We were upset by the press and I was apprehensive even when we had a 15-point lead."

The team's next game will be on Thursday night against Manhattan College on the Jaspers' court. The freshman teams of the two schools will clash at 6:30 PM in a preliminary contest.

Wounded...

Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) will be "raising cane" for a few days. A broken leg is forcing the dean to hobble around the school to expedite his work.

Dean Peace broke his leg during vacation when he entered a basketball game as a substitute for his son. An attempt for a driving layup resulted in a fall that caused the accident.

Sand Signs...

Bobby Sand, former CCNY assistant basketball coach, has been named coach of the professional Scranton Miners of the Eastern Basketball League. Sand had coached the Carbondale (Pa.) team until it folded two weeks ago.

Three former Beaver stars are expected to play for the Miners, namely Jerry Domerschick, Floyd Layne, and Ed Roman.

Chessmen Place in Tourney; Fencing, Track Teams Active

Losing a one-point lead in the final two rounds, the City College chess team finished second in the National Intercollegiate Chess League tournament held last week at Columbia University's John Jay Hall.

The round-robin tournament was won by Fordham with a 21-won 7-lost record to the College's 19½-8½.

CCNY held the lead after the fifth round thanks largely to a 3-1 fifth round victory over Fordham. However, the Lavenin the final round.

The CCNY team was composed of Aven Rudy, Alan Reitter, J. Kalin, Harrow and Reisman.

The College's track and field team finished sixth out of twelve teams that scored points in the Metropolitan Amateur Athletic Union junior track and field championship meet held last Tuesday night.

The top performer for the Lavender and Black was a sophomore pole vaulter, Joe Werfel. Werfel cleared the bar at a height of 12 feet to gain a first place tie with George Pavlides of St. John's University.

The other Beaver to score in the individual events was Robert Marsh. Marsh captured fourth place in the broad jump with a leap of 19-foot 6½-inches.

Aubrey Seeman and Charlie Piperno of the College's powerful fencing team took second and third places respectively in the annual Christmas invitation intercollegiate fencing tournament last Tuesday.

John Craig of Boston University won the title by defeating Seeman in a fence-off. Both won four bouts and lost one in the six-man final round-robin. The Boston fencer won the deciding test, 5-1.
