By DAVID GROSS

Four robberies were committed in quick succession yesterday between the hours of 3 AM and 4 PM. The total of fifteen thefts yesterday is the highest number in four school days, an "unprecedented" amount, Dean James S. Peace (Student "Peace"), said.

Police Captain Frank Socransky, who has charge of the 71st Precinct, said that the police have been investigating several other cases of thefts on campus. The police are trying to piece together the actions of the thieves who are striking repeatedly.

The list of stolen items included a Benrus wrist watch and a German book were forced into Room 20 Main, in the Social Science Department, Room 406 Harris, by a transient yesterday. The room is used by the Office of Civil Defense where students are taught how to prepare for an attack.

SC Treasurer Recommends $100 Vector Fee Reduction

By CLAIRE KATZ

A protest against the Student Faculty Fee Committee's recommendation for an increased appropriation to Vector, the college engineering magazine, was raised Friday by Student Council Treasurer Jared Jusim, after investigating the expenses of the magazine.

Jusim is also chairman of the SG Fee Commission. The SG had originally recommended a reduction of $700 per year, SFCC at its meeting Thursday, increased the appropriation to $500. Jusim said, "feels that $700 is more than sufficient, according to SFCC's figures, and is unable to present sufficient evidence to support its recommendation."

The SG Treasurer recommended a $100 reduction of the Vector appropriation, bringing the total annual expense of the magazine down to $1,900. The SG Fee Commission met on Thursday to discuss the reduction. The SG has the authority to make the final decision on the appropriation, and the SG Fee Commission is responsible for recommending the amount. The SG Fee Commission is made up of students and representatives from the various student organizations on campus.

Concessionaires in AH Must Move by June 15

By HOWARD SCHUMANN

Notice has been sent to the three concessionaires in Army Hall telling them that they must vacate the premises by June 15. Army Hall will be given to the city when the College occupies the Manhattanville campus.

George Pakradoonian, owner of the Army Hall Men's Shop, said yesterday, the students and the alumni resent this action. "It is unfortunate," he said, "but I am going to continue my business here, and I will build a new store over at the college." Mr. Pakradoonian added that he has received many offers for partnerships but has not yet decided on a future course. His personal loss from the eviction, he fears, might be thousands of dollars.

Nahum Pakradoonian, his father, and owner of the Canteen, called the action "unfair," but said that he has been in business for twelve years and won't mind relocating now. He has no plans for the continuation of his business at any new location.

The owner of the Barber Shop, Vita Sciacca, said that he hoped there might still be a way for him to continue his operation in Army Hall. He said, "I am confident of student support, and the administration will do all it can to help." Sciacca has decided not to continue his business if it is terminated at the College.

Previously the Hebrew Orphanage, Army Hall was used as living quarters for army personnel trained at the College during the war. The city is now planning to tear down Army Hall and build a playground on the site.

Store offices were permitted in Army Hall only as a convenience to the Army personnel. College facilities cannot be used for private gain, according to a New York City ordinance. Therefore the concessions will not be permitted in SU.

Pian's Cabaret Night theme for this semester. President Gallaher extended a hearty welcome to his devilish visitor, who appeared in full underworld regalia, though minus clavous feet.

Tickets to the "Inferno" are $2.50 per couple or $1.25 per person. They may be bought in Room 139 Main.

Devilish

By Bjarne Snyder

Terror, courage and compassion were luminously enacted by Dramsoc last weekend in a performance of "Montserrat" that outshone the material.

The scene of the Lillian Hellman play is Venezuela, 1812, when the Spanish occupation forces are conducting a futile search for the incter of rebellion, Simon Bolivar. A Spanish officer, Montserrat, is discovered to have aided Bolivar, and to know where he is hiding. He must be made to tell. The scene is a hideous one, as six innocent people are brought in from the market to persuade Montserrat to confess, or to be killed themselves. Vito Sciacca, said that he hoped there might still be a way for him to continue his operation in Army Hall. He said, "I am confident of student support, and the administration will do all it can to help." Sciacca has decided not to continue his business if it is terminated at the College.

Hail to the Chief—Miller Receives Honors at Gala Testimonial Dinner

BY BERT ROSENTHAL

"Congratulations to a great coach and a great man..." "He's a grand coach because he's a grand person..." "We're proud to honor him tonight and have him as our guest..." These were just a few of the multitude of testimonials addressed to Leon A. "Chief" Miller, landscape architect, at a dinner Friday night at the Hotel Shelburne commemorating the "Chief's" silver anniversary as Lavender Lacrosse mentor.

However, a further climax was still forthcoming. It came when toastmaster Ed. Walter introduced Nat Holman and said, "Let's hear some more words about Mr. Lacrosse from Mr. Basketball..." A graduate of Carlisle University, where he was a teammate of Jim Thorpe, "Chief" Miller won his college letters in football, basketball, track and field, and lacrosse. He was named to Walter Camp's honorable mention Football team in 1919 and to the All-American lacrosse team in 1920.

He played professional football with the Canton Bulldogs. During his time at Carlisle, he also coached the University All-Stars and Pottstown as well as the Indian Giants. For many years he was a Lacrosse star in the Canadian Leagues.

In the 1912 Olympics, the "Chief" competed in both the pentathlon and decathlon events.

Oratory Prize Given Baruch Center Student

Frank L. Gonsalves, a student at the Baruch Center, won the City College Oratorical Contest on Friday. The topic of the contest, "Civil War General Robert E. Lee," was chosen by the Baruch Center Student Congress. Gonsalves will receive a $25 United States Savings Bond, a silver medal and an opportunity to participate in the district primaries of The Journal-American Tournament of Orators, which will be held at the United States Merchant Marine Academy in Queens on April 16.

If he wins, he is eligible to compete in the Metropolitan Finals, in which a $1,000 prize is offered.

In 1946, a City College student won the Metropolitan Finals. Dr. Wayne Nicholas (Speech) expressed the hope that "history might repeat itself." Dr. Nicholas, Dr. Deane Finne (Speech) and Professor W. Theodore (Speech) judged the contest.

If he wins, he is eligible to compete in the Metropolitan Finals, in which a $1,000 prize is offered.

The Lacrosse News once selected Miller, as Coach of the Year. The present Lacrosse Northern South All-Star classic is one of the many innovations of the "Chief." He also coached the Northern All-Stars in the 1960 annual North-South soccer game in 1946.

In the field of public relations, the "Chief's" record is equally noteworthy. He is a former president of the Indian Confederation of America and a member of the Cherokee Council of Chiefs. Last year was really a banner one for the "Chief." He was elected to the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America as a delegate at large, to the Inter-Racial Relations Board of the Boy Scouts of America and President of the Greater Metropolitan Chapter of the National Congress of American Indians.

Evidences of his scholarship and usefulness to the College include among many other things, the organization of the Varsity Club and the origination of the Stein Fund for injured athletes. Taken another bow, "Chief." You've earned it.

The team will lose foilman Albert Gordon and epeeman Susco through graduation this June, and Seeman, whose eligibility has expired.
