Mr. Roosevelt Stresses Study of World Situation

Mrs. Roosevelt stated that for students to study and understand the world situation so that they can analyze the machinery of United Nations, which is working toward peace.

At a luncheon yesterday of the Christian Association she pointed out that a study requires an imagination and a desire to work together.

Speaking before an audience of more than 150 students and faculty members, she stated that "the world is watching the United States," and that we are being "judged by how we live and the things we do an believe."" The "UN," she asserted, "is only as good as the people who make it." She continued, "The UN can do nothing unless the peoples of the UN work together and understand the problems which face them.

She emphasized that the UN is composed of a group of sovereign nations and that they are trying to create an atmosphere in which peace may grow. She added that the UN is a medium in which the nations of the world, brought together to create a unity.

Mrs. Roosevelt explained that the U.S. is the only country with enough resources to fight a world war and that the U.S. must be ready to fight a world war.

The Freshman Dance scheduled for Saturday night will be held in the Drill Hall instead of the Finley Student Center's Grand Ballroom. The relocation is because the Center is currently closed to student activities on Saturday nights due to inadequate protection provided for students.

The President emphasized, "will not see materials before publication; nor will it serve as a censor's group or replace the current faculty adviser system. A report will be issued after each term by the committee evaluating the standards of such publications on ethical, literary, meritorious and journalistic basis."

In a statement to the college press, Dr. Gallagher stated that he has been concerned over the performance level of some of the publications bearing the College's name.

But the President also cautioned that he was equally concerned for freedom of a responsible press. He stated that "as long as I am president, I will jealously safeguard that 'heritage. I trust the student editors, by their own self discipline, will help to protect that freedom of a responsible press."

It will be the function of the advisory committee to offer counsel, and where merited, criticism or praise.

The President referred to Mercury (the College's Nuance Magazine) saying that they have in the past published questionable material, which bordered on "pornography.

He said that he had spoken to the editors and faculty advisors of Mercury but was unable to arrive at an understanding with them on the material which he felt lacked discretion.

Last year, Pres. Gallagher requested a committee of the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Affairs to investigate student publications at the College. Their report, submitted in the Spring of 1955, suggested that the Committee of professional journalists be set up to "look over the publications after each semester and evaluate, analyze, and offer constructive criticism concerning them."

They emphasized that the faculty advisor should not dominate the thought or actions of the publications.

President Gallagher accepted the report of the sub-committee and submitted it to the Board of Higher Education. The BHE then adopted a resolution, on October 24, authorizing the President to name a committee of professional journalists.

A report stated that the College will be a part of the United Nations, which is working toward peace.

The rationale of this resolution by the BHE was that the College publications "are enjoying the privileges of this distinguished (Concluded on Page Two)"

First Prom in Ballroom To Be Held by Juniors

The Junior Prom, to be held on December 3, will be the first prom held in the Finley Student Center's Grand Ballroom. The tickets are being sold for $3 per couple, and are expected to be purchased early since a complete sellout is expected.

The Prom will be a catered, semi-formal affair. It will feature a seven-piece band and several dance contests. The winners will receive Levin Cups. Refreshments, including hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, potato knishes, eggs, and a variety of pastries, will be served. Photographs are available at a slight extra charge.

The Prom will offer a half price, all the advantages of an affair held at a hotel. For that reason at least 600 people are expected to attend.

Don Holsager emphasized the hope of the Junior Class Council that this Prom will be a great success and will establish a fine precedent.

A Free Press

President Gallagher's reasons for having invited a committee of journalists to “review” the College publications are an interesting combination of support, caution, and bitterness. It’s hard to swallow them both at once.

On one hand, he says, he is motivated by “the desire of the editors to receive professional advice. This friendly criticism will be beneficial to the Higher Education as a backdrop, since the BHE resolution on the subject states that any publications which lack the desire for such advice will be reported to them.

President Gallagher's statement soon gets down to business, when it pronounces him “concerned over the performance level of some of the publications bearing the College name; and equally concerned for freedom of a responsibility group. When he cites excellence, we think the President is chiefly concerned with what the College papers choose to run, how they choose to present it, and their editorial policies.

We realize, of course, his preoccupation with “mercy.” But if three distinguished newspapermen have been invited merely to wag a warning finger at off-color jokes, a lot of time will be misspent.

The men who have been asked to evaluate our work are, we believe, as good representatives as could be chosen. But we do strongly oppose the principle which brings them to the College. We see it as information critical to our work, which ends with advice presented merely to the editors. It is another to force surveillance on us, with the BHE resolution also in line for reports.

President Gallagher, by asking the BHE for a committee to invite the critics, was acting on the recommendation of a sub-committee of the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, which also “reviewed” the College press last semester.

OP Unleashes Mutation; Throws Hat(s) into Ring

A last minute entry is expected to bust the Ugly Man contest wide open. Observation Post, which maintained a compliant silence while other organizations were naming their choices, has now announced its candidate: Jacklemont Levine.

After years of fooling students and professors by pretending to be twins, Levine, by his entry, reveals that he is actually a two-headed mutation created by Dr. Bela Lugosi, former member of the Biology Department. "It's been tough concealing my true identity by tucking one head under my shirt, and I'm tired of voting ends. Besides, the students will consider my six years experience a boogyman." The faculty entrants were cheerful. Dean Shelbourne Barber, in his office in Crypt Number 13, said, "Thank goodness he's not running against me. As beastly as he said, "Thank goodness he's not running against me. As beastly as he is, I'm sure he'll be acceptable."

WUS to Help India, Pakistan Flood Victims

A one day emergency fund drive to aid students in flood-ridden India and Pakistan will be coordinated by the World University Service at Wednesday's meeting. WUS decided that the collections will take place next week. All WUS is asking is that a collection be held on each campus.

Plans to set up an international booth were made at Wednesday's meeting. Its purpose is to orient College students in the cultural aspects of other countries.

The other head explained that Dr. Lugosi had accidentally dropped a compound of sulphur, carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, oxygen and phosphorus into a radioactive solution of pritners ink. He was the result.

Levine's entrance into the race threw the other candidates into immediate turmoil. Bill Brown, Tau Delta Phi choice, roared, "This is unfair competition. Still, I expect the student body to elect me since I am the only human running."

Irwin Kittenman, AIB choice, said, "I will not be stopped. Our entire organization has unpacked its slide rules and should have TWO extra heads for me before voting ends. Besides, the students have a chance."

Ball...

A Student Center Ball will be held tonight in the Grand Ballroom. Admission is by identification card only. Students wishing to bring a guest may obtain passes in Room 120, Finley Student Center Office.

Males must wear a jacket and tie.

College's Entry Requirements Toughen Through the Years

By CLAIRE KATZ

"Freshman seem younger than ever" may be a campus colloquialism, but even the youngest freshmen prove it untrue.

One hundred years ago, a twelve year-old could gain admission to the "Academy," as the College was then called, if he had completed at least one year of elementary school. Semi-annual exams for admittance were given, consisting of questions on spelling, reading, writing, English grammar, geography, arithmetic, and history of the United States.

Today, the College student finds the entrance requirements quite different. Not one year in elementary school, but eight, in addition to four years of high school, is the prerequisite.

WUS Decision

The curriculum of 1849 was structured to provide a substitute for the high school and college education of the time, and a one-year sub-freshman course existed, as part of a five-year undergraduate program.

The College's Executive Committee of 1851 stated, "The Academy does not occupy a position intermediate between the common school and the college, but is intended to be a substitute for both the Academy and the College, offering to its pupils the means of general education now furnished by both of these institutions."

In 1851 the curriculum was relatively uniform. Two degrees were conferred, Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science.

Requirements

In order to qualify for a BA degree, the student had to study mathematics, history, classical languages and literature, drawing, natural and experimental philosophy, chemistry, physics, civil engineering, moral and intellectual philosophy, law and political economy.

ROS Curriculum

The RS curriculum was similar; the difference was a substitution of modern language for the classical.

Things are somewhat more complex now.

Club Notes...

Club notes must be submitted to Observation Post three days before publication date in order to be included in the issue. They are to be brought to the OP office, Room 326, Finley Student Center.

The notes should include the club's name, their meeting room and time of meeting, plus speakers if any.

Booters Battle for First Place Against Mariners

By MARY GLASSBERG

It’s Hunter leading the City half a length as they head into the stretch.

No, Metropolitan Intercollegiate horse racing hasn’t been instituted yet. This exciting race is for the coveted soccer crown, and both the Hunter and the City men may be the main teams left in contention.

This Saturday the Beaver will get a chance on the road when they journey to far off Fort Schuyler, Long Island, to engage the New York Maritime Academy.

Sweet Success

Until last Saturday, the Mariners were in strong contention to be the Met title themselves, sporting a 3-0-1 record, but two successive losses to Kings Point and the Aggies have dempased all soccer aspirations.

Last season, when both teams met at Lewishon Stadium, the City scorers romped, 9-0. This time...

TUESDAY’S GAME

Brooklyn at CCNY (11 AM)

Last week the Beavers defeated Adelphi, Thursday, December 2.

Lavender boosters Ralph Schachtian (sheave) and teammate George Jensen have been selected by 1000 basketball experts to be two of the top sixty basketball players in the Eastern section of the country for the 1956-57 season.

The Beaver coach, Sergeant First Class Arthur Cariddi, reviews the game to get the outcome of the match. However, he said, “All of the men have been impressive in practice. If they can just put the work in, we’ll be all right.”

First in Schedule

Today’s encounter is the first in a scheduled series of seventeen Metropolitan Intercollegiate Rugby League games for the season.

They will also compete against West Point in a non-Met match. Five other games will be held in the Lewishon Stadium.
