WVCC Seeking Funds; Will Accept Commercials

By PETER FRANKLIN

The Beaver Broadcasters (WVCC), the College's radio station has requested and received permission from Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) to accept advertising contracts that will enable the station to function on a self-supporting and possibly a profit-making basis.

Several other colleges throughout the country have such an arrangement with advertisers. In exchange for the mention of their products on the air, they pay for the upkeep of the stations.

Aaron Janowski, program director of the station, will request $250 from President Buell G. Gallagher's Special Fund today. The money is needed for a microphone, a turntable and radios for the lounges. Provided with these items the station will be able to go on the air.

According to Janowski, advertisers will not sponsor programs until the station is already functioning. WVCC cannot begin operations until the necessary equipment is purchased.

The amount of revenue received from the advertiser will be determined by the quality and type of programs presented, and the size of the listening audience.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology radio station receives $4,000 a year from advertisers. Because of a smaller listening audience, WVCC hopes to get between $600 and $800 a year from commercials.

New Brophy Report Alters Finley Center Management

Dean of Students Daniel F. Brophy has amended his plans for the governing structure of the Finley Student Center, incorporating revisions proposed by students and alumni at last week's Board of Directors meeting.

The operational plan for the Center released yesterday by Dean Brophy provides that the Center managing agencies of the Day and Evening Session Student Governments will, in effect, be separate bodies responsible to their respective governments.

Dean Brophy's original plan called for a Board of Student Managers composed of Day and Evening Session representatives. The members were to be directly responsible to Dean James S. Peace (Student Life), Director of the Student Center.

Liaison Provided

The SG managing agencies of the two sessions are still called the Board of Student Managers in the new plan, but provisions are made for separate operation. Liaison between the student groups and the administration is provided for through a committee composed of the chairman of the student groups and Dean Peace.

In a statement explaining the revisions of his original plan, Dean Brophy said that discussion had made evident the difficulty of finding a common meeting time for a group that necessarily had to meet frequently. "Furthermore," Dean Brophy stated, "the need for giving adequate recognition to existing arms of the Student Governments called for some other plan."

The function of the Board of Student Managers under the plan is to "advise and consult with the Director of the Center (Dean Peace) on all matters concerning the good and welfare of the student body and its members and groups in the use of the Student Center."

Other Powers Possible

Provision is made in the plan for the undertaking of operational responsibilities in the Center at the discretion of Dean Peace.

Dean Peace said last night that further responsibilities in the operation of the Center would be delegated to students if they demonstrated that they can effectively carry out their present responsibilities.

Revisions were also made in the plans for the Board of Advisors. The new plan creates several standing committees on the Board and calls for at least two meetings a semester of the body. Originally, the Board had no committees and was to meet once a term.

Composed of representatives of administration, faculty, alumni, and students, the Board of Advisors is to determine the general operational policies of the Center in consultation with the Department of Student Life. The group replaces the Board of Directors, which had a similar function and composition.

Commenting on the new plan, SG President Jared Jussim said, "This plan is greatly to be preferred over the original plan. I hope that it will be a solution to equitable management of the Center."

"I am confident," he said, "that students will carry out their present responsibilities effectively, and any additional responsibilities that may be delegated to them in the future."

Hillel Presents Purim Festival

Hillel will hold its annual Purim Masquerade tomorrow at 8:30 PM at Hillel House, 475 West 140 St.

Included in the evening's entertainment will be a Purim Shpiel, to be performed by the Hillel Players, led by Lois Zuckerman. Refreshments will include the traditional "Hamantashen," served on Purim to commemorate the defeat of the tyrant Haman.

All those attending the function are asked to wear costumes, but those coming without them will be provided with masks. Tickets to the function are fifty cents for Hillel members, and seventy-five cents for non-members.

Today at 1 PM, Mr. Marnin Feinstein (Classical Languages), will speak at Hillel House on the subject "The Poetess Rachel." Refreshments will be served following Mr. Feinstein's talk.

Debate . . .

Students are invited to attend the first annual Metropolitan Invitational Debate Tournament tomorrow, at the Finley Student Center. Sixteen Colleges from Long Island, New Jersey, and New York will compete in a debate which will start at 9:30 AM and end at 4:30 PM.

Hoopsters Face Queens In Television Encounter

By BOB MAYER

Sign of the times . . . The City College basketball team must beat Queens tonight at "Wingate Downs" in order to retain undisputed possession of next-to-last Derby. The proceedings will be televised over WATV (channel 13). Post time is 8 PM.

The two entries will be vying for third place in the race between the four city colleges. Brooklyn and Hunter have already gone under the wire in a dead heat for first position.

Neither City nor Queens has been very successful this year. The Beavers have won only twice in sixteen starts, with one of the victories coming over the Knights. Queens has copped five of nineteen outings, but has not defeated any of the municipal colleges.

The Beavers, with Nat Holman up, got off to a bad start this season, and took a long time to hit stride. They have been moving up fast in the home stretch, however, forcing such notables as Fordham and Manhattan to the wire before losing out in photo-finishes. They faltered badly against New York University Wednesday, but hope to regain some semblance of form tonight.

Queens has been handicapped all season by a lack of height, and that could be the difference again tonight. Their biggest man is Jim Lawler, a six-foot five-inch center. The 220-pound senior is a fine rebounder, but has done little scoring.

The Knights' scoring power is concentrated in Don Hill (6-3), the left forward, and two speedy guards, Bob Bass (5-11) and Lee Saldinger (5-10). Bass led the

Femme Sextet Bows, 47-24, To NYU Gals

The women's basketball team suffered its fourth straight defeat last night, losing to New York University, 47-24, in the Park gymnasium.

The game was dominated by NYU's Evelyn Hannon, who scored twenty-six points and controlled the Violettes' offensive backboard.

The College's high scorers were Lee Irwin, with eight points, Helen Wong, with seven, and Sandy Weinberg, with six.

Miss Laura Ham, Lavender coach, was pleased with the girls' aggressiveness, and with their improved foul shooting. She felt, however, that "if we had our regular guards, Bernice Campbell and Rusty Jones, we would have made it a much closer game."

Miss Jones is out with a broken finger, and Miss Campbell was declared scholastically ineligible due to an error in the registrar's office.

Miss Ham added that "the main reason for the girls' ineffectiveness is that they haven't had enough practice together as a team."

The squads' record is now one win and four losses.

The Beaverettes will play Wagner College in the Park Gym at 7 PM Tuesday. Any girls interested in trying out for the team may still do so by coming to the Gym on Tuesdays after 4 PM.

Matmen Meet Mariner Team Tonight in LI

Grunts and groans combined with body presses and back-breakers will be in order when the College's wrestling team engages the Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy's matmen at the Mariner's mats in Great Neck, Long Island, at 7 PM this evening.

The Beaver grapplers will be trying to raise their season's percentage above the .500 mark for the first time since their opening victory against the Long Island Aggies, 16-13.

Coach Joe Sapora, deviating from his usually optimistic pre-game prediction, believes that tonight's contest should be extremely close and the winner will be "the team that gets the breaks." Statistics bear out the mentor's forecast, as the Lavender last week defeated Brooklyn Poly, 24-8, while the Mariner's have previously toppled the Techmen, 25-13.

Sapora plans some variations in his lineup, but not in personnel. The condition of 167 pounder Bernie Stolls, who missed the last encounter with a neck injury suffered in the NYU clash will determine the starting lineup. Should Stolls not be available, Mike Steuerman will wrestle in his place, with Al Volk, who competed in that division last Saturday, relegated to the 177 pound spot. Fred Starita will switch positions with Sonny Colia, going from the 157 pound slot to the lower, 147 pound class.

Sport Notes

Baseball tryouts will be conducted on Saturday at 12 Noon in the Goethals gymnasium. Use the Amsterdam Ave. entrance to the building. Candidates should bring a glove and sneakers and an athletic eligibility card signed by their parents and the College doctor. Cards may be obtained in Room 109 Wingate.

The tennis team will hold its first meeting today at 12:30 PM in the Lewisohn Stadium building. Members of last year's squad as well as interested newcomers should attend.

Anyone interested in becoming assistant manager of the fencing team should report to Room 310 Lewisohn Mondays, Wednesdays, or Fridays at 3 PM.

Three varsity teams will see action Saturday. The basketball team will meet Manhattan at the College, the swimmers will visit NYU and the fencing team will play host to Brooklyn's swordsmen.

All students interested in joining the soccer squad are requested to come to Lewisohn Stadium today from 12-2 PM.

'Hopped-Up' Cagers Invade Rose Hill, Face Fordham in TV Clash Tonight

The "new" City College basketball team, spurred on by its impressive 99-84 victory over Upsala will tackle a slightly higher caliber opponent tonight, when they meet Fordham's "Rams" at Fordham's Rose Hill court. The game, televised over Channel 13 (WATV), will begin at 8 PM.

The Rams are one of those teams that are "over our heads" (there are so many of them these days), which means that the Beavers will probably drop their eleventh game of the season.

However, the Beavers have shown that they can be dangerous at times as proven by a sixty-two point second half against Rutgers and their overall play in Monday night's Upsala contest.

Coach Nat Holman was very happy with the team's Monday night showing. "The team played their best game of the season," the coach said. Prof. Holman has nominated Richie Garber to start at one of the guard positions. "Dick certainly played well against Upsala," he said, "and I think he earned a spot in the lineup."

Teaming with the 5-6 sophomore in the backcourt will be Stan Friedman. Syd Levy, who will start at center, and George Prof. Nat Holman Hopes For Win, But . . .

Jensen and Ralph Schefflan, the forwards, rounds out the starting five.

Bob Silver is still suffering from a torn ligament in his right ankle and will definitely not play. "That's a big loss," Holman exclaimed, "he gives the team a big lift when he's in there." Bill Lewis, Joe Bennardo, Leo Berson and Joel Ascher will also see a good deal of action.

Fordham has been going like a house afire lately. After dropping ten of their first thirteen decisions, the Rams have come on to take four of five against major teams, Connecticut, Army LaSalle and Georgetown. The loss was a double overtime affair with Villanova.

The Fordham starting lineup will probably consist of Ernie Haynes (6-4) and Bob Reese (6-3) at the forwards, center Mike Cashman (6-4) and Ed Bugniaze (6-0) and Jim Cunningham (6-4) at the guards. Cunningham is the Bronxites' high scorer, averaging 18.1 points per game. Coach Johnny Bach has Bill McCadney, Billy Lyons and Ronnie Kuehn in ready reserve.

The freshman game starts at 6:30 PM.

Trend Not End

When you open the collar of a tight shirt you feel somewhat relieved. That's how we felt yesterday when we saw Dean Daniel F. Brophy's revised report on the operation and management of the Finley Student Center.

There was, indeed, a change for the better. Now, with the Board of Managers directly responsible to Student Council, there is some increased measure of accountability of its actions to the representatives of the students. So much for the relief.

Otherwise, the document remains an elaborate schematic of a hierarchical cobweb, complete with a crop of fresh committees. With all the assurances of meetings and student participation, all operational powers remain ultimately in the hands of the Department of Student Life and the director of the Student Center.

Still, we hope the revisions that were made will mark a trend and not an end.

Sweet Music

When the Folk and Square Dance people sashayed off campus to protest membership lists, we wondered just how the Administration would manage to link their action to a devious political background. After all, the whole disagreement is fostered by fearful political clubs and fomented by headline-crazy newspapers, isn't it, SFCSA? At any rate, that was the view in evidence at their last meeting, when in desultory fashion, nodding at one another's views, they defeated a measure to exempt political clubs from the lists.

Even that measure, however, was way off the track. It has been proven that most of us at the College are against forced investigation of a student's activities—and most of us do not belong to political organizations. We need more clubs like the folk dancers to hammer SFCSA with that fact, although the august body persists in confusing mass protest and majority opinion with terrorism. Still, with its present membership, it seems likely that they will go on assuring themselves that everybody's out of step but SFCSA.

SOS

For want of a nail a battle was lost and now perhaps for want of a mike and turntable a voice may be lost. Our own City College radio station, WVCC, is now seeking special funds from President Buell G. Gallagher to equip a station in the Finley Student Center. With a little financial support to guide its early steps, the station can easily become an important asset to the College.

Present plans call for the transmitter's range to be restricted to the South Campus. But while the station's voice may be weak, the variety and uses of its programs are almost unlimited. Already in possession of a large record library, WVCC could pipe both classical and popular music into the lounges. College theatrical groups whose presentations are now limited by the costs of formal production could perform an extensive repertoire at little cost. Future engineers could gain valuable experience while operating the technical end of the station. Possibly, this could even lead to an educational radio station operated by the College, similar to those run by educational institutions throughout the country. The horizons are limitless if the special funds can be made available.

Question: What do you think of the proposal to charge a fifty cent admission to SG's Friday Night dances?

Helene Mangel UF 1:

I don't think admissions should be charged to these dances because they are a service of Student Government.

Morty Winner UF 3:

We paid a $10 registration fee. That should be enough to cover the dances. Don't make fewer people show up by charging admission.

Lynette Reiss LSo. 1:

An admission isn't a bad idea to alleviate the financial pressure placed upon SG. Those students who attend the dances will go regardless of the fifty cent admission fee.

George Singer UF 3:

I'm thoroughly against it. If an admission is charged, only couples will attend, and this will defeat the purpose of the Friday Night Dances.

Diana Ehrlich UF 3:

If admission is charged to the dances, they will lose two-thirds of their popularity.

Lenny Ozeran LF 5:

If SG charges admission, they might weed out those who come to the dances just to sit and talk and take up space.

Leon Gould USr. 1:

This term, I've paid the highest registration fee ever and there hasn't been any tangible increase in services on the part of the College. Hunter students do not pay as high a fee, but they do pay for dances. I feel we should reduce our fee, and charge the admission.

Barbara Hartstein UF 3:

No comment. I'm too busy. . .

Trackmen Tie for Third in CTC Relay Tourney

The College's track team tied for third place in the Collegiate Track Conference relays, Wednesday at St. Johns University in Greensboro. The cindermen also officially took second place in the CTC Indoor Championship started in New York on January 11.

In scoring nine points for the third place tie in the relay tournament, the Beaver team of Billy Roach, Bill Plummer, Al Best and George Best placed second in the mile relay with a time of 3:47. This event was probably the most exciting of the relay event meet. Roach finished the lead leg a few yards ahead of the others, and Plummer, running beautifully, opened the gap. Frost tied well but was overtaken by Dave Jones of Adelphi. Taking the anchor leg, Best led the gap steadily and lost less than a foot. Had the race five more yards the Beavers could have copped first position. City finished second in the mile relay in 1:12 with the team of Best, Joe Werfel, Frost, and Sch.

The Lavender took one point in a fifth place finish in the mile relay. City's team was Lampell, Dave Graveson, Randy Crosfield, and Gene Sherman. The Beavers failed to place in the Medley relay event.

Adelphi took first place in the meet with fourteen points. Iona was second with thirteen. Eight teams were entered in the tournament.

Second in CTC

In copping second place in the CTC indoor championships the Beavers tallied eight and one-half points in two of the three holdover events. Joe Werfel tied for first in the pole-vault, clearing the bar at eleven feet. Werfel won the event last year. Gene Sherman also placed for the Beavers in the pole-vault, finishing fifth. George Best jumped 19 feet 11 inches in the broad jump, good for third place.

The Beavers finished twenty-nine and one-half points in the meet, six better than Iona and Adelphi who deadlocked for third place, but far off Montclair State Teacher's total of fifty-six.

Nimrods Win; Tally Season's Highest Score

Tallying their best score of the season, the City rifle team defeated Cooper Union and Queens College in a triangular meet at the Beaver range yesterday. The marksmen had only to beat Cooper Union as Queens forfeited.

This was the second straight triangular win for the nimrods and boosted their season's record to a respectable nine wins and six losses.

The Lavender completely dominated the contest with a team score of 1,397, as against a poor 1,302 for Cooper Union.

John Marciniak led the sharpshooters with a mark of 286. Following him was Ernest Trump and Robert Sullivan with scores of 280 and 279, respectively. For the first time this season Sal Sorbera failed to place among the first two finalist as he posted a score of 278.

Brooklyn, Wagner Top College's Women Cagers

The College's women's basketball team is apparently trying to outdo the boys. The girls dropped their fifth and sixth consecutive games this week, losing to Wagner, 68-32, on Tuesday, and to Brooklyn, yesterday, 56-28. Both games were played in the Park gymnasium.

The Beaverettes fell behind in both contests and never threatened.

Brooklyn, sporting some fancy passing and shooting by Antoinette Gentile and Rhoda Olin, jumped off to a 13-6 lead in the first quarter and increased the spread 32-20 at half-time. The closest City came was 16-12, early in the second period.

With the score 34-22 after two minutes of the second half, the Kingswomen opened the floodgates with seventeen straight points, as the Beaverettes stood by and watched.

The Misses, Gentile and Olin stole the show with quick cuts and passes. Miss Olin, sporting a deadly left-handed hook, led the scoring with 24 points. Miss Gentile was not far behind with twenty.

Helen Wong led the City girls with eleven points, but looked very bad in her shooting. Lee Irwin tallied eight for the losers.

Against Wagner it was the same story. The girls trailed 14-7 at the end of the first period and dropped further behind as the game progressed. The Beaverettes chief faults appears to be that they take far too many shots from the outside, and hit on far too few of them. Chief offender in this respect is Helen Wong, although none of the other forwards are blameless.

Wagner had four players in double figures; Alma Quigly led both teams with twenty-five points, and Eileen Kelley and Jo-Ellen Fabbri tallied seventeen and sixteen respectively. Anne Maclean accounted for the other ten Seahawk points.

The hoopsterettes were led by Lee Irwin, who hit for fourteen points and Sandy Weinberg with nine.

In addition to the usual spectators, consisting of newspaper reporters and friends and relatives of the girls, the College was honored by the appearance of Irish, a huge dog who accompanied Miss Marguerite Wuffers (former coach of the team).

Irish appeared to be enjoying himself, although no one would venture forth to ask him.

Miss Laura Ham, coach of the hoopsterettes, was pleased with the teams performances. "The games were not as one-sided as the scores indicate, and I think the team is doing better than last year," she said.

There was some good news for the team in the fact that Rusty Jones and Joyce Jessamy have sufficiently recovered from injuries to see action against Adelphi this Wednesday.

Matmen vs. Stroudsburg In Last Meet of Season

The College's wrestling team concludes its intercollegiate campaign when it makes its longest trip of the season to engage East Stroudsburg College in Pennsylvania at 2 PM tomorrow.

portance from the College's viewpoint for two reasons. First and foremost, is the fact that by winning, the Beavers would raise their year's record to four wins and four losses, which would be the best record that the team has compiled since 1943.

From an individual standpoint, the match will culminate the appearance in Lavender livery of Al Taylor, the New England 136½ pound champion. Taylor, on the threshold of an undefeated season, will be seeking his seventh consecutive triumph; thus far he has registered five pins and one decision in six bouts.

The team may be without its number one heavyweight contender, Jimmy Zoubandis. Zoubandis reinjured his right shoulder in the squad's last match against Kings Point last Thursday. His starting status is doubtful, according to Coach Joe Sapora. Should Zoubandis be unavailable for action, regular 177 pounder Mike Steuerman will probably be moved up to replace him, while Al Wolk is slated to replace Steuerman.

Sapora does not plan any other changes in his starting array of Sal Sorbera, 123 pounder; Taylor in the 130; Vince Norman, 137 pounder; Fred Starita, 147 pound-

Queensmen with sixteen points in their loss to the Beavers, while Hill and Saldinger each scored fifteen.

Bob Dady (6-3), will probably fill the right forward slot for the Knights.

In addition to Levy, the Beavers will be counting heavily on six-foot four-inch George Jensen, one of the most improved players on the squad. Always a top rebounder, Jensen went into a bad scoring slump in midseason. A short stay on the bench seems to have been the right medicine for him, however, because since returning to the starting line-up he has led the Lavender attack.

The Beavers' hustling 5-3 guards, Stan Friedman and Joe Bennardo, will fill the backcourt. Both have looked good in recent games, particularly on defense, and it will be their task to stop Bass and Saldinger.

Co-captain Ralph Schefflan will round out the Lavender line-up, with sophomore Bob Silver also slated to see a good deal of action.

The preliminary contest will be for yearlings. Post time is 6 PM.

Aquamen End Campaign At Brooklyn Tomorrow

The College's swimming team will attempt to wind up its season with a winning record tomorrow when it meets Brooklyn Tech in the last dual meet of the season. The contest will be in the Poly pool, at 7.

The Beavers now sport a record, having won four of eight meets to date.

Coach Jack Rider is confident of victory over the Techmen if possible will use the meet as a tune-up for the Metropolitan Conference Championships. The meet will be held at New York University next Friday and Saturday. He said, "If we can get to an early lead, I'll use the in the same events that I may switch the line-up."

Team captain Jim Johnsen, Beavers' best championship swimmer, should dominate tomorrow's meet. If all goes well for the Lavender, Johnsen will swim the 100 and 220-yard freestyles, and relay.

Fencers Face MIT in Finale

The College's fencing team, sporting a 4-3 record, will face its final opponent of the season tomorrow, when it travels to Cambridge, Massachusetts, in order to cross weapons with Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) at 2 PM.

Norm Zafman, the Beavers' leading epee man, will not make the trip with the squad as he is bed-ridden with a virus infection. Sophomore Al Michelucci is expected to replace Zafman in the Lavender starting array.

On Wednesday, Zafman, along with his regular epee teammates, Jonas Ulenas and Tony Urciuoli, recorded a third place finish in the American Fencers League of America (AFLA) Washington Square Epee Open competition held at the Downtown Fencers Club.

Tomorrow's clash marks the initial meeting between the Engineers and the Beavers in a fencing match. Coach Edward Lucia, who is as unfamiliar with the Techmen's personnel as is his squad, says, "We don't expect much trouble from the Massachusetts team, but anything can happen. The fact that New England schools are always in fine condition because of their good training program and excellent facilities will help them considerably."

Elliot Mills, the College's number one sabreman, will attempt to extend his eleven-bout winning streak. Marty Wertlieb, the team's three-weapon man, will abet Mills in the sabre division, as will Manny Fineberg.

Captain Morty Glasser, Joel Wolfe and Paul Tannenbaum will comprise the Beavers foil aggregation. Lucia has been pleased with the switch he made early in the season, when he moved Wolfe into the foil division from the epee.
