

Charges Against Koppett Reiterated by Gallagher

President Buell G. Gallagher reiterated yesterday, charges he made Friday, that New York Post sports columnist Leonard Koppett's criticisms of his athletic policies were not based on factual information. At the same time, the President said, "I did not intend to impugn either Mr. Koppett's integrity or his motives. If my choice of words was subject to that interpretation, I am sorry."

After reading a column in Friday's Post, critical of President Gallagher's athletic policies at the College, Dr. Gallagher had charged that the column, "exhibits the irresponsibility of misinformed expression for which he has long been noted."

Claims Gallagher Objected

Koppett claimed in the column that President Gallagher had objected to a student athletic association proposal that varsity athletes at the College be permitted to register early. "The proposal is still under discussion," Koppett wrote, "but Dr. Gallagher has already thrown cold water on the idea. He has declared he would object to any system of preferential registration which might result in 'the evils of the pre-scandal period.'"

In yesterday's Post, Koppett reprinted President Gallagher's statement, and a note that the President had sent to Koppett on May 5 of last year. The note said, "Thanks for a good—and a fair—job well done." The note referred to a column Koppett had written in April on the athletic situation at the College.

Editorial Comment

"Evidently the 'long' time that I have been noted for irresponsibility," Koppett wrote, "is ten months and seven days, at least as far as Dr. Gallagher is concerned."

The Post also commented editorially on the exchange between Koppett and the President, and expressed disappointment that, "Dr. Gallagher felt compelled to answer factual and sober criticism with an undocumented assault on the motives of his critic."

First Ed Journal at College Will Be Published This May

By MIKE HOROWITZ

The first Education Journal in the College's history will make its appearance on campus in May. The journal will be supported by student fees.

According to present plans, it will be published as a magazine of twenty-four glossy pages, and will sell for twenty-five cents.

The publication, as yet unnamed, will be put out as a joint effort of various clubs, organizations, and fraternities composed of Education majors.

According to Bill Dunagecz, President of the Education Society, the magazine is being designed as "an informative guide, and as a means of expression for Education majors at the College. However," Dunagecz said, "the journal will not be able to publish on the basis of the $375 allocation granted it by the Student Government Fee Commission."

"We must get a minimum of $425 to publish the type of magazine that we feel is necessary to fulfill the purposes outlined for it," he said. An appeal to the Student Faculty Fee Committee for more funds will be made, according to Dunagecz.

Tentative plans for the first issue include information from the Board of Education on teacher examination and licensing procedures and news of the Student Faculty Education Liaison Committee. Several articles by students and faculty, dealing with problems common to the profession, will also appear.

Although the journal is being aimed at the College's Education majors, it is planned to mail copies to many colleges and universities throughout the country.

early registration for athletes at the College.

President Gallagher contended that Koppett, in his column had given the impression that he was opposed to early registration for athletes. In his statement, President Gallagher said that Koppett was aware of this when he wrote his columns. The President said that not at any time since this issue arose, has Koppett bothered to contact officials at the College to confirm the accuracy of his information.

Tea...

A Student-Faculty Tea will be held tomorrow in the Finley Student Center Tea Lounge between 3 and 5 PM. The tea will be co-sponsored by the Senior Class and the SC Social Functions Agency.

NAACP Plan Turned Down In Close Vote

A motion calling for two minutes of silence throughout the College on March 22 "in sympathy with persecuted Negroes" was turned down last night by Student Council. The vote was 12-10.

The halt in activity for two minutes of reflection had been suggested by representatives of the College's chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The observance at the College was to be held in connection with a nation-wide program, sponsored by Representative Adam Clayton Powell (Dem., N.Y.). The date for the national observance is March 28.

In criticizing the proposal, Alan Levine '56, representative, alleged that its passage might have a negative effect on the problem, since southerners would resent "outside interference" in their affairs. Other arguments presented in opposition to the request were that Council does not have jurisdiction in this area, and that the issue does not deal directly with the College.

Reconsidering its decision of last week which barred Paul Robeson from appearing at the

Psych. Expert Speaks Today

Professor J. B. Rhine of Duke University, an outstanding authority on parapsychology, will speak today at noon before the Psychology Society in Townsend Harris Auditorium.

Professor Rhine, a faculty member of Duke for approximately twenty years, is best known for his work with Extra Sensory Perception (ESP).

Parapsychology is the science that deals with the study of mental phenomena not explained by accepted principles of science. Extra Sensory Perception deals with telepathy and foreknowledge.

Professor Joseph L. Woodruff (Psychology), who worked with Professor Rhine at Duke, invited him to speak at the College when he learned he was in New York for a series of talks at Cooper Union.

Professor Rhine is the author of "Reach of the Mind."

Mr. Alfred Kleiman, Assistant Corporation Counsel of New York City, will speak on "What's Wrong With American Foreign Policy in the Middle East" at Hillel, today at 12:30 PM.

Halt Classes 10:30-12 For Dedication Program

By RALPH DANNHEISSER

Classes will be suspended today from 10:30 AM until 12 noon, so that students and faculty members can attend dedication ceremonies for six South Campus buildings.

The buildings to be named at today's dedication are William Park Hall, Alfred Steiglitz Hall, Lewis Mott Hall, Charles Downer Hall, and the Rubin Goldmark Wing of the Finley Student Center. The Center itself and Wagner Hall will be dedicated in special ceremonies at a later date.

The program will begin at 11 AM, with a convocation in the Goldmark Auditorium, presided by President Buell G. Gallagher. A prayer of dedication will be delivered by Professor Daniel Parker (Government), an ordained rabbi, and will be followed by a musical presentation by the College's chorus.

After the general convocation, individual dedication ceremonies and exhibits will be held in the various buildings. Relatives and associates of the men in whose honor the buildings are being named will unveil aluminum plaques bearing the College seal and the names of the buildings.

Special programs will be held in connection with the dedication of several of the buildings. These include a concert in the Goldmark Wing, an art exhibit in Eisner Hall, and a film screening in Steiglitz Hall.

A program of works by Goldmark and several of his famous pupils will be given at 2 PM, after the Wing's official dedication. Included in the concert will be the first movement of Goldmark's "Quartet for Piano and Strings," as well as instrumental works by Frederick Jacobi and Professor Mark Brunswick (Chmn., Music). Also scheduled are several choral pieces by George Gershwin and Aaron Copland, two more students of Goldmark.

Steiglitz Hall, site of the College's Institute of Film Techniques, will be the scene at 3 PM of a special showing of student-made documentary films. Two films will be shown today for the first time: "Subway," an experimental film which "portrays the underground world of the New York subway rider," and "Project G," a documentary concerning gambling.

The other films to be screened are, "Their First Teachers," a study of the causes and treatment of stuttering in young children, and "Step by Step," which deals with the College's program of combatting juvenile delinquency.

In connection with the dedication of Eisner Hall, the College will put on display for the first time its Edwin M. Otterbourg collection of prints. A photo-portrait of Mr. Eisner, as well as a collection of student drawings, paintings, and sculptures, will also be put on exhibit.

A bronze head of Frederick B. Robinson, fifth president of the College, will be unveiled at 2:45 PM. The bust was done by the late sculptor Moses Dykaar. The days ceremonies will be concluded with an informal reception and tea to be held at 4 PM.

The Senior Class will hold its "Senior Queen Dance" in the Grand Ballroom of the Finley Student Center on April 28.

Admission for the dance is $1 per couple with a senior class card, and $1.50 per couple without the class card.

A four-piece band will provide the music. Sandwiches and punch will be served.

At the dance, a committee, composed of three students, three members of the faculty and administration guests, will choose the "Senior Queen." The winner of the award will receive guest tickets to the Senior Class Farewell Ball, which will be held on Friday evening, June 8, at the Grand Ballroom of the Plaza Hotel, where the queen will officially be crowned.

Buddy Rosenberg, chairman of the dance, said that "dance contests and a door prize will also highlight the 'Queen Dance'. We really expect a big turnout, since an affair such as this for such a low price is an unbeatable bargain."

Howard Sherman, Senior Class President, said that tickets for the "Farewell Ball" are now on sale in Room 223 Finley at $4 per couple with a class card and $5 per couple without the card.

Students interested in becoming members of Pick & Shovel, the College's Senior Honor and Service Society, may obtain applications in Room 152 Finley. Membership is open only to students who will become seniors next term.

Job To Be Done

The issue of early registration for athletes seems to have caused some commotion, both in and outside the College.

The proposal was made by Ronald Reifler, President of the Student Athletic Association (of which all students are members), that a number of athletes from each team, equal to the number of players that comprise a starting team e.g., five basketball players, nine baseball players, etc., be permitted to register early.

The total number of students involved, according to Reifler, would be eighty-eight in the spring term, and seventy-nine in the fall.

The motion was supported by Student Council on Wednesday, February 29. It was brought before Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) on the following day, and is now being considered by President Buell G. Gallagher.

Yesterday President Gallagher reaffirmed his position, declaring himself definitely in favor of preferential registration, provided that 1) safeguards are taken which would prevent the recurrence of pre-scandal "evils," and 2) that the proposal is not in violation of a Board of Higher Education edict of April 30, 1951, that "No privileges shall be provided for athletes which are not available to students in any other area of College activity."

The latter reservation can be easily discounted. Similar privileges are granted each term to students who work in the book store, or library, or as registration assistants.

It is the first of President Gallagher's provisions that may cause a bit of trouble. One of the "evils" of which the President speaks is the fact that during the 1949-50 period a special employee was placed in the Registrar's office, without his (the Registrar's) knowledge, in order to facilitate the registration of athletes. This practice resulted, according to President Gallagher, in athletes registering with instructors who never failed anybody, or who were in favor of the high pressure intercollegiate athletic program.

If the actual "evil" was the placing of the "phantom employee" to aid athletes, then we urge the President to stop worrying. We are not grade school children any more, determined to get what we want at any cost. We advocate handling the problems of the athletes with responsibility and understanding, not with kid gloves, and assure the President that "phantom employees" shall never again be enlisted for such purposes.

If Dr. Gallagher is afraid that the athletes might flock to the "easy" teachers or courses, then a difficulty arises.

Lists are available to all students, containing the name of the instructor for every section in every course. The President has come out in favor of having these lists at the disposal of the student body. Naturally, those who register earliest have the greatest chance to arrange their programs and or teachers to their advantage. This is, at worst, a necessary evil (without the quotes).

This clears up the only two safeguards the President has made available to the College press. No doubt there are others, which involve discussion, discussion, and more discussion, or else he and Registrar Robert Taylor would certainly have okayed the proposal by now.

We are certain that responsible, educated men, as President Gallagher and Professor Taylor are, will be able to set any additional safeguards they feel necessary, and will shortly release a statement that a decision has been reached, and that beginning September, 1956, a designated number of varsity athletes will be given the privilege of early registration, so that they can work out reasonable practice schedules and perhaps, bring CCNY athletes out of the subways, (depthwise).

Congratulations, President Gallagher, on a job well done (if it is done).

College as an entertainer during Academic Freedom Week, Council upheld the previous ruling by a vote of 16-7-1. This decision reaffirms an action of Council's executive committee, which had originally decided against inviting Robeson at its meeting last Tuesday.

Speaking against an appearance by Robeson, Levine suggested that the only reason that the singer was originally invited, (by the Academic Freedom Week Committee) was because of his political ideas. "There is no reason to invite him on that basis," Levine said.

Inviting Robeson, according to Martin Jacobs '57, representative, would "perpetuate the fallacy that the Communist Party supports civil rights. In the end," Jacobs felt, "such an invitation would be detrimental to Academic Freedom Week, and to all civil rights."

AN OP REPORT

Hazing and the Fraternities

By Peter Franklin

National attention has been focused on fraternities after the unfortunate death of Thomas L. Clark, while pledging for a fraternity at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Through the years fraternities have been under fire because of their wild hazing practices. The death of Clark did not help the fraternities' reputation.

Here at the College, the seventeen social fraternities do have a certain amount of "hazing," but according to Joe De Maios, President Emeritus of the College's Interfraternity Council, what pledges are asked to do, in most cases, serves a worthwhile function.

As an example, DeMaios points out the use of a pledge book.

When a student first becomes a pledge, he is given the book, which he must fill with the signatures of his "brothers." The amount of time he does this varies from fraternity to fraternity, but the purpose is the same, states DeMaios. "As the pledge goes from brother to brother getting signatures he will get to know them."

Another point stressed by DeMaios is the value of service day.

One or two days during the term pledges are required to do some sort of service for the College community. DeMaios and most fraternity men feel that at the same time a group of pledges are doing something worthwhile, they are showing their desire to join a fraternity. Keeping this idea in mind, fraternities have tried to change "Hell Week" into "Help Week."

In addition to the fraternity members themselves, there are two other factors which decide hazing activities: The National Interfraternity Council, and the College's Interfraternity Council.

In the past few years, the National Interfraternity Council has set policy for activities, scholarship and hazing. It has also banned paddling. Its rules and regulations, however, only apply to national fraternities.

The College's Interfraternity Council sets policy for all of the College's social fraternities so that any fraternity that is not controlled by the NIFC is still governed by them.

"Hell Night," which has always met with the most criticism, has been toned down by the College's

Just good, clean fun

IFC, and it now forbids any pledge activities outside of the fraternity house on this night. There are no long drives into the country, where a pledge is left to find his way home.

Since their formation, fraternity chapters at the College have also been undergoing changes in policy regarding race and religion. Because the efforts of the College's IFC any mention of color or creed has been eliminated from fraternity charters.

In the last two issues of Alumnus, the College's alumni magazine, a battle royal has been raging over the value of fraternities. Some alumni think fraternities are the best thing, while others believe that they are worthless. Most agree, however, that fraternities at the College have improved their policy of "hazing."

Recently, MIT's Interfraternity Council banned all hazing that "might be a physical or emotional hazard to the individual." This sort of policy is nothing new to City College fraternities.

Karlin Looking Forward To Good Tennis Season

Tennis practice has been cut to a minimum due to the recent inclement weather, but from what net coach Harry Karlin has seen so far, he is looking forward to a fine season.

Karlin has five returnees from last year's team, which compiled the best record in the College's history. The 1955 squad won seven while losing only two, and in addition, placed first in the Metropolitan Championship playoffs.

"We may be able to equal last year's record," the coach said, "and with a few breaks, we might possibly better it. But," he warned, "don't count on an undefeated season. The Fordham and NYU matches will be wicked."

Last year's two losses came at the hands of the Rams and Violets, by identical 5-4 counts.

The five returning lettermen, who will comprise the core of the squad, are captain Alan Jong, Guy Farrara, Walter Ritter, Harvey Rothstein, and Mel Drimmer. Two newcomers, Dick Woodley and Andre Schanzer, also have looked good, and should play major roles in the coming campaign.

Karlin has been particularly impressed by Jay Hammel, a promising freshman who won't be eligible until next season.

"He has really been working hard," the coach said, "and he looks good. There's no question about his making the team next year."

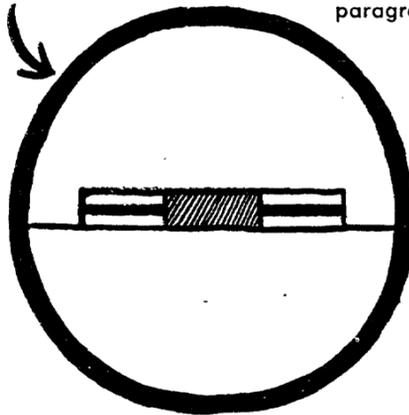

Because of the bad weather during the past month, the practice has been confined mostly to light workouts. The first few sessions were spent on handball courts, and then the squad moved to the south campus nets. Karlin hopes to begin work on the regulation courts as soon as possible.

The team's opening match, against Queens College on April 11, should be one of the toughest of the season. Last year the Knights fought the Beavers right down to the wire before dropping a 5-4 decision.

COLLEGE SMOKERS PREFER LUCKIES!

Luckies lead all other brands, regular or king size, among 36,075 college students questioned coast to coast. The number-one reason: Luckies taste better.

Gal Hoopsters Close Season; Face Hofstra

Women's basketball curtsys out at the College tonight, when the femme hoopsters tangle with Hofstra at 7:30 in the Park Gym.

The Beaverettes will be trying to snap an eight game losing in this evening's finale.

Despite the team's poor showing this season, Miss Laura Ham, the coach, is hopeful of victory against Hofstra.

"Since this is their last game," she said, "I think they'll relax and play up to their full ability."

Miss Ham feels that the girls performed well in their last outing against St. Joseph's, and that if they continue their good play, they will give Hofstra trouble.

Starting in tonight's game will be forwards Lee Irwin, Betty Castro and Betty Brooks, and guards Rusty Jones, Natalie Bowen and Jewel Gold.

After winning their first game of the season against the Alumnae, the Hoopsterettes went into a tail-spin, and dropped their next eight contests. But Miss Ham feels that the girls' record is not indicative of the way they have been playing.

"They have fought very hard in all of their games," she said, "but they have come up against superior competition."
