Student Council Rejects New Representation Plan

By BOB STEINBERG

A motion to change the school's method of representation on Student Council was rejected by a vote of 15-1 at last night's meeting of Student Council. The motion, which was proposed that the twenty-four representatives to Council be elected proportionately from the Technology, Liberal Arts, Education, and Science schools on the basis of their enrollment. However, each school would have a minimum of two representatives, depending upon one hundred fifty students. At present, six representatives are elected by each class regardless of the size of its enrollment.

According to SC President Jared Juslin, who proposed the motion, "the change in representation would enable Council to serve from the impending split between the Tech and Arts Schools. It would also foster a great cooperation between the schools," he said, "and Council would be able to judge better the interests of the student body.

Speaking against the motion, Steven Nagler, Class of '58, said "the move would further tend to highlight the differences between the schools and would lead to reverting to the old method of a Club Senate with its representatives responsible to its individual school." He added, "the change would have a minimum of two representatives, depending upon one hundred fifty students. At present, six representatives are elected by each class regardless of the size of its enrollment.

"The change," he added, "would also eliminate all class affiliations and would in the end kill the class system altogether.

Student Council also voted to meet bi-monthly instead of every week. On the alternating weeks when Council is not meeting, the representatives meet to represent the various committees of SC to prepare committee reports for the next session of Council.

By PETER FRANKLIN

Final plans for the third annual observance of Academic Freedom Week at the College have been set. The Week, which is sponsored by the National Student Association in cooperation with the College student governments throughout the country, will present a varied program of drama, forums and discussion groups.

The activities of the Week will begin on Thursday, April 12 at 1:30 PM in the Grand Ballroom of the Finley Student Center, when Professor Walter Metzger of Columbia, Bayard Rustin, Vice President of the American Friends Service Committee, and others will discuss the topic, "Academic Freedom—Toward a Basic Definition.

On the following day at 3:30 PM in Townsend Harris Auditorium, an entertainment program will be presented featuring Earl Williams, billed singer, William Gerr, from the cast of "The Thunder Heart," the College Choral Group, and Folk Dancing by the College's Hellenic and Ukrainian Societies.

Speakers. New York State Representative A. d a m Clayton Powell, Jr., will address a conference of law students. George Stigler of Columbia University, will teach a seminar on the topic "Africa and the Scientist.

The dinner, sponsored by the College, will begin at 6 PM in the Student Faculty Dining Room and discussion is open to all members of the College and at colleges throughout the country.

"The Week," Bob Scher, Chairman of the Academic Freedom Week Committee, said, "will enable the student to encounter a wide variety of informed opinions on the issues involved in academic freedom and thus we have fulfilled our purpose."

Student Council Rejects New Representation Plan

The Campus, an undergraduate newspaper at the College, was suspended from publication yesterday by Dr. Daniel F. Brophy, Dean of Students, because of its April Fool's issue which he called "an indecent publication." In addition, seven members of the paper's managing board were suspended from classes and the newspaper was suspended from publication.

Dean Brophy said the term of the suspensions were indefinite. The issue which he called "an indecent publication" was printed by The Campus.

They have weakened and hindered all our efforts to build a responsible press and I wish to make clear to Student Government President Jared Juslin viewed the action as "some alarm" and he would request Student Council to work for the reinstatement of the paper and the managing board.

He explained, "Although The Campus is a student paper I look with great fear on the suspension of a newspaper. It is extremely dangerous to enforce regulations of bad taste by stopping the publication of papers which are in bad taste." Juslin asked, "Who is the judge of bad taste and where do you draw the line?"

"We realize that parts of the issue were objectionable and re any embarrassment resulting from it."

Although Dean Brophy de­ fended further suspensions of the members of the College community were liberal with criticism of the suspension.

President Buel Gallagher said that he was "completely aghast. This is the first time that I, the President, the Agency has scheduled the publication of papers which are in bad taste." He continued, saying he found the paper to be extremely dangerous to enforce regulations of bad taste by stopping the publication of papers which are in bad taste. The Campus editors saw a very great lack of responsi­ bility on the part of the paper.

Lecture... The shortage of scientists in America will be discussed by Professor George Stigler of Columbia University. The lecture, " Supply and Demand of Technical Personnel," will be given at 7:30 PM in Room 110 Wabies Hall. Prof. Stigler teaches international economics at Columbia. The lecture is being sponsored jointly by Omicron Chi Epsilon and the Engineering Society.

Exchange Students Will Cook For SG International Supper

An "International Supper," featuring foreign food cooked by exchange students at the College and attended by representatives from the English, Greek and Turkish embassies, will be held here Friday, April 13.

The dinner, sponsored by the student government International Agency, will take place at 6:30 PM in Room 340 Finley. Following the dinner a discussion on the Academy of Sciences will be held in the Library and discussion is open to all members of the College at colleges throughout the country.

The topics of discussion at the Week reception, to be held in the Finley Center's Main Lounge, will be "The Role of the Student and the University in Society." Among the speakers will be representatives from Great Britain, India, Spain, and Turkey.

The agency has arranged a dinner at the Academy of Sciences for April 25. The dinner will be composed of representatives from Great Britain, France, Holland, the Union of South Africa, Morocco, and Nigeria.

For the following evening the agency is planning an Interna­ tional Party, with entertainment to be provided by several College groups. The Student Union, the National Student Association, and the Ukrainian Society are scheduled to perform.
Monday marked the third spectacular attempt by The Campus over the years to merge wit and obscurity into a successful April Fool’s issue. As in their previous tries, they failed—but they did succeed in turning out a compilation of vulgarity, libel and sheer adolescence that might produce a few back room chuckles, but that has no place in a college.

Although we explore this latest folly, we must take issue with some of the sentences of the piece passed upon the paper. We agree that the editors in charge should bear the consequences of the issue by being suspended from the paper, but we do not think they should be kept from classes nor do we think they should be suspended the newspaper as a whole. Also, we trust that even their suspension from The Campus will not be permanent.

Taking away the right of the offending editors to work on the paper will not make The Campus function most effectively and democratically. Moreover, the staff of the paper was not responsible for editorial misconduct, and so should not be penalized. If they can put out issues by themselves, they should be given the opportunity to do so.

The stifling of an entire newspaper is a step of such magnitude that we cannot follow. The Campus needs two competing newspapers to function most effectively and democratically. Moreover, the staff of the paper was not responsible for editorial misconduct, and so should not be penalized. If they can put out issues by themselves, they should be given the opportunity to do so.

Wood sprits and Greek gods will invade Manhattanville’s lawn next week in a gala Spring Fete. Ronald Rower, Editor-in-Chief of Mercury, the College’s humor magazine, feels that City Students have forsaken the gods of old, little Mercury in particular. He therefore decided to place these gods in the student eye with a satirically-filmed ceremony led by the High Priest of Spring.

The pageant, slated for 12:30 PM Thursday next week will commence as a band of leaping satyrs bounce out of Finley Center in the midst of mid-day sun, followed by Grecian maidens, strutting flowers to the winds. The maiden, of course, will be suitably attired, in keeping with the Springtime tradition of casting off fetters and other binding garments. The satyrs and maidens will cavort upon the great green lawns, warming up for the religious dance of liberation to the gods, which will follow.

The dancers will then usher in the High Priest of Spring, who will proceed to a huge altar to be erected in the center of the lawn. He will deliver a fiery sermon, commencing with “worship Spring as it should be worshipped to love, frolic, etc.” This altar will quite certainly serve as an outpost to the highlight of the pageant, a picture-sighting of the gods in the respect of the faithful, the frolicking of Daphnis, the leaping of the gods at the edge of Walden Pond. I am resident of the gods, Daphnis, in the midst of the gods, and I am the edge of Walden Pond. I am resident of Daphnis, in the midst of the gods, and I am the edge.

In addition, the book will be sold on these dates in both cafeterias.

Fencers

(Continued from Page Four) The championship was decided in a close-fought battle between Gerald Kaufman of Columbia and Arthur Shankin of Illinois, both of whom were tied at 32-15. Kaufman capped the title by downing Shankin 5-0.

Zafirn compiled a 15-15 record at the end of the two day competition and placed 25th in the open field. Princeton's Kim Haunton, a member of the United States Olympic Squad, became the National Champion when he defeated Navy's John Kirkpatrick 3-2 in a one-off. Both were tied at 28-6 at the end of the regulation thirty-four bout.

Coach Edward Lucia felt that once again the important factor was one of conditioning. He stated, "A competition such as this is a contest of endurance, and the necessity of proper conditioning can not be overstated."

The College won the NCAA championship in 1949 under Coach James Montague.
