Student Council OK's Plan For New Photo ID Cards

By RALPH DANNHEISER

Student Council, by an 8-4 vote, last night called for the institution of photo identification cards at the College. The proposed plan will now be turned over to the Administration for action. The Council resolution approved the use of the cards, even if the cost, expected to be about twenty-five cents a card per year, would necessitate an increase in student fees. The action upheld a minority report of the SC School Affairs Committee, which had expressed the view that the cards, "would warrant the added cost to the students.

Under the plan proposed by the School Affairs Committee, photographs for the cards would be taken as a part of the registration process. The laminated plastic cards would then be returned to the students after three months.

The Committee suggested the necessary funds might be provided by the various campus groups which currently use photographs as part of their identification procedures. These include the Hygiene Department, the Library Bureau, the Veterans Administration, and the Division of Testing and Guidance. Another proposed source would be the savings resulting from a possible reduction in the number of campus guards.

A major use of the cards, it was felt, would be as a deterrent to crime. Police Chief Stack, SC President, pointed out that under the present system, anyone can obtain a student's credentials card merely by paying $13.95. By the identifying photograph, she felt, could curb the illegal use of the cards. Modifications to the cards, according to Peace, "are a tentative to SC objected to the cards, however, on the grounds that an increase in the number of cards on the campus would limit their effectiveness. In addition, Jacobs said, the cards would lead to increased administrative difficulties.

Opposition also came from Si- ni Friedmen '57, representative of the Student Council's Political Action Committee, a student organization which represents five political clubs on campus. The PAC representing the clubs together with the institution of a "Security Sighting system as a pattern of regimentations" taking place at the college, has requested that the organization be given the card and the students, as a step in a "security system" in place in the long range, we will wish to make any decision. In addition, Peace has examined the club's request.

Dean Peace has asked that if they file three charges exist, what will be the need to function? What will be the need to function on a long-term basis, and exactly how the money would be spent? WVCC President Gallagher has already filed a list of items that it will need in order to run on a long-term basis. Included on the list which comes to a total of $1368, are two microphones, two turntables, a console, twenty radios for the lounges and equipment necessary for transmission.

Janowski added, "the 5$0 will get us (WVCC) going, but we wish to run on a financial basis in the long range, we will need the additional $1368." He suggested that the two other reports will be given to Dean Peace for consideration.

In addition to the club's operation, a radio station, it has been suggested, would be an important factor in the WVCC's broadcasting for special announcements. Janowski added, "it would be a means of communication."

Broadcasters' Fund Request To Be Considered by Peace

By PETER FRANKLIN

The Beaver Broadcaster's request for a grant of $250 from the President's Fund has been referred to Dean James S. Peace (Student Affairs) for an investigation of the matter. The Fund, which amounts to approximately $5000 a year, is allocated in the budget of the College to be spent at the discretion of the President. According to Janowski, Peace has examined the club's request.

No Dice

Two proposals for reorganizing the Student Government structure in vital areas prove once and for all that change does not always mean progress. They are alike in that they have both been referred by the SG Executive to the Internal Affairs Committee, and that they should both be killed swiftly and buried unannounced.

One of the motivating ideas that future Student Council representatives should be elected from the Schools or on the basis of vocational objectives, instead of by Class. We can think of few things that would be more inimical to the general welfare of the College.

Conceivably, in the proposed setup, mathematicians could be pitted against biologist, or, more likely, technology against Liberal Arts man. It has happened in the past, without benefit to either representation. All SC members should consider themselves to be working for the benefit of all the students, not only in their Class, but in the entire College. Any proposal that would make a representative first a Bachelor of Arts and second a City College student seems to divide the Council, and ultimately the College, into meaningless camps. We have had too much Class warfare in the past. Let it remain in the past, and be revived. People who see the College and its students in tight little divisions based on degrees might also like to draw up mosta around each campus, and woe to the English major who goes North. We don't think in these terms, and we don't expect Council to, either.

The second unhappy measure considered asks that all students be elected for a full year rather than a semester. This is not as harmful on the surface as the other plan, but it too contains major drawbacks. For one thing, we believe that SG officers should be more immediately responsible to their constituents than they would be in one-year terms. Unlike Congressmen, they do not have extensive canvassing and expenditures involved in re-elections. All have to do is to lay their records on the line before the student body. These records should be examined by the semester, not by the year. If they are found worthy, the officers can be reelected.

Another question is the matter of time and energy involved in being an SG officer. The drain on studies, and perhaps earning power, might be endured for a semester, but the thought of a year's work—especially the second quarter of the school career—might be enough to give many good people pause.

We urge the Internal Structures Committee and SC to give these measures what they deserve—the down-turned thumbs. If so doing, they will be serving themselves and the College well.

A Natural

Chalk one up for Student Council.

Last night it took action, passing photo identification cards, a significant and needed item for a safe College community. Times like these are all too rare, when Council can rid itself of petty politics and unimportant considerations to act for the safety and welfare of the students. Council did just that last night and we say, well done.

Card...s

(Continued from Page One) would be valuable, "not only to improve the College, but also as a means of identification outside the College."

Another purpose of the cards would be to provide positive identification in the College library, and at such functions as basketball games, Friday Night Dances, and the annual Beistle. They would also serve as a check-out on class voting at SG elections.

Other Action

In other action, Council appointed Gloria King, former SC President, Joel Remnick, former SC Vice-President, and Julius Berman, former SC Treasurer, to the Board of Advisors. Arnold Deuchman and Bill Brown, SC Treasurer and Vice-President respectively, were named as alternates. The Board of Advisors consists of the Administration, faculty, alumni, and student members, determines the Council's general operating policies, in consultation with the Department of Student Life.

Council also chose Remnick to head its Honors and Awards Committee. Appointed as members were Renfield, Bertha Salzberg, Leo Kast, and Joe DelMcus.

PAC...

(Continued from Page One) wishes of President Sidell Gallagher of the National Student Press Foundation said that the proposed bill would provide for the formation of commuter organizations among students who might be involved in the civil rights movement.

PAC represents the black students of this College, said Gallagher. The bill would provide that the federal government would subsidize projects for the training of students who are involved in the civil rights movement.

The proposed bill was introduced in Congress by Representative John Conyers, Jr., a Democrat from Michigan, and was approved by the House of Representatives. It is now before the Senate.

The bill would provide for the establishment of a National Students Union, which would receive funds from the federal government to promote the civil rights movement. The union would be housed in an office on the campus of a college or university, and would be run by elected officers.

The union would provide services to students, including a newsletter, a publications program, and a training program. It would also provide financial assistance to students who are involved in the civil rights movement.

The bill has been praised by civil rights leaders, who say that it is a step forward in the fight for civil rights.

The bill has also been criticized by some educators, who say that it would interfere with the academic freedom of students.

The bill is currently being debated in the Senate, and is likely to be voted on in the near future.
Ta, Ra, Ra, Boom Te Ay: Seek City College 'Rockettes'

The Folies Bergere, the Palladium, Radio City Music Hall and City College.

The search is on to find people for a CCNY chorus line. Larry Cohen, student dramatic who produces one-man variety shows in the Harris Auditorium every Thursday noon, is scouring the school for ten pretty coeds to make up a chorus line. Cohen is also seeking five male students for the line. The group, according to Cohen, would have the opportunity to participate in various College shows and other activities, such as Carnival. Applicants for positions needn't have any dancing experience.
