Holman Applies for Sabbatical Leave; Plans To Return to College in 1957

By BERT ROSENTHAL

(With LEW EGOl and JACK MONET)

"Mr. Basketball"—Professor Nat Holman, the most illustrious sports figure in the College’s history, will not be at the helm of the Beaver cagers when they open the 1956-57 basketball season. Prof. Holman has applied for a sabbatical leave, from September 1, 1956 to August 31, 1957.

The request has been approved by the Hygiene Department, and now must only go through routine channels before the decision is made official. It is currently in the hands of Dr. Morton Gotschall, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. He will submit it to President Ruell G. Galbraith. The President will then send it to the College’s Administrative Committee, a section of the Board of Higher Education (BHE), delegated to administration of the College. If approved by the Administrative Committee, the application will be submitted, probably in April or May, to the BHE for approval.

It is almost a certainty that Prof. Holman will return to the College to resume his normal teaching load and his basketball reins in 1957, for the following reasons:

- BHE by-law states: Such application (referring to a sabbatical request), shall state that the applicant will continue to serve for at least a year after the expiration of the term of his leave unless this provision is expressly rescinded. Since this (Holman did not request a waiver.)
- Prof. Holman knows that he has completed the necessary thirty-five years service to be able to retire on a pension which will amount to up to three-quarters of his base pay. On sabbatical leave he gets only one-half. If his mind were made up to quit, he would have taken himself money by taking a leave instead of retiring.

Prof. Holman, "You can take the teacher out of CCNY, but you can never take CCNY out of the teacher."

According to a BHE ruling, a teacher is entitled to a sabbatical leave for teaching seven years. Holman said yesterday, "I did not apply for any sabbatical in previous years because, "my activities overlapped too much and I felt that it would not be right to leave in mid-season."

He said that his decision to take a year off is not sudden and did not result in any way from the dismal season that the Lavender hoopers had in the 1955-56 campaign. They won only three of eighteen games.

Holman said, "My decision was definitely made before I started the basketball season. I went to Dr. (Egol) (Chairman, History) on September 11 of last year, and told him that I would not make the request to be hired as an assistant. On September 14, I officially notified him through a letter."

The application was not immediately processed because two members of the Hygiene Department were on sabbatical leaves at that time. Prof. Holman’s request, as a result, was completely exonerated of all false charges attributed to him.

The speculation is fresh uncertainty that Wilson, another member of the Hygiene Committee, who piloted the Beavers to the 1956-57 NCAA championship and compiled impressive 21-11 records, will succeed Holman as basketball coach during the intermission.

Bar Robeson

As Entertainer At AF Week

The Executive Committee of Student Council last night barred Paul Robeson from presenting a sketch at the College as a part of Academic Freedom Week. The Committee’s vote was 3-1-1. The affirmative vote was cast one, which had voted 17-4 at its meeting last Thursday to invite the singer, a controversial political figure.

Bob Scheer, the Committee’s chairman, had favoried the invitation. He said that they would “be practicing academic freedom” if they permitted Robeson to present a program to whom is usually denied a platform.”

Jussim Opposes

The possibilities of having a re-invitation by Robeson was opposed by Prof. Stanley Jussim, columnist for the student-oriented newspaper, “The Beacon.” Jussim explained that such an appearance would cast a bad reflection in the College in the eyes of outsiders.

The public will always have the right to know if the college have, is said, separated events that occurred at the College in the past.

“I greatly fear,” Jussim added, “that if we allow Robeson to perform at the College, the public will engage in another criticism of the school, which is especially dangerous.”

The free system of education is under attack by several of our metropolitan newspapers.

By allowing Robeson to perform at the College, he will be shown in the eyes of outsiders that the college have, is said, separated events that occurred at the College in the past.

Lincoln Corridor Exhibit To Depict Life of Wilson

A special exhibit of books, brochures, and photographs concerning the life of Woodrow Wilson will be on display in the Lincoln Corridor. The opening of the exhibit will be the first in a series of events scheduled at the College in commemoration of the centennial anniversary of Wilson’s birth, being nationally observed this year.

The exhibition, which will remain on display until the end of the month, was prepared by the History Department and the Day and Evening Session History Societies, in cooperation with the early draft of the League of Nations Covenant, and his 1919 Peace Conference speeches. The exhibit will also cover Wilson’s work as President of the United States, his Nobel Peace Prize, his work as an orator, and his work in New York City, according to Professor Joseph E. Wiser (Chairman, History). As a further observance of the centennial, several distinguished scholars will be invited to teach at the College students the various aspects of Wilson’s life as college president, governor of New Jersey, President of the United States, and world statesman. The speeches will be sponsored by the History Societies.

In addition, Prof. Wiser announced that the History Department is sponsoring an essay contest on Wilson, in which all undergraduate students of the College are eligible to participate. The contest will be announced in the weeks to follow.

"The observance of the centennial of Wilson’s birth honors the memory of a distinguished American," remarked Professor Wiser. "Wilson’s scholarship in the fields of history, political economy and law, his lofty moral and philosophical qualities and his eloquent expression," he said, "combined to make him a great teacher and a great president." They never quit.

Junior Scores in Ping Pong

Bar Robeson, a junior at the college, paddled his way to a first place victory in the day session Ping Pong tournament last Friday night.

To determine the official champion of the College, Raftan will be paired with Paul Robeson, the American University champion, in a grand final to be held on March 14. Raftan has been playing Ping Pong for about nine years and has won the state-sponsored tournament in 1953.

Approximately 100 students from both the day and evening sessions were entered in the contest. Each entrant was charged a fee of fifty cents.

Academic Caution

The Student Government Executive demonstrated its devotion to the students with a spirited action. Against the wishes of the SG Academic Freedom Week Committee, Exec decided to bar the Committee from inviting Paul Robeson to sing at a Freedom Week festival.

Barring any entrance to political grounds would be a disturbing action; it is fittingly ironic that Exec should exercise its timidity on behalf of a Week which attempts to be all things to people of all political beliefs. The people are the singer—he is, by his own choosing, a violently controversial figure. While we hold no brief for his politics, we would endorse his right to sing, or to speak, at any time.

In opposition to our policy, there will always be those to emphasize the well-worn rallying cry, "But what right does someone have who doesn't believe in academic freedom to appear at an academic freedom rally?" Such person has the same right as a citizen. Fearing Robeson has to vote for President. By restricting action because of belief, we enter into delicate and dangerous implications that, carried far enough, could make a mockery of the very name of academic freedom.

True, we know of Robeson's politics. But, to be fair, if we bar his songs because of his policies, we must investigate the background of every day and night event and person deemed abnormal enough to appear at the College. Unless, of course, we limit ourselves to punitive action only against those whose politics happen to be known to us.

It is a true statement that the meeting was that we must not let ourselves look bad in the eyes of the outsider world. SC President Jared Jusim declaimed that there is a time for "nobbiness," but that this isn't a time. Among President's things come the names that no voice may be raised against us, or any pair of eyebrows lifted. If such is the truly prevailing atmosphere, then we are going to be City College students. When it is proven to us that our actions must not be allowed to jar any outsider's sensibilities, then we will call for the abolition of Academic Freedom Week, since the observation of morality means without the spirit.

We call upon Student Council to prove itself unafraid.
Council must recognize that a free society should never force ideas that does not bear the stamp of popularity. Exec acted with irrational caution that does no credit to the College. It is for Council to remedy their action.

Right and Responsibility

Providing protection for students in the College's expanded role of the University, and not of the students themselves. Taxing the student body, directly or indirectly, for the proposed photo identification cards would be an abdication of responsibility by the College.

Unfortunately, Student Council, in passing a motion calling for the cards, saw fit to leave the matter of paying either to the Administration or to the students. The SU School Affairs Committee, which referred the question to Council, showed far better judgment in making it clear that the students should not be expected to shoulder the burden. But Council preferred to accept the report of a minority of one on the Committee. If we are to be asked to pay for our safety, we should fully expect to be subsidized the Burns guards or the public address system.

When a cool was attacked in the Finley Center last semester, it was made obvious that adequate protection here is the most basic of necessities, and not a privilege that students should thankfully offer to underwrite. The Administration is the one who has the task of carrying out all plans that will provide the fullest protection possible. It is our right, and their responsibility.

Sportsmanship

Nat Holman has been at the College for thirty-five years. He has the distinction of being the only person, so far as we know, who has the faculty of his kind but of sportsmanship and loyalty to the school. We were proud of his victories, and admired his indomitable spirit even in defeat.

In saying that he would return after his leave, Nat Holman declared that "you can take a teacher out of CCNY, but you can't take CCNY out of a teacher." That is an example of the man which makes us wish him a pleasant vacation and a swift return.

Ex-Registrar Gets $7,500

Ages T. Condon, a former Registrar of the Evening Session, has been awarded $7,500 in a suit against the New York State University.

The court's action came as a result of a suit that she brought against the Board of Higher Education in 1944. Miss Condon, who served as the College for this Session, was awarded $7,500 in 1953, while the case was under litigation.

This week Life Magazine printed a nine-page story on the Li odyssey, as a result of the article, Dr. Phi Chow Li has received many letters of encouragement from various individuals. Dr. Li is the Central Treasurer and guidance counselor at the Brooklyn School.

A maze of legal complications has kept Dr. Phi Chow (Student) and his wife, Grace, in Canada, and as far as the United States and Canadian Immigration Officials are concerned, he will never see her again.

Although they are only 350 miles apart he has seen his wife once and that trip was considered illegal by the U.S. Immigration Authorities.

In 1948 Dr. Li left Shanghai, China, and came to the United States in order to study at Columbia University. He planned to return in seven years. Dr. Phi is in New York and his wife, Grace, is in Canada, and as far as the United States and Canadian Immigration Officials are concerned, he will never see her again.

The Chinese Communists in Shanghai nine months after Dr. Li left for the United States, and his wife filed immediately to Hong Kong where she got a job in an export-import firm. There she applied for entrance into the United States in order to visit her husband. She was refused.

In 1950, Li received his BA degree from Columbia University. He did not want to return to re-held Shanghai and was not permitted to join his wife in Hong Kong.

The possibility of seeing his wife once again seemed out of reach. There was nothing else he could do, Dr. Li decided to work for his doctorate in America while his wife began to explore the possibility of seeing his wife in Canada by April 30. According to the immigration law, Dr. Li may not leave the country until he has received final notification from the Immigration Department—this will take at least four months.

But by this time his wife will have left for Hong Kong.

...by only two points, but dropped the game, 83-71. Sydney Levy hit for twenty-six points in that contest, a season high for the team.

The team is no longer moving, it was thought. Five consecutive defeats (St. Francis, Wagner, Rider, Hunter and Brooklyn) proved the thinkers wrong.

And then suddenly the Beavers sprang to life as they set a College record, scoring ninety-nine points against Upsala College. This was not City’s year, though, and a week after the game, Richie Garber, who scored twelve points in the win, was discovered to be ineligible, and the game was forfeited, 2-0.

The team kept improving, holding Fordham to a close 63-60 decision, and forcing NCAA tournament to make a deadline freeze before bowing, 74-69.

The big NYU game proved a big disappointment, to the Beaver roadies as the team faltered badly and lost, 78-69.

The Lavender finally halted its game losing streak (including the Upsala forfeit), stunning Queens again, and finished the campaign with a 7-7-9 loss to St. John’s.

Individually, Syd Levy, George Jensen, and Ralph Scheffman were the outstanding performers on the squad. Levy led the team in scoring with a 14.4 average, and will have to carry the load next year. After being benched for the first half of the second Hunter contest, scoring nineteen points, he came back in time to score thirteen points in the second period, and averaged nineteen for the remainder of the season.

Greatly distressed that a Beaver loss had been taken for granted, he asked the Times scribe, "What would you do if City won?" The Times man sat silently until the final buzzer sounded, then showed another piece of paper into the OP reporter’s hand, and said, "Here sonny, a present."

On the left is the story that started the whole mess. On the right is the paper sheaved into an amazing OP reporter’s hand by a real live newspaperman, Sam Det Parfait!

Holman Praises Lavender Hoopters 'Hardest Workers I Ever Coached'

Despite the worst won-lost record in City College basketball history, the 1956 team is worthy of the highest respect, according to Coach Nat Holman.

The Beaver five, under the tutelage of Prof. Holman, compiled a season mark of three victories and fifteen defeats, and finished a dismal third in the four-team Municipal College League, with a 2-4 record.

Coach Holman yesterday announced his intention to take a sabatical leave of one year, effective September 1, 1956. He praised the squad for "their fine spirit," and said that "of all the teams I have coached at the College in my thirty-five years of service, these boys tried the hardest and I am most proud of them."

The hoopters started the season well enough against Adelphi, dropping a 71-64 decision, to heavily favored Panthers, then looked very bad in their two contests at Columbia and Hunter, squad regained some semblance of form in the first half against Lafayette, trailing at intermission...
