Stempel Nearly Stumped By Columbia Professor

By STAN HENDLER

An English Professor from Columbia University battled City College senior Herb Stempel to a tie three times last night on television's "Twenty-One" quiz program.

The pair will return next week to play for $2,000 per point. Stempel could conceivably lose $42,000 of the $69,500 he has accumulated thus far on the show in next Wednesday's contest with the Professor.

Stempel's opponent is Mr. Charles Van Doren, who in addition to instructing English at Columbia, was educated at Cambridge University, England, and has written three books. He is the son of the famous author, Mark Van Doren.

Stempel chose to stop the first game after the second round, and found that he and his opponent were tied, 17-17. In accordance with rules of the show, a new game was played for $1,000 per point difference in their scores, instead of the $500 awarded when no tie has occurred.

In the first tiebreaker, Stempel was losing by a score of 12-0, but he rallied to tie the Cambridge scholar by identifying the three countries in which Winston Churchill fought while in the British armed forces (South Africa, India, and Sudan). The question was worth ten points, and bought Stempel to a tie from a 12-11 deficit.

A second tiebreaker was played, each contestant taking a ten-point and an eleven-point question, the most difficult method of reaching twenty-one. Stempel's last question dealt with opera. The History major took the hardest question, worth eleven points. An aria was piped into the studio, and Stempel was asked to identify the aria (Cara Nome), the opera

Herb Stempel Tied Three Times

(Rigolletto) its composer (Verdi) and the character who sings the aria in the opera (Gilda). Stempel hummed the tune aloud several times before completing his answer.

Stempel and Van Doren will meet again next week and must continue the contest until one emerges the victor.

Set 400 Pints As Blood Goal

The goal for the College's one day Blood Bank drive this term has been set at 400 pints. The Blood Mobile will be at the College on Friday, December 7 in the Grand Ballroom of the Finley Student Center.

Students interested in donating blood may register this week at the main entrance of the Center or opposite Knittle Lounge, Shepard Hall. Parental permission is needed for all students under twenty-one.

At present, blood may be drawn from the bank free of charge for the use of the students at the College and their immediate families. However, according to Dan Resanovich, former chairman of the Blood Bank, if donations are few, the blood will have to be restricted to only those who have given.

According to Diana Ehrlich, a publicity chairman of the Blood Bank, a large proportion of the students at the College claim they have printer's ink, alcohol, water, embalming fluid or nothing in their veins. "The Blood Bank," she continued, "is not a joke; we want the blood, not fancy excuses."

The College's Newman Club will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary today, with a reception for faculty and students in the Club's Catholic Center, at 469 West 142nd Street, from 2 to 6 PM.

As part of the anniversary celebration, members of the club will honor Professors Paul H. Linehan (Mathematics), former Evening Session Director, and William H. Fagerstrom (Mathematics), who have each served as co-faculty advisors of the group for more than twenty-five years each.

Resigns

Dr. Phillip H. Brunstetter, a member of the Department of Student Life for the past nine years, resigned yesterday. He left the College to take a position in the industrial relations division of Republic Aviation Inc.

His new duties involve working with a manager development team and helping to train managerial personnel in the field of human relations and labor history.

During his nine years at the College, Dr. Brunstetter was chairman of the Student-Faculty Fee Committee, member of the Student Life Department of Army Hall, and contributor in the development of the College's Freshmen Orientation Program. Before his resignation, he was in charge of records in Student Life, a member of the Cafeteria Committee, and a member of the Civil Defense Committee at the College.

Pres. Sets Up Radio Comm.

A Presidential Committee to investigate the feasibility of establishing an Institute of Broadcasting Techniques and an FM radio station at the College was appointed yesterday.

President Buell G. Gallagher made the appointments after consultation with Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) and the members of the Beaver Broadcasting Club (WVCC).

Eight Members Appointed

Eight faculty members and students were appointed to the Committee. They are: Professor William L. Finkle (Chmn. Speech), Dr. Marshall D. Berger (Speech), I. E. Levine, Public Relations Director, Professor Harold S. Spielman (Education), and Edward Hochstein, Stuart Coletan, Kay Klemm, and Stanley Cohn of WVCC.

The Committee will meet today for the first time in order to investigate ways and means of implementing the station and the Institute.

SC Appeals Procedure In HP Lounge Decision

By RALPH DANNHEISSER

A special committee to appeal to Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) his ruling in assigning two Finley Student Center lounges exclusively to House Plan was established last night by Student Council.

The Council resolution further empowered the group to discuss with Dean Peace the role of the Center's Board of Student Managers, "with a view toward permitting the Board greater responsibility in the operation of the Student Center."

Elected to the Council committee, set up by a 12-2-1 vote, were Stanley Wissner, Chairman of the Board, Bill Brown, President of Council, and Bohden Lukaschewsky, Council Secretary.

Challenging only the procedures followed, the Council motion did not comment specifically on the merits of granting the lounges to House Plan.

Dean Peace had previously announced that he would meet by next week with representatives of the Board of Managers and HP, to discuss the allotment of the two lounges, Rooms 325 and 330 Finley. After this meeting, gradually taken away, Horowitz said, until finally the House Plan request was set up as a test case to determine whether the Board of Managers would be completely by-passed. The matter was termed a "test case for the entire concept of Student Government" by Howard Schumann, SG Vice-President.

Concert...

The Music Department will hold the second in its series of Fall Concerts today at 12:30 PM in the Aranow Auditorium of the Finley Student Center. The program will consist of works by Mendelssohn, Webern, and Schumann. Professor Fritz Jahoda, at the piano, and the Faculty String Quartet will perform.

Hoop Contest Begins Frat's 'Greek' Week

Greek Week, sponsored by Inter-Fraternity Council (IFC), got underway last night, with a basketball game in the Wingate Gymnasium. Modeled on the Greek Olympics, the semi-annual affair of IFC uses modern games instead of those traditionally used in Olympics.

A cross-country run next Thursday at 12:15, will be one of the three events in this semester's Greek Week. The competitors, from twenty fraternities will race along Convent Avenue from Shepard Hall to 133 St., and a representative of Student Life will greet the winner at the Finley Student Center. According to a representative of IFC, the course will be blocked off for the event.

The IFC Athletic Committee has also planned a swimming meet, as part of the program. Set for Thursday, December 13, the event will include a fifty yard freestyle, and breast stroke, as well as a diving contest.

Howard Schumann 'SG Test Case'

the Dean said, he will make his final decision.

The main issue at stake is not whether House Plan gets the lounges, Mike Horowitz, SG Treasurer asserted, but rather whether students are to have any responsibility in the operation of the Center.

This responsibility has been

Conflict

Athletes at this institution must really love the sports in which they compete, because they must overcome so many obstacles in order to do so. First of all, they have difficulty in attending practice sessions consistently due to an inability to reconcile them with class schedules. Secondly they must compete against teams many of which consist of scholarship men who practice five and six times a week.

Each year the proceeds of the first home basketball game are donated to this fund. The importance of attendance at this game cannot, therefore, be over-emphasized. That is why I was shocked and at the same time ashamed, when I received a newsletter telling me that my Class, the Senior Class, has callously seen fit to schedule a dance Saturday night, December 1, conflicting directly with the Stein Fund Basketball game. Athletes do not ask for much at this school. At least give them a fighting chance.

EAST MEETS WEST

A Freshman From India

By Richard Nicodemus

During the past week, our thoughts were directed to Thanksgiving. Over the years, the profound meaning of that festive occasion has been lost—among American students. It is deeply regrettable that the eating of a sumptuous meal of turkey and other delicacies has practically relegated the memory of the day into an obscurity. What should have been a pulsating experience has well nigh become an odium, because familiarity breeds contempt. But should this always be true?

To me and my family, Thanksgiving had a special meaning. For six long years, my family was separated while my sister and I completed our education in India, and my parents were here in New York where my father, a doctor, was taking specialized training in a hospital. Now we were united, 10,000 miles away from our home country. Had we not then reason to be exceedingly grateful to God for his protection, preservation and provision, and render thanks?

It is exasperating to see how American students take all things for granted. There was little or no gratitude to God for at least the blessings of the day. Or is their ingratitude based on ignorance. At least they could be grateful for their priceless freedom as individuals and as a nation for their very existence, and for their education. Only a few attend the Church or Synagogue services, while others were seeking some mediocre pleasantries to while away their time. Since Thanksgiving Day was just another day to many, why not conduct classes as usual, and forget about its significance?

In India, we have no special day called Thanksgiving. However all the national holidays are associated with religion. The leading religions are Hinduism, Mohammedism and Christianity. All our institution and public offices were always closed on any one of these Festival days. In accordance with the religious occasion, temples or mosques or churches are thrown open. Students and other people flock to them, and worship in their own ways. There are delicious dainties awaiting consumption at home, but that is always a secondary consideration. Cosmopolitan New York has produced a cult—the Religion Shiers, and many of its ardent supporters are students, gathered both from Jewish and Christian origins. To these, religion is a form of escapism, an inconsequential matter, a vacillating vaguery. No wonder then, when society and religion have parted company, juvenile delinquency, murder and divorce are the express by-products of such a division.

Met Soccer League Split Into Two Divisions; Eight City Booters Gain Conference Honors

An attempt to "break up the Beavers" reign in the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Soccer Conference (MISC), which they have dominated for the past several seasons, will unfold next year. The league soccer coaches voted to split the ten team loop into two divisions (Eastern and Western) at a scheduled meeting on Tuesday.

The breakup will be on a one-year trial basis. Selections of the new divisions was decided upon by the order of the final standings of this season, squads concluding their campaigns in odd numbered positions were designated to the Eastern Division, while teams finishing in second, fourth, sixth, eighth and tenth spots were placed in the Western loop.

On this basis, Brooklyn, Adelphi, Hunter, and Long Island University will compete with the College in the Eastern sector. Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy, New York State Maritime College, Long Island Aggies, offer the stronger aggregations a chance to schedule games with better outside teams, instead of having to play some of the "weak sisters." Secondly, it will provide some of the weaker contingents with an opportunity to book games with teams of their caliber.

It will also serve as an "invitation" for other Met schools to enter the league.

Karlin felt that the split would "be a good thing for soccer, and for sports in general, at the College. By beating stronger opposition, we will be able to receive the national recognition we have not gotten in the past."

Sees Athletic Uplift

Dr. Arthur H. DesGrey, Faculty Manager of Athletics at the College, eyes the splitup as "a good uplift for the athletic picture." He adds, "It will also give us a scheduling advantage in that now we will be able to arrange games with such soccer powerhouses as Brockport State Teachers College, Temple, Rutgers, Princeton, and Yale, in addition to our annual contest with Army."

DesGrey stated further that "games will be scheduled on a home-and-home basis or on a guarantee plan, whereby the other schools will pay part of our expenses and other costs."

Soccer Bus . . .

Today is the last day to make bus reservations for the trip to Springfield, Mass., for the championship soccer game Saturday. The $3.60 round trip fare must be brought to the O.P. office, Room 336 Finley, by 2 PM today. The bus will leave from the north campus at 7:30 AM Saturday.

Soccer Team Playoff Bound 2 PM Tom'w

The College's conquering heroes will depart by bus from the north campus at 2 PM tomorrow for Saturday's championship playoff at Springfield, Mass.

The game against the New England champions will start at 1:30 PM at Springfield's Brock-Affleck Field.

The Lavender squad is scheduled to arrive in Springfield early Friday evening, spend the night at a hotel in the town, and then will hold light drills at the field Saturday morning to get the feel of the terrain.

Allocate $700

Twenty-two men in all, including seventeen players, three managers, the coach, and the trainer, will make the trip.

The General Faculty Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics has allocated $700 for the team's transportation, meals, and hotel expenses. The College will receive fifty percent of the gate receipts of the game.

Today, the booters will travel to Randall's Island to continue their practice sessions on a grass field in a final tune-up for the play-off game.

Track . . .

The first meeting for indoor track candidates will be held at 12:15 PM today in the track locker room in Lewisohn Stadium.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY Illinois College of OPTOMETRY

Applications for admission to classes beginning February 4, 1957 and September 9, 1957 are now being received.

Three year course of professional study leading to the Degree of Doctor of Optometry

Requirements for Entrance: Two years (60 semester hours or equivalent quarter hrs.) in specified liberal arts and sciences.

WRITE FOR BULLETIN TO: REGISTRAR ILLINOIS COLLEGE OF OPTOMETRY, 3241 So. Michigan Ave. Technology Center, Chicago 16, Ill.

The Beaver booters' unchallenged domination of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Soccer Conference gained further recognition Tuesday when eight members of the Lavender eleven were awarded league honors, with five being named to the All-Met first team.

The Beavers' entire record-breaking front line received awards in the balloting by the ten league coaches. The three middle men—inside left Wolf Westl, center forward Novak Masanovich, and inside right Billy Sund—all were named to the first team. Outside left Fred Bonnet gained a second team berth and outside right Danny McErlain received honorable mention.

Center halfback Johnny Paranos and fullback Manfred Munters also were selected for the first team, while left halfback Robert LeMestre was named to the second squad.

The six remaining positions on the All-Met team were divided among five schools. Pratt placed two men on the squad—halfback Brian Stuart and forward Pat Fiedtkou. Goalie John Edwards of King's Point, halfback Charles Visich of Brooklyn, forward Tony Goodyear of Hunter, and fullback John Keiler of Fort Schuyler round out the first team.

Overlook LeMestre

The big surprise in the Beaver selections was the relegation of LeMestre to the second team. The Lavender co-captain made the second squad last year, and was generally considered a "shoo-in" for a first team berth this season.

The selection of Munters was also a bit unexpected, but the other four Beavers were "can't miss" choices, because of the tremendous scoring power they exhibited throughout the season.

Westl's selection marks the third consecutive year he has been named to the All-Met first team. The tall Beaver co-captain earned the position by tallying ten goals this season, the high mark of his career.

Masanovich virtually wrapped up his nomination several weeks ago, when he shattered the league individual scoring record of twelve goals. The former defenseman concluded the season with sixteen tallies.

Wolf Westl
Three-time Winner

Paranos, the Beaver center halfback, scored seven goals during the year without bothering to switch to the offensive line. But it was his fine defensive play that was instrumental in gaining him the All-Met position.

Last year the Beavers placed three men on the first team and three on the second.

Coach Harry Karlin
In Favor of Split

Pratt and Queens will comprise the Western representatives.

Each team will be required to play its other division members once, and may play teams from the opposite one on an optional basis to fill out their schedule commitments.

The champion of the MISC will be determined by a playoff method. Plans call for the first-place eleven in the Eastern division to meet the winner of the Western conference for first and second place; the second place finishers in each sector to battle for the third and fourth spots, etc.

Karlin Introduces Motion

Beaver Coach Harry Karlin introduced the motion to split the league. Guido Foglia, Queens mentor, and chairman of the con-fab, listened to discussions pro and con, before calling for a vote. The Brooklyn College representative suggested the one, three, five, seven, nine method.

Karlin, Mike Yahia, Hunter coach, Tony Bonnano, Adelphi leader, Manny Roimick, Long Island Aggie mentor, and George Davis, Pratt pilot, were the five men who made up the majority vote.

The move will have a dual effect on all teams. First, it will

East Champs To Vie Dec. 8

The winner of Saturday's CCNY-Springfield soccer playoff will face either West Chester State Teachers College of Pennsylvania or Maryland University for the Eastern Intercollegiate Soccer Championship on a neutral field in Philadelphia next Saturday, December 8.

West Chester was selected last week to represent the Middle Atlantic states in the intersectional tournament. Maryland earned the Southern nomination by defeating Navy, 1-0, in a preliminary playoff Tuesday.

The Dec. 8 contest, to determine the Eastern championship, will be the final round of the tourney. The winner of that game was originally scheduled to meet the Western champion for the national title, but the Western division was unable to organize playoffs this year.
