An English Professor from City College senior Herb Stempel to host television's 'Twenty-One' quiz

The pair will return next week to play for $2,000 per point. Should they choose to play, they could conceivably lose $4,000 of the $8,000 they have accumulated thus far on the show.

Stempel's opponent is Mr. Charles Van Deren, who, in addition to teaching English at Columbia, was educated at Cambridge University, England, and has written three books. He is the son of the famous author, Mark Van Deren.

Stempel chose to stop the first game after the second round, and found that he and his opponent were tied, 17-17. In accordance with rules of the game, no game was played for $1,000 per point difference in their scores.

During the past week, our thoughts were directed to Thanksgiving. Over the years, the profound meaning of that festive occasion has been lost—among American students. It is regrettable that the eating of a sumptuous meal of turkey and other delicacies has practically relegated the memory of the day and its philosophy. What should have been a pulsating experience has well nigh become an odds, because familiarity breeds contempt. But should this always be the case? To me and my family, Thanksgiving had a special meaning. Long years ago, my family was separated while my sister and I completed our education in India, and my parents were here in New York where my father, a doctor, was taking specialized training in a hospital. Now we were together, 10,000 miles away from our home country. Had we not reason to be exceedingly grateful to God for his protection, preservation and provision, and render thanks? It is exasperating to see how American students take all things for granted. There was little or no gratitude based on ignorance. At least they could be grateful for their priceless freedom as individuals and as a nation for their very existence, and for their education. Only a few attend the Church or Synagogue services, while other students are seeking some mediocre pleasure to while away their time. Since Thanksgiving Day was just another day to many, why not conduct classes at normal time? The Religion students, and many of the ardent supporters are students, gathered both from Jewish and Christian associated with religion. The origins of these religions are Hinduism, form of escapism, an inconsequential matter, a vacillating vagary. No wonder then, when society and religion have parted company, juvenile delinquency, murder and divorce are the express by-products of such a division. Fifth of a Series.

Question: What’s funny, honey? Answer:

IF YOU’RE A SMOKER who’s never tried a smoke ring, get in there and start puf-fing. While you’re at it, remember: Lucky smoke rings come from fine tobacco. This makes no difference to the smoke ring, but it does to you. You see, fine tobacco means good taste, and Luckies’ fine, naturally good-tasting tobacco is TOASTED to taste even better. So make your next cigarette a Lucky, and call your first smoke ring a Proud Cloud.
