Brown Bids Council Adopt More Meaningful Program

By DAVE GROSS

Students for Stevenson, a new political club on campus, will hold its first meeting to-day at 12 Noon in Room 348. The meeting will include the election of officers, adoption of constitution, and a discussion of "How WUS can be more effective." The meeting will also feature a panel of "Adalai" speakers, on whose selection the President will announce his decision.

The presidential campaign of Stevenson has given rise to the formation of a club on campus, which the President has indicated will be approved. The club, which will have a membership of at least 250 members to attract the attention of the campus, is expected to expand the program of Stevenson and to develop a more active political policy. The club will focus on the important issues of the campaign, such as foreign policy, domestic policy, and social welfare, and will seek to mobilize the campus in support of Stevenson's program.

The presidential campaign of Stevenson has given rise to the formation of a club on campus, which the President has indicated will be approved. The club, which will have a membership of at least 250 members to attract the attention of the campus, is expected to expand the program of Stevenson and to develop a more active political policy. The club will focus on the important issues of the campaign, such as foreign policy, domestic policy, and social welfare, and will seek to mobilize the campus in support of Stevenson's program.

The presidential campaign of Stevenson has given rise to the formation of a club on campus, which the President has indicated will be approved. The club, which will have a membership of at least 250 members to attract the attention of the campus, is expected to expand the program of Stevenson and to develop a more active political policy. The club will focus on the important issues of the campaign, such as foreign policy, domestic policy, and social welfare, and will seek to mobilize the campus in support of Stevenson's program.

The presidential campaign of Stevenson has given rise to the formation of a club on campus, which the President has indicated will be approved. The club, which will have a membership of at least 250 members to attract the attention of the campus, is expected to expand the program of Stevenson and to develop a more active political policy. The club will focus on the important issues of the campaign, such as foreign policy, domestic policy, and social welfare, and will seek to mobilize the campus in support of Stevenson's program.

The presidential campaign of Stevenson has given rise to the formation of a club on campus, which the President has indicated will be approved. The club, which will have a membership of at least 250 members to attract the attention of the campus, is expected to expand the program of Stevenson and to develop a more active political policy. The club will focus on the important issues of the campaign, such as foreign policy, domestic policy, and social welfare, and will seek to mobilize the campus in support of Stevenson's program.
Hillel's Rabbi Zuckerman
Back From Paris Study

By SHELLY HALPERN

Rabbi Arthur J. Zuckerman returned Monday from three months of research and teaching in France.

Zuckerman, a student of medieval French Jewish history, began his studies at the Institute of Advanced Study in Paris, where he was a visiting fellow under the direction of Professor Joseph Fleischman. Rabbi Zuckerman is a graduate of the Jewish Theological Seminary and a member of the Society for the Study of Judaism.

Zuckerman's work focused on the medieval period, particularly on the development of Jewish thought and culture in France. His research included an analysis of the role of Jewish scholars in the intellectual and religious life of Europe during the Middle Ages.

Zuckerman spent the summer at the École Pratique des Hautes Études in Paris, where he had the opportunity to study with some of the leading scholars in the field of Jewish history.

Zuckerman's work also included the study of Jewish manuscripts and documents, which he used to gain a better understanding of the historical context of Jewish thought.

Zuckerman's research is expected to be published in a forthcoming book titled "Jewish Thought in Medieval France." The book will be published by the Jewish Publication Society of America.

Zuckerman's return to the United States was met with a warm welcome from his family and friends.

Helped By People

As a result of this summer's trip, Zuckerman was able to establish important contacts with scholars and lawyers in France. He was also able to learn about the current state of Jewish scholarship in France and the potential for future research.

Zuckerman's trip was made possible through the support of a fellowship from the Jewish Theological Seminary and the financial support of his family.

Zuckerman's return to the United States was met with a warm welcome from his family and friends. He is planning to use the insights gained from his trip to continue his research on Jewish thought and culture in medieval France.
Persian or Iranian?
It Still Was Greek

it was Persian. An expert on the arenas theater," Prof. Davidson weeks of "thrice agog"—and it was Persian. An expert on the "arena theater," Prof. Davidson

200 students enrolled in three in directing, acting, and introduction to the theater. At the theater workshop he organi-ized "The Glass Menagerie" for the Iran-America Society.

Prof. Davidson studied the theater on a Princeton grant in 1955 and his production of the
"The Glass Menagerie" sponsored by the British Drama League, was staged for the opening of Coronation Week in England. He displaced this performance—the first he had ever done in the-American University Drama Society.

Prof. Davidson was again involved directly with the theater, this past summer, when he was responsible for running, directing and producing for the American Theater Wing at the Cape Playhouse, in Massachusetts.

-Hulpern

Fall Reception

House Plan will play host to the entire freshman class at a reception next Friday at 8:30 PM in Finley Student Center.
This is the first year that HP will hold the reception, which in the past was given by Student Government.

The reception will be held in the Finley Grand Ballroom and Buntingweiser Lounge (Room 122). Admission is free.

A five-piece band will play dance music while coffee, cake and other refreshments will be served. The highlight of the evening will be a movie of the 1956 HP Carnival.
The gates of Lewisham Stadium were closed last week, and the students in the river stream that flowed along College Avenue were too engrossed in the problems of registration and book-hawking to be otherwise interested in the activity going on inside. But for those who knew or cared, the blinding visor of spiked shoe against leather ball gave notice of the start of another soccer season. And for those who cared enough to watch inside and watch, for student sport editors, an interesting scene was taking place—the attempted rebuilding of a championship team.

Even those few who have followed closely the fortunes of the Beaver booted in recent years would recognize but a handful of the blue and white-clad figures that dotted the field. The stars are gone. The Koestenblatt-Trunks and Meessen have made their headlines and departed—and in their place are a group of inexperienced newcomers in the unenviable position of trying to improve on an undefeated record.

The 50-footers face Coach Harry Karlin with the most difficult task of his coaching career. When he assumed the reigns of the soccer team three years ago, Karlin was presented with a ready-made squad—a squad which had won the Metropolitan Conference championship the year before. All he had to do was keep things running smoothly, and the Beavers ended the year with their second straight title.

The situation was pretty much the same last season. John Paranos and co-captain Robert LeMestre have been working to prepare a new team for the season. John is the only one of this year's seven seniors who had any soccer experience at all. He could not pass up the chance to go out for his team again. And the new faces—the freshmen—have been working with the veterans to improve the team's record.

The solid man of the team will be co-captain Wolf Wolf. Wolf, the scholar-athlete, scored six goals from his left forward position last year, and he has been a tremendous aid to Karlin in preparing the defensive unit. John Paranos and co-captain Robert LeMestre have been working with the defensive platoon, which will have to be particularly sharp due to the lack of an experienced goalie.

The goalstopping job probably will go to newcomer Charlie Thorne. Thorne has never played soccer before, but has shown great deal of hustle and spirit in the practice drills, and is learning fast. With a few games under his belt he could become a top flight net man.

The prospects, therefore, are uncertain. The success or failure of the squad will depend largely on the degree of coordination and teamwork that can be achieved. It's just a shot in the dark there—tremendous aid to Karlin in coaching the offensive unit.

The 1957-1958 season will be different. There are only seven seniors on this year's squad—half the number of non-playing members in the number of non-playing members in the num-

The men's soccer team is ready to go. All they need now is a sponsor to report to the respective squads.

The plan was originated by Professor Hyman Krakower (Hyman) at last April's GFCIA meeting. Several of the committee members felt that the interest cards were a form of recruiting, but Prof. Krakower argued successfully that recruiting is done only before a boy enters the College, and since these students are already attending the College, there is nothing wrong.

I ntrac... The College's intramural season opens next Thursday with the start of the wrestling tournament, Handball, basketball, and touchball will begin on October 11, with road races and tennis taking place later in the term. Information concerning the program can be obtained from Dr. Alton Richards in Room 107 Wingate.

Intras... The College's intramural season opens next Thursday with the start of the wrestling tournament. Handball, basketball, and touchball will begin on October 11, with road races and tennis taking place later in the term. Information concerning the program can be obtained from Dr. Alton Richards in Room 107 Wingate.