Brooklyn Gets Apology From Council President

By MICHAEL SPIELMAN

Student Council President Bill Brown apologized to Brooklyn College's Dean of Students last Friday, for the letter that the student council sent to Brooklyn College.

In a meeting with Dean Daniel F. Brophy, Brown acknowledged that the letter had been sent "before it had the Brooklyn Administration's point of view," and apologized to SC's action. However, Brown continued, "This is not to say that Council would or would not have had the same letter anyway."

The meeting came as a result of a letter the Dean sent to Brown, calling Council's action "ungracious." "It comprises a textbook illustration of irresponsible democracy," said Brown, quoting the letter. "In the absence of CONY and Council, there is no body with policy-making power."

Charges are Confidential

Brown said that the meeting had been arranged by the Dean with the student Arthur Stein, a member of the Admissions Committee. He later said, "I don't know what action SC will take."

"It is up to Council to make a decision." Brown made the appointment! -M.S.

The meeting was turned over to the Admissions Committee, and the meeting adjourned until Wednesday.

WUS To Stress Theme Of Its Impact on World

A program stressing the importance of the World University Service (WUS) to student leadership throughout the world has been adopted by the College's International Relations Committee. This program will be followed by a question period.

The conference, co-chaired by Gloria Kingsley, former Student Government President, and John De Maio, member-elect of the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities, will begin at 9:30 AM and extend to 4:30 PM.

The conference, which is second only to the College's annual international conference, will be held at the Brooklyn College Student Center. The meeting has been rescheduled for next Tuesday.

NAACP Poll Shows Apathy

A survey taken here by the NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People) indicates that Negro-white relations have been "relaxed" in recent years. Thirty-two per cent felt there would be no racial tension in the future.

The NAACP is sponsoring a series of forums and lectures on the theme, "The Future of Negro-white Relations in the United States." The meetings will be held at 8:30 PM on Thursday, May 11, in Room 328 Finley Student Center.

No All Honorable-Men

Arthur Steier was legally suspended from Brooklyn College two weeks ago. He had legally been restricted from participating in extra-curricular activities and he violated the terms of that restriction. He had also been guilty of "patent unwillingness to heed the injunctions of the college," and for these reasons he was legally suspended.

But the question of technical legality has no bearing here. We have pointed out before, and once again that the school officials of the municipal colleges have the legal right to do anything they wish in their administration of the school. They can impose membership lists, or increase student fees, or, if they think fit, they can completely abolish student newspapers, and every extra-curricular club and organization on campus. It would be their legal right to do so and on those grounds could not even be questioned. .

The Brooklyn College Administration however has seen fit to follow this narrow and totalitarian path. President Gideonse and Dean Stroup have taken it upon them-they must admit, they are far from impartial. They had reason to believe that the student was temperate and undiplomatic, and was certainly a nuisance to them; and yet they felt themselves to be fair and impartial judges.

We question whether this is so. And we further question whether the moral right to arbitrarily suspend a student without making public their charges, and without giving him the right to an open hearing where he can publicly cross-examine his accusers. This is a basic principle of the Bill of Rights, and it was put there with good reason.

The Brooklyn College Administrators have hidden behind a policy of making information in such cases "confidential." Dean Stroup said that most students welcome privacy in such matters, 7 that Brooklyn College must learn that there are just as many different kinds of students as there are different kinds of parents. He said, "A fine law is liberty. The dictators of 1955, visited every country on the southern continent except Venezuela. The purpose of the trip was to gather information on the problems of students in South America, and to have an increased interest in American problems and viewpoints.

On the ten-week tour, Miss Kingsley found the two most pressing problems of the students to be lack of freedom of expression and a lack of educational facilities. "The student is generally more influential on the national scene, and so politicians attempt to gain votes by special efforts to influence student attitudes," Miss Kingsley says. "Their ideas are the focal point of opinion," Miss Kingsley says. "Their ideas reflect what will happen next year on the national scene, and so politicians attempt to gain votes by special efforts to influence student attitudes."

Gloria Kingsley Visits South America

As Part of NSA Information Group

While President Buell R. Gallagher was globe-trotting this summer for World University Service, a former Student Government President was touring South America for another student group.

As part of a five-member delegation of the National Student Association, Gloria Kingsley, a president during the fall semester of the Associated Collegiates of New York, traveled to South America. The purpose of the trip was to gather information on the problems of students in South America, and to have an increased interest in American problems and viewpoints.

But despite the government attitude, students in these countries exert considerable political influence. The students are the focal point of opinion," Miss Kingsley says. "Their ideas reflect what will happen next year on the national scene, and so politicians attempt to gain votes by special efforts to influence student attitudes."

Appointments a Young Freshman

...every one young freshman the frenzied campaign of fraternities is proving embarrassing. The eighteen-year-old senior, Sholomi Bloch, has received fifteen letters this season from various male groups requesting a meeting. Many of the letters from male groups requesting a letter solicits membership in Reserve Officers Training (ROTC).

"If I must," the letter urges, "join the ROTC!"

Miss Bloch (24-36-24) is interested in becoming a man. She is the attractive brunette (Priscilla Life) seeking relief from the masculine overtures. He is forbidden to send letters to the fraternity informing them that Miss Bloch is not male.

Embarrassing Accident

Dean surmises that the name was accidentally listed on a list of entrants for members of both male and female sororities. Lists of both male and female students were compiled for use by such organizations as Hillel, Newman Club, Unite, etc.

Miss Bloch has received three letters this season from various male groups...

Spotscoching, which will be instituted at the College, will require that all students carry their identification cards at all times. The system will go into effect once it is certain that everyone has received his ID card.

It is traditional for The College to have its scoring unit paced by a swift center forward who has a hard and accurate boot. He is led by the other offensive players, and is expected to do a good portion of the scoring. However, a good center forward will remain alert, and if he spots a teammate in a better scoring position, will draw the opposition off and pass to him.

The inside left and right are perhaps the most versatile of the front line. They, naturally, must be able to register goals if the team is to score. With poor men on either side even the greatest center forward is bottled up. But they also must be fleet of foot, expeditious, and have a most imp-
