SG Exec. Will Investigate Religious Groups' Charters

By STEVE LUDWIG

A committee to investigate the constitutions of all religious clubs and organizations on campus was formed last night by a unanimous vote of the Executive Committee of Student Government. The resolution resulted from discussion of a bid of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship of the College to have its charter ratified by the Executive Committee.

Stan [Name], President of Student Government; Bart Cohen, Vice-President; Arthur Damond, and Bob Scheer were the members of the Executive Committee who voted on the resolution which was carried by a 4-0-0 vote. The Committee will look into the granting of public funds to religious organizations, the grant-constitutions of all religious clubs and organizations and reports to the SFCSA.

The investigating committee will consist of members of the Civil Liberties Committee, and Arthur Damond, author of the resolution.

In discussing the motion to allow the Christian Fellowship to function on campus, Bob Scheer, chairman of the Civil Liberties Committee said, "I want to be able to explore it to find if it will be simply duplicating the Newman Club or something similar to that. I am not against the offering of bible readings but prayer meetings," Scheer continued, "and actually practicing the faith on campus do not belong."

Steve Nagler, chairman of the Public Affairs Committee, retorted by saying "It is a question of constitutional rights and freedom of speech. There is definitely lots of room for an organization of this sort on campus."

The Executive Committee also discussed the conference scheduled for tonight between President Buell G. Gallagher and the officers of Student Government and several other students to discuss rules pertaining to speakers at the College. The meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 tonight in President Gallagher's office.

ing of facilities for religious services, and otherwise relevant matters to be decided upon by the Committee.

The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship of the College which sought to have its constitution approved to allow it to function on campus, was granted a temporary charter until the end of the semester. Meanwhile, Exec will request that the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities delay review until a committee appointed by Exec reviews the CCNY Student Dead in Calif.

Charles MacMillan, an Evening Session Physics major, was found dead on San Francisco's Telegraph Hill last Wednesday. The cause of death was a skull fracture. As yet it is not known whether the death resulted from an accident, suicide or murder.

MacMillan, a Korean veteran, was last seen on Thursday evening, March 21, when he left his home saying he was going to take a few days off. The following Wednesday evening San Francisco authorities contacted MacMillan's parents via telephone, because their son's College bursar's card was found on the body.

The only other objects found in the dead man's pockets were a return trip ticket to New York and sixteen dollars.

Positive identification was made on Thursday by means of a cross-country telephoned dental check between MacMillan's dentist in New York and a dentist working for San Francisco police.

In an effort to aid the MacMillan family, Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) contacted Dean Dorothy Wells of San Francisco State College, a former College faculty member, and requested that she look into the matter.

John MacMillan, Charles' brother, is also a student at the College.

Queens Faculty Group Blasts Barring of Gates

By SHELLY HALPERN

The action of the Council of Presidents of the five municipal colleges, in barring John Gates from speaking, was criticized last week by the Queens College Chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

In a resolution adopted at a special meeting held on March 22 at Queens College, the AAUP said "we cannot regard the recent acts of exclusion by the Provost [Thomas J. Garvey] and the Presidents as right or acceptable methods of meeting the problems of outside speakers the problems of platforms. We protest the recent decisions of the Provost and the Presidents and the practice of legislating by retroactive ex post facto decree."

The AAUP further asks that the Council of Presidents "open the question of principle involved, for discussion and decision in which the faculties and student bodies, through their elected representatives, have full participation."

One of the arguments on which the resolution was based was that

Pres. Gallagher Will Debate With Doxie Wilkerson Thurs.

President Buell G. Gallagher will debate with Doxie Wilkerson, former Educational Director of the Communist Party and a member of the party's national committee on Thursday at 12:30 PM in Room 105 Shepard. The subject will be "Is the Communist Party of America an Asset or Liability to the United States of America?"

Begins AF Week

This will be the first in a series of Student Government sponsored lectures and forums planned for Academic Freedom week.

In accepting the invitation, Dr. Gallagher explained that his participation in the debate "is designed to make clear the fact that student groups can invite any and every point of view to be expressed on the campus." He added that "the College need not, and often does not, approve the opinions expressed by visiting speakers."

"My own clear condemnation of Communism," he continued, "will be reiterated in the forthcoming debate. Nevertheless, we must permit the expression of opinions which are repugnant if freedom is to have any reality."

Myers' Report Praised On CBS TV Art Panel

Prof. Bernard S. Myers' (Art) "Report on the Problems of the Young Artist" was acclaimed "the first really thorough, objective study of its type," last Saturday on "Right Now," a Columbia Broadcasting System panel show.

The panel consisted of Lloyd Goodrich of the Whitney Museum, Jimmy Ernst, artist, lecturer, and teacher at Brooklyn

College and Edith Halpert of the Downtown Gallery.

Moderated by Ron Cochran of CBS, the panel discussed the main points of Myers' findings.

The three primary areas set forth by Myers as meriting further discussion were: the marketing practices, exhibition facilities, and the question of public education, in relation to art.

In his report Myers had advocated the construction of an Art Center in New York which would be devoted to both education and exhibition. He felt that, "the Center was just a possible answer to the problem of the young artist."

Mr. Ernst asserted that the greatest problem in relation to

"both the earlier criteria for exclusion of speakers and the new criterion were set up by administrative fiat, ex post facto, after students had invited speakers and after strong pressures had been exerted by outside organizations." The situation was handled, it continues, "in a manner too sudden, retroactive, and arbitrary to offer good precedent for future action."

"We believe," the statement continued, "that education by quarantine is inconsistent with the function of colleges as laboratories of effective future citizenship. We must not by silence seem to give consent to methods which we must consider mistaken." Because "ideas cannot ultimately be suppressed and can be defeated only by refutation, we must oppose Communism by reason, rather than coercion."

The Communist cause, the resolution states, gains more through the "agitated public outcry, the unmerited publicity and the propaganda opportunity" of such occurrences as the Gates incident, than it would get from a "sober hearing on a college platform where its claims can be strongly challenged."

The AAUP statements said further that "it is healthier that speakers we oppose be opposed face to face in open discussion in college forums rather than they be heard elsewhere by our students. We assert our faith in the strength and justice of American freedoms, which colleges and universities must be the first to uphold, when we do not gag our opponents as they would gag theirs."

'Great Outdoors' Awaits College Geology Majors

Insomnia, mining experience and a penchant for travel apparently have become the qualifications for the ambitious geology major at the College. The ability to wake early and work through the night in far-away places are part of the requirements members of the Geology Society have to meet to endure a rugged schedule of field trips, some as far as 2,000 miles away.

Field trips may start at 1 or 2 AM and lead members to scenic areas, bat-filled caves or even an Indian reservation.

Roughing It

The members do more than look at the sights. For when they arrive "on location," there's work to be done, such as searching for minerals with pick and shovel or making camp in a rocky glen.

A recent expedition led members to the Great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina, where they collected minerals, camped outdoors, rode a logging truck and attempted, with dubious success to bring water in the 'Plymouth' North Carolina area, which reeked of hydrogen sulfide gas.

The field trip lasted 10 days, but the frugal group managed to keep expenses to $40 each. Of course, it was pointed out, where could they spend money in the Great Smoky Mountains?

Whiff of Inspiration

Having had a brief whiff of gas apparently spurred the group to pick a study of oil and natural gas wells, for it will spend the Easter vacation doing just that, near Rochester.

In 1958, in collaboration with Professor Kurt Lowe (Geology), Secretary of the New York State Geological Association, the club are in the United States was the "public's studied indifference to it." His idea would be to gear the Elementary School education "more to the cultural" and away from the vocational aspects of education.

Mr. Goodrich stated that the crux of the problem lay in the fact that while we have the largest art-viewing public, the artist gets no money from this display of his art. The lack of exhibition space was also stressed. Myers reasserted that with his plan young artists would have a place to exhibit their art and would at the same time get a worthwhile art education.

The controversy which Myers' report had engendered was mainly centered around the conclusions of the report which stressed the difficulties of the young artist in pursuing art as a livelihood. Prof. Myers has declared that the majority of discussion concerning the report "is by people who have not as yet read it."

Publication of the study is slated for this week.

Greenhouse Will Reblossom; Augment Biology Courses

The dormant greenhouse located atop the boiler plant South Campus will soon become a flourishing annex to biology laboratory. At present, due to lack of facilities, biology students can choose a project which involves live plants, or the observation of plants over a period of time. The greenhouse will remedy this. The greenhouse will not, however, be a public garden. "We are not going to grow pretty flowers for students," stated Professor O'Connell (Biology).

The greenhouse was formerly owned by Manhattanville College. A few straggling live plants that were left over were neglected and died; the building itself had become run-down. Plans for renovating the greenhouse were drawn up a year ago by Professor James Dawson (Biology), and Professor O'Connell. The specifications which were submitted to the city included installation of electric outlets and heating equipment and construction of benches for the plants.

These plans for renovation are now in the hands of the Department of Planning and Design. It now remains for them to decide how long the greenhouse shall remain fallow. —Blum

You can find most anything if you know where to look

A long time ago there was a grade A explorer named V. N. Balboa. Like a pogo stick with a hot foot, he hopped from place to place, discovering this and that.

One day, paging through an old copy of the National Geographic, he became intrigued with the idea of discovering the Pacific Ocean. He set sail for Laguna Beach and landed one night in Panama (his navigator was left-handed and a little heavy on the stick).

Next morning our hero found himself out at the inn... and out plenty. He was in a heavy-stakes poker game. Employing an old gambling custom often used but seldom effective,

Mr. B. got up and walked around his chair. On the third time around, Bal espied in the distance a strange wet undulating object. He climbed atop his chair (it was a high chair) and lo, below him was the Pacific Ocean. "Man, that ain't dew," he cried aloud, "that is an ocean of much magnitude!"... and instantly spread the news of this discovery to the world via the AP, UP and INS. (The rest is history.)

Now, it's beyond us just why Balboa should receive such acclaim for discovering the Pacific Ocean, which every Indian in the vicinity worth his scalp-lock knew was there all the time. We only relate this story in a sneaky effort to get around to a moral...

Varsity Lacrosse Men Triumph, 8-2; Alumni Can't Take Bumps and Grind

By MARV GLASSBERG

The lacrosse season officially opened Saturday in Lewisohn Stadium with the Beaver stickmen romping over the Alumni, 8-2. The varsity steadily wore down their adversaries and in the final stanza began flipping in goals at a frantic pace.

Playing for the alumni were such notables as Ron Reifler, Milt Perlow, Herb Holmstrom, Monroe Morris, and Charlie Rowe.

Reifler, a standout goalie for the past few seasons, thwarted all the Lavender scoring attempts in the initial frame. His teammates' long absence from lacrosse was evident as they were unable to keep the ball out of their own zone for any period of time, let alone produce a sustained attack on the Beaver nets.

It was in the second stanza that the Alumni began to feel their age. For most of the period they ran and fought on even terms with their antagonists. Several times they threatened the Beaver cage but were repulsed. All this activity soon began to take its effect.

Scoring Begins

Merritt Nesin, in out home position, circled in front of the nets to draw off the defense before passing back to Lenny Fagen, City co-captain. The first attackman charged Reifler and beat him cleanly. Minutes later, before the first half ended, John Paranos winged a pass to Ron Bose, playing second attack, who fired past Reifler to give the varsity a 2-0 advantage.

The short intermission was a welcome relief to the Alumni. They rested their aching muscles

Leon "Chief" Miller
Faces New Season

and got their second wind while discussing strategy. The Beaver stickmen found themselves hard-pressed, as the second half began, to contain the visitors' repeated forays. When Milt Perloff rammed one into the nets from close range to narrow the Lavender lead to 2-1, it appeared that experience might yet rule the day.

However, this only appeared to arouse the varsity and the Alumni began to receive the body blocks that are usually reserved for rougher opponents. The Beavers then tallied two quickies before the third stanza ended. Nesin gained possession of the ball at mid-field and raced down with it. Crossing in front of the goal, he pivoted, and bulletted it past Reifler. City tallied its fourth goal when-center Harvey Lapidus dented the twines after the busy goalie had stopped a volley of shots.

Co-captain Mike Volpe, a defenseman, opened the final frame by charging down the right side of the field and hitting the left corner of the twines. Action really picked up and the Beavers scored twice within a minute. Fagen fought his way through a stubborn defense to beat Reifler with a blazing shot that had him completely fooled. The ball was faced-off and it was sent back into Alumni territory. Fagen passed to Mark Rosenberg, who hit the mark. Several minutes later the quick in-home man hit his second goal when Bose raced goalward and flipped to Rosenberg who heaved it by the beleaguered goalie to give the Lavender their eighth tally.

Finis

The Alumni made its last show when Monroe Morris displayed some of the form that reminded many of the early "Chief" Miller teams. He outfought the Lavender defense and came down the left side. Shelly Cashdan was completely outmaneuvered as Morris sliced the ball by him to end the scoring at 8-2.

Sportnotes . . .

• By recording a total of 1408 points, the City College Rifle Team finished third in a field of ten at the St. John's Invitational Tournament. St. John's, with 1441 and Brooklyn Poly, with 1412, nosed out the nimrods for the two top positions. Individual shooting honors went to Allan Lake, Frank Briggs, and Frank Simmons, all of them redmen, who tallied 292, 291, and 287 respectively.

• Bernie Woods and Bernie Stolls, the lone Beaver entries in the wrestling nationals held Saturday, bowed out in the early competition. Woods, competing in the 147-pound class, was pinning his opponent, Dave Adams of Penn State, with a half nelson and bar arm when time ran out and Adams copped the decision.

Interfraternity Swimmers Vie For Individual, Team Crowns

The inter-fraternity sports schedule hits its stride, and gets off to a splashing start Thursday between 12 and 2 PM when the fraternities invade Wingate pool for their semi-annual swim meet. Last year's winner, Sigma Phi Alpha, appears to be the team to beat, having lost none of its previous winners. Also entered in the swim meet is Eric Adler, the outstanding athlete of Inter-Fraternity Council for the past two seasons. He will be swimming in the fifty-yard backstroke, which he has won for the past two years.

The semi-finals of the Inter-Fraternity basketball tournament will be held on Thursday, May 8. The winners of each of the four leagues will vie against each other. The IFC champ will be determined the following week. Pre-season picks to meet in the finals are Delta Alpha and Zeta Beta Tau, who so far have lived up to their ratings.

Technology Inter-Fraternity, Inter-Society basketball is also moving at a fast pace. Last Thursday, the EE's downed the ME's in a closely fought game, 45-40. The Chem. Engineers had an easier time as they routed the CE's, 68-54. Ralph Schefflan, star backcourt man of the varsity basketball team, led the scoring for the Chem-men by tallying 32 points. Jim Mazzaferro and Bill Lewis, Schefflan's former team mates, scored 24 and 4 points respectively, in a losing effort.

Also scheduled for later this semester is a track meet. The date is still uncertain.
