Tenure Asked For 13 Profs By Gallagher

An attempt to correct the "inbreeding" of faculty members at the College, criticized by the Middle Atlantic States Association Committee report last summer, was made yesterday by President Buell G. Gallagher.

Dr. Gallagher recommended tenure appointments for thirteen professors and instructors at last night's meeting of the City College Administrative Committee. Of the thirteen nominated for tenure appointments, President Gallagher said, ten are classified as "non-inbred faculty members."

Tenure appointments for faculty members are automatic after a period of three years. However, tenure can be obtained on recommendation after a year. The recommendation for tenure appointment is based on the action of the individual College departments.

The group of thirteen faculty members are split into three classifications, "inbred, outbred and outsiders." Those faculty members who obtained their baccalaureate degrees at the College and their advanced degrees in New York City are termed "inbred" by Dr. Gallagher. "Outbred" faculty members are those who obtained their basic degree outside of the city and their advanced degrees in a New York City institution. The "outsiders" are faculty personnel who have obtained all their degrees from schools outside the city.

Six of the group nominated for tenure are "outsiders," four are "outbred" and three "inbred."

Member Lists, Club Rosters, Due Feb. 22

Membership cards and club forms must be submitted to the Department of Student Life before February 22. The membership cards will be filed in the permanent folder of each student.

According to Mr. Stamos O. Lades (Student Life) a club which does not register will be denied the use of College facilities, including fee appropriations.

In order to register, a club must consist of a minimum of twelve regular session students attending the Uptown center and must file the regular forms. Each club must have a faculty advisor who is a member of the Uptown Day Session teaching staff.

The clubs that were officially on campus last semester will maintain their status as of last term until the deadline date. They must, however, submit both registration forms and membership cards in order to remain on campus. Registration forms and membership cards may be picked up in Room 151 Finley.

The scene above, Edward R. Murrow speaking at the inauguration ceremonies of President Buell G. Gallagher, is just one of the many fascinating stories covered by staff members of Observation Post. OP has a long tradition of being on the scene when news is being made. It was the only paper to publish during the student strike of 1951, it was one of the first papers in the nation to print the results of the basketball team's Grand Slam, and it was among the first to break the unfortunate story of the scandals. Positions are open on the writing, the business, and art and photo departments. The first candidates class will be held today at 12:30 PM in Room 301 Downer. Experience is not a prerequisite—but enthusiasm is. All interested students are welcome.

Exchange Student from Chile Urges More Political Interest

"Student governments in Chile concern themselves with two major issues to our one," said Roberto de Andraca, a Chilean exchange student, last night, after viewing a session of the City College Student Council. Chilean student governments are interested in both the internal affairs of the schools and the general politics of the country.

"Your efforts are entirely directed towards internal issues and are much more fruitful than ours in that field, but American students should be more interested in politics, like we are in Chile," said Mr. de Andraca.

Mr. de Andraca has come to the United States for two months

$250 this summer.

To give an example of the interest the Chilean students have in affairs of state, Mr. de Andraca told the story of a group of Peruvian students who fell out of favor with the dictator of that country about a year ago. The students escaped to Argentina but, since at that time the two dictatorships were on friendly terms, they were arrested and deported to their native country.

Council OKs Resolution To Thwart Lists Ruling

By KENNETH FOEGE

A resolution empowering the Civil Liberties Committee of Student Government "to solicit the names of eight students who will sign the membership lists of all political clubs, and other clubs if so wished" was passed last night by a vote of 19-1 at Student Council's first meeting of the term.

Marv Gettleman, proposer of the resolution, said that its purpose is to show the College administration that the present system of membership lists "is not workable."

He further declared that the resolution would enable controversial clubs, such as the Marxist Discussion Club, to remain on campus. The resolution would, in effect, reduce the required number of members signing the lists of the clubs selected, from twelve to four.

Stan Wissner, SG President, one of the two abstaining voters, argued against the resolution, asserting that although he is against membership lists, the action proposed would be "detrimental" to the confidence of the College's faculty in Student Government.

The action would not help the fight against lists, he said, and "it is more important to show Student Government conduct to be mature."

Last term, the General Faculty voted for membership lists without safeguards for a period of one year, at which time an outside advisory committee, chosen by President Buell G. Gallagher, is to give an evaluation of lists at the College.

Fred Jerome, '59, reported that Dr. Gallagher has not yet appointed a committee, and argued that since Student Government has "so little power," this power "should be taken advantage of."

Council's only dissenting voter on the resolution was George Horowitz, '59, who later said he was in favor of membership lists.

"If anyone joins an organization" he asserted, "he should have the courage of his convictions to be a member and sign lists."

SG Secretary Michael Horowitz, commenting on the resolution, called it "sober" and "workable" and said Council's action was "in accordance with its role as a representative of a student body which still is willing to fight for the abolition of compulsory membership lists."

Any students who wish to volunteer for this eight man committee should contact Bob Scheer (Chmn., SG Civil Liberties Comm.).

Gallagher Speaks

President Gallagher spoke before Council at the beginning of the meeting, which was viewed by a visiting group of students from Chile. He was not present when the resolution was passed.

Dr. Gallagher said he was "appalled" at the way civil rights and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) are being treated across the country, and especially in the South.

However he expressed satisfaction at the way civil rights were being handled at the College. "Anybody of any opinion," Dr. Gallagher said, "is free to express it here."

Guest

Fran Leslie, an Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout winner, will be guest singer at the Senior Class Farewell Ball, to be held at the Hotel Statler's Cafe Rouge on Sunday, June 9, at 8:30 PM. Miss Leslie, who has appeared at the Waldorf Astoria among other noted night spots, will be at the College next Thursday between 12 and 2 PM to sell tickets for the Ball. Tickets will be sold in the Senior Class Office, Room 223 Finley. They are priced at $5 per couple, $4 with a class card. The La Playa Sextet and Murray Field's Society band will provide the music and Dave Daley's Dance Troup will present a Latin American Ballroom exhibition.

Twenty-Five Set for Europe On SG Reduced Rate Flight

Reservations for the Student Government sponsored reduced rate flight to Europe have already been made by twenty-five students. The flight, offered for the first time at the College, is open to both students and faculty.

Deposits of $50 each have been placed by the students which entitle them to a seat on the plane. The remainder of the transportation price, $250 must be paid on or before April 12.

Joel Resnick, co-chairman of the SG committee on reduced rate flights to Europe, said that at least ninety-six students have requested information on the flight. It is expected, he said, that we will easily obtain the seventy reservations needed to fill the plane.

The deadline for making plane reservations is February 15. Resnick said that the self imposed deadline was set up in order to give the committee adequate time to make all the business arrangements.

The flight will take off from Idlewild International Airport on June 20 and land at Orly Field, Paris, sixteen hours later. The return flight will leave Paris August 24.

Further information can be obtained from Joel Resnick (UL 1-9139) or SG Secretary Mike Horowitz (TA 2-6808) after 7 PM, or through the SG mailbox in Room 151 Finley Student Center. Deposits should be left with Mr. Irving L. Slade (Student Life) in Room 341 Finley or in the SG office, Room 326 Finley.

A Good Idea

A quarter of a million dollars was granted to the College by the Schiff Foundation six years ago for the development of a year-round student camp. Yet, in those six years the College administration has been unable to obtain a suitable site for the camp. We sincerely urge the administration to renew their efforts, since such a camp could become a valuable, integral part of City College.

The uses the camp could be put to would be many-fold:

- To facilitate instruction in such fields as geology, civil engineering, art, biology and others, the College would have its own site for week-end, and vacation time field trips.
- Student and alumni organizations would be able to use the camp on a year-round basis for recreational purposes.
- In addition, the camp could be used for pre-registration freshman orientation, and the various leadership training type of program offered by Student Government, and other organizations.

The basic facilities of the camp, as now proposed, would include a recreation hall, a lake for boating and swimming, an adequate water supply and sewerage system, and facilities for winter and summer camping.

These, we feel are more than enough reasons for the administration and the entire College to back the proposal actively.

By the Way...

In the spring of last year, with the Campus April Fool affair still reverberating in the halls of the College, Professors Mark Brunswick (Chmn., Music) and Stewart C. Easton (History) prevailed upon President Gallagher to establish a fair set of procedures for student suspensions.

Last semester the importance of this matter was again forcibly driven home by the mystery and vagueness that surrounded the suspension of a student from Brooklyn College. At that time Observation Post also urged Dr. Gallagher to take the necessary steps to provide a system of fair hearings to protect the rights of suspended students. We were assured that something would be done, but to date, there have been no results.

We appreciate the overburdening work that the president has in a school the size of City College, but certainly something of this magnitude should not be lost in the piles of paper work on his desk. We feel, with Professors Brunswick and Easton, that a clear statement of procedures should be adopted and made public as soon as possible.

We believe also that a student-faculty advisory board should be established as part of the procedure so that the final decision will not be the arbitrary one of a single dean. All too often it has happened that in the heat of the situation a dean has felt the pressure for immediate action and has made a regrettable decision. A student-faculty advisory board would provide for more than one viewpoint, and some of the judges would be peers of the accused.

We again urge President Gallagher to give this matter some serious consideration, and to arrive at a just and democratic solution. We hope that the need for suspension procedures will not be necessary, but should the unfortunate eventuality arise, we would not want the slap-dash events of last year's Campus-affair to be repeated.

Connoisseurs

The College men, proving themselves connoisseurs of true beauty, chose Carole Malden (right) winner of last December's Miss Fraternity contest.

As it can be clearly seen, she had almost no competition from Sheila Grenard, one of the seven girls also entered in the competition.

The contest, sponsored by Tau Alpha Omega, was staged for the benefit of the March of Dimes. The winner was determined by the amount of money contributed for each contestant at booths located at Knittle Lounge and the Finley Student Center. Miss Malden, who received $23.48 out of a total of $70.66 contributed, was entered by Phi Lambda Delta.

Faculty Musicians to Perform Brunswick Work at Carnegie

A concert of chamber music, offering the first public performance of a work by Professor Mark Brunswick, (Chmn., Music), will be presented in the Carnegie Recital Hall by the faculty of the College's music department, Thursday, February 14, at 8:30 PM.

Professor Brunswick's piece, entitled "Seven Trios for String Quartet," will be performed by the Faculty String Quartet. The work is written for different combinations of three string instruments.

Tickets for the concert, at $1.50 and $2, are available at the Carnegie Hall Box Office. Checks and mail orders addressed and made payable to Pro Musica, 139th Street and Convent Avenue, New York 31, may be sent to the College.

The concert opener will be Mozart's "Divertimento No. 11 in D Major for Strings, Oboe and Two Horns, K. 251." Accompanying the Faculty String Quartet will be Bernard Shapiro on the oboe, Professor Norman Pickering and Robert Spector, horns, and Walter Sear, double bass. Spector was the undergraduate winner of the College's 1956 music contest.

The Faculty String Quartet is composed of Professor Felix Galimir and Michael Tolomeo, violins, Professor Jack Shapiro, viola, and Professor Otto Deri, cello.

Also included in the program will be the modern "Phantasy for Violin and Piano, Opus 47," by Arnold Schoenberg, performed by Professor Galimir, violin, and Professor Fritz Jahoda, piano.

Closing the concert will be "Quartet in E Flat Major, Opus 37," performed by Professors Galimir, Jahoda, Shapiro, and Deri.

Alumni Assoc. Ponders Shift

The Alumni Associa is investigating the possibilities of moving its offices to the Finley Student Center.

According to Seymour Weisman, Secretary of the Alumni Association, the organization is growing and its facilities at 238 Convent Avenue are inadequate.

One of the aims of the Association is to have closer contact with student groups on the campus, and "close physical proximity" would help the students "get to know" the Alumni.

The organization works very closely with the Department of Student Life and the Placement Office. Mr. Weisman pointed out, and it would prevent a great deal of inconvenience if the Association were centrally located along with the other two organizations.

Education . . .

Late registration for special courses for teachers and prospective teachers in the School of Education has been extended until February 15. Among the courses still open is the Practicum in Curriculum Construction for the Secondary Schools. Miss Renee Fulton, who teaches the course, is the Administrative Coordinator of the Bureau of Curriculum Research of the New York City Board of Education.

Debaters Take Opener, 72-52

The debating team won its first match of the season on January 19, defeating Northeastern University 72-52. The question to be debated the entire season is, Resolved: "That the United States Discontinue Direct Economic Aid to Foreign Countries."

The team was led to victory by Captain Gil August and club president Bill Roth, debating for the affirmative, and Julius Reichel and Arnold Lieberman, debating the negative. A return match with Northeastern University will take place at the College on March 16.

Other matches in which the College's debating team will participate are set for Saturday at Barnard College, March 2 at Hofstra College, March 3 at Yeshiva University, March 8-9 at Brooklyn College and March 30 at the College. Thirty-five colleges and universities are expected to take part in the debate at the College.

Students interested in joining the debating team are urged to attend the club's first meeting Thursday at 12:30 PM in Room 348 Finley.

Beardless Prof's Motto: Hair Today-Gone Tom'w

An English professor has become his old self again. Professor Edward E. Penn (English), after two years of sporting a beard, has shaven it off. Thus, with several snips of the scissors, the professor has gone against a trend that is growing in popularity at the College. However, Dr. Irving Branman (Speech) still may be a guiding light for those contemplating cultivation of the area around the chin.

"I grew my beard on impulse and I shaved it on impulse," explains Professor Penn. He found that the chin stubble had its advantages, but also disadvantages. Primarily, the Professor believes the wearer of a beard feels he has to be on "his dignity" all the time. Now Professor Penn believes he may enjoy life more with his hair down. Although at least one coed expressed great anguish at his sudden balding chin, the Professor has no regrets. He will not miss, for example, the experience of having a little boy follow him for several blocks, then finally get up enough courage to ask, "Mister, is it real?" The youngster found it was after Professor Penn obligingly let the boy have a few tugs at it.

Besides restricting facial expression, as Professor Penn thinks it does, a beard also needs attention. While he had no difficulty eating, Professor Penn explained that occasionally "I had egg droppings in my beard after breakfast." Thus, it is actually more trouble to keep it than discard it. "It has to be trimmed, brushed and cleaned regularly," he says.

After two years, Professor Penn is now perfectly content to be back with his "granite-like" chin.

The Branman Beard, "just a hum-drum one," by Dr. Branman's definition, has been taking up space for two years. It's "raison d'etre" is this: "It was too much trouble to shave." His wife is satisfied with it.

Dr. Branman's beard, bewitchingly black, extends from the sides of his lips downward to a length of about an inch and a half. However, he doesn't find it any harder to eat certain foods, spaghetti for example, and the cleanliness of the beard is no problem.

People tend to associate those wearing beards with the arts, or other fields. "Just several weeks ago, in a super market in New Jersey, a woman came over to me believing I was a member of a religious sect different from hers, and she tried to convince me to convert," laughs the Speech instructor.

Professor Penn and Doctor Branman do agree on one point, though; a beard adds a certain something to the person. "Gas station attendants, for example, believing I was some sort of dignitary, were very courteous and attentive towards me," relates Penn.

"The point about the beard," says Branman, "is that I have to live with myself—I ignore looks or comment about it."

High-Flying Cagers, 8-3, To Meet Knights, Terriers

Red-hot and rarin' to go after its brilliant last-second win over Fordham Tuesday, the College's basketball team will see action twice during the coming week. The Beavers, with an 8-3 mark, will face a mediocre Queens quintet tomorrow night, and a strong, fast, but unpredictable St. Francis five on Tuesday, Lincoln's Birthday. Both contests are scheduled for 8:30 PM, with freshman preliminaries at 6:30.

The St. Francis contest figures to be the tougher of the two, although the Terriers have had their ups and downs this year. They were upset 85-82 by Fairleigh Dickinson, a team which the Beavers trounced by nineteen points.

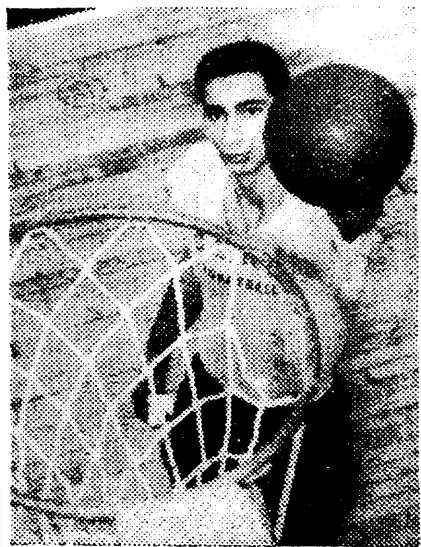

Nevertheless, the Brooklynites have four regulars back from the team which gained a National Invitation Tournament berth last season, and on a good night they could make trouble for the best in the country.

The four returning starters are center Al Innis, forward Walt Adamushko, and guards Tony D'Elia and Les Yellin. Innis and Adamushko are excellent rebounders who can also score on hooks and jumps. De'Elia and Yellin have good set shots and like to drive.

The small Wingate floor will probably cut down on the Terriers' fast-breaking attack, but the Beaver shooters will have to be sharp to spring an upset.

Tomorrow's contest is a return match of the December 8 fray at Queens, which the Lavender won, 77-67. In eight meetings of the two schools since the series began in 1948, the Knights have yet to win.

Syd Levy Hill-Topper

The Beavers, with 6-9 Syd Levy, will have a tremendous height advantage, since the Knights' tallest regular, center Don Hill, is only 6-3. Hill is the highest scorer in Queens history, with over 800 points in his three-year career. He and 5-11 Bob Bass, co-captains of the squad, led the Knights in the previous City-Queens contest with fifteen points apiece.

Pete Allen, 6-2, Al Mohr, 5-8, and Tony Carpio, 5-10, will probably round out the starting five for the Queensmen.

Coach Dave Polansky will probably go with his regular starting lineup: Levy, Marv Rose, Bob Silver, Joe Bennardo, and Ralph Schefflan.

The Queens game is a Municipal Conference contest. The Beavers are leading in the conference with a 3-1 record.

Athletes . . .

• A meeting for candidates and returning team members of the tennis squad will be held at noon next Thursday, February 14, outside the Athletic Office in Lewisohn Stadium.

• Students interested in lacrosse are requested to see Coach Leon A. "Chief" Miller daily from 3-5 PM in Lewisohn Stadium.

Sports Notes . . .

• Varsity baseball tryouts will begin 9 AM Saturday in the Goethals Gym. Tryouts for the freshman team will be held Tuesday, Lincoln's Birthday. Frosh whose last names begin with the letters A-L should report at 9 AM, others at noon. All candidates must report to the tryouts with sneakers, baseball glove, and a medical eligibility card signed by a parent and the school physician. Cards may be obtained in the Athletic Office, Lewisohn Stadium.

Five Lavender Squads Compete Over Weekend

The Beavers will be busy this weekend.

In addition to the basketball team, which plays two games, four City squads will see action. The swimmers splash against Brooklyn at Brooklyn; the wrestlers tangle with NYU in the Goethals gym; the fencers vie with MIT in the Wingate Gym; and the Riflers shoot against Hofstra at Hofstra.

The mermen will be hurt by the loss of Joe White and Jim Grasso, who were declared scholastically ineligible. Nevertheless, they should have little trouble in extending their Met sweep over the Kingsmen. The Beavers are 4-1 thus far, their only loss coming in a non-Met meet at Columbia.

The grapplers, who came acropper at Wilkes last week after winning their first four matches, will attempt to rebound against the Violets, who are still undefeated.

Commenting on the squad's prospects, Coach Joe Sapora said: "We have a very rough schedule for the remainder of the season. Unless the boys perform more capably than last week, we'll be in trouble.

"But," he added, "the boys will be in perfect shape this week and we expect to beat NYU despite their record."

The fencers are in a somewhat different situation. After three starts against some of the top teams in the country, they are still looking for their first win.

To Meet Princeton

The parriers will get two chances for victory during the next week. They meet MIT here Saturday and travel to Princeton on Tuesday.

Princeton is rated one of the top teams in the East. Several men have graduated from the squad that beat the Beavers last season, but the Tigers still have two standout performers—Al Miller, foil, and Paul Levy, epee.

The Riflers, who won the first six matches before losing to Army, will return to league competition at Hofstra.
