Rizzo Criticizes Report On Election Controversy

A recommendation that the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities (SFCSA) take no action concerning alleged campaign violations by Senior Class President Martin Pollner, was termed "not legal or ethical procedure" by last term's president, Michael Rizzo.

The recommendation is included in a report which will be submitted by a three-man sub-committee of SFCSA at SFCSA's first meeting of the term today. The sub-committee is composed of Dr. Lawrence Podell (Sociology), Student Government President Stan Wissner, and Mr. Stamos O. Zades (Student Life) acting as a resource person.

Based on Hearing

The report is the result of a hearing conducted by the sub-committee during intersession, in which Rizzo charged Pollner with violating campaign regulations in last semester's election.

At the hearing, Rizzo also accused the SG Executive Committee of treating his case unfairly. Exec, in a previous hearing had dismissed all charges against Pollner.

The sub-committee recommendation states that "since the Executive is willing to rehear Mr. Rizzo's allegations . . . we believe that all avenues of appeal on the student level have not been exhausted." It was suggested by the sub-committee, however, that Student Council look into the matter of altering certain election procedures.

Rizzo Hits SFCSA

Upon hearing of the recommendation to let Exec handle the case, Rizzo criticized the SFCSA for "sending it back to the same

Stan Wissner

Member of Subcommittee

court (Exec) which was derelict in duty."

Pollner commented that "As far as I'm concerned, the whole affair is over. He characterized the present election rules as "archaic" and added that "I tried to pep up an apathetic election to bring some life back to student affairs, and for doing so I was persecuted by narrow-minded and short-sighted individuals."

UBE . . .

Students who have not received payments for books sold by the Used Book Exchange last term (Sept. '56), may collect their money from Mr. Irving L. Slade, central treasurer, Room 341 Finley. Students with signed seller's receipts can obtain their money every day, except Thursday, from 9:30 AM to 4 PM.

South Campus Beaver Statue Erected Soon

The College's twenty-three-year tradition of having a beaver as a mascot will soon be put in concrete form, when a five-foot limestone statue is erected on the South Campus.

Photographs of a clay model of the beaver have been submitted to the College by the sculptor, and work on the statue will begin as soon as the plans are approved by the City Art Commission.

Donated by the class of '56, the statue will be sculpted by Robert I. Roussin, Mr. Roussin, an alumnus of the College, is currently a member of the Art Department at the University of Wisconsin.

The Beaver was established as the College's mascot in 1934, when President Frederick Robinson decided to award a football to the student who suggested the best idea. President Robinson thought that the Beaver, being an animal with intelligence, industry, and earnest endeavor, would be the ideal mascot for the College.

'CV' Ex-Editor, Advisor, Hit 'Campus' Distortions'

A former editor of CV charged last night that a column in yesterday's issue of The Campus carried "distortions of facts." The comments of the former editor, Richard O'Malley, were concurred in by the publication's faculty advisor, Dr. Frank Brescia (Chemistry).

They denied the following statements which were made in a column by copy editor Fred Jerome:

• That "every member of the staff of CV is required to join the Newman Club."

• That "meetings of CV are attended by Father William Mulloy, advisor to the Newman Club, who makes strong 'suggestions' as to the content of each issue."

• That "the Newman Club has given at least one financial 'gift' to CV which went to supplement the student fees."

Possible Violation Seen

In an editorial and in the column the impression was conveyed that CV may be a publication of the Newman Club, a religious group. This would be in violation of the constitutional principle of separation of state and religion since student fees are considered public fees and CV received financial support from the evening session student fees.

The editorial and the column asked for a study of the situation before CV receives a request of $500 it is asking for from evening session student fees.

Deny Affiliation

Dr. Brescia and O'Malley denied that the publication is currently an organ of the Newman Club. CV, they said, has not been a publication of the Newman Club since the spring of 1956 when the newspaper became chartered by the evening session student government and began receiving student fees.

Referring to the statement that membership in the Newman Club is a requirement for staff status on CV, O'Malley said, "the business manager and roughly half the staff are not members of the Newman Club." The publication's charter states, he said, that "all regularly enrolled evening session students in good standing are eligible to become members of the staff of Catholic Views."

He denied that Father Mulloy, the chaplain of the Newman Club, makes strong suggestions as to the content of each issue. Father Mulloy, he said, "almost never attends meetings of CV and has never determined or initiated an article or editorial of CV."

Father William Mulloy

"Never Determined Articles"

The only funds the publication has received from the Newman Club, O'Malley said was $22 in December of 1955, before the publication became chartered as an undergraduate newspaper in the evening session. "We have received no money since then," he said.

The Editor-in-Chief of The Campus, Edward Kosner, declined specific comment on the charges but gave this statement: "Fred Jerome's integrity as an individual and as a reporter is unquestioned at the College. I know the information he reported concerning CV was gathered in responsible journalistic fashion—a good deal of it is first hand. The Campus unequivocally affirms the reliability of his report. We are prepared to offer corroboration at any time."

Ike's Middle Eastern Policy 'Too Late,' Duchacek Asserts

By SANDY HELFENSTEIN

The psychological effect of the Eisenhower Middle Eastern Doctrine upon Russia has been lost because of the "dragging out" of legislative discussion in Congress, Professor Ivo Duchacek (Govt.) said yesterday. In a lecture at Hillel House, Prof. Duchacek said that if immediate action had been taken to approve the doctrine, it would have had an effect as a threat to the USSR.

The Middle East Doctrine "has come too late," he said. But he agrees with former President Harry Truman that "we can't change the past but we must do something about the future."

He stressed the similarities between the Truman Doctrine of 1947 and the new Eisenhower Doctrine, both having as their main object the checking of Communist expansion. He said that in both instances the fact was recognized that the British and the French had lost much power and either Russia or America would move in.

At City College everybody reads OP. Why not have a part in it?

It makes no difference whether or not you have any experience. All that is needed is interest and a willingness to learn. And it makes no difference whether you want to write, draw, take photos, or join our business department, OP has a place for you.

Don't be left out in the cold. Come to 336 Finley and sign up for our candidates' meetings, anytime.

Summer Jobs Now Available

Students seeking summer jobs in camps or hotels can submit applications to the Placement Office in Room 204 Finley, starting today.

Beginning March 7, four big companies, owning from eight hundred to a thousand camps, will conduct interviews on campus. Appointments for interviews can now be made for weekdays between 9:30 and 11 AM.

Jobs will be available for camps in upper New York State, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maine, Canada, and in the Midwest. Salaries this year are expected to range from $100-$1000, depending upon qualifications.

The camp jobs will offer experience for students, especially those majoring in Education and Sociology, according to Herbert Robbins of the Placement Office. Students are advised to make their applications as soon as possible.

Seniors . . .

All seniors who want their pictures in this term's Microcosm must make an appointment by Thursday, February 21. Deadline for orders of the yearbook, and payment of balance due, is Friday, February 22.

If, And, But...

With an interesting twist to the old adage "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em," Student Council has come up with a very clever plan for subverting the Membership List ruling. Eight students will sign the Membership List of any organization that wants them to, and thereby negate one of the major effects of Lists: to force off campus "undesirable" groups. In this way, providing that there are four legitimate members of the organization who will act as officers, students can have the benefit of a club, can hear its speakers and participate in its meetings, without risking future consequences. This, it is hoped, will rejuvenate the faltering political life on campus, and in time, cause our benevolent administration to see the error of their ways.

But how effective the plan will be, we do not know. The recent attitude among the College's administrators with respect to this issue has been anything but one that pays the slightest attention to the students' desires. Their students-may-care attitude, could (unfortunately it is not inconceivable) manifest itself in even more "Big Brother" actions to thwart these audacious students who dare to take active measures against the commandments of the College. There could conceivably be rulings all the way from allowing only the club's members to hand out leaflets, to counting noses and names of everyone attending a meeting.

This is a rather pessimistic attitude, and in these unfortunate times one can not afford to be pessimistic without giving up all hope. So we would rather hope that this committee is successful in getting the administration to revoke Membership Lists, and we salute Student Council for coming up with a fine idea.

Back Again?

The fact finding subcommittee of the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities concerned with last semester's Senior Class presidential campaign has recommended that SFCSA take no action on the issue. Instead the subcommittee advises that the Executive Committee of Student Government review the case once again.

In his allegations presented to the subcommittee, Mike Rizzo, the defeated candidate for the office, charged that a quorum of the Executive Committee was not present when it convened and that the two members of Exec who later joined the two present did not hear all of the discussion. Nor was there a quorum present when the decision was made to disregard the election violation evidence concerning the first campaign, Rizzo claimed.

He also charged that there were non-Executive members present at the closed meeting and that he was not notified of such a meeting until the day he was to appear.

It would seem that a decision on this matter, which concerns not only a presidential election but all elections at the College, should be made as soon as possible and not be bandied about. The decision should have come from the SG Elections Agency the day after Rizzo made the charges. The buck was passed to the Executive Committee, which seemed totally disinterested in disturbing itself to arrive at a legal decision.

The decision of the SFCSA subcommittee is completely unrealistic in recommending that the Rizzo-Pollner case be sent back to Executive Committee. It seems all too possible that the members of Exec would adopt the same attitude they displayed previously. Would another fact finding committee be set up and the decision concerning electioneering in general and the uncertain status of Rizzo and Pollner be put off until the end of the semester? We hope not.

Comic Books, Pin-Up Mags, Movies On Instructor's 'Entertainment' List

By JERRY ESKENAZI

While most professors were pouring through tomes of intellectual works, Dr. Geoffrey Wagner (English) was reading thousands of comic books, lewd pin-up magazines and going to second rate movies. But it was all in the interests of sociology. Two years of immersion into "popular American entertainment" by Dr. Wagner resulted in a published sociological study titled "Parade of Pleasure." The book attempted to explain the infiltration of the seamy side of sex into the United States today.

Dr. Wagner, an instructor in Contemporary English at the College for several years, however, doesn't have to teach for a living. He already has several other books on the market (hard and paper-backs) which have sold over one million copies. At a minimum royalty of one cent a copy, Dr. Wagner can afford to stay home and read all the comics he wants.

Although his paper-backs sell well (Dr. Wagner estimates the figure around 800,000), he is unhappy about the covers on these books. On "Born of the Sun," for instance, there is a cover drawing of a man and woman in various stages of undress with the headline, "She wanted a lover—and a master." Dr. Wagner, writing in "Parade of Pleasure," takes issue with these soft-covered books that try the "hard sell" method by spicing up the covers.

Dr. Geoffrey Wagner, as drawn by his wife.

Since these same covers aid the sale of his books, how does he explain this seeming inconsistency? "When you sell a manuscript to a book company," Dr. Wagner answered, "they reserve the right to do the covers, but I'm not happy with them."

Three Books Coming

The Oxford graduate can look back with pride at his past accomplishments. One of his books, "Venables," was on the New York Times best seller list. Another novel, published last year, "The Dispossessed," was selected by Russell Kirk, a well-known critic of the Chicago Tribune, as the year's best novel.

However, Dr. Wagner does not plan to rest on his laurels. He will have one book published in March and two in April.

One would think that with all this extra-curricular activity, Dr. Wagner might be tempted to go full-time at it and leave education. He explains it this way: "I'm far more useful to society as a teacher than as a writer. Anyway, there's just so much in a Marilyn Monroe calendar that one can absorb."

Letters

Clarification

At this time, I feel compelled to write a letter in order to clarify a statement made in the Wednesday, February 13, 1957, edition of the Observation Post, Vol. XXI, No. 3. The article appeared on Page One, under the heading "Frat Labeled 'Cellar-Club' Loses House." The fraternity house is located at 23 East 95th Street, in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn, and was termed "a breeding place for juvenile delinquents." This is an unfair allegation leveled against a fine group of City College students. The only common denominator existing between this fraternity and the so called "cellar clubs" is the fact that these groups occupied basement quarters.

Under date of Friday, January 25, 1957, the New York World Telegram and Sun published an article which stated "Five teenage cellar clubs closed by East Flatbush Police raids." Unfortunately, one of the lessees of the five groups was Phi Lambda Delta. I have written a letter to the Attorney for Phi Lambda Delta fraternity soliciting his help in order that the landlord might comply with existing statutes. It is my understanding that the owner of the premises is in the process of securing a certificate of occupancy.

I realize fully that there was no malicious intent on the part of the OP reporter to cast any reflection on the character of this group. If I had felt that this group contributed to juvenile delinquency, action would have been instituted by me to disenfranchise the organization. I would not have waited for the Police Department or the Building Department to act.

I am writing this letter in the hope that you will correct any false impressions that may have arisen in the minds of your readers concerning Phi Lambda Delta.

Eleven Greek Students Here; Residence Requirement Lifted

By SHELLY HALPERN

The four Hungarians are not the only students who have had their residence requirements waived in order to matriculate at the college. A group of eleven Greek students have also been granted the special privilege of attending the College as matriculated students without first establishing residence in New York City.

In accordance with a plan sponsored by the American Hellenic Bureau of Education, a small number of scholastically superior Greek students who speak English are sent each year on scholarships to American colleges and universities. Only a limited number of students can apply for the scholarships since they must finance their own passage, and the number of students who are awarded scholarships are only a fraction of those that try out.

In 1953, the new students qualified for scholarships on the basis of a nationwide competition, and were assigned to the College. One of the eleven is Nicolas Michas who is specializing in the study of undeveloped areas. After his graduation in June, Michas hopes to do graduate work in the United States and to ultimately return to Greece.

Michas, who lives alone, finds the life of a student in America quite unlike that of his native home in the suburbs of Athens. In Greece, he said, there is no provision for part time jobs. "It is much easier here for the student to be independent—to do the things he wants to do. In Greece," he said, "if a student could not afford to go to school, he would have a full time job. But here I am able to go to school and also earn enough to help support myself."

Promethean, the College's literary magazine, is sponsoring a poetry contest for students at the school.

Material submitted to the magazine must be left in the Promethean mailbox, Room 151 Finley, no later than 3 PM, Friday, March 8. Each contributor is limited to a maximum of three poems, none of which can exceed 150 lines.

The author's name and address must not appear on the manuscript, but should be enclosed in a sealed envelope on a separate paper attached to the poem.

The judges of the contest are Professors Edward C. Mack (English), Ralph Gordon (English) and Norman Schlenoff (English). The prize is $20, plus publication of the winning poem in the magazine.

Promethean reserves the right to publish any material submitted for the contest.

Torrid Hoopsters Meet BC Tonight In Final Home Contest of Campaign

Revenge will be the motive and the Municipal Conference championship the prize when the blistering Beaver cagers meet Brooklyn tonight in their last home contest of the season. Game time is 8:30 PM, with frosh tilt at 6:30. The Beavers, possessors of a 10-3 record, have won five in a row, and will be out to avenge an early season 80-73 defeat by the Kingsmen.

A Lavender victory will give them possession of the Alumni Cup, which is awarded annually to the team with the best record in the basketball round-robin competition among the four Municipal Colleges.

City is 4-1 in the conference, with double victories over Hunter and Queens. Brooklyn lost one of its two games with Hunter, and will not meet Queens for the second time until Wednesday.

The Kingsmen have been weakened since they defeated the Beavers in December by the graduation of one of their top scorers, Jerry Wax. Wax holds the all-time Brooklyn scoring mark of 869 points. He tallied twenty-one in the last City contest.

The current Brooklyn high scorer is Nick Gaetani, who is averaging 15.8 points per game. Three other regulars — Morty Weiss, Hank Smit, and Lenny Schroeder—are also scoring in double figures.

The Beavers again will have a decided height advantage. Syd Levy, 6-9, and Bob Silver, 6-5, are taller than any of the Brooklyn regulars.

Levy has been playing terrific ball in leading the Beavers to five straight wins, including up-sets over Fordham and St. Francis. He has scored twenty points or more in the last five contests.

Silver also has shown improvement, both in the rebounding and scoring departments.

Marv Rose, who missed the Queens contest last Friday because of a badly bruised heel and who was used sparingly but effectively against St. Francis Tuesday, will probably see limited action again tonight.

Joe Bennardo, Jim Mazzaferro, and Ralph Schefflan will round out the starting lineup.

Four Other Teams to See Action

Although the sensational exploits of the basketball team have been gaining most of the headlines lately, the other four winter squads have been performing exceptionally well. The swimmers, wrestlers, fencers, and riflers have compiled twenty wins against seven losses. All four teams will see action over the weekend.

The swimmers, who are 6-1 and undefeated against Metropolitan swimming opponents, will face a strong NYU squad in the Wingate pool at 8 PM tonight.

The wrestlers, 5-1, will meet Kings Point at 7:30 PM on the Goethals Gym mats.

The fencers, who rebounded from three straight defeats to cop matches from MIT and Princeton, will try to reach the 500 mark against Brooklyn tomorrow. The match is scheduled for 2 PM at the Brooklyn strips.

The sharpshooters, with a 7-2 record, fire against Seton Hall tonight at the Pirates' range at 6 PM.

City squads have been victorious in their last seven events.

Athletic Association Revamp Organization of Cheerleaders

A concerted effort to put back the cheer in the Cheerleaders has been launched by the Varsity Club and the Student Athletic Association (SAA). At a special meeting Wednesday night the SAA adopted proposals that completely revamp the organization with a view toward making it a more effective and dynamic group.

The changes include an expansion of the activities covered to include sports other than basketball, an increase in the number of cheerleaders from twelve to fifteen in order to reduce burden on each individual, a new method of selecting cheerleaders.

The first call for cheerleaders will be held on Thursday, February 28. Tryouts will be held two weeks later.

The new yell will be selected by the presidents of SAA and the Varsity Club, the captain and faculty advisor of the Cheerleaders.

Under the existing system new cheerleaders are selected by the old ones. According to high-ranking varsity club member, "This has led to clique rule under which many qualified girls were turned down."

Dissatisfaction with the group began early in the soccer season and came to a head last week when only one girl showed up at the Fordham basketball game.

At present there are only five members in the organization.
