UNDERGRADUATE NEWSPAPER OF CITY COLLEGE

Tuesday, October 29, 1957

NAACP...

Miss Daisy Bates, President of the NAACP in Arkansas, has been invited by the NAACP of the Day and Evening Session to speak at the College Friday. If she accepts, she will speak at 3 PM in the Finley Student Center.

New Cohen Library Officially Open: Limited Use Available at Present

The $3,500,000 Morris Raphael Cohen Library officially opened yesterday after a brief ribbon-cutting ceremony on the steps of the main entrance at 10 AM. President Buell G. Gallagher wielded the scissors as Professor Jerome K. Wilcox, chief librarian, and a small group of faculty, librarians and students looked on.

Construction difficulties have delayed the opening of the library several times. Only the first floor—housing the main reading room and reserve collection of assigned texts used for college courses are now available to students.

The new $3,500,000 Morris Raphael Cohen Library which was officially opened yesterday.

Out of Storage

For the past thirty years, library facilities have been scattered around the campus. More than 35,000 volumes kept in storage until now have been installed in the new library which has a total capacity of 600,000 volumes and can seat 1,600 readers.

Library officials are making an attempt to relax the traditionally hushed atmosphere of most libraries. A special section will be set aside where students and faculty members will be permitted to smoke and talk quietly with one another.

In addition to staircases, there is an entire system of ramps giving access to the different levels.

Pneumatic tubes and conveyor belts will be used to transmit book requests and deliver books.

Named For Philosopher

The library is named after the late Professor Morris Raphael Cohen, philosopher and College faculty member for thirty-six years.

Temporary Quarters

The former Library Building was begun in 1937 at Convent Avenue and 140 Street. It was never carried beyond the first of the four proposed units.

The Technology Library will be moved from Townsend Harris Hall to temporary quarters in the Great Hall, pending completion of construction of the new Technology Building.

Petition Drive Hampered By Student Fear

An atmosphere of fear has caused a number of students to shy away from signing the Student Government-sponsored Sharkey-Brown-Isaacs Bill petition, Chairman of the Human Rights Agency Howard Schumann said yesterday.

"The Technology men and the ROTC men seem to be in the forefront of the people uneasy about signing anything for fear of future consequences," Schumann claimed.

The petition urges the "prompt passage" of the Sharkey-Brown-Isaacs Fair Housing Bill. It will be presented to Mayor Robert F. Wagner when he speaks in the Grand Ballroom of the Finley Student Center Friday at 2:30 PM.

Schumann estimates that, at present, 1,000 members of the College community have signed the petition. He expects to double that figure by tomorrow. "There has been a fine turnout of petition-signers on the South Campus," he said.

A number of faculty members have signed the petition, among them Mr. Irwin Brownstein (Student Life), Mr. David Newton (Student Life), Professor Mark (Continued on Page 3)

Gallagher, Flynn's Campaign Heads Clash on Her Right To Speak Here

By NINA MANZI

President Buell G. Gallagher and Elizabeth Gurley Flynn's campaign managers clashed yesterday over the refusal to permit her to speak at the College.

In a telegram sent to Dr. Gallagher Sunday, Miss Flynn's managers, Albert Blumberg and Miss Evelyn Wiener, charged Defending his stand in a letter to the managers, the president denied that the decision was "arbitrary." He explained that "the dent body "have that right," that all other persons are "visitors" and that their access to the College "is a privilege, not a right."

Miss Flynn was denied permission to speak because of the Council of Municipal College Presidents' ruling, which bars Smith Act violators from the campuses of the five municipal colleges. The People's Rights' Party candidate for City Council in the Twenty-Fourth District, Miss Flynn was invited by the Marxist Discussion Club to speak this Thursday on "Issues Facing and the Role of Socialist Third Parties in New York."

The telegram from Miss Flynn's campaign managers reads:

"We protest your arbitrary decision depriving Elizabeth Gurley Flynn of the right to speak on City College campus. She is a duly qualified candidate for City Council on ballot by petition by 1,000 voters.

"Your decision violates the right of people to discuss election issues and restricts process of democratic election.

been suppressed by the "liberal" newspapers. Gottself called this "completely untrue," saying that the newspapers offered no opposition to the formation of new papers.

"Rejection of the draft occurred in Exec because of the document's poor form, rather than because of any inherent objection to its contents," said Steve Nagler, SG Vice-president. He listed as part of the poor form "too frequent use of colloquial expressions and too much rambling within the context of the rebuttal."

Exec Council Rejects Content Of Rebuttal Letter to O'Malley

By EDITH SHAPIRO

Student Government Executive Committee last night rejected by a vote of 3-2 the text of a rebuttal to Richard O'Malley's allegations in American Mercury that the College "is rightfully known . . . as a hotbed of leftwing activity." Exec further designated Howard Schumann to present a more acceptable form of the draft to the committee.

The rebuttal was proposed by Harold Gottself, Chairman of the Civil Liberties Committee. Gottself's letter condemned O'Malley, accusing him of having stated "half-truths" and "inaccuracies." He also demanded an apology from American Mercury for what he termed "yellow journalism."

Referring to O'Malley's allegations that News and Views had

Deans Agree To Sponsor Met Prom

Mrs. Buell G. Gallagher has agreed to be honorary chairlady of the "Five-College Prom" to be held Thanksgiving night at the Sheraton-Astor Hotel. The honorary chairmen will be Dean Morton Gottshall (Liberal Arts and Sciences) and Dean James S. Peace

Sponsorship of the Prom has been accepted by Dean William E. Colford (Liberal Arts), Dean Daniel F. Brophy (Student Life), Stamos O. Zades (Student Life), Professor Stewart C. Easton (History), Jerome Gold (Student Life), and jeans from the Baruch School, Hunter, and Queens.

According to Arthur Genen, Prom Chairman, a rally and parade for the Prom will be held Thursday at 12 Noon. The parade, he continued, will begin at the North Campus, wind its way around the South Campus, and end in the Grand Ballroom of the Finley Student Center.

Repeat Performance

A new revue, the Smith Act Follies, opened here last week. From all indications, it promises to have as successful a run as last term's spirited Reason Takes a Holiday, starring John Gates and Buell G. Gallagher with the remainder of the Council of Five Municipal College Presidents and the Board of Higher Education lending strong support.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn has stepped into the role of the crimson scourge that Gates so ably handled last term, while Dr. Gallagher resumes his usual role.

As the curtain went up on last term's production, those guardians of the flower of freedom of inquiry saw red at the prospect of Gates speaking at any of the five City Colleges. They not only banned him, but all other Smith Act violators as well. Soon afterward, the BHE backed the council of five and refused to have ruling rescinded.

Although the ukase was only instituted in March, it barely remained on this side of absurdity by the time the end of the spring term rolled around. The rider to the Smith Act ruling, which forbids the appearance on any of the five municipal campuses of persons under indictment for crimes or other offenses, was flouted twice last term. Once, when Bayard Rustin, who was appealing an indictment for having refused to take shelter during an air raid, appeared, and also when President Gallagher granted permission to segregationist Asa Carter to address a group of students at the College.

This term, the misbegotten measure becomes even more untenable. Right now, officials at the College are placed in the rather foolish position of banning from the campus a person who has fulfilled all the qualifications for candidacy to a position in the municipal government. Although Miss Flynn's chances of landing a position on the City Council are slim, we would be faced with the almost unbelievable ridiculous prospect of refusing admission to an official of the city government if she were to win!

It is clear to anyone who examines it that such a ruling does more damage to the democratic heritage of free inquiry than it could ever do to Communism. We have said before and we will reiterate that a glib speech or fast line is not enough to lead us down a one way red road.

We couldn't see any reason for this ruling to be instituted back in March and we can see even less reason for its continued existence now. Communists can speak at the College, but Communists who are Smith Act violators cannot. We just can't see it.

The ruling is almost certain to be appealed soon to the same body that muffed its chance to reaffirm last spring its faith in the basic tenets of our educational institutions. We ask the BHE to supplant hysteria with reason and to recommend that the ruling be discarded as soon as possible.

College's Medieval Setting Offset by Modern Library

By ESTRELLA MEIJMIL

The already diverse appearance of the College grounds has been vested with yet another type of architecture. Resembling a shorter version of the glass-enclosed Lever Brothers Building on Park Avenue, the Morris Raphael Cohen Library now lends a modernistic note to the College. The "highly utilitarian" structure of the library complements the "latest trend" in library science.

Large windows supply the reading and reference rooms with natural lighting, with fluorescent lighting working on dark days. The long ramp which connects

Students in reading room

Large windows supply the reading and reference rooms with natural lighting, with fluorescent lighting working on dark days. The long ramp which connects floors creates a feeling of space and distance. Suggestive of the lobby in the United Nations Building, the ramp will be emulated in the Guggenheim Museum, designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, and presently being erected on Fifth Avenue.

Special Facilities

The 120,000 square foot building will house audio-visual facilities, including a film rental service and phonograph equipment. Easy-to-reach bookstacks will fill the floors of the library, and communication between the sections will be facilitated by a pneumatic tube system.

At present the library presents an aspect of confusion. Books are piled on the floors and on tables. Only the shelves are empty. Adding to the chaos is the melange of library personnel and workmen who rush back and forth attempting to organize the library. The newness of the building is evident from the putty which is still on the walls and floors. Building equipment has scattered throughout the building, and some of the entrances are still roped off. Only the first floor is open for public use at present. But it's open!

Ar-OP Report

Housing Bill Explained

By STEVE LUDWIG

On May 21 of this year the Sharkey-Brown-Isaacs Fair Housing Bill was introduced before the New York City Council and received Mayor Robert F. Wagner's endorsement. Since that time the bill has been bottled up in committee and almost certainly will not be acted on until Nov. 2.

The bill was introduced by Joseph T. Sharkey, City Council majority leader; Stanley M. Isaacs, Manhattan Republican-Liberal and Council minority leader, and Earl Brown, Democratic Councilman. If passed, the bill will be the first anti-discrimination law dealing with private housing in the United States.

Under the bill, it would be considered a misdemeanor to refuse to rent or sell dwelling space in tenements, apartments and residential hotel suites for reasons of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry. If a landlord was found guilty of discriminatory practices, he would be subject to a $500 fine. One and two-family homes are excluded from the bill's jurisdiction.

An amendment has been proposed designating the Commission on Inter-group Relations to rule on complaints of both the tenants and landlords. If a landlord persisted in excluding a particular tenant, there would be a formal hearing and decision. Supreme Court injunction would be used as a final method of enforcement.

Another proposed amendment exempts cooperative apartments along with one and two-family homes. Amendments proposed on October 1 drop any exemptions of cooperatives and suggest setting up a Fair Housing Practices Review Board to weigh disputes referred to it by the Commission on Inter-group Relations. The Review Board would consist of five members: the chairman of the Inter-group Relations Commission, Dr. Alfred Marrow, and four others to be appointed by the Mayor.

A committee to review all proposed amendments to the Sharkey-Brown-Isaacs bill was formed by Mayor Wagner and Mr. Sharkey on October 17 and is due to report back Thursday. The committee of seven city officials is consulting community leaders in the religious, educational, business and labor fields.

Opponents of the Fair Housing Bill—potably the Real Estate Board of New York—claim that, should people be allowed to rent or buy private dwellings without some form of discrimination against them, a mass emigration of "respectable" tenants would ensue. The value of the property would decline and banks would no longer finance construction of new homes.

The supporters of the bill assert that, because of a lack of income on the part of the people seeking new housing, integration would come gradually. Therefore there would be no mass movements either to enter or to leave houses and there would be no lowering of property values.

A principle point made by the bill's supporters is the effect the legislation will have abroad as "New York's and America's answer to Little Rock, Arkansas," as Mayor Wagner and Mr. Sharkey said in a joint statement on October 17.

Petition...

Conclusion of the drive for signatures has been extended to Thursday. "We expected to conclude getting signatures on Wednesday," said Schumann, "and to Thursday to co-ordinate the petitions from other colleges. But since the other colleges have announced they haven't time to organize support before Thursday, we have decided," Schumann concluded, "to use the day to obtain signatures from various clubs and organizations which meet on Thursdays."

Hillel Council last night unanimously voted to support the Sharkey-Brown-Isaacs Bill in all provisions, with the exception of the amendment which exempts cooperatives from the bill's jurisdiction.

After studying the bill in its entirety, they voted to "support a campaign being conducted by Student Government urging the passage of the Sharkey-Brown-Isaacs Bill." The resolution recommends, however, that SG "change wording of the petition to encourage students to register objection to the loophole phrase which exempts cooperatives."

A second resolution which was unanimously passed "asks the endorsement of SG in an effort to organize a meeting for the purpose of clarifying and presenting both sides of the issues in the bill." The meeting would be organized by Hillel and representatives of interested student organizations.

In his letter Dr. Gallagher attacked the use of "academic freedom" and "civil liberties" interchangeably saying, "If this is deliberate, it is indefensible; and if it is done in ignorance, it is inexcusable."

"New Looks"

When Dr. Gallagher's letter was read to her yesterday, Miss Flynn said, "It seems to me that the ruling should be rescinded because of the Supreme Court decisions in Smith Act cases." She added, "that if the Supreme Court can take a new look at Smith Act cases, the municipal college presidents should take a new look also."

gathering will be the judging of a dance contest by President Buell G. Gallagher.

Spiritual weather forecasters foretell a full moon and clear sky for the occasion. The same sources indicate perfect conditions for the use of broom transportation.

One "spooksman" for the class of '59 said that "the lack of noise due to the absence of potato chip and pretzel munching will not detract from the "spirit" of the dance. "It will provide instead," he said, "an unearthly aura of silence which should prove beneficial to insomniacs, and the rest of the student body."

Dear Editor,

I would like at this time to take the opportunity to correct an impression a recent headline in Observation Post might have given about Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship (IVCF). The headline described IVCF as being a "sectarian" group. The truth is that IVCF is an inter-denominational Protestant group with no affiliation with any sect or denomination. Although the group takes a conservative stand in its beliefs, classifying it as "sectarian" is both misleading and false.

Ralph Garbe
President IVCF

Dear Editor,

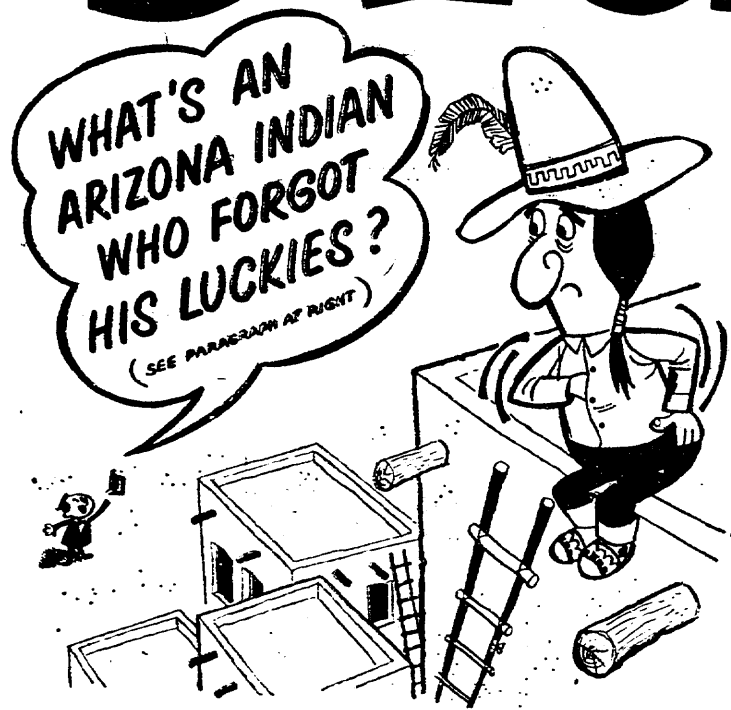

It is in the best of the democratic tradition that we have students instead of administrative officers of the College hearing and judging alleged infractions of College rules. This offers a wonderful opportunity for the student body to assume a large share of the responsibility now being held by school officials. However, the Student Court would serve the student's interest better if the students were informed through the College newspapers as to the times and places of the hearings so that members of the student body could attend and observe the judicial proceedings of the court and their elected officials.

Soccermen Continue To Roll—Top Army, 3-2, As Wachter, Schlisser and Paranos Net Goals

By PETER FRANKLIN

Nearly 500 screaming Beaver fans saw the College's soccer team bounce Army right off its pedestal Saturday at West Point. The unbeaten Lavender eleven buried the Cadets by a 3-2 score and ran their winning streak to nineteen.

Though unaccustomed to the West Point grass field, the Beavers outplayed the Cadets offensively and defensively. Almost all of the first half's action took place at the Army end of the field and in the second half of the Cadets were held scoreless.

The Beavers wasted no time in getting to the business at hand. At the 1:20 mark of the first quarter, outside left Marco Wachter took a short pass from Heinz Minnerop in the center position and sent the ball sailing into the Army net.

Just four minutes later, Gabor Schlisser's attempt as a goal was blocked by Army fullback Tom Carpenter. The ball, however, found its way into the net as it bounced off Carpenter's knee. Schlisser received credit for the score, as he was the last Beaver to touch the ball.

During the first quarter, it seemed as if Lavender territory was "off-limits" for the Cadets. With the exception of the Army goal by Les Gibbings at 20:40 of the first quarter, there was little entrance into Beaverland.

Gibbings had taken the ball from out-of-bounds and made an almost impossible shot from the right corner of the field that just eluded a leaping try by goalie Leon Manfredi.

In the second quarter, the Army offense picked up and at the 16-minute mark outside right Bill Morrison scored with a Cadet goal. Manfredi and left halfback Stan

Army goalie Fred Manzo falling over Billy Sond on Schlisser's goal in first quarter.

Dawkins both tried to block the shot but the Beaver netminder slipped on the grass, leaving a 2-2 score at halftime.

Once again in the second half, the College got off to a quick start when defenseman John Paranos tallied for the third Beaver goal at the 1:36 mark.

Paranos, who proved to be the biggest headache for the Cadets, protected his winning goal by blocking just about every play they tried during the second half. On one Cadet attempt he jumped in the air to block the ball with his head.

Harriers Finish 1-2-3, Sink Mariners, 21-38

By STU BADEN

The College's Cross Country team raced to its second straight win as the Harriers topped Kings Point, 21-38, at Van Cortlandt Park Saturday.

The first man to cross the finish line was Lavender runner Bob Cleary. After being clocked at the three-mile mark in 16:33, Cleary slots were filled by Cleary's teammates, Randy Crosfield and Raiph Taylor, whose times were 28:24 and 28:37 respectively.

The next three men to come in were Kings Pointers, followed by four City runners.

The College now stands 2-0 in dual meets while Kings Point mark is 3-1.

After the meet, Beaver Coach Harry deGirolamo said, "I am satisfied with the results and times of this meet. The boys performed better than I had anticipated."

The coach explained, however, that in cross country all the runners' times usually improve as the season goes on and, in order to keep winning, the team will have to continue improving on their times.

Harry deGirolamo "Satisfied With Results" went on to finish the course in 27:53, best time of the season for a Beaver runner.
