Robbery Attempt Foiled; Two Loiterers Arrested

The first break in the crime wave that has plagued the college since the beginning of the term came last week with the arrest of two persons. The two spotted outside a room where a purse had been stolen, received thirty-day sentences for loitering.

The pair was seen in the third floor corridor in Shepard Hall last Thursday, just after a girl in a biology laboratory there noticed that her pocketbook was missing.

The girl noticed her loss only minutes after Prof. William Brighten (Biology) had warned students in his section to watch their valuables. Two male students in the class linked the incident to a person who was in the room several minutes before and had stopped to talk to the girl.

The students, who requested that their names be withheld, noticed the one who had been in the room with another in the hall a few minutes later and followed the pair out of the building. A third member of the class saw a police car and reported the incident. After a chase along Convent Avenue and down 141 Street, police finally apprehended the pair on Hamilton Terrace. They were brought back to the College, where they were searched and questioned. Neither was armed.

Students Identify Them

They were identified by the two students, as the men seen on the third floor. One of the pair was identified as the person who had talked with the girl just before the pocketbook was missed. It was later found behind a radiator in the third floor corridor.

After questioning, the pair was taken to the 30th Precinct, where they were held until they appeared that night in court. Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) preferred charges against them.

Promethean...

Promethean, the College's literary magazine is now accepting material for its Fall issue. Manuscripts may be submitted at the Promethean office, Room 437 Finley or the Promethean mailbox, Room 151 Finley.

Sagging Wing Forces Move Of SG Office

The Student Government office was changed to Room 332 Finley last week. The office, formerly located in Room 326 Finley, had to be moved because of the closing of the Finley Center's sagging southwest wing.

The vacated space will eventually be utilized as an additional party-meeting room, according to Mr.

David S. Newton
Additional Room

David S. Newton (Student Life). "Besides being centrally located, the new room is more suited to the needs of Student Government," said Howard Schumann, SG Secretary. "Despite its size," he continued, "the new room is more compact, and is laid out with greater efficiency."

SFCSA Election: 3 Positions Open

By STEVE LUDWIG

Seven candidates will vie for three student representative positions on the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Activities (SFCSA) tomorrow in a school-wide election.

Marvin Adler, Ralph Dannheiser, Henry Gassner, Harold Gottlieb, Harold Klein, Michael Rizzo, and Eli Sadownick are the seven students seeking SFCSA positions.

Election ballots will be distributed in the 11 AM class.

This is the third direct election of SFCSA student representatives.

The committee, set up in 1945, was originally a faculty committee on student activities. A gradual change took place and the membership of the committee came to be composed of five students and five faculty members.

However, the five students were not elected. The student members served by virtue of being President and Vice-President of Student Government, and the presidents of House Plan, the Senior Class, and the Technology Inter-Society Inter-Fraternity Council.

In April, 1956, a sub-committee created by SFCSA to review the system of selecting student members decided to have them elected to their positions directly.

The General Faculty Committee on Student Activities (GFCSA) at first rejected the proposal. SFCSA sent a three-man committee—Mr. Stamos O. Zades (Student Life), Professor Marvin Magalaner (English), and Student Government President Jared Jussim—to argue its case.

After the committee presented its case, the GFCSA reversed its decision and adopted the plan for electing student representatives. At the same time, SFCSA set up a sub-committee to decide upon qualification standards, and it was decided that only four of the student representatives would be elected directly to their SFCSA offices.

SFCSA has been described by Mr. Zades as "the highest policy-making group on which students have a voice." It has the authority to suspend organizations, grant charters, suspend students from extra-curricular activities, and establish qualifications for offices.

Threat of Asiatic Flu Causes Postponement of Polio Shots

The Asian flu threat has caused the indefinite postponement of the final Salk anti-polio shots, College officials announced yesterday. The shots were originally scheduled to be given during the week of October 14.

Dr. Abner Stern, chief College physician, explained that the College does not have facilities to accommodate, at a later date, those who would be forced to miss a shot because of illness.

Postponement Best

Commenting on the postponement, Dr. Abner Stern said, "We felt the best thing would be to postpone giving the Salk shots altogether and set up a new schedule after the flu has died out." He added that public health officials expect twenty to thirty per cent of the population to come down with the flu within the next six to eight weeks.

Another reason, he said, was the possibility of confusion between reactions to the Salk vaccine and symptoms of the flu. Many people coming down with fever and other symptoms soon after receiving the anti-polio injection would not know to which cause to attribute the symptoms.

"If we were faced with large numbers of such cases, there would be a good deal of confusion among doctors and patients," he said.

HP Schedules Term's Events

House Plan's schedule of all activities will include dancing lessons and a Christmas Party, according to Hank Gassner, HP Vice-President.

The Christmas party, held in honor of orphans "adopted" by the house, is an annual affair. Orphans are given gifts worth more than $1,500.

Daily ballroom dance lessons will be given in the HP lounge, Room 352 Finley. It is hoped, Gassner said, that the student who is discouraged by these lessons to take a more active participation in activities.

Booters Manhandle Rensselaer 3-0, Cop 16th Straight Victory in Opener

By PETER FRANKLIN

Employing a combination of dapper foot work and top-flight passing, the College's soccer team defeated Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, 3-0, Friday at Lewisohn Stadium.

This marked the sixteenth straight win for the Beaver booters. The Lavender eleven has not lost a regular-season tilt since suffering a 3-1 defeat at the hands of Army on November 12, 1954. Their last conference defeat was a 1-0 loss to Brooklyn in 1953.

Led by Gabor Schlisser, who tallied two goals, and Fred Bonnet who scored one, the Booters were in RPI territory most of the game.

Beaver goalie Leon Manfredi was required to make only seven saves while the Engineer net-tender, Charlie Frey, had to keep hopping to stop twenty-two City attempts.

The College scored its first goal—which was later to prove all they needed—only six-and-a-half minutes after Dean Leslie Engler (Administration) opened the season by kicking out the first ball. Taking a sharp pass from outside left

First Five-College Prom Scheduled for Nov. 28

The downtown Baruch School, Hunter, Queens and Brooklyn Colleges have accepted invitations to attend the Five-College Prom to be held in the Grand Ballroom of the Sheraton-Astor Hotel on Thanksgiving night, November 28.

Arthur Genen, Chairman of the Student Government Prom committee, said that he also plans to invite Mayor Wagner and the Presidents of the five municipal colleges.

Profits from the dance will go to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund subject to the approval of Student Council.

Highlighting the entertainment program will be the selection of "Metropolitan Queen," to be chosen from the present reigning queens of the five respective colleges.

Floor Show Set

In addition, a complete floor show will start at midnight. The entertainment will be provided by alumni and students of the College.

Tickets for this semi-formal affair, which is open to all students, are $5 per couple. They will go on sale next week.

Of fifteen hundred tickets, seven hundred are earmarked for sale at the College.

Reservations may now be made for tables at the dance. Each table will seat 6 couples.

Places can be reserved only at Room 132 Finley, on Thursdays between 12 and 2 PM.

Slim Pickings

Three postponements, much hullabaloo, a dearth of deserving candidates and wilting interest have heralded the elections to SFCSA which will take place tomorrow. The product is a pathetic pre-election picture.

Unfortunately, student interest in school-wide elections has been never feverish, and the several delays associated with this one have served to cool if not extinguish whatever small sparks there may have been. It would be unfair to try and blame one particular party for the delays but there can be no doubt that these procrastinations have gone far toward dissipating whatever interest might have been generated.

We should note, however, that enthusiasm shown does not vary in direct proportion to the significance of an election and the interest it evokes cannot be viewed as a thermometric gauge of its importance.

The battle for directly elected student representation to the SFCSA has been long and mostly uphill. The highest appeals group to which the students can turn, SFCSA plays a prime role in granting charters to student organizations and in recommending legislation to its parent body—the General Faculty Committee on Student Activities.

The students have fought and won many battles—but only through the efforts of a vigorous and vociferous few. It is important that the people we elect tomorrow be intelligent and aware. They are our spokesmen; they must guard our rights, secure our privileges and speak our thoughts.

Regrettably, we find that this year's list of candidates does not measure up to those of previous terms. It is not our intention to slur the people running. Some must certainly be lauded for merely doing so, for going into this term the crop of candidates was all but non-existent.

However, several of the candidates, at the time we interviewed them, had not even taken the trouble to investigate their duties as prospective officeholders. Some did not know the purposes, the history or the organization of the body in which they seek positions.

Under these circumstances, we find it impossible to endorse a full slate of candidates. In fact, however reluctantly, we can endorse only one from among the seven who are running.

It is our belief that Ralph Dannheisser is the only candidate who measures up to the requirements of this key post. He has shown a genuine protracted interest in SFCSA. He has long been active in school affairs and has exhibited a wide knowledge of SFCSA activities.

As for the others, we leave you to judge and vote solely on the basis of submitted qualifications. We realize that this may prove an insufficient basis, but we find ourselves unable to make half-hearted endorsements—even in the name of expediency.

How About It?

It was a nice, clear day Friday—so nice, in fact, that more students could be found sprawling on the South Campus lawn than were in Lewisohn Stadium for the soccer team's season opener.

Someone remarked that we were lucky at that. There was no World Series game to lure sons of the Lavender to the comfort of their television sets.

Nurtured by Raymond's pretzels, those who did attend watched the booters extend their string to sixteen straight as they buried Rensselaer Polytech, 3-0.

It is remarkable that the soccermen are gunning for their fifth consecutive Met. Conference championship. They receive no special consideration from the Administration when it comes to registration. Like the other teams on campus, the members of the squad find it difficult to field a team at the same time every day and Coach Harry Karlin deserves commendation. Time and again he has come up with fine clubs without shouts of "commercialism" ringing in his ears.

The cross-country season begins Saturday. The boosters will play again next week. Its time for a little shouting. Get out to the games and have one heck of a time—it's all free.

This article is being presented by Observation Post in order to aid you in your voting choice tomorrow when you elect three student representatives to the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Activities.

Film Institute To Depict HP Influence on Frosh

The trials and tribulations of a typical freshman, and House Plan's role in helping him, will soon be captured on celluloid. Students in the College's Film Institute will write and produce the film as a part of several courses they are now taking.

"The film," according to Mr. Yael Woll, Director of the Film Institute, "will tell the story of two or three freshmen, their human needs, problems, and development as people. It will portray, in human terms," he continued, "the meaning of House Plan—the togetherness, the brotherhood."

Weekend Filming Planned

Production of the documentary will begin in about three weeks, and will include scenes of the Finley Student Center, HP Lounge, HP meetings, and HP affairs. Most of the filming will take place on Saturdays, since the cast is largely composed of Evening Session students

The movie is being produced by Mr. Woll said, "as a service to the College and in order to better integrate the Film Institute into the College community."

Film majors Alex Hapsas, Michael Hertzberg, Arie Posner, and David Saperstein are writing the script as part of a Film course.

The movie will be ready for circulation approximately two months after the filming is completed. Tentative plans include possible showing at other colleges or on television.

Division of Graduate Studies To Present Hillman Lectures

The Sidney Hillman Lectures presented by the Division of Graduate Studies and the Committee on Cultural Relations have as their theme this year "Changing Concepts and Practices in International Cooperation."

This is the fourth time that this lecture series will be offered at the College. Dean Oscar Zeichner (Division of Graduate Studies) said that "the lectures offer students the opportunity to hear discussions on interesting topics by qualified speakers." The six lectures scheduled also have as guest speakers officials of the United Nations.

All the lectures will be given in Room 217, Finley Student Center at 6:30 PM.

• Wednesday, October 16—"Political Nationalism and Internationalism" will be discussed by Mr. Ahmen S. Bokhari, Under-Secretary in charge of the Department of Public Information, United Nations.

• Wednesday, October 23—"Economic and Technical Progress in Underdeveloped Areas," discussed by Mr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, Director-General, Technical Assistance Administration, United Nations.

More Than Evasion

Editor:

In reference to your article regarding the establishment of a committee which would sign the membership lists of all organizations, I deplore the impression that the sole purpose of the committee is to circumvent the compulsory membership list ruling.

More vital function of the committee is to enable organizations, who would leave campus because of compulsory membership, to remain on campus.

Not only protesting the compulsory membership lists—we are fighting for academic freedom. There is a basic difference between approaching the situation with a positive approach and from a childish, negative approach.

Marvin Adler

Dear Editor:

Lest my absence from the list of eight students who will sign the membership lists of various campus organizations be misconstrued, I should like to make it clear that I did volunteer to be one of the eight but, apparently, there were more volunteers than was needed.

This plethora of students willing to protest the compulsory membership list ruling is in itself a good sign for it shows that there are still some unsilent members in this "Silent Generation" who are not willing to sit on their hands while their liberties are sandpapered away.

Little Brown Jug Houses 'Free Bagel' Certificates

Raymond, the bagel man whose imagination has been sharpened by years of contact with students at the College, has come up with a new stunt.

Abetted by Sigma Beta Phi, Raymond is sponsoring a series of treasure hunts each week, for the remainder of the term. Suspicion of a parallel between this stunt and one that the radio program "Pulse" has been promoting must be negated — the winners of the radio program's gag got a thousand dollar bill, but students at the College get a bagel.

The treasure hunt was started solely for good will and humor, said Raymond, and "to go along with the kicks of campus life."

Every Monday, a member of the fraternity, masquerading under the name of "Sam the Bearded Man" hides a little brown bottle containing a certificate entitling the holder to a "free, homogenized, pasteurized, and beaverized bagel each day for a month, courtesy of Raymond." Clues in the form of a poem, are posted on Raymond's pretzel box, along with a picture of "Sam."

With the Administration's permission, the bottle is hidden somewhere on campus, although not in a classroom.

To prevent fraud, only those certificates having Sam the Bearded Man's signature on it will be valid.

Beavers Trounce RPI, 3-0, Extend Winning Streak to 16

At the 12:13 mark of the first period, center forward Heinz Minnerop passed to Bonnet, who booted the ball out of Frey's reach to the corner of the field. The Beavers went off the field with a 2-0 lead at half-time.

Schlisser tallied again at 7:20 of the third quarter. After both Co-Captain Billy Sund and Minnerop made attempts at the net, Schlisser stopped a return kick and made his shot at the goal. Three Engineers made a dive at the ball, but came up with nothing but some stadium sod.

The Beavers came close to losing their shutout in the fourth quarter when a "tripping from the rear" foul was called on Lavender defenseman Claude Spinosa. Rensselaer's Sandy Csobaji took the penalty shot, but an outstanding one-hand block by Manfredi, who lunged to his left to deflect it, ended any hopes for an Engineer score.

Csobaji, although handcuffed by the Beaver defense, led the Rensselaer attack with three shots. He was their high scorer of last year and scored their only goal of this season against Cortlandt in the Engineer's season opener last week.

Certainly pleased with the result, Beaver Coach Harry Karlin praised "the terrific team game." He said "the College's defense was out of this world."

The Beavers, who have won the Metropolitan Soccer Conference championship for the past four years, will meet their first league opponent, Long Island University, Wednesday, October 16, at LIU.

Meet The College's Fall Coaches

By NELSON GRUMER

This is the third in a series profiling the College's Fall coaches. Today—swimming coach Jack Rider. In coming articles, stories about the wrestling, basketball and soccer coaches will appear.

For the past twelve years, coach Jack Rider has watched his Mermen churn blue waters of the same pool in which he competed over forty years ago.

Back in 1914, Coach Rider was attending Townsend Harris High School and using nearby Wingate pool as a member of the swimming team. Four years later, he became a member of the College's Hygiene Department and has been here ever since. During his coaching reign, the Mermen never placed lower than third in the Metropolitan Championships.

Coach Jack Rider
Thirteenth Year

The Coach and his wife, Margaret, have been married for eighteen years. John, the older of their two children at sixteen, attends Stuyvesant High School. He's not aquatically inclined. Thirteen-year-old Jim, however, shows promise as a swimmer. He has competed in AAU meets for two years, and occasionally practices with the Beaver team.

For the past two years, the swimmer has spent his summer camping with his sons. After a season in Canada, the Riders spent this past summer in the Adirondacks. It is a vacation that not only affords relaxation, but keeps everyone in fine physical condition.

Coaching at the College is not without its special problems. Professor Rider admits that few outstanding high school swimmers find their way here, but the Mermen's strong spirit and willingness to work hard does much to minimize this disadvantage.

Another problem is the College's "tough school requirements" leave the swimmers with very little time to train and discourages many potential Mermen from coming out team.

Lifesaving Courses

In addition to his coaching classes, Prof. Rider is in charge of the courses in lifesaving given here. Another of his duties leads to an instructor's career.

Until the debut of the men in December, Coach Rider will be busy trying to find swimmers good enough to replace the ones lost through graduation. "We have a long way to go," says the coach, to reach the caliber of the best Rider-coached teams.
