Gallagher Charges:

Fear of Racial Equality Hindrance to Integration

President Buell G. Gallagher, last night charged that the reason to believe many whites oppose integration in public schools is because they fear that Negro and white children will do equally well if given the same opportunity.

Speaking before an audience at City College, on "Fiction, Fact

Dr. Buell G. Gallagher
"Some Are Guilt-Ridden"

Faith in Race Relations." He stated that some people are guilt-ridden because of centuries of discrimination against the Negro. "These people," he continued, "have put their faith in fiction and then try to find fact to support the fiction. The facts are the fiction."

Dr. Gallagher also rejected the idea that some racial groups are racially inferior. "The fact is," he said, "that there are no fundamental differences in intellectual ability between racial groups." Though he admitted that differences may be found, he claimed these are due to differences in cultural and social environments, not to innate natural abilities.

Another fictitious argument, Pres. Gallagher said, "is the suggestion that the Negroes have not contributed their fair share to the enrichment of culture and common life in the United States." He noted that, "In every country where they have been welcomed, they have made significant and successful contributions to every form of the arts and in politics and social life."

Pres. Gallagher reiterated his assertion that segregated housing is the crux of the problem of race relations in the United States. "None of the basic issues of American race relations," he alleged, "can be satisfactorily solved without a profound alteration in the patterns of community acceptability in housing."

"Even if community attitudes favor integration in religious matters," he continued, "the integrated church can be maintained in a segregated community only through employing obviously artificial methods."

Civil Service Opens Tests To Juniors

Federal Service Entrance Examinations are now open to college juniors, the United States Civil Service Commission announced last week.

Since their inception two years ago, the examinations have been open only to college seniors and graduates.

Applications for the written test on November 16 must be sent to the Civil Service Commission before Thursday, October 31.

Those who pass the examinations will be placed on a "list of eligibles." Some 7,500 entrance-level job appointments will be available within the next twelve months, at salaries ranging from $3,670 to $4,525 per year. These jobs will be filled from the Service Exams list of eligibles.

Job appointments, effective after graduation, may be offered to juniors if they pass the examination and their names appear on the lists. As in the past, such job offers may also be made to seniors and graduates.

BHE Chairman Praises Proposed Capital Budget

By STEVE LUDWIG

Gustave G. Rosenberg, Chairman of the Board of Higher Education (BHE), declared himself in favor of the New York City Planning Commission's recommended allotment for the municipal colleges this week.

Mr. Rosenberg spoke Tuesday morning at the public hearing in City Hall on the proposed 1958 capital budget. The capital budget, a list of public works contemplated by the City in the coming year, is to be financed by bond issues. The Commission recommended an allotment of $9,488,168 for the Uptown Center of the College.

The largest single recommended allotment for the College was $6,851,000 for construction of the new Technology Building. Construction on the new building is scheduled to begin late this spring. The building will be located on the site now occupied by the Richard R. Bowker Library and the Drill Hall.

The Commission proposed an allocation of $940,000 for the construction of a new Administration Building, scheduled for construction at the north end of Jasper Oval. In addition, $232,015 was recommended for the Manhattanville section for acquisitions, alterations and additions.

Reconstruction Allotment

A further allotment for $1,465,153.50 for reconstruction of the boiler plant, heating and electrical systems was recommended. An allocation of $527,210 was proposed for the rehabilitation of existing buildings and additional building facilities and equipment of both this center of the College and for the downtown Baruch School.

Mr. Rosenberg said, "The City Planning Commission . . . has shown a commendable grasp of the public service the colleges render."

"With their knowledge of the need the young people of this City have for the training the colleges offer," he continued, "the Commission has coupled economic foresight. The costs of materials and labor have been rising steadily. The sooner the buildings are finished," Mr. Rosenberg concluded, "the better it will be not only for the colleges, for they gravely need the classrooms, but also for the City's pocketbook."

A representative of the Mills Formal Wear Company will be at the College for fittings on Thursday, November 21, from 12-2 PM in Room 327 Finley. The cost of renting a tuxedo will be $5. Frosh ROTC Enrollment Up

Freshman enrollment in the Reserve Officers Training Corps program at the College jumped 50 percent this semester, in spite of increased national emphasis on military training.

An ROTC spokesman attributed the increased enrollment to an extensive program of parent and student education. Under the direction of Colonel Harold C. Brookhart, letters describing the advantages of ROTC training were sent out to incoming freshmen. A total of 458 freshmen enrolled—the largest since the Korean war period. Last year 317 freshmen signed up for the sequence.

An ROTC ball has been set for December 6 at the Hotel Statler-McApin.

College Acquires Village 'Extension' Complete With Blackboards & Drink

Contrary to impressions, the College has not followed NYU in establishing a Greenwich Village branch. There is a CCNY on West Tenth Street, but the "College of Complexes of New York" is a night club.

Although there are blackboards on the walls, the inscriptions read

"Think and Drink"

"Help Stamp Out Mental Health" and "Down with the Safety Council." Lectures are provided on such topics as "Why are College Cats such Puerile Punks?"

The night club, which bills itself "a playground for people who think and drink" has absolutely no connection with the City College of New York.

Manager Ralph Jacobs replied to queries about the similarity of names by saying that he was "aware that some institution up-town is trading in on our name—CCNY—and publicity. We have not as yet decided whether or not to sue."

The "colledge" occupies floors. The second story, atop normal-looking street floor, is decorated completely in black.

"Freud Eggs" serving "Freud eggs," sandwiches and full course meals. The "colledge" is open from 4 to 4 a.m.—hours that the College has yet to match. Manager Jacobs reports that his biggest problem is "quieting those loud mouths in audience who participate much." This may or may not accentuate the similarity to the college.

Hold That Bagel!

Dear Editor:

The last thing we wanted when we started the Bagel Contest was publicity for our smoker this Friday evening. However, there were certain inaccuracies in Tuesday's OP article which we feel must be corrected: 1) The original idea for the contest came from Sigma Beta Phi; 2) The Bearded Man's name is Bob, not Sam; 3) Certificates signed "Sam the Bearded Man" will not be honored by Raymond.

We would appreciate your kind attention in correcting this matter.

Blood, Mangled Corpses Not for Whodunit Author

For want of an "intellectual" mystery story audience, at least one mystery novelist has not been presented to the literary public.

Mr. Joseph Wohlberg, Registrar's Assistant, feels that the public whose taste runs toward "gore and vulgarity" is not ready for his kind of mystery novel.

Anti-Spillane

During the day, Mr. Wohlberg works in the Registrar's office. But after hours, he crusades for, and writes mystery stories on "a higher intellectual plane than Mickey Spillane."

Thus far he has completed one novel, called "Faculty for Murder." It is a view of college life screened in mystery. He has also written a short story take-off on a Mickey Spillane novel. This opus is titled "The Murder Mystery Murder."

He considers his work only a hobby. "and it will remain so, as long as the book market continues to insist upon the violent type of story."

An alumnus of the College, Class of '31, Mr. Wohlberg also delivers an occasional Humanities lecture.

The only detective work in which he is presently engaged is that of unraveling the mysteries of classical texts. He translates Latin poetry into English. A number of his efforts in this line have been published in collected works of classical poetry.

But "until the public assumes a higher standard of mystery matter," Mr. Wohlberg said, "my publishing ventures will remain in this field."

Meet The College's Fall Coaches

This is the fourth in a series of articles profiling the Fall coaches. Today — wrestling mentor Sapura. In the coming articles we will profile the basketball and soccer coaches.

By NORM WEINER

To most people wrestling is simply a sport, to others it is merely a farce, but to Sapura Coach Joe Sapura it has meant a great deal more.

"Wrestling has been more than just a sport to me," remarked Professor Sapura, "for use of it I have become acquainted with many wonderful persons and students whom I now call my friends." Born in Pennsylvania, the coach did not enter into organized wrestling competition until he entered the field extends beyond wrestling for he was an outstanding basketball player at Renovo High School in Pennsylvania where he captained his team to the state championship. He also coached Junior Varsity football here at the College during World War II.

Some of the country's finest wrestlers first grappled under Dr. Sapura. Among these were Henry Wittenberg, 1948 Olympic Champion in the 191-pound division, and Jerry Steinberg, who was undefeated in three years of varsity competition.

Coach Joe Sapura

Harriers Open Season Tomorrow

Tomorrow at Van Cortlandt Park the College's Cross Country team will begin its quest for a second straight undefeated season. In addition to Brooklyn, Queens, and Hunter Colleges, the Beavers will have to cope with an unexpected opponent—Asian Flu.

So far Co-Captain Randy O'Connell's field has been stricken by injury.

Coach Harry deGirolamo "Further Along"

Harry deGirolamo does not expect Randy to run at all. The other two thirds of the trio that broke thirty minutes in a practice meet against Columbia, Co-Captain Ralph Taylor and Bob Cleary, will be available.

The squad, Dr. deGirolamo says, "is further along now than at this point last season."

Queens will be hard pressed to present a full squad. Last week, five regulars were out with Asian flu, and as of today, two players are still unable to compete. The Knights' coach, Anthony Tatti, expects his team to be "a little bit better" than last year's aggregate, which posted a 5-2 record.

The Kingsmen from Brooklyn, who went winless last year, started off this season with a 15-45 defeat at the hands of Hunter. They, too, may not come in with a full force, since several of the harriers have sprained muscles.

Four lettermen have returned, led by the Schillin Brothers, John and George. The former is also acting captain. A new competitor, Dick Loew and soph Paul Roth round out the nucleus.

Kingsman Kingpin

The top man for the Brooklynites is expected to be Dave Shapiro, competing in his first season. At the Hunter meet, he led all other BC harriers. Their number-2 man is Robert Ehrlich. Frank Tanderian rounds out their top three.

Hunter promises to give the Lavender the most trouble. Joe Vogel, perhaps the top runner of the municipal colleges, finished first in the meet with Brooklyn last week.
