Nationalism's Effect on World

By ED MARSTON

American nationalism, epitomized by attitudes of "Keeping up with the Joneses" and "I'm as good as you are," is playing a major role in the world revolution going on in the minds of men, according to Professor Hans Kohn (History).

Speaking before the History Society Thursday, he said these attitudes of the College will be discussed at an all-day seminar Sunday, May 11, which has been tentatively set as the date for the second half of the program. At that time, the curriculum of the individual college will be discussed at an all-day seminar.

Registration for Blood Bank Gets Under Way at College

Registration for the annual blood drive at the College is under way now and will continue through May 2 at the Butterfly Room, Finley Student Center, and Knittle Lounge.

All students over 18 and college personnel and instructors are eligible to register, donate blood, and become members of the College Blood Bank. Persons under 21 must fill in parent-consent cards which are obtainable at the registration centers.

The blood is to be donated May 8 and at a special bloodmobile. The bank, sponsored by Gamma Sigma Lambda and Alpha Pi Omegas, belongs entirely to the College. Anyone who donates to the bank, as well as his immediate family, will be able to draw an unlimited supply of blood.

"There have been many misconceptions about giving blood," said Dr. Kohn. "In one person's blood is replaced as soon as he leaves the room. There are absolutely no ill effects."

A plaque will be sent to the group donating the most blood.

Jewish Holiday To Conflict With Opening Day of Exams

The first day of finals, May 26, which will conflict with a religious holiday this semester, but arrangements will be made for students observing it.

The last day of Shavuot, a Jewish holiday, falls on the opening day of finals for Jewish students.

Clubs Apply Next Week For Fall Fee Allocation

Organizations wishing fee allocations for next term must apply for them next week, according to Student Government Treasurer Ken Werden.

"I hope," Werden added, "to begin hearings Monday and continue them through May 9. Of course, all organizations will have the right of appeal the first week of the new term, and money will be set aside for these anticipated changes of programs.

It is hoped that this plan will also aid the Activities Program Board in the compilation of its Activities Calendar. Very often clubs do not plan their activities until the last minute, but the new system will force them to publish their anticipated plans well in advance.

Rabbi Arthur Zuckerman Re-Invited to Speak Here

William Albertson, New York State Secretary of the Communist Party, who addressed here last Friday, will make his second appearance at the College Thursday afternoon.

Albertson will speak at the Academic Freedom Week program at 3 PM in Room 217 Finley. He will discuss: "Assault on a Liability to the United States?"

The party official drew an audience of fifteen persons at his talk last week. Although student apathy has been cited as a reason for the poor turnout, lack of adequate publicity was termed the reason for the small crowd by Marilyn Rothenbuhler, A.P. Week chairman.

Included among the fifteen persons who heard Albertson were the two chairmen of the Academic Freedom Week Committee; a reporter from the College press; Dan Wakefield, a reporter for "The Nation"; and eleven interested students.

A discussion by Dan Wakefield, scheduled for yesterday, was cancelled because only six persons attended to hear him talk. Wakefield was to have discussed the Feingberg Law.

Soviet and Lack said Albertson said that his International Freedom Week appearance showed the presence of educated people against expressing nationalist feelings which are too often expressed by the common people against expressing nationalist feelings which are too often expressed by the common people.

"Freedom Versus Security in the Sciences" will be discussed by Robert Gilmore, executive secretary of the American Friends Service Committee, at the Academic Freedom Week program at 3 PM in Room 217 Finley.

Gilmore is also a chairman of the New York Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, who addressed the nation in race relations work, especially in organizing non-violent demonstration projects for the Congress on Racial Equality.

The party official drew an audience of thirty persons who heard Albertson at a similar letter to the New York State Board of Regents by the party official.

The conflict was brought to the attention of the New York State Board of Regents by the party official. The Keating letter was sent to the Board of Regents by the party official. The Keating letter was sent to the Board of Regents by the party official.
Reds Vs. The Green

The sun shone brightly on the hundreds of figures dotting the South Campus lawn Friday afternoon, while in the Grand Ballroom the voice of William Albertson, Secretary of the New York State Communist Party, echoed loudly in the ears of his fifteen listeners.

Shall we call it apathy and level our wrath against the unthinking, dullard students? Shall we call to the fore our most vituperative adjectives and attack the lack of interest in academic freedom?

Although this would be the most convenient reaction, we find at this time that it would be an inappropriate one.

Experience has proved to us that apathy does not exist at the College when an event receives adequate publicity. Unfortunately, in the case of the second Academic Freedom Week program which featured Albertson, there was scarce-ly any publicity.

We are aware of the students coming themselves to the realization that about ninety per cent of them did not know Albertson's appearance. His speech had received a oneline mention in Observation Post on Wednesday, and was buried in the last paragraph of The Campus' Academic Freedom Week story on Thursday.

Lack of funds has been making it exceedingly difficult for the newspapers to continue with the customary semi-weekly publication pattern. Last week both Observation Post and The Campus were forced to publish but once after Albertson appeared at the College when no newspaper was at hand at which to glance to find out what was occurring.

We firmly believe that the students at the College have not become apathetic about academic freedom. We receive too many letters and speak to too many interested students to believe that academic freedom has become a dead issue.

Lack of publicity has often sounded the death knell for ac-

Vacancies

Once more, students who are dissatisfied with their Student Government will have the chance to improve it as they see fit. We wonder if, as in the past, the potentially constructive criticism uttered by these students will be rendered meaningless by the inaction accompanying it.

It may be that vacillation is the need for effective participation in student affairs. The criticisms leveled against SG in the past year are not to be shrugged off as unworthy of consideration.

It has been said that SG is run by a "radical" faction which squelches all viewpoints other than its own. Although this concept is no doubt questionable, those who harbor it have done virtually nothing to inject their own opinions into SG.

A plan to diversify representation in Student Council was proposed this term. The program would revamp the present system by providing representation on the basis of schools rather than on the basis of classes. This artificial feature would, perhaps, alleviate the effects of the problem. It would not begin to eradicate the cause.

It is the inertia on the part of students who, it is felt, are not adequately represented which must be overcome. A Student Government which fulfills its true purpose does not come about through forced exercise of willful thinking. There must be substantial action to supplement the theoriz-

Tennis Team Shuts Out Manhattan at Sat. Meet

By LARRY GOTTLEBE

The College's tennis team, led by the impressive play of Bernie Steinem, swatted 9-0, Saturday at the Fleet Swim and Tennis Club in the Bronx.

By extending its record to 3-0, the Beaver squad turned in its finest performance of the young season. All singles and doubles matches were won by the invaders in straight sets, as the Jugger fell helplessly behind from the start.

In the singles which were held first, Bernie Steinem shut out Manhattan's Mike Field, 6-1, and Manhattan didn't score a point until its fourth set when the College's Mike Stone defeated Pat McHillen, 6-0, 6-1. The next four bouts were won in quick succession by the Lavender's Mark Hurstein, Jay Hammel, Ray Pestrong, and Roy Flesher.

Chief’s Line-Up

Defeated, 13-7

By STAN SHKPKO

The Red Dragons of Cortland State breathed fire as they handled the Lavender Lacrosse team its third consecutive defeat, this time by a score of 13-7, Saturday.

The "Chief"'s victory was secured over the scoring streak of four goals that they displayed in the closing minutes of the game against Stevens, opened the scoring in this game. Ron Rose and Vic Cunetta, the team co-captains, each tallied one goal. The Beavers quickly retaliated with two goals of their own; both being scored by Peter.

The second goal of the afternoon was scored by the Cortland team dominating the offense. Harriet, Ruggles, and Zamisk, praised by the poor Beaver defense, each scored one goal. Then the City Nickmen took over on the offense and displayed their first quarter score; both Ron and Vic were involved.

At halftime it was evident that although nickmen team was playing a particularly good game, the Red Dragon team was more consistent game than was the Lavender squad. The "Chief" took its tribute to the dressing room, and he gave his players the words to take back to, but in no small— these were the conditions of the game, the knowledge to follow his game advice.

In the third quarter the Teachers taught the easier Beavers a thing or two about placing shots, and the La- cre-tites scored their (Continued on Page Three).

Beaver Nine Is 0 and 9 As Brooklyn Cops, 8-5

The College's baseball team dropped its ninth consecutive game yesterday to a formerly winless Brooklyn squad by a score of 8-5.

Nick Reuss, Brooklyn's lefty, opened the game with a single. After Joe Kamel grounded into third, four consecutive singles accounted for three Kingsmen runs.

The Beavers came back with two runs in the fourth, after a single by Bob Demas, a walk to Ron Weiss, and a passed ball, which put men on second and third. Lavender hurler Stu Weiss then stroked a tworun single to left.

In the fifth inning, Danny Wul- ken led off with a base on balls. By Tim Sullivan made out. Joe Mariani hit a 350-foot triple to dead center. Mariani scored on Bob Weiss's double, and Demas in turn scored on Ron Weiss's single. Brooklyn pitcher Bob Karlap then replaced by Ron Puzzo, who retired the side.

Saturday, St. John's shut out the College by a score of 9-0. Ximin Redman, hard man, one-hit the Lavender.

Danny Wulken led the line-up.
