Chartered or Not:

All Campus Groups Must Have Constitutions Ok'd

By RITA ASKENAS

All student organizations that have their constitutions approved, regardless of whether or not they wish a charter, the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities (SFCA) resolved yesterday.

This resolution is a part of the program set up to implement the General Faculty ruling of last term on membership lists. It states that "All co-curricular student organizations are divided into two categories: those who have a full charter and those who have a charter with restrictions.

"All college rules and regulations shall apply equally to both categories," the resolution states. "The charter with restrictions may not use the College name publicly and may not receive funds directly or indirectly. The designation, charter with restrictions, shall apply to all organizations who do not submit membership lists.

The General Policy Statement of the General Faculty requires groups which do not file membership lists to be submitted to the Department of Student Life the names of the faculty advisor president, and secretary, along with a statement of the aims and purposes of the organization.

In proposing the new motion, Professor Lawrence Podell (Sociology) said that some distinction must be made between the organizations which are non-chartered because they do not have membership lists and those which are non-chartered because their constitutions have not been approved by SFCA.

He added that, otherwise, groups whose constitutions are rejected can go back, and, by voting not to have members in membership lists, evade having to submit a constitution at all.

House Plan Convention Votes Center's Facilities Inadequate

By an unanimous vote, a House Plan Convention which met Wednesday decided that the facilities of the Finley Student Center do not meet HP's standards.

To aid the movement away from dependence upon the Center's facilities, a committee was set up to aid house plans in obtaining cellars and apartments for their parties.

Dr. Gallagher Discusses Russian "Challenge to American Morale"

Discussing the challenge to the United States created by current Soviet advances in the field of missiles and satellites, President Buel G. Gallagher last night asserted that the universities must not abandon themselves to "Garrison State" or "Super Technician" philosophies.

Speaking before Hillel, Dr. Gallagher contrasted the attitudes of Americans who "look with particular distaste," he said, "on the proposal to plunge this democracy into a crash program of missile development and space research based on the barrenism of the nation's entire educational system."

Referring to the group of individuals who "call the launching of the Sputniks simply as a piece of scientific progress," and find no cause for alarm, President Gallagher pointed their "naivete" in assuming that the Soviets "do not mean business in their consequences at world domination and control."

Dr. Gallagher maintained, however, that "we cannot afford to win the scientific skirmish at the risk of losing the major battle for humanity."

Beaver Blues

By STAN HENDLER

It was recently charged here that Main Events is attempting to "foil the prosaic name "Beaver" upon the student body as an indication for the statue now awaiting behind Finley Center.

We were wrong. In a column published Monday, the Evening Session newspaper finds itself in apparent agreement with our stand. They go on to suggest another contest— to find the Beaver's last name. It is obvious, however, that this can be nothing but "Beaver."

Many students feel that our golf-course friend should be moved from its perch amid the shrubbery and re-erected in a more conspicuous location. Those who object to his color may be pacified by a comment from Professor Eliot Fried- man (Sociology and Anthropology) to the effect that "it will eventually be covered with lichen."

Be that as it may, our little contest is rolling merrily along. The outstanding entry to date is from Lewis Carroll, who feels the Beaver should be named "Brillig" because "he is sly.

Entries can be brought to Room 336 Finley, or left in OP's mailbox in Room 151. Finley. The deadline is this Tuesday at 6 PM, the winner to be announced on Thursday. To the victor will go the glory of starting a tradition and a CCNY real-collegiate-type beer stein. The second-best entrant will receive a statue of the beaver, donated by the College's Book Store, located in Finley Center.

Let's call the Beaver. . .

Grapplers vs. Marines...

"King's Point is just itching to give us a beating this year because of our upset of them last season," said Beaver coach Joe Sapora, "but we're hoping to repeat that performance again. We've had some tough matches this year, but this will be the toughest of them all."

City has dropped its last two decisions after winning three of its first four matches and a victory over the U.S. Naval Academy, 5-4. The team is still confident and hopes to continue its winning streak against the Marines.

Beavers Seek Met Crown—Face Brooklyn and Queens

By PETER FRANKLIN

After dropping a 61-47 tilt to Fordham Wednesday night, the Beaver five will be trying to get back on the winning side of the ledger when they go against Brooklyn College tonight and Queens College on Monday.

Also in the offing will be an opportunity for the Met title, with a chance to clinch a tie for first place with Brooklyn in the Metropolitan Conference by defeating the Kingsmen then sew it up with a win over Queens.

(Two games coach Polansky will probably use the same starting line-up of Archibald, Lewis, Bob Silvis, Joe Bennardo, and then fill in with either Leo Waletz or Grovenor or John Delorey Lewis is high man with a 14-point average.)

The Brooklyn five, coached by Florida Gomez, has been experiencing a fair season with an 8-6 record. High scorer for the Beavers is Julio Delatorre. Lewis is the highest scorer in the history of the college.

The usual troublesome Kingsmen, were stopped, 66-51, by the Beaver in their last meeting. Much of the credit was given to Beaver Marty Groveman who held Gaetani to fourteen.

With all things being just about the same as in the last CCNY game, a little prayer for our foul-shooting, the

On Sports

By BERNIE LEPKFOWITZ

Dear Lew,

Now you've brought it out into the open. No insinuations, no subterfuge. Nat Holman and City College are through. Only one man can coach the basketball team and Nat's out — or he should be.

When a man seems too old, when his methods appear outdated, relegate him to the rubbish heap. He can always take a job as a scout for the Knicks, or better still he can coach the freshman team.

"Write to me," you said, "go to the games and let the coach know you've seen him." Will Lew, if every time I go to a basketball game, if everytime I cheer for the Beavers I'm telling Nat Holman that the doors are closed to him; that I can't wait a year or two until he voluntarily retires, I'd rather sit home.

There are several places at the college where mean more to me than Dave Polansky. From the time that I covered freshman basketball to the Emmitsberg show, Dave has achieved tremendous stature. And all during this period, the coach has been more than a name in a sports story — but he's never, never been a legend. I consider him a warm, human friend and a remarkably talented coach, that any school would welcome.

Last spring I wrote a column in which I predicted that "If Holman comes back to coach, Polansky will not be forgotten." Dave is still coaching basketball, and I hope that thirty-six years of his life to his position, is being ungraciously and unceremoniously dismissed. I want to feel it is an antiquated world. It is not.

I don't have to fight for Nat Holman. He's been doing his own battling for some time. You talk about the big "squares," Lew, well, I've been watching a little bit of play too. I declare, I've never seen a high school in the Metropolitan area that is as good as the City College basketball team.

Ralph Shefflan didn't have the defensive moves or the floor game yet. Jim MacAffer, Murz Ross and Roger Lewis weren't on the team. Richy Glander played with thevers, we fought hard to up; Shefflan before his first point lead and a minute and a half to go and the LaVender bowed to Hunter. These facts are not excuses. We have lost.

Gal Hoopsters Score Record

The College's Women's Basketball team trounced Molloy College, 59-26, Tuesday evening at the losers' gym. It was the fourth win for the Hoopsterettes against two defeats.

The Beavers start the scoring ahead and didn't stop. They jumped ahead by a 23-point margin at the half.

High scorer for the team and the game with twenty-eight points was Mary Dominique.

Lavender Visit Violent Vikings

By S. ALEXANDER BADEN

This afternoon the College's swimming team will invade the land of the Violent Vikings, leaving the services of Fred Vleidomini, Bill Bass and Coach Jack Ryder.

The Coach, who is still on sick leave, will be replaced by scorer mentor Harry Karlin. Vleidomini is an uncompromisingly aggressive white man who has met the team for personal reasons, and it is doubtful if either of them will be easily replaced.

NYU is going into the meet with a 6-3 record while the Beavers show a 14-4 mark, having beaten only Brooklyn College and Brooklyn Poly. NYU has defeated both Manhattan and Fordham, both of whom have beaten the College.

Violent Coach Joe Varriello said: "City is much weaker than last year and we are not expecting too much trouble from them." Dr. Karlin commented, "NYU is strong, and we will have to fight to beat them."
