Need for Field House Seen by Athletics' Head

By JERRY ESKENAZI

A field house is seen a necessity by the head of the College's athletic program.

"Many of the facilities available now are makeshift and outdated," Faculty Manager of Athletics Arthur H. DesGrey said yesterday.

A field house, Prov. DesGrey added, will enable the College to coordinate its complete athletic program under one roof. Of prime importance, he said, is a new basketball court. "Our present one falls in the category of a high school floor."

sports that has suffered because of inadequate plant facilities, "in cold weather," he said. The fencing team practices isn't heated properly," Dr. DesGrey said. A new field house will provide modern practice facilities and more adequate tennis courts—would encourage various activities as well as afford-

"With the interest shown in the sport, we should be able to accommodate much more people than we now do at our basketball contests. Unfortunately," Prov. DesGrey explained, we can hardly set the College's students and those of the opposing schools, let alone the alumni and outside spectators who would be sure to come if we had a larger seating capacity.

The primary obstacle in the construction will be the necessary funds which the BHE must appropriate to make the field house a reality. One dent has already been made in the Alumni proposal. They suggested to the BHE that costs could be defrayed by having the College's ROTC share the building, thus making the school eligible for Federal Aid. However, President Dell G. Gallagher stated last night that "At present, there is no federal aid for ROTC construction."

The erratic Beavers face the torrid five of Rider College tonight on a junior high school court in Trenton, New Jersey.

The New Jerseys are led by 6-4 center Jack Madden, who has been singing the words to the tune of twenty-one points per game. Also prominent in helping the Garden Staters chalk up a 14-6 mark is Walsh (sixteen ppg) and Pete I. J. The six-footer averaging thirteen a game.

After tonight's encounter the Lavender have two games left against the mighty Redmen of St. John's and NYU's Vikings next Tuesday. A win against either of the two powerhouse teams will give the Goliaths a chance for a hike warm season which has finally come into its own. Molloy, the squad goes after its first victory over Wagner and a record-breaking performance against Molloy, the squad goes after its sixth triumph in eight tries tonight. The opponent is NYU and this time the Violet Vikings (what do you call a female Viking) are far from a shoo-in.

An important factor in the Lavender success has been the outstanding play of Mary Dominique, a freshman who is averaging 22 points a game. Mary tallied 28 points in the Wagner game.

Professor Laura Ham, the Lavender coach, traced the team's desire to play. "This season's squad has just as much heart, even when they were completely out of the contest," she said.

In tonight's Cager-Rider clash  are as follows: take the Jersey Turnpike to New Brunswick. From there follow Route One into Trenton. The game is at Junior High School 2, on South Olden Ave. between Greenwood and Hamilton Aves.
