SG Exec:

Scraps Program Board; Revives Managing Group

By PETER STEINBERG

A recommendation to scrap the Student Government Activities Program Board (APB), established last term by Student Council, was unanimously passed at a meeting of the SG Executive Committee yesterday.

Proposed by SG President Mike Horowitz, the repeal proposal

Bart Cohen
Managers Agency

Council and, as an ex-officio member, the chairman of the SG Social Functions Agency. Nominated as chairman and assistant chairman of the Managers Agency were Alan Linden and Barry Kahn. Former SG President Bart Cohen, Jeanne Glennon, and Stuart Goldberg were nominated as members of the Agency.

The two Executive Committee recommendations will be brought before Student Council tomorrow. Council may take whatever action it deems appropriate, or no action at all.

In other business, the Executive Committee received a report from SG Service Agency chairman Bob Bisnoff concerning the present SG sponsored student health insurance plan.

According to Bisnoff, 1100 applications for the insurance plan have thus far been received.

Exchange Program:

NSA Recruiting Students For Education in Poland

Applications for a United States-Polish student exchange program will be accepted by the National Student Association until November 15, according to a communique issued this month by NSA.

An exchange agreement between NSA and the national union of students of Poland was signed earlier this month by representatives of both organizations. The president of the Polish student union signed the agreement during a visit to the United States.

Two students from the U.S. and two from Poland will be selected to participate in the program. All expenses will be paid by the host student unions.

The communique adds that certain qualifications, including a reading and speaking knowledge of the Polish language, will be necessary at the time of application.

The exchange agreement provides for two universities in the U.S. to accept the Polish students involved in the exchange. These universities will be selected on the basis of submitted applications.

The communique noted that the exchange agreement is only one phase of increased contact between Polish and American students. "Among the programs of USNSA's travel department, USNSA Educational Travel, Inc., is a tour which includes as a principle part a visit to Poland."

Additional information on the program may be obtained from the College's NSA coordinator in Room 332 Finley.

Merger . . .

Mr. Walter Stalb, Central Treasurer of the College, has announced that wedding bells will toll sometime in January. His bride-to-be is an acquaintance of approximately thirty years. Their honeymoon will be spent on a cruise through the Caribbean.

Army Draft-Bait Wait—College Career Sure

Young men are usually not being drafted until the age of twenty-two-and-one-half at the present time, leaving them ample time to complete their college education, according to Dr. Arthur Taft, Selective Service advisor at the College.

• A Student's Deferrment Form (obtainable in Dr. Taft's office, Room 208 Shepard) may be filed. However, by applying for this deferrment, the student makes himself eligible for the draft until the age of thirty-five instead of twenty-six.

• A Selective Service Qualification Test may be taken (preferably in the Junior year). A passing grade on this test or superior class standing will insure deferrment until the student has completed his college career.

Communist Leader Invited To Speak

A communist leader convicted under the Smith Act has accepted an invitation by the Marxist Discussion Club (MDC) to speak at the College on October 16.

Benjamin J. Davis, NYS Chairman of the Communist Party and candidate for state senate from the 16th senatorial district, the district in which the college is located, will speak on "Peace and Integration."

A ruling of the Administrative Council of Municipal College Presidents prohibits persons convicted under the Smith Act from speaking at the College. The invitation extended to Davis may create a situation similar to that of last term when President Gallagher refused to allow Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, candidate for City Council, to appear on campus because she had been convicted under the Smith Act.

Davis, however, spoke at the College two years ago after serving a five-year sentence, and Paul B. McGowan, president of the MDC, said that he saw "no reason why Davis should not speak at the College at this time."

Davis' lecture will be part of this term's program for the College's MDC which will also include a speaker on the crisis in China. These two will be the first in a series of six programs centered on the theme "The Struggle for Peace in a Changing World."

William Hinton, formerly of the United Nations Refugee Relief Association (UNRRA) and specialist on China will speak on Thursday in Room 121 Finley on "The Invisible Fourth of the World."

Mr. Hinton, a graduate of Cornell Agricultural School, was sent to China by the United Nations in 1947 and stayed after the ascendancy of the Communist regime. He left China in 1954 and has since written and lectured extensively on his experiences.

MDC has come back on campus this term with "more than 50 members" after remaining off campus

President Buell G. Gallagher
Refused Last Term

for the last term because it was unwilling to submit a membership list. The students who signed membership lists for the club, this term indicated that they were doing it as a protest.

"Imperialism — The Main Obstacle to Peace" is the title of the third lecture, to be delivered, according to the program issued, by a speaker from either the Arab League or The United Arab Republic. For the fourth lecture, entitled "The Issue is Peace," the speaker will be from the USSR, possibly Menshikov, ambassador to the US from the Soviet Union.

The last two programs will cover the situation in Poland and France, and MDC indicated that it would ask professors at the college to take part in the forum on France.

Teas . . .

The Student - Faculty teas which were held last term every Friday afternoon will take place this term on Monday afternoons.

The Teas may be sponsored by any chartered group on campus—Class councils student government and various societies were represented last term.

Organizations interested in sponsoring the teas, held in Battenweiser Lounge should contact Dr. Jeanne Noble, Student Life, in Room 203 Finley.

Ex-Art Dept. Leader Dies

George W. Eggers, Professor Emeritus and former chairman of the Art Department at the College, died last week of bronchial pneumonia at the age of seventy-five.

Professor Eggers, who came to college in 1930, was the first lecturer in Art I when it became a required course.

Professor Albert d'Andrea, who succeeded Dr. Eggers as chairman in 1948, said that students who were at first reluctant to take the new requisite found that they "really enjoyed" Art under Professor Eggers' instruction.

"His lectures in Art I, which drew upon his rich experiences, were given with deep and sensitive appreciation of art values," said Professor d'Andrea, "and he was happy in the knowledge that his own true love for art in all its manifestations had a lasting effect on many generations of students."

Dr. Eggers retired in 1948 after eighteen years at the College. He is survived by his widow, the former Cornelia Bingham, a daughter, and two grandchildren.

College's Course In Russian Meets With Great Success

By MYRA JEHLLEN

The College's recent venture into the field of the Russian language has been exceptionally successful, according to Professor John B. Olli (German).

Twenty-five students registered for a beginning class in Russian last September. That class, now in its third term, has grown to thirty-one by the addition of students who had studied the language elsewhere, and 72 new students have enrolled in the elementary Russian class this term. In fact, Professor Olli said, the high number of students registering for elementary Russian this term caused the Registrar to open two sections instead of the one promised last June. The two sections are being taught by Professors Eugene Gottlieb and Olli.

Professor Olli cited these numbers as proof of the success and popularity of the course in Russian, but seemed to feel that the enthusiasm of the students taking the course was more significant. He described them as really interested and eager to learn, with the result that faster progress is made in a Russian class than in other language courses.

Pointing out that there is emphasis on the practical application of the language — the students speak from the beginning and do much writing—Professor Olli said that the students had advanced very quickly, perhaps creating a demand for more advanced courses in literature and scientific Russian. These, he said, could be provided if there were enough demand for them. At present the Russian 1 and 2, the second year courses, draw from modern Russian literature, 19th & 20th C., for reading material.

Professor Olli attributed the great response to a Russian language class at the college to a new awareness throughout the country of Russian culture.

The editorial policy of Observation Post is decided by a majority vote of the Managing Board and Rita Ashkenas, Larry Gottlieb, Joan Reinstein and Edith Shapiro.

Supported by Student Fees

Rules of Conduct

A college newspaper often finds itself in a very frustrating position, for after blackening its editorial columns with criticisms of existing situations and what it considers a fairly complete set of revisions, it suddenly discovers that the entire issue has been forgotten by all concerned.

Fortunately, such is not the case in the matter of the suspension system at the College.

Last term, when five editors of Promethean were summarily suspended while awaiting a hearing on the "suitability" of certain material in the issue, Observation Post emphasized the need for a definite system of regulations for all suspensions. The plan we proposed at that time would make it mandatory for the Student Faculty Disciplinary Committee to hold hearings on possible cases for suspension before any action could be taken. The Committee, which would have investigated all the circumstances, would then be in a position to mete out punishment.

This term, President Gallagher announced that he would attempt to draft such a set of regulations, in a series of informal meetings with the presidents of the Day Session Student Councils, Uptown and Downtown, and the various Deans of the College. We have again offered our suggestion. We certainly do not think that it is the only possible solution, for the problem is complex and would admit many modifications. In our mind, the important thing is that something as important as the suspension of a student, which can be a blot on his permanent college record, should be conducted according to unchanging rules and regulations.

We hope to see a cohesive, practical set of regulations emerge in the near future.

Man Against Apathy

One of the newest additions to the activities on the College campus, the Performing Arts Guild, is a welcome sight for its very freshness and for its originality of idea. It is especially gratifying in these times of stagnant apathy to find individuals, such as the Guild's president, Bert Sund, who are determined to boost student activities out of the rut which they occupy at the present time.

In an interview last semester, Sund indicated the Guild's possibilities when he stated that, "one of the things which could result would be the possibility of a theater on campus." The Guild presently includes Dramsoc, Gilbert and Sullivan Society, the Beaver Broadcasting Company, the Motion Picture Guild, and the Musical Comedy Society. It promises to provide fun for its participants as well as enjoyable entertainment for the College audience, and, above all, to provide an increase in activity on campus.

Here's wishing the College's newest organization the best of luck and extending the assurance that we are awaiting its first production with the greatest of enthusiasm.

New Courses Set for Grads

A new graduate school program, leading to a Master of Science degree, will be offered this semester at the College.

This program will enable qualified students to acquire advanced scientific training, primarily in mathematics, and also in physics and engineering.

According to Oscar Zeichner, Assistant Dean in Charge of Graduate Studies, this program, unique possible on this campus because of the School of Technology. It is the first in the city to offer graduate physics courses, and to combine the three fields.

The courses to be offered this fall include: Differential Geometry, Theory of Functions of a Complex Variable, Advanced Mechanics, Electromagnetic Theory, Kinetic Theory, and Nuclear Physics.

Sagging Wing Under Repair

The sagging wing of Finley Student Center is being remodeled, according to David Newton (Student Life).

The area is being converted into a social hall, meeting rooms and film room. It is 100 feet long, twenty-five feet wide and will accommodate up to 150 people.

It holds about one-third the capacity of the Grand Ballroom and twice the number of the largest meeting place in Finley. On the opposite side of the corridor architects are planning to build a kitchen area and three rooms, sixteen-by-sixteen, to be used as meeting rooms or offices.

Work on the wing has been going on throughout the summer and according to Mr. Newton, it should be open by the spring semester.

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH

Today begins my fifth year of writing this column, and what an eventful five years it has been! What things have these old eyes not seen! What great discoveries have rocked the world—the anti-proton, for instance, and the anti-neutron, and high-low split, and Brigitte Bardot!

In these five years it has also been discovered that American smokers like two kinds of cigarettes—filter and non-filter. The Philip Morris Company makes both kinds. I mention the Philip Morris Company because they pay me to mention the Philip Morris Company. They sponsor this column. I write it and then they give me money. Then I take the money and pay my grocer, my butcher, my gardener, and my four madrigal singers. In this way full employment is maintained and we avoid a repetition of the Panic of 1873 when bread riots killed over 98 million people in Muncie, Indiana, and millions of others were reduced to ghost-writing Ph. D. theses to keep body and soul together.

But enough of gloom. I turn back to cheerful subjects, like the products of the Philip Morris Company. For those of you who wish filter cigarettes, there is Philip Morris, which now, more than ever, gives you a filter and a wonderful flavor. For those of you who wish non-filter cigarettes, there is Philip Morris, a mild natural blend, fresh, and thoroughly agreeable. For those of you who decide between filters or non-filters but have in mind the Flip-Top and Soft Pack, I should like to point out that both Philip Morris come in both the crushproof Flip-Top and the good old-fashioned Soft Pack, and you will surely wish to add each to your collection.

Speaking for myself, I smoke both Philip Morris and Philip Morris in both packs. And it is a kind of a fun thing out of it. In my bedroom, one on each wall, which say in turn: "PHILIP MORRIS—SOFT PACK", "PHILIP MORRIS—FLIP-TOP", "MARLBORO—SOFT PACK" and "MARLBORO—FLIP-TOP". When I get up in the morning I put on a blindfold and then my faithful cat Rover spins me around six times and then, with many a laugh and cheer, I walk forward with my finger outstretched and the first sign I touch is the cigarette I smoke that day!

This little game has been a great source of merriment . . .

As you can imagine, this little game has been a great source of merriment to Rover and me, except for one untoward incident one morning. I was stumbling around in my blindfold and fell out the window right on top of a man named Fred R. Timken, a census taker, and broke all his lead pencils. He was cross as a bear, and though I offered him both Philip Morris and Marlboro in both the Flip-Top Box and Soft Pack, he refused to be mollified. In fact, he refused to put my name down in the census, so when you read population figures of the United States, will you please add one?

But I digress. We were speaking of Philip Morris and Marlboro who will bring you this column throughout the school year. In this space I will take up vital aspects of undergraduate life, like high-low split and Brigitte Bardot, and it is my fondest hope that the column will be half as much fun for you as it is for me.

The makers of Marlboro and Philip Morris welcome you to another year of fun and games from Old Max, and another year of good smoking from us. Filter or non-filter, pick what you please—and what you pick will please you.

Zero Mostel Blooms In 'Ulysses'; Critics Acclaim Off-Broadway Role

A role regarded by many actors as "poison" has become one City man's meat — and manna. The man is Zero Mostel, Class of '35, and the role is that of Leopold Bloom in the successful off-Broadway production of "Ulysses in Nighttown."

Zero Mostel

has scored 100% with the They have hailed him as perfect Bloom," calling him, relation as the sad, wise and Dublin Jew" in the adapta- the James Joyce classic. raying any Joyce character cially difficult because much "action" takes place in the ter's own mind and must be nicated to the audience by ent, gesture and facial ex- n, since the actor is fre- unable to rely on spoken

The role of Bloom presents additional problems. There had been reports that some actors had shied away from it because they considered Bloom's behavior too embarrassing.

None of the scenes fazed Zero a bit, however. Not even the one, where, in the company of a prostitute, he turns into a woman.

Highly regarded as a funnyman among comedians because he always dreamed up his own material, he could often be seen performing before audiences on the subway or in a park with a pantomime routine.

In appearance he has been described as an elephant in baggy pants, and as an amalgam of a balloon, a boneless shad and a caricature of the late Mayor LaGuardia.

This state of incompatibility between Mostel and clothes dates back to his undergraduate days.

Legend has it that while participating in an ROTC review, he started to crumple like an airless accordion when commanded to

"Attention," barked the officer in charge. "Not at ease."

"Mon capitaine," Zero replied, "it's not me at ease, it's my uniform."

Upon graduation, he began studying for his master's degree, but quit less than a year later and wandered across the country to Mexico, painting as he went.

Booters Trounce Columbia 6-0 at Lewisohn, Saturday

By PETER FRANKLIN

Lion meat was the entre Saturday when the Beaver Booters defeated the Columbia University soccermen, 6-0, at the Lewisohn Stadium barbecue pit.

A driving rain, a field of mud, and "The Number One Soccer Team in the United States," proved to be an indigestible dish for Columbia.

The newly-formed Lion Squad made its debut in the exhibition tilt. When the team officially opens its season, it will have gained inter-collegiate status for the first time in Morningside history.

Previously the Columbia booters were titled a "club" and competed as such.

The pre-game press release issued by Columbia University that stated, "Columbia is in way over its head in this one" was right. The Lions played hard but just couldn't keep up to the pressing Beaver offense.

The Beaver Booters started slowly but at 19:40 of the first quarter Eric Bienstock sent the first Lavender tally into the nets. Taking the rebound from a corner shot by Les Solney, Bienstock made a short punt for the goal.

In the second quarter, at the ten minute mark, Billy Sund and

John Paranos

The Beavers led 2-0 at the end of the first half.

When City came back on the field in the second half with the addition of Isiah Clark, Leon Manfredi, Claude Spinosa, Gabe Schlisser, Marco Wachter and Jon Paranos (who showed up late because they thought the game was cancelled because of rain) the Lavender really began to move.

Billy Sund dribbled a shot into the Lion Nets at the five minute mark and Schlisser followed up with a long kick for the two Beaver goals of the third quarter.

Sund scored again in the fourth quarter at the 10:15 mark on a short kick from the left corner. Anastios Soukas, the newcomer to the Lavender squad tallied for the last goal of the game with just thirty seconds left. Soukas' goal was scored on a twenty yard kick straight down the center.

While the game served no other purpose than a good work-out session for the Columbia squad, the Lavender were able to iron out many of their ills. Although members of the City team did show up late, it was a full-squad game in the second half this was important because the Beavers have not been able to get many practice sessions under their belts so far this season. Coach Harry Karlin has cited this lack of practice as the main reason for the fair showing of the team in Navy-CCNY game earlier this season.

The Lavender season will officially open tomorrow when the Beavers face the United States Merchant Marine Academy team at Kings Point. Last year the Beavers defeated the Merchant Marines. If past records mean anything, City should easily repeat last year's win.

The Beavers will be seeking their sixth Metropolitan Conference Title in a row this year, and their seventh in eight years. To date they have been undefeated in thirty-two consecutive league games since 1953.

With the exception of Long Island University, the Beavers will play the same schedule as last year. They have the double duty of defending the Met title and the United States title.

According to Coach Karlin, "At present the arrangements for post season play-offs for the Beavers have not been decided on definitely." "There is," he continued, "a good chance that City will compete in any play-offs." Of course, this depends on our record this year," Professor Karlin added.

The first home game for the Beavers will be against LIU on Saturday, October 11 in Lewisohn Stadium.

Innovation on Campus:

Electric Scoring System Introduced Into Fencing

A new electrical system of scoring will be used in the College's fencing this fall.

Beaver coach Ed Lucia who fought for this system the Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association and brought about its use in his U.S. Olympic team's matches was enthusiastic. "By this system," he said, "scoring will be infallible."

"Others feared electric due to excessive perspiration a possible short circuit." He that the possibility of shock reduced by more frequent of jackets and a closer check wiring. Finally, the players reassured that even should receive a "shock," its effect be "negligible."

Once a player is "hit," and a valid touch, a bell rings green light flashes on. But when illegal touch is made, a sounds and a red light flash either case, play is halted preparation for the next bouts.

Edward Lucia

Lucia discussed his players' reactions to the innovation. He said, "There was natural hostility and resentment by the older stars of the team at first. Some complained about the equipment they had to add to the heavy metallic lame and jacket-regularly worn."
