Will Debate China In UN

By ED MARSTON
The question, "Should Communist China Be Admitted to United Nations" will be debated today by Bettis A. Garside, executive of the Committee to Keep Communism Out of the UN, and David Sahni, special advisor to the UN Mission to the UN.

The program, sponsored by the Government and Law Society, will be held at 12:30 PM in the Finley Grand Ballroom.

Sahni, who will speak for the admission of Communist China to the UN, has had "a distinguished career as a journalist and actively participated, during the last thirty years, in the public and political life of the country," said Steve Garside, President of the Government and Law Society.

Garside also said that Sahni, was an active participant in India's struggle for freedom, and was imprisoned for prolonged periods.

Garside, according to Who's Who, has had a varied career as a school principal, missionary, and executive-director of the Committee to Aid Refugee Intellectuals.

Bettis A. Garside
Argues Con

Garside believes that "diplomatic recognition and UN membership for the Chinese Communist Government would be inimicable to universal peace and security, and to world Christianity."

The Government and Law Society released a statement last week saying, "We believe that it is the duty of our society to try to present both sides of the important controversial political issue of today. In view of this conviction the society has scheduled a debate on the seating of Red China in the UN."

Settled in their new quarters in Room 332 Finley, the College's amateur broadcasters have set about scheduling their "fall festival of fine shows." Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons the Beaver Broadcasting Club (BBC) pipes its musical shows into Buttenweiser Lounge. "We run our broadcasts just like a disk jockey program, complete with announcers and engineers," says John Siciliano, the BBC Programming Director. "It's just like a radio station."

According to the group's President, David Kahaner, the group now wishes to branch off into "specials which would interest the student body." Monday afternoons have been set aside for "request shows." Kahaner says that other programs have been planned as special tributes to musical personalities such as Frank Sinatra.

Dean to Face Diffie In Planned Debate

Dean Samuel Middlebrook (Liberal Arts and Science) and Professor Bailey W. Diffie (History), who last year argued by correspondence, will face each other in live debate this month, sponsored by the Debating Society.

In a letter to The New York Times last January, Professor Diffie complained of the low academic standards at the College. He suggested enrollment be reduced by one quarter to limit professors' time to "worthy" students. The twenty-five percent dropped would be those at the bottom of the scholastic scale.

The general topic of the debate will concern present academic standards at the College and whether they are improving or deteriorating.

Dean Middlebrook, in a letter of disagreement which also appeared in The Times said that all students benefit from college regardless of scholastic standing. "If I did not believe this," he said, "I would stop teaching."

Professor Diffie has modified his view of College standards since his letter in The Times. He now feels the situation is "slightly better" because entering students have to fulfill the requirements of a General Comprehensive Entrance Examination, introduced in Fall 1958.

But, he still believes the College has failed to fulfill completely its first mission — that of an academic institution. As part of the debate Professor Diffie will propose that the College shift its emphasis more towards the academic and away from the vocational, in a general reorganization.

House Plan Elects Bagelman In Mock Election Night Rally

Raymond the Bagelman, long-time fixture at the College, was elected president of House Plan (HP) Monday night. The vote was taken at HP's Semi-Annual Election Night Rally.

Raymond was sponsored by Sis Baron '63, who presented a sketch set on Convent Avenue, with a pert coed playing the bagel entrepreneur.

Abbey '62 put on an Arthur Murray "TV Party" skit. The Arthur Murray party, which came in second, was designed to "put fun in our lives."

Wittes Dynasty's Little Orgie Pizza copped third place. The skit was a posthumous "This Is Your Life" treatment of the late underworld figure, Little Augie Pisano.

Some of the other skits included a beatnik's pad (Sis Perry '63), an oriental scene (Charlie Chan-Sis Josie '62), and a "Nebbish" (Sis Josie '63).

The HP Semi-Annual Election Night Rally is a major event in HP's social calendar. The different houses compete against each other for the honor of having their "candidate" elected president. The competition usually takes the form of humorous skits and colorful costumes.

Poli. Sci. Recommended As New Title For Gov't

By GRACE FISCHER

Members of the College's Government Department overwhelmingly voted Monday to change the "atypical" title of their Department to the Department of Political Science.

The name change is but one of a group of revisions being planned in the program of the Department. The total series of proposals will be presented next term to the liberal arts faculty and finally to the Board of Higher Education for ratification.

Among the changes being considered by the Government Department are:

- The introduction of new courses.
- Altering the titles of some of the existing courses.
- The deleting of certain outmoded courses.

"We intend to review the whole Government curriculum," Professor Samuel Hendel (Chmn. Government) said Monday.

The decision to revise the name of the Department was prompted primarily because the term Government "is no longer being used by most colleges," according to Prof. Hendel.

The Professor pointed out that a joint graduate program in which the College's Government Department participates with the corresponding departments of Brooklyn College and Hunter College, is "awkwardly worded" since the other colleges use the more common title of Political Science.

Moreover, the ambiguous nature of the Department title often causes misconceptions as to what exactly it denotes, Prof. Hendel continued, "Lots of students think it is a continuation of high school civics courses."

Early last month students at the College were requested to submit suggestions for a new name, the main question being whether the term Political Studies was preferable to Political Science.

Professor Samuel Hendel
"Review Whole Curriculum"

"A plurality of students endorsed the Political Science title," the Chairman said.

Prof. Hendel would not venture a prediction as to whether the series of proposals, when drawn up, would be approved. "I hate to predict what other people will do," he said. "However," the Professor added, "I don't anticipate opposition."

Celebration Set To Honor Schiller

The German Department announced last week that a Bicentennial Celebration honoring Friedrich Schiller, the "great German classicist and champion of liberty," will be held Thursday, December 16, at 12:30 PM in Aronow Auditorium.

Professor Adolf Leschnitzer (Chmn. Department of Germanic and Slavic Languages) said that the fete will commemorate the 200th anniversary of Schiller's birth.

The celebration is being planned by the Department of Germanic and Slavic Languages in co-operation with the Music Department.

The first part of the program will consist of a short speech honoring "the great liberator," said Prof. Leschnitzer. The Music Department will then present the chorus singing Beethoven's "Ode to Joy," after which Constantine Cas-solas will sing several of Schiller's poems that Franz Schubert adapted to music.

Professor Leschnitzer emphasized that although Schiller is "famous for his great writings in the field of drama, prose and poetry, he must also be remembered for his work as a fighter for freedom."

Mr. and Mrs. H. Plan
"And Your Choice . . . ?"

Monday's rally was held in the Grand Ballroom of the Finley Center. Free refreshments were served.

Battle Loss

Triumph came to many individuals Tuesday in their individual candidacies for public office. But the public itself lost the biggest and most important battle taking place in the elections. An uninformed and lackadaisical electorate defeated Amendment No. 4 — the School Bond amendment — and thereby dealt a severe blow to New York's educational future.

The proposal would have amended the state constitution to allow New York City to borrow $500,000,000 over its debt limit for the express purpose of school construction.

The pattern of upstate voting was, unfortunately, to be expected. The pattern of no-concern for New York City affairs has been well established upstate. The fact that upstate voters had nothing at all to lose by allowing New York City to build more schools, and to improve its existing ones, made no difference. Politics will out and it certainly did.

But the fact that New York City voters did not themselves take this opportunity to better their own, and their children's lives is inexplicable. Adequate investigation of the question involved should surely have brought a massive city vote in favor of the amendment. This was not forthcoming.

The inescapable conclusion is that the mass of New York voters either do not care about increased educational opportunities, or simply were not aware of the question involved. We prefer to believe the latter, as this still allows a glimmer of hope for the future.

Perhaps the fault does not solely lie with those who cast their votes. Perhaps it also lies with those who understood the importance of the issue, but were not able to communicate this importance to their neighbors. Perhaps it partly lies with New York's college population who, above all, should have understood the importance of this issue, and brought it home to the general population.

Perhaps this will provide a lesson that we all must learn — that democracy will not work for all the people until all the people are ready to go out and make it work to their benefit. The time for active participation in life's problems starts with man's understanding of those problems.

Rapport

The path toward student responsibility has not always been a smooth one at the College. There have been many obstacles placed in its road, and at times that road has seemed stymied.

Primary among these obstacles has been the inability of students and faculty members to work jointly together in a constructive way. It appears that this breakdown in student-faculty rapport may finally have been bridged.

The unanimous action of the Student-Faculty Committee on the School of Liberal Arts in recommending that students be admitted to the Faculty Committee on Curriculum, and the subsequent acceptance of this recommendation by the General Faculty, serves as an excellent example for the entire College community.

The prospect of increased student responsibility with representation on the important curriculum committee gives all at the College an important insight into what can be accomplished through sincere student-faculty cooperation.

Now is the time for other student-faculty groups at the College to follow this breakthrough made by the SF Liberal Arts Committee. Those who sincerely support the welfare of the College must support the principle of increased student responsibility. Those who support this principle should follow this path, so clearly marked by intelligent student-faculty cooperation.

EVER HEAR THE ONE ABOUT THE FARMER'S DAUGHTER?

It seems that one day a traveling salesman wearing a smart looking jacket walked over to the gate where the girl was standing.

"Nice day," said he, as he lifted his hat. "BEAUTIFUL!" she agreed.

"Nice sort of day to go for a walk," he suggested. "Beautiful!" said the farmer's daughter.

"I'm wearing a pretty snappy jacket," said the traveling salesman. "Just about the handsomest jacket to be seen anywhere!"

Again the girl agreed "It's beautiful!"

This jacket is 100% nylon, made by the Cru-Cut Knitwear Co.

"Just beautiful!" said the farmer's daughter.

It's as warm as toast too . . . and it's cut full!"

Said the farmer's daughter: "Beautiful."

Well, said the salesman. "How about taking a walk with me? I'll show you the same jacket in the general store in town."

"Look mister!" said the farmer's daughter. I know all about your jacket . . . and I know that you paid half the price the other stores are charging. The City College Store's price tag is hanging from the back!" But even if the tag wasn't showing, I knew where you bought the jacket . . . I saw you buy it . . . I'm a clerk at the City College Store!

A charity drive for cerebral palsy is being conducted by the Caduceus Society today and tomorrow. Collection booths will be located in Finley near Bittenweiser Lounge, at Lincoln Corridor, Shepard, and outside Knittle Lounge.

DIARY OF A COED

MONDAY: Prof. Pomfritt sprang quiz in English lit this morning. If Shakespeare didn't write Canterbury Tales I'm a dead duck . . . Lunch at the house—turkey hash. Question: how can we have turkey hash when we never had turkey? . . . Smoked a Marlboro after lunch. I dig those better makin's the most! . . . Played bridge with sorors in afternoon. When game was over, my partner stabbed me several times with hatpin. Must learn weak club bid . . . Dinner at house—lamb hash. Question: how can we have lamb hash when we never had lamb? . . . Smoked a Marlboro after dinner. What filter! What flavor! What pack or box! . . . Chapter meeting at night. Motion made to abolish capital punishment for pledges. Motion defeated. . . Smoked more Marlboros. Quelle joie! . . . And so to bed.

TUESDAY: Faculty tea at the house. Spilled pot of oolong on Dean of Women. She very surly. Offered her a Marlboro. Still surly. Offered skin graft. No help . . . Dinner at Kozy Kampus Kafe—24 hamburgers. But no dessert. Have to watch waistline . . . And so to bed.

WEDNESDAY: Got our marks in English lit quiz. Lucky for me Shakespeare wrote Canterbury Tales! . . . Afternoon date with Ralph Feldspar. Purely platonic. Ralph wanted to consult me about love trouble he's having with his girl Nymphet Calloway. I assured him things would get better. Ralph said he certainly hopes so because last four times he called on Nymphet, she dumped vacuum cleaner bag on him . . . Smoked several Marlboros. Wonderful cigarette. No confusion about which end to light. Saves loads of time . . . Dinner at house—bread. That's all; just bread . . . And so to bed.

THURSDAY: Three packages from home—laundry, cookies, records. So hungry I ate all three . . . Quiz in American history. If Millard Fillmore didn't invent cotton gin, I'm in big trouble . . . Dinner at house. Big excitement—Nymphet Calloway announced her engagement to Ralph Feldspar. While sorors flocked around to congratulate Nymphet, I ate everybody's side meat . . . Then smoked Marlboro. Oh, what a piece of work is Marlboro! . . . And so to bed.

FRIDAY: Got our marks in American history quiz. Was shattered to learn that Millard Fillmore did not invent cotton gin. He wrote Canterbury Tales . . . How very odd! . . . Lunch at the house—bread hash . . . Marlboro after lunch. Great smoke. Must send valentine to manufacturers . . . Spent entire afternoon getting dressed for date tonight with Norman Twonkey. Norman is dall, dark, loaded—a perfect doll! Only thing wrong is he never tells a girl where he's going to take her. So I put on a bathing suit, on top of that an evening gown, and on top of that a snowsuit. Thus I was ready for a splash party, a dance, or a toboggan slide . . . So what do you think happened? He entered me in a steeplechase, that's what! . . . Would have taken first prize easily if I hadn't pulled up lame in the last furlong . . . And so to bed.

Yes, the college life is a busy one and you may be having trouble choosing the cigarette that's right for you. Here's a handy guide: For filter plus flavor—Marlboro. For flavor without filter—Philip Morris. For filter plus flavor plus nicotene—Alpine . . . All made by the sponsors of this column.

Do You Think for Yourself?

(THROW THESE QUESTIONS INTO THE POT AND SEE WHAT COOKS*)

If your studies led you to believe you could strike oil by drilling a hole right in the middle of the campus, would you (A) keep still about it so people wouldn't think you were nuts? (B) sell stock in the proposition to all your friends? (C) get an oil man interested in the idea, even if you had to give him most of the profits?

A B C

"A watched pot never boils" means (A) the man who made such a statement never watched a pot; (B) if you don't want the stew to boil over—watch it! (C) you can't hurry things by worrying about them.

A B C

If you saw a girl perched up in a tree reading a book, would you say, (A) "Timber!" (B) "Is the light better up there?" (C) "Will that branch hold two?"

A B C

Assuming cigarettes could talk, would you listen to (A) a filter cigarette that talks only about its taste? (B) a weak-tasting cigarette that talks about its filter? (C) a filter cigarette that lets its advanced filter design and full taste speak for themselves?

A B C

Next time you light up, take a moment to think about what you really want in your filter cigarette. Most men and women who think for themselves choose VICEROY.

the cigarette with the most advanced filter design of them all . . . the one cigarette with a thinking man's filter and a smoking man's taste.

*If you checked (B) in three out of four of these questions, you're a pretty smart cooky—but if you checked (C), you think for yourself!

'FEARS'

Your news story of October 28 describes me accurately as in having six students attending meetings of the Committee on the Liberal Arts and Sciences. I try to allay your editors' fears that the six will find effectiveness gravely limited in the form of a vote. The situation does not seem as dire as to you. Quite often informed faculty people attend sessions of the Council, and they have been effective though technically proposals are usually not until a consensus, or a unanimous accord, is reached. Then they go to the Council, where—please—all our teaching staff may attend only Council members bring constructive ideas with power to follow them up. It strikes you as "not logical" in colleges, government, business, etc., this practice works well. Perhaps eventually we will once again conquer our let's await the outcome of particular venture with a note of cheer.

Yours sincerely,
Samuel Middlebrook

Soccermen Meet Maritime Saturday; Await 'Easy Game' in Home Contest

By JOE LOWIN

"How would you feel?" said Coach Myron Recordon when asked how he felt his soccer team would make out against the Beavers Saturday.

"We haven't won a game yet." His team, the New York State Maritime Academy, has a record to date of 0-4-1. In their first contest of the season they tied the Long Island Aggies, 2-2, and haven't scored as many goals since.

When asked to name his high scorer, Recordon hesitated a moment and then finally said, "Well, there are two of them, Mike Maitezos and Vern Unger. It's about evenly divided between them." It wasn't until Recordon noted that "We can only score about one goal a game," that one realized that the Marines have scored only five markers all season long.

For the Beavers, it will be the same team that played Pratt to a deadlock Tuesday. But it won't be the same kind of massacre that followed the Pratt tie last year, according to Coach Harry Karlin.

Then, following the disappointing 2-2 encounter with Pratt, the Lavender went out and scored fifteen goals against the unfortunate LI Aggies. Then, the Beavers had a terrific bench.

"Last year I put good subs in," said Professor Karlin. "This year, as soon as we get two or three goals ahead we put in the men who need the practice. And that keeps the score down." Karlin found Hugh Bobb through this method and calls him "the find of the season."

Coach Harry Karlin
"Of Course We'll Win"

There was no doubt in the coach's mind that the booters would win Saturday. "Of course we're going to win. We'll win the rest of our games too, and still wind up undefeated. If the boys play the way they did the last two and a half games, nobody's going to beat them. No, I don't think we'll have any trouble," said the coach, his confidence becoming a bit less exuberant as he spoke.

The coach felt that with no bench strength at all, if the need should arise, during the last half of the season, for an adequate replacement . . .

After all, how would you feel?

Male and Female . . .

It's not too late fellas, in fact the time is just right. And for too femmes, Observation Post and our illustrious sports editor waiting for you. Just drop into the office and ask for Steve. There are many openings for all those males and females interested in watching the exciting games of the season and writing about them too. So, just drop in, Steve's awaiting.

Trackmen To Meet Municipals Saturday

By WARREN GREENBERG

The College's Harriers will host the cross-country championships at Van Cortlandt Park Saturday.

"Everyone will have to be at his best for us to beat Hunter, but it can be done, said coach Harry 'Doc' deGiralomo. "It all hinges on our having all of our men finish close together, and on at least four of them finishing in less than thirty minutes."

"All the boys have improved their times," continued coach deGiralomo, "especially John Rohde and Marty Weinless." "We have four men who are capable of running under thirty minutes. Brief, John Rohde, Mel Siegel and Marty Weinless."

Hunter's squad, has four under or around thirty minutes. It is led by Marty Taylor, who has broken twenty-eight minutes this season, and Hank Kaplan, who has broken twenty-nine.

Neither Brooklyn nor City College has a runner capable of breaking thirty minutes and little is expected from either of
