

Fee Increase Is Considered

A raise in the Finley Center fee may follow the institution of a five-dollar Student Union Fee at the Baruch School, according to Dean Emanuel Saxe (Baruch School).

However, added Dean Saxe, the final decision on the "corresponding" raise rests with the authorities of the Uptown Center.

The Budget Committee of the Finley Center Board of Advisors meets today at 9 AM to discuss the budget for the next academic year. Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) said yesterday that a tentative two-dollar raise may be considered.

Dean Peace cited mandatory personnel pay raises and rising maintenance costs as two large items in next year's budget.

At present the Center is supported by monies received from three sources: student fees, profits from services such as the Snack Bar, and contribution of the City College Fund.

If the Fund falls short of its expected income, it will be forced to reduce its contribution. This would necessitate a curtailment in the programming and free services offered to the students by the Center. According to Dean Peace, the Center must become as self-sufficient as possible to avoid this.

Earlier in the week The Ticker, the Baruch School's Day session student newspaper, reported that a five-dollar increase "will go into effect at the Uptown Center." Dean Saxe said yesterday that the Ticker story was "incorrect" in this reference.

The institution of the five dollar fee at the Baruch Center was necessary to finance the construction of a new Student Union.

March for Integration Draws Large Support

Approximately 1500 students at the College have thus far signed an integration petition sponsored by the Youth March for Integration Committee.

The campaign for signatures was initiated several weeks ago by the Student Government Civil Liberties Committee as part of the campaign for tomorrow's march to Washington, D.C.

President Buell G. Gallagher and many other members of the fac-

Managers Group Rules No May 9 HP Conflict

The three events scheduled for the evening of May 9 do not conflict with each other, the Finley Center Managers Agency ruled yesterday.

This decision was reached after hearing charges from House Plan (HP) representatives that the Inter-Fraternity Council (IFC) Play-boy Mad Ball, scheduled for the same night as Carnival, would hurt HP ticket sales.

Hillel has scheduled its celebration of Israeli independence day for the same date.

According to Al Linden, Manager's Agency Chairman, there "was never any question of conflict between House Plan and Hillel. The Hillel event has to be held on that date for religious reasons."

In a unanimous decision, the Agency ruled that no conflict exists between HP and IFC because the IFC affair is sponsored by IFC of the Baruch Center.

"The Manager's Agency," read the ruling, "neither has nor wants jurisdiction over the coordination of Uptown and Downtown extra-curricular activities. In this realm they are two separate colleges."

"The fact that more than one event takes place on the same date," continued the statement, "does not necessarily mean that there is a conflict. Students should have the right to make a choice as to what affairs they wish to attend. They do this every Thursday between 12 Noon and 2 PM."

The Agency added that "Uptown IFC" has no financial or contractual obligations to this affair. The obligation is one of sympathy and moral support. We cannot legislate against sympathy."

Representatives of HP and IFC indicated that they were pleased with the "proper" and "equitable" decision.

Gallagher Asks Aid; Cites College Needs

President Buell G. Gallagher and Gustave Rosenberg, Chairman of the Board of Higher Education, appealed for additional funds to the municipal colleges before the Board of Estimate yesterday.

Mr. Rosenberg requested an extra $1,437,600 to permit enrollment of a thousand additional students in the city college system next year.

President Gallagher said that "the state legislature recognizes the principle of state support for municipal higher education. It is impossible for the city not to accept and apply that principle."

In presenting his supplementary budget request, Dr. Gallagher "stressed the importance of state city colleges." The increased in-aid as a factor in supporting the come, according to the President,

DFU Makes SG Choice:

Kahn for Prexy; Grumer for Veep

Barry Kahn, an upper junior who wants Student Council to "enact its legislation," was nominated yesterday for Student Government President by the Democratic Forum and Union (DFU).

He was unopposed.

The other three nominees for major SG offices also encountered no opposition. Nels Grumer, a member of the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities, and Chairman of DFU, was nominated for Vice President. Allan Steinberg and Herb Deutsch, both sophomores, secured the endorsements for Secretary and Treasurer respectively.

College-wide elections are slated for May 6, 7 and 8.

After the hour-long meeting, Kahn, current SG Treasurer, said that the main problem of SG was its inability to act on legislation. "SG can never regain prestige if it just passes things and leaves it at that," he declared.

"We have to do what we keep saying we're going to," Kahn maintained.

He said that he has actively sought the DFU nomination and that he supported all the organization's "stated aims and policies."

"No Labels"

Kahn indicated that he would accept the Party of Liberal Students' (PLS) nomination if the campaign between the two parties were based "on questions of issue."

"I feel students are still open-minded," he observed, "and they haven't attached labels to either party."

Grumer, former Copy Editor of Observation Post, noted that he "had a major hand in making DFU policy, and would like to see it instituted in SG."

"I predict the PLS platform will be very similar to that of DFU. They will both express like outlooks," Grumer said, "and if they [PLS] are willing to endorse candidates on qualities and beliefs I'd be willing to accept their support also." He expressed special interest in SG Pres. Renee Roth's plan for "streamlining" SG. "I'm sure there is much that's good in the plan, but parts of it are unworkable."

PLS will interview candidates for SG offices tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday after 3 PM in Room 337 Finley. It will hold a nominating convention on Monday, April 27.

PLS Chairman Morton Horwitz said that he was "personally unimpressed" with the DFU slate. "It doesn't look like all students were allowed to compete for nominations," he added.

Steinberg was an SC representative from the Class of '61. He, too, expressed a desire to participate in reorganization of SG. "I'm grateful for the opportunity to represent DFU views in SG," he said.

The only other candidate nominated at yesterday's meeting was Bert Weinstein, who is running for the Class of '61 (Technology) representative.

Angrist Resigns As Librarian Here

Dr. Charles K. Angrist, the Associate Librarian of the College, who started his career thirty-seven years ago as an undergraduate library assistant, announced his retirement.

For many years he supervised the library archive system.

Dr. Angrist received his doctorate in jurisprudence from New York University in 1928. He was graduated from the College in 1925.

He has also actively participated in the Students Aid Association. At various times he served as trustee, treasurer, and for the past fifteen years, as Chairman of the Association's Committee on Loans and Grants.

ated $2,000 youths participated in the March.

Failure to secure an interview with President Dwight D. Eisenhower prompted the participants to schedule the coming demonstration, along with a petition campaign aimed at gathering "hundreds of thousands of signatures urging speedy integration in the schools."

Together with the petition campaign has gone a campaign to sign people to go on the College's buses to the March.

"I am sure that most of the College's students will wish to avail themselves of this opportunity to further the fight for civil rights," said Ellen Afterman, Chairman of the Student Council Civil Liberties Committee.

Washington activities will include the march down one of the main avenues, and a mass meeting.

The March is being co-sponsored by Walter Reuther, Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., Roy Wilkins, and A. Philip Randolph.

And in This Corner

Perhaps this May's Student Government elections will prove to be a genuine contest, one based on definite issues which are relevant to the College.

Our optimism is enriched by the start yesterday of the nominating convention of the Democratic Forum and Union and the proposed beginning of a similar meeting of the Party of Liberal Students today. This is definitely the right time to initiate campaigning.

It seems as if the students should be made aware of the platforms of the candidates this time and should have sufficient time in which to decide who will get their votes.

The number of qualified students who are willing to undertake the responsibilities associated with SG positions should increase due to the emergence of the two parties on campus. It is our hope that the student body will think of the voting procedure as something more than simply marking x's in little boxes.

Finley Fee

Once more the students at the College are faced with the possibility of a raise in fees. Last time (and the time before) the problem was inadequate funds provided by the two-dollar Student Activities Fee. Presented with a referendum asking for their support of a one-dollar increase, the students quickly hid their purses and vetoed the proposal.

Now the Finley Center Budget Committee will discuss a two-dollar raise in the Finley Center Fee.

The Finley Center provides many necessary facilities and meaningful experiences for the student. We would hate to see curtailment of program and lounge facilities, or a rise in Snack Bar prices to cover these other areas. But we would have to be sure that the raise is necessary to the solvent continuance of the Center before we could endorse it, or even subscribe to it without protest.

The students should have the opportunity to record their sentiments on this fee raise as they did on the Student Activities Fee. The possibility of obtaining funds from other areas, or instituting new services which could make a profit, should be thoroughly investigated.

The whole area of Finley Center budget needs explanation to and understanding by the students before a fee raise would be palatable. We have unhappy memories of other important decisions quickly reached and later regretted.

Sing A Little Song

An Alma Mater supposedly proclaims a student's unwavering support of the school concerned, but certainly this oral and tenuous statement of sentiment is only a periphery declaration.

On Wednesday night, Gail Netbura refused to join in singing "Lavender" at a meeting of the Evening Session Student Council. Dr. Farmer invited her to leave and accused her of exhibiting "disrespect for the College." Dr. Farmer's request was ridiculous. Whether or not a student is willing to join in these choruses is an unjustifiable and illogical test of his respect or feeling for the College.

Student Council can surely find something of greater significance to do besides singing songs.

Winning Debaters Make TV Debut

The two victorious teams in the College's Fourth Annual Invitational Debate Tournament, held April 4, will exhibit their debating prowess on television Thursday.

The College's Debating Society, with its faculty advisor, Professor Wayne G. Nicholas (Speech), acted as host for the Tournament.

At 4:30 PM on channel eleven a squad consisting of two men from the United States Merchant Marine Academy will argue affirmatively, and a Manhattan College squad negatively on the national topic, Resolved: that the further development of nuclear weapons should be prohibited by international agreement.

'Crazy Idea'

The job of getting the teams on the air took plenty of leg-work and perseverance, as Marvin Fastman, captain of the College's debating squad, readily admits.

"In December I got the crazy idea of putting the winning debaters on radio or TV, he recalled.

After a vain try at radio station WNYC, the eager captain spent a week "bothering people" at NBC and CBS.

Fastman tried again. This time he spoke to the producer of David Suskind's "Open End" conversation show. "The producer said it was a darn good idea, but he wanted names," the debater said.

Only WPIX's "Spotlight on Youth," sponsored by the Metropolitan Educational Television Association, was willing to present the teams.

"They want to give public school students an opportunity to find out what varsity debating is like, and perhaps encourage debating among these schools.

"Soon other New York colleges may pick up the idea of presenting debates on television," Fastman declared.

Carl Hammerschlag, president of the College's Debating Society, will introduce the debaters on television, and explain the topic.

Honor Groups' Projects Vary

The leadership abilities of seven vital organizations the College will come under scrutiny in the next week by senior honor society.

Probationary members of Lock and Key, an honorary society, will attend meetings of various clubs to judge their leadership qualifications.

The resulting reports made by the students will decide whether or not the student-observers will be admitted to full membership in Lock and Key.

Arnie Deutchman, a member of the society advised the potential members to "focus on the way the club is being led and the way it is going, constructive or dictatorial."

Both of the newly organized political parties on campus, the Democratic Forum and Union and the Party of Liberal Students, as well as Hillel, the Newman Club, the Conference of Democratic Students, the Young Republicans, and the Marxist Discussion club will be observed as part of this program.

Copies of the findings will be given to the respective faculty advisors, "many of whom don't know a gosh-darn thing about the organization to which they are lending their names," asserted Frank Holzer, Chancellor of Lock and Key.

These reports may also be obtained by any other group or person who requests them.

The project was described as "fabulous" by Lou Nashelsky, Vice-President of Student Government, who is hoping to become a permanent member of the honor group. He will evaluate the Marxist Discussion Club.

Aronld Deutchman
Advises the Hopefuls

"Such a study would enlighten me as well as those who may read it," Nahelsky remarked.

An attempt to bridge the gap that exists between foreign students and the rest of the College population is the goal of a second senior honor society.

Pick and Shovel, an honor service organization, believes that most foreign students do not orient themselves to life at the College and consequently "go back with a bad impression," said Marvin Binstock, chairman of the society.

"We don't intend to be social workers, just fellow students," he added.

SG Petitions . . .

Petitions for Student Government offices are available opposite Knittle Lounge, in Lincoln Corridor, at the Finley Center Entrance, in the Snack Bar, at Tech Crossroads, Hillel House, House Plan Office and Newman House.

The deadline for filing petitions is Wednesday, April 29.

Netmen Vs. Queens In Third Contest

The College's tennis team will try to get back on the winning track Monday afternoon when they meet Queens College at the Fleet Tennis Club.

The Beavers won their first match against Adelphi but dropped the second contest against Pratt Wednesday, 6½-2½.

For the Queens Knights this is the opening match of the season and they will be going in with a pretty green team, according to Queens spokesman, Ed Garvey.

"We've lost quite a few boys to graduation," he remarked. "We had a fairly good team last year; our record was 7-3."

Captain Lewis Schonfeld and Ralph Dranow are the first and second men for the Knights. Backing them up in the third and fourth positions are Paul Weber and Henry Gonzler. Playing against the Beaver fifth and sixth men will be Mark Oring and Roger Lieberman.

Dave Levine, Myron Goodman, Phil Solomon, and Harold Boyer will probably play for Queens in the doubles competition.

For the Beavers, Mike Stone is in the number one position, although he lost to Pratt in two straight sets, 6-2, 7-5. Jay Hammel, who was the only Lavender victor against the Engineers, will be in the second slot.

Since this is a Monday match, Hal Deutchman, who has late Wednesday classes, will probably be there on time to take the third position in the singles and second in the doubles.

Rounding out the College lineup will be Mark Buckstein, Jack Kornfield, and Seymour Silver. Novices Vinnie Catrini and Gad Selig may get the chance to show their stuff in the doubles.

Next Friday the netmen will contest with Manhattan at home.

Jazz...

Tickets for tomorrow night's House Plan Jazz Concert are still available in the HP office. The program entitled "Jazz Today," will star songstress Morgana King, Billy Taylor, and Donald Byrd. The concert will begin at 8:30 PM in the Music and Art High School Auditorium. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Publications Told To Set Standards

A Board of Higher Education (BHE) resolution has called on the faculties of the Municipal Colleges to remind student publications of their journalistic and ethical responsibilities.

The resolution, which was passed at the BHE meeting on March 16, says in part:

"The affronting of a race, or religion in general, or the religion of a particular group, is incompatible with good citizenship, good journalism, and good academic behavior."

Chem Prof Narrates As Orchestra Fiddles

The common conception that test tubes and opera recitals do not harmonize has been refuted by Professor Adolf G. Anderson (Chemistry).

Last Saturday, the chemistry professor narrated the Music Department's production of "Xerxes".

Prof. Anderson was surprised that this feat should provoke raised eyebrows when accomplished by a scientist. "Why do we have to be labelled as such one-sided individuals?" he implored.

Julliard Student

The tall, soft-spoken teacher is no amateur in the music world. "I've been involved in opera ever since I started to sing in college (Pittsburgh University)," he explained.

When the professor first came to teach at the College, he was also studying under a fellowship at The Julliard School of Music. Together with the director of the opera theater at Julliard, he formed a touring opera company which performed at several colleges on the east coast.

However, Professor Anderson describes himself as primarily "a lonewolf." He has often sung professionally at the New York Philharmonic.

The chemistry teacher bemoaned the tendency of outsiders to stereotype persons in the sciences. "A survey, within the last year, showed that high school students conceive the scientist as either very dull or a crackpot," he said.

"This idea is propagated by popular entertainment. Just look at television or the movies," he exclaimed. "The scientist is usually mad, wears a beard, and has an accent." He added, "It's not true. We're quite normal people."

Few Scientific Musicians

Professor Anderson has found that there are very few musicians interested in science, yet it is the scientists who are always being blamed for not possessing well-rounded talents. "Those not in science tend to be extremely critical of those in this field who are not interested in the arts. To be fair, they should be critical of themselves," he declared.

"The dilemma today is to overcome the tremendous trend to specialization, and still be well informed," he said.

Why didn't the operatic chemistry teacher devote himself entirely to the musical profession? For one thing, he said, "it's hard to make a living out of singing unless you are willing to compromise your standards. Most Broadway music doesn't interest me. I find it boring to have to repeat night after night."

"Besides," said Professor Anderson, "I like to teach."

Beavers Zero Queens, 10-0, As Soph Hurls Two-Hitter

By LARRY GOTTLIEB and WALLY SCHWARTZ

Al Riebesehl, a husky right-hander making his first pitching appearance for the Beaver nine yesterday, blanked a previously strong-hitting Queens College aggregation on two hits to pace the College to a 10-0 rout.

The Beaver victory was also highlighted by a 6-1 fifth inning, at least one base hit in every frame, and eleven errors committed by the opposition. It raised the College's season record to two victories and three defeats.

Riebesehl, a sophomore who has not hurled for either the Beaver Varsity or Frosh before yesterday's game, mixed a change-up curve and fast ball with pinpoint accuracy to hold the Knights hitless for the first five and one-third innings. He issued only one more, and fanned half a dozen batters while going the distance.

fielding of the victors, particularly the outstanding catches by outfielders Tim Sullivan, and Ken Rosenblum.

In the fifth stanza, Sullivan raced through the center field to haul down a long drive with an eye-catching over-the-shoulder grab. Rosenblum, replacing Sullivan in the last inning, preserved Riebesehl's shutout with a sensational save to end the game.

Batsmen at Bklyn

Riding the crest of a shutout victory over Queens, the College's baseball team will attempt to make it two in a row this Saturday afternoon against Brooklyn College at the Kingsmen's Bedford Avenue field.

Coach John LaPlace will most likely reverse his strategy of yesterday's contest and start with his first stringers. The Lavender was defeated last year by Brooklyn, 8-5, and will be out to bring its Met Conference record up to 2-1 with its third victory of the spring.

Other games during the next twelve days will bring the Beaver diamondmen to the home of the Fordham Rams on Tuesday afternoon, and then to McCombs Dam Park for two home contests against Manhattan and Hofstra on April 25 and 28.

The non-league win at the opposition Flushing ballfield was all the more convincing as Coach John LaPlace started the encounter with only three regulars in his lineup. Queens, on the other hand, began with its entire first team.

In the fifth frame, the College brought eleven hitters to the plate and sent six of them home to break the game open. The big inning was marked by George Lopac's three-bagger, and marred by the Queens' five errors, a passed ball, and a wild pitch.

A two-run third inning rally, featured by a double off the bat of Bill Catterson, started the team on the victory trail. The Beavers added single tallies in the last two innings.

Held to only five hits and no runs in its last two games, the Lavender snapped out of its slump with an eleven hit barrage. Catterson, who reached base five straight times, paced the team with three solid hits. Bob Esnard had the hardest shot of the game, a line-drive two-bagger up the right-centerfield alley.

The Beaver offensive was added by the eleven Queens errors, which accounted for eight unearned runs. In sharp contrast was the clutch

Track Team Enters Relays

With proper classification, the College's track team stands a good chance to place high in the Queens-Iona relays to be held Saturday at Randall's Island.

"It all depends on how we're seated," Coach Harry deGiroamo predicted. "If we're classed with tough metropolitan schools like St. John's and Manhattan, the going will be rough, but otherwise we should do favorably."

This meet is noteworthy in that it represents the first time since the early 1940's that a Lavender freshman team has participated in any major track contest. The frosh squad will compete in the Freshman Distance Medley Relay.

"Chief" Leon Miller looks forward to a victory by his boys from the sidelines as the stickmen prepare to combat Lafayette tomorrow. George Barron has been acting-coach.

Stickmen to Encounter Lafayette at Easton

Boasting a 3-2 record, the College's Lacrosse team will journey up to Easton, Pennsylvania, Saturday to play Lafayette College.

In their last outing the Stickmen trounced Adelphi 11-4. Acting-coach George Barron was pleased with the team's showing and feels confident about the Lafayette contest.

"We'll give a good account of ourselves against any team on our schedule," he said yesterday. "It's hard to beat a team with so much spirit."

After the Lafayette tussle the boys will have a week off before they meet Drexel at Lewis Stadium on April 25. The contest after that will be against Alumni on May 2, also on the Stadium turf.
