Will Debate China In UN

By ED MARSTON

question, "Should Communist China Be Admitted to United Nations?" will be today by Bettis A. Garza, executive of the bitte to Keep Communist China Out of the UN, and special advisor to the Mission to the UN, program sponsored by the Senate and Law Society, will be at 12:15 PM in the Finley Grand Ballroom.

Garza, who will speak for admission of Communist China UN, has had "a distinguished career as a journalist and author," said Sena, President of the Government and Law Society. You also said that Sahni, was five percent participation in "the future for freedom, and was imprisoned for prolonged periods.

Garza, according to Wh's, had had a varied career as school principal, missionary and, executive director of Guidance for Kid Refugee Ch.

Dean to Face Diffie In Planned Debate

Dean Samuel Middlebrook (Liberal Arts and Science) and Professor Bailey W. Diffie (History), who last year argued by correspondence, will face each other in live debate this month, sponsored by the Debating Society.

In a letter to The New York Times last January, Professor Diffie complained of the low academic standards at the College. He suggested enrollment be reduced by one quarter to limit professors' time to "worthy" students. The thirty-five percent dropout would be to those at the bottom of the scholastic scale.

The general topic of the debate will concern present academic standards at the College and whether they are improving or deteriorating.

Professor Diffie will propose that the College shift its emphasis more towards the academic and away from the vocational, in a general reorganization.

House Plan Elects Bagelman In Mock Election Night Rally

Raymond the Bagelman, long-time fixture at the College, was elected president of House Plan (HP) Monday night. The vote was taken at HP's Semi-Annual Election Night Rally.

Raymond was sponsored by Sir Baron 53, who presented a sketch on Grant Orchard, a poet and the bagel entrepreneur. Abbot 62 put on an Arthur Murray "TV Party" skit. The Arthur Murray party, which came in second, was designed to "put fun in our lives."

Witty Downtown's Little Orgie Pihas copied "the "Open House" set. The skit was a posthumous "This Is Your Life" treatment of the late under-graduate figure, Little Orgie Pihas.

Some of the other skits included: a health talk (Stevie Perry 55), "in the field of drama, prose and poetry, he must also be remembered."

Battle Loss

Triumph came to many individuals Tuesday in their individual candidacies for public office. But the public itself lost the biggest and most important battle taking place in the elections. An uninformed and lackadasical electorate defeated Amendment No. 4 — the School Bond Amendment — and thereby dealt a severe blow to New York's educational future.

The proposal would have amended the state constitution to allow New York City to borrow $500,000,000 over its debt limit for the express purpose of school construction.

The pattern of upstate voting was, unfortunately, to be expected. The pattern of no-concern for New York City affairs has been well established upstate. The fact that upstate voters had nothing at all to lose by allowing New York City to build more schools, and to improve its existing ones, made no difference. Politics will out and it certainly did.

But the fact that New York City voters did not themselves take this opportunity to better their own, and their children's lives is inexplicable. Adequate investigation of the question involved should surely have brought a massive city vote in favor of the amendment. This was not forthcoming. It is inexplicable that children's lives are deemed of no concern to New York City voters either, do not care about increased educational problems starts with man's understanding of those problems.

The inescapable conclusion is that the mass of New York voters either do not care about increased educational obstacles, or simply were not aware of the question involved. We prefer to believe the latter, as this still allows a glimmer of hope for the future.

Perhaps the fault does not solely lie with those who cast their votes. Perhaps it also lies with those who understood the importance of the issue, but were not able to communicate this importance to their neighbors. Perhaps it partly lies with New York City's population who, abore all, should have understood the importance of this issue, and brought it home to the general population.

Perhaps this will provide a lesson that we all must learn — that desire alone will not work for all the people until the mass of people are ready to go out and make it work to their benefit. The time for active participation in life's problems starts with man's understanding of those problems.

Rapport

The path toward student responsibility has not always been a smooth one at the College. There have been many obstacles placed in its road, and at times that road has seemed stymied.

The unanimous action of the Student-Faculty Committee on Curriculum, the mass of New York's college population, who, above all, should have understood the importance of this issue, and brought it home to the general population.

Perhaps this will provide a lesson that we all must learn — that desire alone will not work for all the people until the mass of people are ready to go out and make it work to their benefit. The time for active participation in life's problems starts with man's understanding of those problems.

Charity

A charity drive for corndial policy is being conducted by Caduceus Society today and tomorrow. Collection booths will be located in Finley near Buttenweiser Lounge, at Lincoln Corridor, Shepard, and outside Kittle Lounge.

DIARY OF A COED

MONDAY: Got our marks in English lit quiz. Lucky for me Shakespeare wrote Canterbury Tales. After dinner with Ralph Feldspar. Purely platonic. Ralph wanted to consult me about love trouble he's having with his girl Nymphet Calloway. I seemed to have things get better Ralph said. Perhaps the latter, as this still allows a glimmer of hope for the future.
There is going to be a story in the life of anyone who has ever dreamed of being a writer.

Fears

Your story about October is written accurately as in having six students attending the Committee on Academic Policy and Teaching of the Arts and Sciences, and I try to apply your example that the six will find between them a lack of ability to voice their views in the form of a vote. I am coming to the realization that you cannot see "me as me to you. Quite often you will argue that faculty members are not included in the decision-making process because they have been effective though technically Proposals are usually not until a consensus, or an unanimous accord, is reached. Then they go to the administration, where—please—no our teaching staff may be at only Councilmembers.

I attend the City College of New York...Over a period of time I noticed that students who shop at the City College Bookstore are better dressed, drive better cars, eat in better restaurants, and always seem to have money in their pockets.

Socccermen Meet Maritime Saturday; Await 'Easy Game' in Home Contest

By JOE LOWIN

"How would you feel?" said Coach Myron Recordon when asked how he felt his soccer team would make out against the Beavers Saturday.

We haven't won a game yet." His team, the New York State Maritime Academy, has a record to date of 0-4-1. In their first contest of the season, they tied the Long Island Aggies 2-2, and haven't scored as many goals since.

When asked to name his high scorer, Recordon hesitated a moment and then finally said, "Well, there are two of them, Mike Maline-" and Vern Unger. It's about evenly divided between them. It wasn't until Recordon noted that "We can only score about one goal a game," that one realized that the Marines have scored only five markers all season long.

For the Beavers, it will be the same team that played Pratt to a deadlock Tuesday. But it won't be the same kind of massacre that followed the Pratt tie last year, according to Coach Harry Karlin.

Then, following the disappointing 2-2 encounter with Pratt, the Lavender went out and scored fifteen goals against the unfortunate LI Aggies. Then, the Beavers had a terrific bench.

"Last year I put good subs in," said Professor Karlin. "This year, as soon as we get two or three goals ahead we put in the men who need the practice. And that keeps the score down." Karlin found Hugh Bobb through this method and calls him "the find of the season."

There was no doubt in the coach's mind that the booters would win Saturday. "Of course we're going to win. We'll win the rest of our games too, and still wind up undefeated. If the boys play the way they did the last two and a half games, nobody's going to beat them. No, I don't think we'll have any trouble," said the coach, his confidence becoming a bit less exuberant as he spoke.

The coach felt that with no bench strength at all, if the need should arise, during the last half of the season, for an adequate replacement . . .

It's not too late yet. Has, in fact the time is just right. And for too women, Observation Post and our illustrious sports editor are opening the exciting games of the season and writing about too. So, just drop in, Steve's awaiting.

Trackmen To Meet Municipal Saturd.

By WARREN GREENBERG

The College's Harriers will host the cross-country championship series at Van Cortlandt Park Saturday.

"Everyone will have to be at his best for us to beat Hunter, but it can be done," said coach Harry "Doc" deGiralomo. "It all hinges on having all of our men finish close together, and on at least four of them finishing in less than thirty minutes."

"All the boys have improved their times," continued coach deGiralomo. "especially John Rohde and Marty Weinless." "We have four men who are capable of running under thirty minutes. Brief, John Rohde, Mel Sie, Marty Weinless." Hunter's squad, has four men under or around thirty minutes, is led by Marty Taylor, who broke twenty-eight minute season, and Hank Kaplan, who broke twenty-nine.

Neither Brooklyn nor Hunter has a runner capable of breaking thirty minutes and little is expected from either of them.
