Pres. Requests SG Aid in School Bond Drive

Student Government was urged to play an active role in securing passage of a proposed $500,000,000 school bond issue, by President Buell G. Gallagher yesterday.

"We have a great interest in the quality of public schools," said the President. "Student Governments, which aren't always able to find worthy issues, might do well to take on an issue such as the bond issue."

Dr. Gallagher pointed out that the College eventually will receive the students affected by a change in the status of the city's public schools.

Approximately "a fourth to a third of our schools need better teachers," he said.

The Board of Education has been following an "accelerating" program to correct the shortage of teachers. Dr. Gallagher said that "We should encourage them."

The bond issue will be brought before the electorate on November 3. It is in the form of an amendment to the state Constitution. It would allow the city to borrow funds outside its constitutional debt limit.

President Gallagher also suggested that individual students at the College take a greater interest in events going on in the Harlem area.

He said that students might volunteer their energies in the fight to combat juvenile delinquency.

Citing a 75% decrease in juvenile delinquency effected in the Hamilton Grange area a few years ago with the help of the College's students, he declared that "there are things that can be done by individual students."

Although President Gallagher devoted most of his remarks to the bond issue, he did comment on the aid the Municipal Colleges received this year from the state.

The College was originally to receive over $700,000. However, the city reduced its appropriation by $124,000. This means that the College will get only $597,000 extra, according to the President.

Most of this amount has been used up by routine faculty salary increases. In the future, President Gallagher said, the city will not cut its appropriation.

Dance...

The Newman Club will hold a Welcome Back Dance Saturday night at 8:30 p.m. at Our Lady of Lourdes Auditorium, 416 West 143 St. Admission will be one dollar for members and $1.25 for non-members.

Society Plans Fall Debates

Student-faculty debates will be among new features offered this term by the Debating Society.

In announcing plans for the fall, Society President Dave Bernheim said the purpose of the new series is to revive an old American college tradition of having public debates on formal issues between faculty members and students.

"United States participation in the Vienna World Youth Festival" and "Academic Standards Prevailing At College" are the first issues scheduled for argument by the professor-pupil teams.

Each team will consist of one student and one faculty member, Bernheim said, and all debates will be held on issues important to the community.

Other features to be innovated by the Society this term include an expansion of intramural debates and debates with teams from individual schools. Bernheim said the group planned to participate in intercollegiate tournaments and to send a team to the Harvard contest.

The Debating Society will stage a welcoming tea at 12:30 PM today in Room 348 Finley.

The Society, which won four first place positions out of ten awards last year, has as its officers Alvin Hirshen, captain, and Ed Beiser, vice-president.

SC Nominates 3 Candidates

Three candidates were nominated yesterday for Student Government (SG) offices at the first Student Council (SC) meeting of the term.

SG secretary Diana Laster was the only nominee for vice-president. The position was left open when both Nels Grumer, Democratic Forum and Union (DFU), and Jerome Swartz, Party of Liberal Students (PLS), dropped out of the vice-presidential race last term.

Miss Laster, a member of PLS, said, "I did not run for vice-president last term because I felt that the position was adequately contested."

Because of the withdrawals, however, Miss Laster decided to run. "I want the job to be done well," she said.

If she is elected vice-president, the secretary's post will fall vacant. In that event, Neil Salzman has indicated that he will run for the position.

SG by-laws specify that a week must elapse between the announcement of a vacancy and the election. Therefore, SC can not hold elections for treasurer until October 7.

There are four open seats on SC. Harvey Glickenstein was nominated SC representative from the School of Technology, Class of '61. Les Fraidstern received a nomination for representative from the School of Liberal Arts and Science, Class of '61.

No one was nominated for two vacant seats from the School of Technology, Class of '63.

SG President Barry Kahn said, "The invalidation of last term's election has discouraged many students from running for office."

"This is the time, however, when we need responsible and competent people most. I hope that candidates will be forthcoming. SG Executive Committee will hold endorsements tomorrow at 4 p.m. in Room 332 Finley."

Nels Grumer He Withdrew

Neither a SC nomination nor an Executive Committee is a prerequisite to running for office, said Kahn. "But we do prefer an endorsement or nomination, if possible."

In addition to filling elective posts SC must also appoint students to many SG agencies and boards. This, too, is on the agenda for Council's September 30 meeting.

- Among the open positions are:
- ★ Two seats on the Finley Center Board of Advisors.
- ★ Five seats on the Board of Managers.
- ★ Two Cultural Agency Chairmen.

Sr. Requests Investigation

Gus Bennet, the defeated candidate for Senior Class president, asked the Student Government (SG) Elections Agency to investigate last week's SG elections.

Bennet, who lost to Rick Marrows, "140-135, said that many students voted out of their class. In his letter to the Elections Agency, Bennet asked that there be safeguards in the future to prevent a recurrence of ballot stuffing.

SG President Barry Kahn read Bennet's letter to yesterday's SC meeting. Kahn said, "Bennet does not want the election results to be invalidated."

"He does ask," Kahn continued, "that steps be taken to prevent this situation from arising again."

In his letter Bennet noted that he had lost by a slim five vote margin. It is entirely possible that a few students voting out of class changed the outcome of the election, he wrote.

Should the elections be ruled invalid it will be the second invalidation. Last term the election results were thrown out because many students voted twice.

The elections were then postponed until registration week. Kahn said that another invalidation would severely hurt SG's prestige.

Prior to the invalidation the Student Government Executive Council had twice postponed the elections because of an alleged lack of candidates.

Despite the three postponements many SG offices were either filled or uncontested.

Star of Female Hoopsters Now Coaches Teammates

The petite forecourt flash of last semester's Girls' Basketball Team is now the coach of the squad.

At twenty-one, Miss Betty Castro, a June graduate, has been appointed as a lecturer in the Physical and Health Education Department. And, appropriately, her new duties include guiding the squad she captained the past two years.

Only the contrast between Miss Castro's formal attire and the bright yellow uniforms of her students help distinguish her from the class members.

Miss Castro, trim and attractive, with an olive complexion and large brown eyes, is as sweet-looking as any of the coeds wandering in and out of the South Campus' Park Gymnasium building.

But now, of course, her long dark pony tail is wrapped primly in a bun at the back of her head. The bangs remain, however.

She says she does not expect her youthful appearance to create any problems in supervision of her classes.

"Although," she adds, "it will seem a little funny and awkward to have friends — particularly those I've played with — address me as Miss Castro, as required by Department protocol."

For some of her students, however, there will be problems.

"It won't be easy to play any tricks on her — cutting and such — when she's so recently graduated," one of her students says ruefully.

Miss Castro was appointed a lecturer when an opening developed, according to Professor Laura Ham, women's staff director, on the "recommendation of all the staff."

"She was a good student, knows the game of basketball — was outstanding in it, in fact," Professor Ham explains. "It's also nice to appoint our physical education majors to the staff when possible."

Along with Miss Mary Tansey, also twenty-one when named to the Department staff, Miss Castro possibly holds the distinction of becoming a faculty member at the youngest age in the history of the college. They are among twelve women's physical education majors graduated by the College since the curriculum was established in 1955.

For her first two years here as a student, Miss Castro majored in biology, planning eventually to become a nurse. But since junior high school, she also had an interest in sports.

"I can't remember exactly what prompted me to change majors," she says. "I guess I just like to work with people and this provides the opportunity on a broader scale."

In her first semester as a lecturer, Miss Castro is teaching calisthenics and modern dance in a freshman class and a course in archery and badminton. She also instructs an evening session gym class.

In addition she'll devote eight hours weekly to coaching the junior varsity and varsity basketball

Insulation

Students at the College as well as Student Government were urged yesterday by President Gallagher to play a more active role in the community surrounding the College. They were asked to look beyond our hallowed Convent Avenue gates to an area which is the college's geographical neighbor as well as one of our city's most troubled sections.

Many have come to the College in the past, spent four years here, and gone away with a measure of "learning" compiled from a long list of excellent books, and the teachings of some of the most learned men in the country. The College has much to be proud of in this field.

But many of these same students neglected something which later cost them very dearly. They forgot that anywhere man lives and works he must involve himself with the community, or both he and his community will suffer from a lack of proper guidance and contact. Man cannot be whole and complete if he insulates himself from the realities and problems of his surroundings. In the same way the College and its students and faculty members cannot expect and should not attempt to seal the College off from the Harlem community of which we are a part.

The President's suggestions provide a forward looking answer to the College's involvement in community affairs. All of us should be aware of the great revolt taking place in Harlem today over the question of the fitness of public schools. Part of the answer to this great question obviously lies in the procurement of additional funds with which to attract more and better teachers for the city's young people. The proposed $500,000 school bond issue provides a partial answer to the question of where additional funds will come from. In addition it provides a magnificent opportunity for SG to play an active role in an area which it has never attacked before and which is obviously within its much questioned jurisdiction.

The opportunity for all the students of the College is no less great. We urge quick acceptance of Dr. Gallagher's suggestions by SG, and we ask that every student at the College give careful thought to the role he can play in the College's real community.

New Life

Last semester the Student Government President decried SG's lack of power. Subsequently, President Gallagher appointed a committee of four to investigate and make recommendations on the situation.

The Committee begins its work this term while Student Government suffers from a lack of officers and a lack of interest on the part of the students. This Committee is one of the best ideas in a long time. Student Government must be given more power if it is to have a future. The Committee plans an extensive study investigating all the possible areas wherein it may be possible for SG to gain jurisdiction. They plan to interview leaders of Student Government; they have sent letters to Deans of Colleges throughout the nation to find out about the roles of other Student Governments; they are planning to speak to past SG Presidents.

It appears that the Committee will prepare a lengthy and detailed report. However, time is short. Student Government has been deteriorating for the past few terms and if the present situation continues it is doubtful whether candidates will be found for elections in the future. When students run for Student Government they must feel they are vying for positions of responsibility, and that they will be able to pass legislation which will be implemented.

We hope for the sake of the future of Student Government that a report appears in the new future, a report which will add new life and revitalize our crumbling Student Government.

Investigate SG Status

The legal status and powers of Student Government (SG) will be discussed by the Committee to Reorganize SG at its first meeting today at 12 Noon.

President Buell G. Gallagher appointed the committee of two students and two faculty members last semester.

Mr. Stanley Feingold (Government), Professor Lawrence Podell (Sociology), Renee Roth, last term's SG President and Stanley Grossel, previous Editor-in-Chief of Tech News comprise the four member committee. Mr. Feingold is chairman.

Regulations regarding the legal status, powers, consultative role and other functions of SG will be on the agenda. The legal structure of the College, State Law, Board of Higher Education

Stanley Feingold
Committee Member

(BHE) by-laws and General Faculty resolutions will be studied to see what if any area can come under the jurisdiction of SG.

SG leaders at another projected meeting on October 5 will draw up a series of questions concerning their views on SG, and what in their opinion could be improved. They will offer recommendations and evaluations based on their experience in Student Government.

A third meeting, is scheduled for the presidents of campus organizations and the past presidents of SG where similar problems will be discussed.

These three meetings are part of a scheduled series arranged by the Reorganizational Committee. The Committee has also undertaken the task of sending out letters to deans in various colleges throughout the country with similar problems to the positions of SG on these campuses.

squads. Jayvee practice starts Monday but the varsity squad will not begin activities until the first week in October.

And, of course, Miss Castro has some of the usual problems of a coach beginning a season.

"We're losing our high scorer, Mary Dominique, and a couple of good guards from last year's starting squad," she says.

The team, which posted a 7-3 record last term under Miss Ham's direction, also has lost one of the starting forwards and second high-scorer — Miss Castro.

In her spare time, Miss Castro likes to listen to progressive jazz and bowl. She was president of the summer league, and now heads the winter league, of the Upper Manhattan Lanes bowling alley in Washington Heights.

"I used to bowl in the 130's," she says, "but I switched recently from a straight ball to a curve and the average has dropped a little."

With her varsity playing days over, Miss Castro is looking forward to the Alumni game December 1, for which Miss Ham has agreed to coach the coed squad.

Student Attends NSA; Becomes Cuban Guest

By SUSAN GOLDBERG

Neil Salzman, one of the College's delegates to the annual NSA Conference found himself unexpectedly transported from intercollegiate discussions in Illinois to Cuba, to take part in "Operation Friendship."

The all-expenses tour was arranged by Jose Puento Blanco, president of the Federation of University Students of Cuba. 350 NSA representatives applied and 190 were chosen.

"From the very beginning we were made welcome," Mr. Salzman said, and continued, "an old Cuban expression characterizes the atmosphere there: 'My home is your home from now on.' The Americans with Cuban students as their guides were enabled to see and become acquainted with the lives of the Cuban people, and to observe at first hand the changes taking place under Castro.

Fidel Castro Praised

Castro Address

An exciting event for the Americans was the personal address made by Fidel Castro to them. Mr. Salzman describes Castro as "an idealistic, fervent person, completely devoted to raising the living standard of the farmers.

"Castro is a man of the people and he wants to stay with them," Mr. Salzman explained. "He moves among them, and no one knows where he will turn up next," he added.

Such was the man who stood in front of 190 American students and "pleaded for understanding between our two countries," and said that "all he is doing is for the people, so that they may live well and be free."

And the people love Castro and believe in him. "The poor people are joyous," Mr. Salzman said. "Only a few times did we find people who thought Castro was wrong—and one of these was a person who didn't care about the future of the poor."

Another young man, however, Mr. Salzman added, who had had his land reduced from 100,000 to 20,000, was in complete agreement with what Castro had done.

Takes Land

The government has taken land from all landholders who had more than 100,000 acres. The landowners are paid in bonds. "The value of these bonds is questionable," Mr. Salzman said, "but they are slowly gaining backing through the spirit and the faith of the people."

Castro's three main policies are agrarian reform, industrialization, and the building up of tourist trade. His wish is to eliminate first time in many of the farming areas. In the particular rancho which the students visited, the salaries of the workers had been increased threefold, while their working day had been decreased from twelve to eight hours.

In the cities, Mr. Salzman said, the changes were less noticeable than in the countryside. The rents are down, and parking meters have disappeared. Most important, he felt, is that the people are now free. "Under Batista," he explained, "it was not safe to be in the street after ten o'clock at night."

"The hospitality of the people impressed me most," Mr. Salzman said emphatically. They had a noticeable enthusiasm about American students, he added. "We had only to walk down the street," he said, "to become surrounded by one person after another, and to begin an exciting conversation."

"The people are very anxious to meet Americans, and very anxious that our two countries be friendly," he said.

Throughout Cuba, Mr. Salzman felt a "spirit of hope," as all the people worked together to build a better life for themselves and their country.

"It was a full experience," he said, "and one which no ordinary tourist could get, in that a concerted effort was made to make sure that we saw every phase of Cuban life, the people and the truth."

Health Plan Fee Raised

A 40% raise over last year's rates, was announced Tuesday by the College's Student Health and Accident Plan. Students now enrolling in the Plan will pay a $24 premium instead of last year's seventeen dollar fee.

The reason for the increase, as explained by Bob Bisnoff, Student Government Representative, "was that for every $100 paid in as premiums $125 went out in payments."

The Health and Accident Plan, which is jointly sponsored by SG and the College Administration, is available to all full-time students at the College. The plan covers all medical expenses resulting from illness and accidents up to a cost of $500. It operates on a 24 hour basis, twelve months of the year.

Dean James S. Peace, Department of Student Personnel Services, in a letter to parents, said "the enthusiasm with which this plan was received by the student body and the success with which it has been integrated into our administrative procedures is a tribute to the soundness of the program in meeting its great need. "It is our goal," he wrote, "to have every student in the college protected against serious and long term financial difficulties brought about by illness or accident."

Students wishing to join the plan or seeking additional information should contact either the Leonard Davis Insurance Co. or write to the City College Health and Accident Plan Headquarters at the Student Government Office at Finley Hall, said Bisnoff.

Tryouts . . .

Tryouts for the Women's Junior Varsity Basketball Team will be held on Monday, September 28, 4-6 PM in Park Gymnasium. All those who think they have the necessary qualifications are invited to attend.

In the 1959-1960 season, the Varsity team will meet the following colleges: NYU; Adelphi; Molloy; Queens; Hofstra; Wagner; Hunter; Manhattanville; Brooklyn and St. Joseph's. A Student-Alumni game is also scheduled.

Alumnus Is Interpreter During Khrushchev Talk

The voice of a College alumnus provided the verbal link between Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and the English-speaking world on the Soviet leader's September 18 visit to the United Nations.

George L. Sherry, '44, senior Russian interpreter for the United Nations, considered his task "just one of our regular jobs." Since 1946, a glass-walled booth, earphones, and a microphone have been Mr. Sherry's faithful tools.

Mr. Sherry's knowledge of Russian began to take shape at the age of six when, at the constant insistence of his father he had to write at least one page in Russian each day. There was no definite topic given him to write on.

"I just had to make sure that I could turn in that one page each day," he casually explained. Whenever I could get hold of some Russian literature, I had to read that too," he added. "But I didn't mind it at all."

His proficiency in the language has grown considerably since then. According to a recent New York Times portrait of him, "Mr. Sherry is lightning fast and in the shinsky days managed 240 words a minute - without a text or help."

Mr. Sherry does not strive for word-by-word translation; he is more interested in conveying the substance of the thoughts.

As one who must accurately interpret the speeches of Russian United Nations delegates, it is not surprising that some members of Mr. Sherry's audiences have complained that, "This man must be Communist. He talks just like me."

However, during his six year stay at the College, Mr. Sherry equately disproved any suspicions about his political affiliations his listeners might have. He served as Editor-in-Chief of The Campus which the Times referred to as "an anti-Communist weekly." Mr. Sherry emphasized that the newspaper carried on "very definite anti-Communist campaigns 1943-44."

"My political beliefs," he said, "are irrelevant to the subject matter and statements I must make as an interpreter of the Russian language."

Mr. Sherry also interprets the speeches of French-speaking diplomat at the United Nations, and he was a German interpreter at last July's Geneva Conference on the problem of Berlin. He does not, however, consider himself a linguist. "I think about languages only as tools," he explained. "They are keys which are necessary to open doors which would remain tightly shut if we had no knowledge of them."

Although he was a summa cum laude graduate of the College fifteen years ago, Mr. Sherry is still attending school. He holds two master's degrees from Columbia University - one in comparative literature, and one from the Russian Institute there in political science. He is now working toward his doctorate.

Dance Begins HP Festivities

House Plan's Silver Anniversary year will open with its Fiftieth semi-annual Welcome Dance. The dance, which will be held in the Finley Center tomorrow at 8 PM, will feature social and square dancing and folksinging.

As part of their anniversary celebration, HP will hold a Mock Election Night Rally prior to Election Day. The winning candidate last year was Pinnocchio.

The official campus celebration of House Plan's twenty-fifth year will be held on Thursday, November 19. All houses are expected to compete for a Silver Jubilee Prize, said Elliot Shorter, HP representative.

A formal dance, to be held in a downtown hotel, will be the main event of the silver anniversary celebration.

According to Mike Lessinger, HP representative, "Our twenty-fifth year saw us register 1,275 new members.

"These new members will form fifty temporary house plans," he said. After drop-outs Lessinger estimates that forty permanent houses will remain.

Lavender Five Prepares, Faces Tri-State Schedule

By JOE LOWIN

An automatic bid to the NCAA Small College Basketball Tourney is open to the Lavender Five this year as a result of joining the Tri-State League.

The league consists of eleven teams from the states of New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut. Each year the winner of the Tri-State League is automatically tendered an invitation to the NCAA tournament.

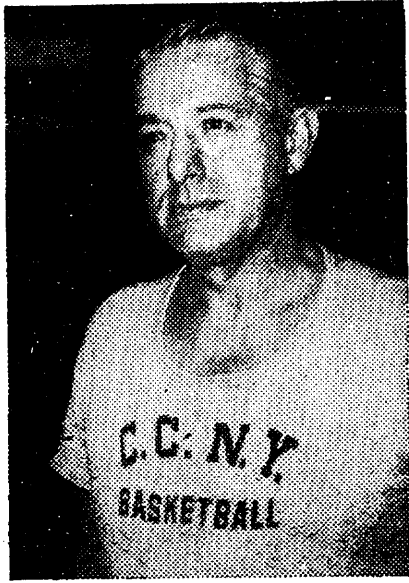

Some of the Tri-State teams the college has met in the past are, Fairleigh Dickinson, LIU, Adelphi and Hunter. In addition the College will play Yeshiva University, Kings Point, Bridgeport, and Fairfield.

In order to make room on the schedule for the College's new rivals, the traditional two game series with Hunter, Brooklyn and Queens was terminated. The College will meet these teams only once this year.

Coach Nat Holman, however, is very pessimistic about the team's chances this year. "We've lost Hector Lewis and Joel Ascher through graduation, and Groveman will be leaving in January. I guess this will be a re-building year."

The coach then explained that last year's freshmen will be used extensively to fire up the team. "But," he admitted, "varsity ball is a lot tougher than the competition encountered in frosh games."

Last year's Frosh squad posted

Nat Holman
'We'll be rough'

one of the finest Freshmen records in years, winning eleven out of eighteen games. Among the stand-out performers were Mike Gerber, who set a new Freshman scoring record for a single game, and Alan Sparer who averaged sixteen points a game.

A spokesman for Yeshiva University, the first League team on the College's Schedule, said he expected the Beaver's to be a contender for the title. "Sure, we'll be tough," answered Professor Holman, "if the boys come out regularly. I expect to put together a strong team that will improve as the season progresses."

In last year's Tri-State League competition Adelphi came out on top, with Fairleigh Dickinson and Yeshiva, a close second and third respectively.

As to the reaction of the League as a whole to the acceptance of LIU and the College, a spokesman said, "We think it's wonderful; the more, the merrier."

The Record...

College	Tri-State Opponent	Points
67, 57	Hunter-	58, 60
68	LIU-	69
55	Adelphi-	65
68	FDU-	66
65	Rider-	63
55, 77	Brooklyn-	65, 80

Rah, rah, rah...

Tryouts for the cheerleading squad will be held today at 4 p.m. in Room 104 Wingate. All those wishing to exhort and encourage the College's teams on to bigger and better victories are invited to appear. Prerequisites are a strong set of vocal chords and a willing larynx. Candidates must be able to spell Allegrew correctly.

'Underdog' City Eleven Enjoys The New Role

By ISAAC SULTAN

"We are being underestimated," said Beaver booter, Bob Berkson.

Berkson, a little redhead who served as varsity soccer goalie for part of last season, made the above statement after speaking with varsity soccer players from other municipal colleges.

Co-captain Heinz Minnerop said that this new position of underdog puts the College's soccer team in "an unusual and pleasant position. We like it."

For the past few seasons, the team has gone out on the field as the powerful favorite. If this feeling continues to spread around the major soccer teams, the Beavers will play the new role of underdog, which is a most interesting situation.

The other co-captain, Les Solney says, "this season we'll have a team effort. Everyone is going to play together. Nobody on the team will think that he can get along alone."

As the week progressed, new situations, good and bad arose. Nick Wohlgenuth was injured in his right knee and he will have to sit around for about a week.

On the plus side of things, Andy Houtkruyer, a goalie for the Jayvee last season, is showing up very well on the practice field and will, in the opinion of many players, become the Beaver goalie. Houtkruyer, a physics major, learned his soccer as a boy in Holland. He spent many years playing the sport and is a welcome addition to the Lavender soccermen.

In addition, Marco Wachtel, who was sick for the past few days, will not be in shape for Saturday's scrimmages with Columbia and Fordham. He has, however, expressed hopes of making the opener, which will be October 7th against Queens.

Meet the Coaches

Joe Sapora

An inspiration to all small men, the 125-pound, five-foot-six Beaver wrestling coach has the record to prove the worth of a good little man. As an undergraduate at the University of Illinois, Professor Sapora won the NCAA title in the 118-pound class in 1929 and 1930. In 1931 and 1932 he won the Metropolitan Senior, the New York State, and the National AAU titles. He received his MA from NYU.

Harry Karlin

A member of the faculty since 1920, Professor Karlin has either coached or taught every sport ever played at the College, including water-polo. Because of this versatility, he now holds the title of National Commissioner of Pop Warner's Midget Football team, granted by the Franklin Society of Philadelphia and the US Marine Corps. Coaching soccer since 1954, his team has won the Metropolitan Conference outright four times and tied for it once.

Harry de Girolamo

Track coach "by accident," Dr. de Girolamo has perhaps the best won-lost record of all coaches at the College since he became day session track mentor in 1955. In the past four years, his cross-country and outdoor track teams have won a total of 32 meets while losing only eight.

Jack Rider

At the College for 37 years, Jack Rider was appointed head coach of swimming in 1946. His teams have thrice captured the Metropolitan Collegiate Swimming Conference Championships.

He has served as President of the Eastern Collegiate Swimming Association and as Secretary-Treasurer of the Metropolitan Swimming Association.

For over a quarter of a century he has been an examiner for the Red Cross.

Edward Lucia

Professor Lucia has been a performer, appearing on "Dancing is a Man's Game" last year; orchestra conductor at the New York City Opera; a sailor, serving as Chief Specialist in the Navy Physical Fitness Program; and much-honored fencing coach.

He coached the American football team in the World Championship tourney held in Philadelphia over a year ago, and in 1955, was named alternate senior coach for the United States Olympic Fencing team.
