President Voices Football Protest

By PETER STEINBERG

The re-institution of football at the College was decisively opposed by President Buell G. Gallagher yesterday.

Dr. Gallagher said that "The only way to make football pay is to put it on a competitive basis. I won't pay the costs of commercial football," he declared.

It was reported in Tuesday's Observation Post that the Alumni Association and the Alumni Varsity Association had recommended that a study be instituted concerning the re-establishment of football at the College on a local scale.

President Gallagher questioned the accuracy of the report, and said that he doubted that there was "open backing" for that type of recommendation.

The President of the Alumni Association, Mr. Clifford O. Anderson, said last night that the question of football at the College is in the "discussion stage" in his organization. "It meets with favor among many members," he said.

Mr. Anderson added that he thought the proposal "a good idea provided we stay within our scholastic scope" in choosing collegiate opponents.

According to Mr. Anderson, the proposal will be studied further, particularly in the light of financial and other difficulties, in the Alumni Athletic Committee. Mr. Leo Klauber, Class of 1923, the originator of the proposal, is chairman of the Committee.

The President said that "In the Salk polio vaccine booster shots are not now available for use at the College, according to President Buell G. Gallagher.

Dr. Gallagher said yesterday that the Department of Health has informed him that it cannot now provide the fourth polio shots.

The President said, however, that the College wishes to administer vaccine to those students who have not yet received all or any one of their first three inoculations. "It appears that there will be vaccine available."

The President has appointed Dean Leslie W. Engler (Administration) and the College's chief physician, Dr. Abner Stern, to investigate the practicality of the college handling the administration of the vaccine.

According to Pres. Gallagher, the "administration of the shots has not yet been settled." The policy of the Department of Health has been to supply free vaccine to the Municipal Colleges, but not to supply the personnel to administer these shots.

Zionist Says:

'Exodus' Boosts Israel, Zionism Less Effective

"Exodus" has been able to get more across about Israel and Judaism than Zionists have been able to do, said the National Director of the Student Zionist Organization Tuesday.

Speaking before a large crowd in Hillel House, Aryeh Simon said that "the book is a Reader's Digest of modern Jewish History. It presents a new and exciting picture of a real Jew to an American audience."

"When Leon Uris began writing his book about Israel and life there, he had to start his research from scratch," Mr. Simon explained. "In the process of preparing the book, he discovered for the first time that a great period in the history of Israel had just gone by, and he had to tell what he had just discovered."

In his lecture Mr. Simon made it clear that while "Exodus" is an excellent and moving portrayal of the history and growth of Judaism, it does not expand on the hopes and ideals of the Jewish nation.

"The book is an heroic, war-like, good-guys (Jews) versus bad-guys (the British) cowboy story, a kind of Israeli 'Battle Cry.'"

"Israel is a state with an army it doesn't want but that it must have because there are many hostile armies surrounding it," Mr. Simon continued. "The state wasn't created just to have a banner and an anthem."

We wanted it to represent our ideals, and we have not yet accomplished this. But all of our

Booters Victorious In Season Opener

By STEVE SOLOMON

Sparked by the scoring of Heinz Minnerop and Marco Wachter, the College's Soccer team opened its season yesterday with a decisive 8-1 rout of Queens. A crowd believed in excess of one thousand watched from their seats in Lewisohn Stadium.

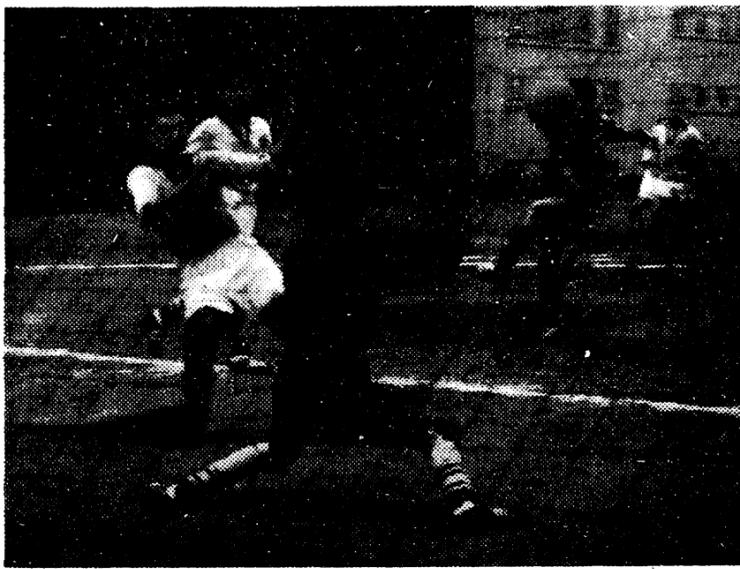

Minnerop, the College's leading candidate for All-American honors tallied goals in each of the first three periods, but it was Wachter who scored the two goals that broke the game open.

Picture Play

With the College leading by a slim 3-1 advantage in the third period he combined with Minnerop to make the picture play of the game. Heinz was standing to the left of the net when he received a pass from Wachter.

Instead of firing a shot at the goalie he faked two steps in and passed directly back to Wachter who put the ball into the net. The play seemed to loosen up the Beavers.

Four minutes later at 6:30 of the period Wachter picked up a loose rebound and slipped it by the goalie. This made the score 5-1 and whatever hope Queens had had of upsetting the might Beavers was dissipated.

The rest of the game was played in crisp fashion. Minnerop and Orest Bilous scored goals near the end of the third period and Vic Leviatin tallied his first College score in the fourth.

The first half of the game was played in a disorganized fashion. Minnerop put the Beavers ahead with a goal at the four minute mark of the first period but after that the team bogged down.

Passing became sloppy and when Queens was awarded a penalty shot with only thirty seconds remaining in the period they had the opportunity they wanted. Alex Selian didn't let them down. He fired a low bullet into the net and the score was tied.

Breaks Tie

With one minute gone in the second period Minnerop untied it. The goal gave the College a 2-1 advantage but failed to ignite them. It wasn't until three minutes before halftime that Andy Soukas scored what was then the insurance goal.

"We were a little ragged in the beginning," Coach Harry Karlin admitted after the game, "but it wasn't bad considering it was the first game. We'll do all right."

Some observers from Queens didn't think so. "They're good," Queens Coach Guido Foglia remarked near the end of the game, "but they're not in a class with

Talks Set On Christ

The first of a series of three lectures concerning the person and influence of Christ will be given Wednesday at 12 Noon in the Grand Ballroom, Finley.

The lectures, entitled "The Impact of Jesus," are being sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship (IVCF) and will feature Mr. Walter Liefeld as guest speaker.

His first lecture will be "Jesus as a Hellenistic Figure."

Jim Bresnahan, president of IVCF, said yesterday, "Our organization hopes to acquaint students at the College with Christ, both as a person and as a theological figure."

Mr. Liefeld is a candidate for a doctorate in Hellenistic literature at Columbia University. He has also done graduate work at the Union Theological Seminary and is a former instructor of Greek at Shelton College. Mr. Liefeld was a counsellor to students in the IVCF and the Christian Medical Society for several years.

The second lecture, "Jesus as a Jewish Figure," will be given next Thursday at 12 noon in the Aronow Auditorium, and the third, "Jesus as a Contemporary Figure" next Friday at 1 PM in the Grand Ballroom.

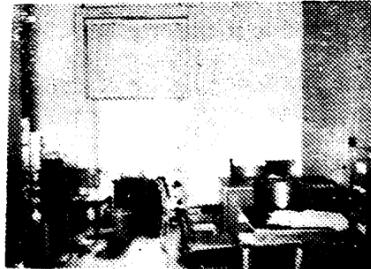

Mr. Liefeld has given a similar lecture series at Cornell University, the University of Toronto, Queens College, and other Eastern Universities. Bresnahan said the series was very successful at these other colleges.

New . . . But Smaller

Room 332 Finley Old Office

Room 341 Finley New Quarters

Student Government has been moved from Room 332 Finley to smaller quarters in 341 Finley. SG's new office is partitioned into three rooms. It was formerly occupied by Mr. Walter Stalb, the Central Treasurer.

SG President Barry Kahn said, "We do not need much room. Although the new rooms are small they will be more convenient than our former quarters. We will be able to hold three meetings simultaneously."

History of SG

The just announced move of Student Government from its spacious office in Room 332 Finley to the smaller confines of Room 341 Finley is more significant than it may outwardly appear. It illustrates in a nutshell the history of SG.

Room 332 is a wide and airy room with plenty of space for both desks and people. Not too many semesters ago it was a virtual beehive of student activity. At that time the room was "too small" to accommodate the myriad of concerned students who wandered in; students who saw in SG a vital decision-making body which represented and affected them.

Today, a room half the size of the old SG office suffices. "We don't need larger quarters," the President of SG, Barry Kahn, admitted. Room 332 lay bare and empty most of the day.

Certainly this is indicative of degeneration. Degeneration which is all the more dangerous because it is taking place in the only remaining instrument through which the students can voice their questions, criticisms and convictions.

More power to enact decisions in order to regenerate student interest must be given to SG. Or, like Room 332, Student Government will be vacated and forgotten.

Vote Row SG

Until this semester, both students and administration have been curiously mute about the farcical procedure in which we elect our Student Government.

The defects in our present system of elections, which allow such malpractices as voting twice and voting out of class to flourish, have been ignored continuously although they have occurred consistently at every election.

The invalidation of last spring's election, the subsequent postponement of the election to this semester, and the poor showing in this election seem to indicate a failure of our election machinery to function properly.

Boycotting the elections does not seem to be a constructive answer to the problem and only serves to aggravate the situation. Neither does ignoring the defects and malpractices seem to be the solution, since this can be construed only as silent approval.

A partial solution, to us, would be the acceptance of the recommendations made by Ed Caprilian, chairman of the SG Committee to Investigate Election Procedures.

At the present time a student uses his Bursar's Card for identification purposes when he votes. However, the Bursar's Card neither indicates the class of the student nor shows by any means, that he has voted.

This operational defect makes it difficult for elections officials to prevent students from voting out of class or voting twice.

The Election Agency's proposals would alleviate these mechanistic difficulties and would prevent such violations as have occurred in the past.

The most expensive of the proposed innovations, but the most worthwhile investment, we feel, would be the rental of four voting machines at each polling place, one for each class.

The use of the machines would not only prove educational, acquainting students with the actual voting machines used in local, state and national elections as Dr. Newton pointed out; but would make the process of voting more appealing and stimulate student participation. Their use would also eliminate the possibility of out of class voting.

He also proposed to Student Council a number of laws to improve the elections procedures which we feel are also necessary to alleviate existing vices. If put into effect the laws would impose a penalty on students who willfully violate election regulations, forbid the extension of the election date and clarify the qualifications necessary to run for major office.

The desire for correction of the defects in election procedure is a reflection of a revival of permanent interest in Student Government, and we hope, the beginning of the return of Student Government to the high status it should rightfully hold on campus.

FOOTBALL: ITS CAUSE AND CURE

Next Saturday at the football game while you are sitting in your choice student's seat behind the end zone, won't you give a thought to Alaric Sigafos?

Alaric Sigafos (1868-1934) started life humbly on a farm near Thud, Kansas. His mother and father, both named Ralph, were bean-gleaners, and Alaric became a bean-gleaner too. Later he moved to Oregon and found work with a logging firm as a stump-thumper. Then he went to North Dakota where he tended the furnace in a granary (wheat-heater). Then he drifted to Texas where he tidied up oil fields (pipe-wiper). Then to Arizona where he strung dried fruit (fig-rigger). Then to Kentucky where he fed horses at a breeding farm (oat-toter). Then to Long Island where he dressed poultry (duck-plucker). Then to Alaska where he drove a delivery van for a bakery (bread-sledder). Then to Minnesota where he cut up frozen lakes (ice-slicer). Then to Nevada where he computed odds in a gambling house (dice-pricer). Then to Milwaukee where he pasted camera lenses together (Zeiss-splicer).

Finally he went to Omaha where he got a job in a tannery beating pig hides until they were soft and supple (hog-flogger.) Here he found happiness at last.

Why, you ask, did he find happiness at last? Light a firm and fragrant Marlboro, taste those better makin's, enjoy that filter that filters like no other filter filters, possess your souls in sweet content, cross your little fat legs, and read on.

Next door to Alaric's hog-floggery was an almond grove owned by a girl named Chimera Emrick. Chimera was pink and white and marvelously hinged, and Alaric was instantly in love. Each day he came to the almond grove to woo Chimera, but she, alas, stayed cool.

Then one day Alaric got a brilliant idea. It was the day before the annual Omaha Almond Festival. On this day, as everyone knows, all the almond growers in Omaha enter floats in the big parade. These floats always consist of large cardboard almonds hanging from large cardboard almond trees.

Alaric's inspiration was to stitch pieces of pigskin together and inflate them until they looked like big, plump almonds. "These sure beat skinny old cardboard almonds," said Alaric to himself. "Tomorrow they will surely take first prize for Chimera and she will be mine!"

Early the next morning Alaric carried his lovely inflated pigskin almonds over to Chimera, but she, alas, had run off during the night with Walter T. Severidge, her broker. Alaric flew into such a rage that he started kicking his pigskin almonds all over the place. And who should be walking by that very instant but Abner Doubleday!

Mr. Doubleday had invented baseball the day before, and he was now trying to invent football, but he was stymied because he couldn't figure out what kind of ball to use. Now, seeing Alaric kick the pigskin spheroids, his problem was suddenly solved. "Eureka!" he cried and ran to his drawing board and invented football, which was such a big success that he was inspired to go on and invent lacrosse, Monopoly, rum sheep run, and nylon.
