Cuba Si...

A publicity campaign on the Cuban situation will be held Monday and Tuesday in Finley Center by the Fair Play for Cuba Committee.

Petitions will be circulated and literature will be distributed and sold. C. Wright Mills' "Listen, Yankee!" will be among the books on sale. Buttons reading "Hands off Cuba" will also be available.

Braden Talks At College On Constitutional Rights

The first amendment must be followed rigorously and must be "retained in toto" in order that academic freedom and any kind of freedom can be achieved, Carl Braden said at the College yesterday.

Frank Wilkinson
Goes to Jail

Mr. Braden, a member of the Southern Conference Education Fund (SCEF), spoke before an audience of about forty people as part of the SG Academic Freedom Week program. SCEF "takes an uncompromizing view (in favor) of racial integration.

He was recently convicted of contempt of Congress. Mr. Braden having refused to answer questions before the House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC) on the grounds that the Committee violates the guarantees of the first amendment.

"It is obvious that the soul purpose of the investigations is to harass and intimidate" the people, he asserted. Mr. Braden appealed his case to the US Supreme Court, but the Court upheld the contempt decision, last February by a 5-4

Prof. Of Speech, Dr. Scanlan Dies

Professor Ross Scanlan, a member of the College's Speech department for twenty-seven years, died Friday night on a train in Pennsylvania station. He was fifty-nine years old.

He joined the College's Speech department as a tutor in 1934, and was appointed to the rank of professor in 1955. Dr. Scanlan became assistant editor of the Quarterly Journal of Speech in 1950. He was co-author of a textbook "Speech Preparation and Delivery."

Dr. Scanlan leaves his wife, the former Elizabeth Goepf, an Assistant Professor of Speech at Queens College.

"I will begin to serve my one year jail sentence along with Frank Wilkinson in Atlanta, May 1," Mr. Braden said.

"If we do not defend the rights of others, then soon all of our own rights will be gone," the speaker emphasized.

"All ideas must be allowed to operate in the free market," he continued. "Red baiting is a position taken by cowards and weaklings . . . I believe in the complete rights of all individuals to speak, write, associate, petition and worship."

BHE Appoints Committee To Propose Future Pres.

An eight-member committee which will propose a successor to President Buell G. Gallagher was appointed Monday evening by Dr. Gustave G. Rosenberg, Chairman of the Board of Higher Education (BHE).

Formation of the Committee occurred only minutes after the College's President formally presented his resignation to the Board.

Two weeks ago, it was announced that Dr. Gallagher would leave his present post to become first Chancellor of the State College System of California in September.

In his letter of resignation, effective August 31, President Gallagher characterized his nine years as head of New York City's largest municipal college and member of the BHE as years of "happy warfare."

The President submitted his resignation "with profound regret, yet with quiet certainty as to the rightness of the decision.

"The California Chancellorship sought me out—I did not seek it,"

President Buell G. Gallagher
Leaves Reluctantly

the letter states. "And while I confess that I accept it with genuine enthusiasm and high expectations, I must also confess that the other half of me is crying inside, over the fact of separation from The City College.

"The investment of friendships and energies which these nine years have brought is the measure of the severe wrench to the affections that comes as I unilaterally break these ties. There are no reasons for leaving The City College—only reasons for going to California."

In a resolution passed Monday, the Board stated that President Gallagher's resignation "leaves the mantle of academic leadership in this city with a sense of emptiness which will long linger and which will be most difficult even to begin to fill."

The eight men whose job it will be to recommend the man to fill the position vacated by President Gallagher are all members of the BHE of long standing.

They are: Dr. Renato J. Azzari; Dr. Harry J. Carman, former dean of Columbia College; Dr. Porter R. Chandler; Dr. John E. Conboy; Judge Simon H. Rifkind; Dr. Ordway Tead, former chairman of the BHE; Dr. Charles H. Tuttle, chairman of the Committee; and Dr. Rosenberg, who as chairman of the Board is an ex-officio member of all committees.

The job of sifting and interviewing possible candidates will be up to the Committee on the President. (Continued On Page 3)

Committee Formed to Oppose Civil Disobedience at College

By RENEE COHEN

A nine-member committee to oppose civil disobedience "with particular reference to the forthcoming civil defense drill" was formed at the College last Friday.

The College announced Monday that it will participate in the nation-wide Civil Defense drill scheduled for Friday, April 28. During the drill, all citizens are asked to take shelter. SG President Bob Saginaw, a member of the College committee, said Monday that the group "anticipates there'll be a [student] protest" against the drill at the College.

"It is our aim to insure that students who participate in any illegal protests do so with full knowledge of the meaning of their actions," a release issued Monday by the Committee states.

The SG President said that the nine students "will be a resource group insofar as [it will] prepare statements, sponsor debates, and supply people for debates."

Despite varying and divergent views among the Committee's members on the pros and cons of civil defense drills the group is united in its opposition to a protest as an illegal act. "Our common agreement rests firmly on the fact that where democratic processes are open as they are in this particular case," Saginaw asserted, "one should not participate in illegal protest."

Paul Marino, another member of the Committee and a member of the College's Debating Society, said Monday that "I personally find a large area of agreement with the opposition to Civil Defense, but it is irrelevant to the Committee's position."

"I have no objections to anybody meeting or protesting," Ted Sonde, a third member of the group and President of the Senior Class, emphasized, "as long as they don't break the law."

Bob Saginaw
Against CD Protest

Saginaw dismissed the analogy of the southern sit-ins as an example of justifiable civil disobedience as not valid. The southern Negroes do not have recourse to the democratic process, he said. (Continued On Page 3)

Pro-Castro Picketers at UN; 1000 Decry Cuban Invasion

By MIKE GERSHOWITZ

Thirty-five students from the College were among over 1,000 who protested the invasion of Cuba at the United Nations Monday.

The demonstration, sponsored by the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, was organized Monday morning, following the invasion of Cuba at three points by counter-revolutionary forces led by Doctor José Miro-Cardona.

The picketers carried signs reading "Keep Away From Cuba's Shore. We Don't Want Another War!" and "Leave Cuba Free From World War III!" Chanted slogans included: "Cuba Si; Yanqui No." "Viva Roa!" and "Venceremos!" There were no anti-Castro demonstrators at the UN.

Jack Mazelis, one of the picketers, said he had no doubt that the invasion was inspired by the Kennedy Administration. "It's a fact," he declared. "Without US aid to the counter-revolutionaries, the counter-revolutionary movement could never have been started."

Other students pointed out that this country has economic interests to protect in Latin America. One asserted that "if Kennedy does not change his policies soon, there will be more Cubas."

Another student, who said that he was "definitely not radical," was picketing because he felt any change would be for the worse. "The trouble in Cuba, as in most of Latin America," he said, "is that they can't stop the pendulum in the center, or a little to one side. Once it starts moving, it goes all the way to the other end."

One of the College's picketers felt that the whole Cuba problem would never have arisen if the US had supported Castro from the beginning, instead of worrying about his support from Russia.

Twenty of the demonstrators from the College said that they were not angry at the invasion, as were most of the other demonstrators, but were saddened by a sense of injustice being committed.

Of the students from the College who participated, approximately one-half were members of Fair Play For Cuba Club, the College branch of the organization which sponsored the protest.

Inherent Right

Friday, April 28 the nation will get its annual purported booster shot against total demolition. It is National Civil Defense Day; everyone will be asked to act as the blaring air raid sirens dictate.

With the drill less than two weeks away, a committee has formed at the College which is "opposed to civil disobedience with particular reference" to the forthcoming CD drill. They claim to "anticipate" that there will be another protest similar to the one held here last May.

Though some of the committee's members admit to sharing views in opposition to civil defense drills themselves, they decry "illegal" methods of protesting against them. Once again, students are asked to write letters, this time to their respective congressmen, explaining their distaste for the drills.

We cannot argue that the committee had no right to form. But we can argue against its tenets. Civil disobedience, by its very name, implies peaceful refusal to comply with an ordinance. Despite the oft-used recommendation that citizens "write to their congressmen," it seems naive to assume that this, in itself, can be as effective as a peaceful rally demonstrating disapproval.

Those who recognize the necessity for the Southern sit-in demonstrations cannot, in all honesty, oppose civil disobedience. The demonstrations were clearly illegal, yet they received nation-wide acclaim—indeed they were acclaimed by many of the Committee's members. To justify the sit-ins by saying that the Southern Negroes have no democratic alternatives is nonsense. Were the democratic alternatives open to them, they would only be a sham due to the undeniable prejudice of southern representatives.

Civil disobedience is an inherent right in a democracy. So long as one person's refusal to comply with the law does not bring injury, bodily or otherwise, to any other person, so long as he does not forcibly interfere with those who wish to obey the law, it is totally hypocritical to declare civil disobedience wrong because it is "illegal."

Distortions

During the last week charges of a very serious nature have been levelled against the College's newspapers in an SFCSA resolution. Specifically, it has been charged that the student newspapers frequently print "distortions" which many times go uncorrected.

It then goes on to permit Student Council to force the newspapers to print letters or corrections which Council believes to be valid or justified.

We believe that this resolution is illegal in both its mandate and its method of passage and that it constitutes a violation of the basic principle of freedom from censorship.

The resolution was introduced by SG President Bob Saginaw, who did not have the mandate of SC to take such an action. Furthermore, nowhere does he prove or even attempt to prove the truth of his charges. The fact is, that Saginaw's charges are completely false and unfounded.

In addition, the newspapers are student newspapers, and no faculty member on a student-faculty committee or otherwise, should have the authority to interfere in the internal policies of a student newspaper. For this reason we feel it is completely out of the jurisdiction of SFCSA to act in this area.

If there is any dispute between an individual and a College organization, the proper body by which it should be considered is not SFCSA, not SC, but a Student Court.

It is necessary for the SG President to exert his energies towards the formation of such a body rather than to accept any delegation of responsibility which SFCSA might by chance throw his way.

Civil Disobedience

Dear Editor:

A statement recently issued by a number of student leaders concerning the forthcoming civil defense test is not aimed solely at the civil defense protestors. If it were, I would have been eager to sign the document. However, it goes much further. It is aimed at the very concept of civil disobedience. It is here that I sincerely disagree with Mr. Saginaw and his colleagues.

If there is no alternative but quiet submission to a law that is clearly repugnant to a minority, what is the rationale for support of the sit-in movements throughout the South? The answer that Southern Negroes, because they are denied voting privileges and a remedy via a democratic procedure, thus have the right to participate in programs of civil disobedience begs the issue. Even if they were permitted to exercise their constitutional rights, state legislatures in the South would not alter their current segregationist policies. The Negro, then, would have to submit to the human indignities that he is currently fighting against.

Although civil disobedience may show a disrespect for certain laws, the practitioners of this method of protest usually possess an unswerving respect for the dignity of man which, under extenuating circumstances, supersedes the laws of any state.

I cannot support the civil defense protest because I do not consider the laws governing civil defense immoral. On the other hand, I cannot support Mr. Saginaw because he would take away from man the privilege of objecting to immoral laws when they are passed by a "democratic process."

In short, when the civil defense sirens are unleashed next week, I shall look with wry amusement upon the demonstrators and the anti-demonstrators and shall, in my own little way, protest against both groups.

Sincerely,

Ronald Sturman

Student Government Vice Pres.

HAPPINESS CAN'T BUY MONEY

With tuition costs spiralling ever upward, more and more undergraduates are investigating the student loan plan. If you are one who is considering the "Learn Now, Pay Later" system, you would do well first to study the case of Leonid Sigafos.

Leonid, the son of an upholsterer in Straitened Circumstances, Idaho, had his heart set on going to college, but his father, alas, could not afford to send him. Leonid applied for a Regents Scholarship, but his reading speed, alas, was not very rapid—two words an hour—and before he could finish the first page of his test the Regents had closed their brief cases crossly and gone home. Leonid then applied for an athletic scholarship, but he had, alas, only a single athletic skill—balancing a stick on his chin—and this, alas, aroused only passing enthusiasm among the coaches.

And then, huzzah, Leonid learned of the student loan plan: he could borrow money for his tuition and repay it in easy monthly installments after he left school!

Happily Leonid enrolled in the Southeastern Idaho College of Woodpulp and Restoration Drama and happily began a college career that grew more happy year by year. Indeed, it became altogether ecstatic in his senior year because Leonid met a coed named Salina T. Nem with hair like beaten gold and eyes like two squirts of Lake Louise. Love gripped them in its big moist palm and they were betrothed on the Eve of St. Agnes.

Happily they made plans to be married the day after commencement—plans, alas, that never were to come to fruition because Leonid, alas, learned that Salina, like himself, was in college on a student loan, which meant that he had not only to repay his own loan when he left school but also Salina's, and the job, alas, that was waiting for Leonid after graduation at the Boise Raccoon Works simply did not pay enough, alas, to cover both their loans, plus rent and food and clothing.

Sick at heart, Leonid and Salina sat down and lit Marlboro Cigarettes and tried to find an answer to their problem—and, sure enough, they did! I do not know whether or not Marlboro Cigarettes helped them find an answer; all I know is that Marlboros taste good and look good, and when things close in and a feller needs a friend and the world is black as the pit from pole to pole, it is a heap of comfort and satisfaction to be sure that Marlboros will always provide the same unflagging pleasure, the same unstinting quality, in all times and climes and conditions. That's all I know.

Leonid and Salina, I say, did find an answer—a very simple one. If their student loans did not come due until they left school, why, then they just wouldn't leave school! So after receiving their bachelor degrees, they re-enrolled and took masters degrees. After that they took doctors degrees, loads and loads of them, until today Leonid and Salina, both aged 78, both still in school, hold doctorates in Philosophy, Humane Letters, Jurisprudence, Veterinary Medicine, Civil Engineering, Optometry, and Dewey Decimals. Their student loans, as of last January 1, amounted to a combined total of eighteen million dollars, a sum which they probably would have found great difficulty in repaying had not the Department of the Interior recently declared them a National Park.

whereas those opposed to the Civil Defense do.

Sonde added that those students who do participate in a protest "should be subject to the same type penalties as anyone who protests outside the College would be."

A Civil Defense protest in which 300 students took part was held at the College last May. The College administration put notations on the permanent record cards of approximately 100 of the participants whose identification cards were confiscated.

Railroad Club Membership and 15c Needed to Travel on NYC Subways

A token and a membership in the College's Railroad Club will get you on the subway. In fact, one student liked the ride so much that he drove a subway.

He and his fellow railroad buffs, members of the Railroad Club, have a decided interest in locomotion: trains, subways, and diesel engines. There are also a few fellows who love trolleys, but alas, like Miniver Cheevy, they were born too late.

The club, which appeals to history majors as well as engineering students, is one of the newest at the College. A few months ago, before the club's constitution was submitted for approval, some members of the group charted an eight-car subway train.

Along with other members of the Electric Railroad Association, they surveyed New York's subway system. The excursion, which lasted for several hours, included children as well as college professors.

The club's interest in subways is not merely a token one, for in addition to merely riding trains, they study them in detail.

Diamondmen Bow to Wagner, Army; Contest With St. John's Rained Out

By LARRY BORTSTEIN

The luck of the College's baseball team took a turn for the better yesterday when its scheduled game with defending Met champion St. John's University was postponed because of the rain.

Unfortunately, the game still has to be played next Tuesday, April 25.

As for the games they did play, Coach Al DiBernardo's Beaver baseballers dropped their fourth league game (in five outings) in an 8-6 thriller at Macombs Dam Park Saturday, and were blanked by the Army, 9-0, Monday afternoon at West Point.

Sophomore lefthander Bill Lage made his first start of the season against the Cadets, but couldn't get past the second inning when Paul Lamprinos was called in to relieve.

The rightie went the rest of the way and turned in some top-flight hurling.

Cadet Tom Blanda restricted the Beavers to three singles in going the route.

During Saturday's home game against Wagner's Seahawks, it became apparent that Seahawk utility man Joe Sansone must always be around when lightning strikes.

Sansone played both parts—hero and goat—for Wagner, and for a while it looked as if he had all but won the game for the Beavers.

The lanky junior was ushered into the game in the top of the fifth inning, as a pinch runner for third-baseman Dick Milphy, who had reached first on an error. Beaver starter Howie Friedman threw two pitches to Wagner's next batter, left-fielder Joe Costello, and then whipped one over to first to catch Sansone going the wrong way.

Coach Al DiBernardo
Now 1-5

Sansone next helped out the Beaver cause in the sixth. With the Beavers at bat and Sansone holding station in right field, short-stop George Lopac whacked a line single with the bases loaded—in Sansone's direction.

Joe misplayed the ball nicely, allowing two Lavendermen to prance home for a 4-3 lead.

But, Sansone, tired of wearing the horns, tied it at 4-all only minutes later with a blast over the center fence.

And, just to really rub it in, perpetrated a steal of home to cap a three-run ninth.

Friedman pitched beautifully, though picking up his third straight loss.

Lopac, Bill Catterson, and Ken Rosenblum all hit solo homers for the Beavers, the last two in the bottom of the ninth off winning Seahawk pitcher, Jim Morio.

Track Team

The College's track and field team won its first meet of the season Saturday, at Garden City, L.I., trouncing Adelphi 92½-47½.

The Beavers won 13 of the day's 16 events including 8 wins in the 9 track events.

The track winners for the College included: Norm Jackman, Ira Rudick, Bill Casey, Joel Salland, Mel Siegel, and Paul Lamprinos.

Vin Hanzich won victories in the shotput and discus throw, with Gerry Fasman taking the hammer throw. Louis Robinson took the javelin throw and tied for first in the pole vault.

Netmen Lose, 5-4, To Kings Pointers

The College's longest winning streak ended Saturday as the Merchant Marines pulled out a 5-4 decision over the Beaver tennis team at the Fleet Swim and Tennis Club.

Stan Freundlich was upset for the second straight time by Kings Point's Gordon Lee, a Hawaiian-born junior.

But the big blow came in the first doubles event, in which Freundlich and Al Smith, the two best tennis players at the College, were rudely upset by Lee and fellow Marine Steve Fugate, 6-4, 9-7.

But the Marines and Coach Richard O'Connell, who had been beaten by the Beavers in the final meet of last season by the same 5-4 score, gained sweet revenge Saturday.

Single's Split

The two teams split the six singles events right down the middle but Kings Point surprised by winning two of the three doubles matches.

Only Joe Borowsky and Sy Silver won for the Beavers in doubles, beating Alton Smith and Tom Atkinson, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Beaver winners in singles play were: Al Smith, who topped Steve Fiacco, 6-4, 6-8, 6-3; Silver, 6-3, 6-2 victor over Atkinson; and Borowsky, who was extended to three sets in beating Smith, 6-2, 6-8, 6-3.

Wesleyan Nipped By Stickmen, 7-4

Johnny Orlando scored three goals and goalie Eric Auster made twenty-two saves to lead the College's lacrosse team to its first victory of the season Saturday, 7-4 over Wesleyan at Lewisohn Stadium.

Coach George Baron's stickmen, who now own a 1-2 slate, played excellent defensive ball and their seven goals against a ball-hawking Wesleyan defense, represented their highest one-game total of the season.

Mike Moskowitz and Harvey Leshnick led the Beaver defense in front of Auster, who was playing in the goal for only the second time since stepping in for the injured Al Derby.

Besides Orlando's hat trick, Dennis Jonaitis scored two goals, and Dave Borah and Moskowitz one a piece.

The Beavers next take on nationally-ranked Drexel at Lewisohn Saturday.
