CITY COLLEGE

Time Machine . . .

The movement of Time, hitherto regarded as "objective," is to be disrupted at the College tomorrow. At precisely 8:00 AM, life at the College will commence with 48 hours seemingly stricken from the motion of the universe. Those students wishing to adopt to the new realities of life should follow their Friday programs.

Long Range CU Plans Offered In BHE Report

By TIM BROWN

Nearly twice the number of graduates and more than ten times the graduate population now at the City University will be enrolled here by 1975, a Board of Higher Education Committee reported in a statement released last week.

In a 400 page "Long-Range Plan for the City University of New York," the BHE's Committee to Look to the Future proposed this and other wide changes in the City University.

The nine-member Committee, under the direction of Thomas C. Holy, estimated that the proposed expansion's cost would be $121 million in the undergraduate division, and $40.5 million in the graduate school.

While the report termed a "challenge to the future" by the chairman Gustave G. Rosenberg favored the continuation of Master's programs by the individual colleges, it asked that Doctoral courses be centralized in the University, with faculties and research facilities to be utilized on a University-wide basis.

Dr. Gustave G. Rosenberg

It also proposed a liberalization of faculty hiring practices, to include greater salary flexibility and optional, extended probationary periods for new instructors.

BHE Still Trying To Bar Entrance Of Lesser To BC

The Board of Higher Education (BHE) has called for a rehearing of the Melvin Lesser case in a new attempt to bar the student from Brooklyn College.

Lesser won his original suit for admission when Brooklyn Supreme Court Justice Louis B. Heller declared that Lafayette High School was remiss in failing to give him due credit for his participation in special honor classes.

Brooklyn College President Harry Gideonse had denied Lesser entrance because his high school average was 84.3 per cent, 7 per cent below the required minimum for admission to any of

Demonstrators Charge Bias Here Group Issues Reply To Gallagher

Hispanists Claim Report Aimed To Discredit

Six Puerto Rican Community groups charged today that President Gallagher's forty-two page report on the Hispanic controversy was intended to discredit the members of the organizations involved rather than answer their charges.

The statement was contained in condensation of a reply issued today to President Gallagher's critique of alleged anti-Hispanic prejudice at the college.

The seven page document said to contain highlights of a larger one, was the work of the Committee for the Creation of a Department of

Hispanists Mass 500 Signatures

A week old petition drive advocating the establishment of a Department of Hispanic Studies here has amassed 500 signatures.

The drive will continue for about three weeks. Petitions will then be submitted to Day Session SG President Ted Brown and Evening Session SG President Eunice Irizarry. Joel Leftoff, a founder of a Student Committee for the creation of a Department of Hispanic Studies, said that one thousand signatures are hoped for, but the group

Gallagher Charges Pickets Are "Ill-Informed"

Thirty pickets demonstrated in front of the College's Administration Building last night asking the elimination of alleged discrimination against Spanish Professors in the Department of Romance Languages here.

The demonstrators, organized under the name of Puerto Rican Social Action, composed of several Puerto Rican Community organizations, began their protest at about 5:15 PM, and continued for one hour.

Gilberto Valentin, President of the group, emphasized that the picket was demanding an end to the alleged bias, and not any reorganization of the Department here.

He said, however, that "if establishment of a separate Spanish Department is part of the fight, we will press for it." Copies of the Committee's extract of a report they said they were preparing were distributed to reporters and

Former Agent Attacks FBI; Alleges Racist Indoctrination

By RICHARD COE

Were John F. Kennedy to fire FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, the President would not be re-elected in 1964, a former FBI agent said here Thursday.

In a biting overall indictment of the FBI and its director, Mr. Jack Levine charged the Bureau with anti-Negro and anti-Semitic feeling, inaction on civil rights, failure to recognize modern criminology, permitting the growth of organized crime, manifesting rightist tendencies (and, in addition, threatening Mr. Levine).

Mr. Levine spoke before 150 students in the Grand Ballroom. He was sponsored by the WBAI Club, the Society for Criticism and Discussion, and the Government and Law Society.

"It is time that Hoover was replaced by a progressive who understands the function of a secret police organization in a democratic society," he said. But this replacement isn't too likely, Mr. Levine explained, characterizing his former chief as a "sacred cow" whom even President Franklin D. Roosevelt didn't dare remove.

"The FBI is drifting toward the control of the right wing," the one-time agent declared, "the possibility is not too remote that it will become an arm of the radical right run by Robert Welch and George Lincoln Rockwell."

According to Mr. Levine, official lecturers of the FBI called for

SG Exec Sets Publicity Limit For Semester's Campaigning

By VIVIAN NEUMANN

Campaign publicity will be limited for the first time in a major College election, this semester, as a result of publicity regulations passed by SG Exec. Friday.

Provisions included in the regulations are a ban on all commercially printed material and power voice amplification devices.

In addition to limiting the amount of paper permitted each candidate, the rulings specify that all campaign material must be mimeographed at the College.

SG President Ted Brown noted that the new regulations "will be a very significant step in cutting down campaign expenditures."

He told Exec, "We want to avoid the situation where one candidate can buy an election because he has more money than another."

Barry Domber, Chairman of the Elections Agency stressed that any infraction of the regulation would be grounds for disqualification, and that "a candidate must be responsible for any campaigning that is done on his behalf."

Earlier this semester the first attempt at limiting publicity was taken during the election to fill vacant Council positions.

Exec's regulations for this terms election will be presented to Council for its approval tomorrow evening.

Domber reported that of the 150 nominating petitions made available to students last Monday none were left the next day.

Report Stresses Faculty Improvement Expanded Graduate Studies Forseen

Persons hired as Professors or Associate Professors, according to the proposals could be granted immediate tenure; at present tenure may not be obtained before completion of a three-year trial period.

The committee outlined "functions" to be assumed by the growing University, among them "imbuing devotion to the search for truth," the furtherance of "the intellectual and spiritual enrichment of the society," and the development of "research activities directed toward a widening of the horizons of knowledge." It also advocated "a better understanding of the natural world," along with the application of this understanding to the solution of current problems.

In accordance with these ideas, the Committee proposed the incorporation of a "City University of New York Research Foundation," to sponsor research projects and to aid in the gathering of funds for such projects.

It also suggested the formation of a "City University Press," to facilitate the publication of research undertaken at the University, as is now done at other major Universities. The Press would also compile lists of publications of the University faculty.

Class size would be increased under the proposed system, and greater use would be made of closed circuit television and teaching machines, with special efforts to decrease the number of classes with under twenty students.

Enrollment Increases

The recommendations asked that the twenty per cent of high school graduates now eligible for admission to the Senior Colleges be increased to thirty per cent and that the Community Colleges be enlarged to accommodate up to one-third of all public and parochial high school graduates in the City.

It was recommended that present high admission standards be retained for the Senior Colleges.

Free tuition for both Senior and Community Colleges in the City was firmly endorsed by the Committee, while tuition charges were approved for graduate and other students in the University.

The development, "in greater detail," of a "non-instructional fee structure" was proposed by the report, to provide for "services incidental to, but not directly related to instruction," such as health protection, recreational activities, and extracurricular programs. It did not, however, set limits to the amounts of such fees.

Graduate Expansion Favored

General graduate expansion was foreseen and endorsed by the report, although Masters and Doctoral programs were proposed along somewhat different lines.

The Master's program expansion would be determined by "student interest and community need," "availability of qualified faculty and facilities," budget limitations, and available foundation and grant support.

Such curricula would be under the jurisdiction of the several colleges, although supervised by the University administration. This is the system now in operation.

Doctoral programs, while going along the same bases laid out for Master's work, would be highly centralized in the University. Central libraries including a Union Catalogue, would be established, a physical plant constructed, and registration conducted through the central administration.

Aspirants for a Doctoral degree were urged to pursue full-time programs in their studies. It noted that only three per cent of the 11,000 graduate students in 1960 had been enrolled on such a basis.

A total enrollment of 6,000 full-time students in the two graduate divisions was projected for 1975, as compared with a total of 337 in 1960. Full-time-equivalent students for master's degrees were expected to reach, 11,000 by that date.

Faculty Improvement Needed

Asserting that the seventy per cent of the faculty now holding the Ph. D degree here had increased only one-tenth of one per cent since 1946, and that fifty-seven per cent of these instructors had received their degrees in the New York area, the report stressed the need for greater variety and more competitive selection procedures and salaries in personnel recruitment.

It urged that field representatives be sent to other areas of the country to seek instructional personnel with more variegated backgrounds, and that funds be provided for increased salaries.

Immediate tenure was urged for persons hired as Full or Associate Professors, and greater flexibility in initial salaries allowed for such personnel, within the established ranges for particular ranks.

It was also requested that the percentage of Full and Associate Professors, now at forty-four per cent, be increased to fifty per cent of the total faculty, and that the greater number of these be cities, the Plan reported, the year 1960 showed twenty-eight per cent of their faculties to be Full Professors, as compared with twenty per cent in the City University.

the impeachment of Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren, characterized then presidential hopeful Adlai Stevenson as a communist dupe, and voiced racist views during training sessions.

"The FBI is the only federal agency with authority to enforce federal statutes [in the civil rights area]," Mr. Levine pointed out, "yet one never hears of accomplishment. The FBI has left the Negro in the South unprotected."

"The FBI is an uncontrolled, unsupervised agency," Mr. Levine charged, "because no one in Washington has anything to gain by bucking Hoover." Mr. Levine approached various Congressmen about his "disillusionment" with the FBI. All refused to support him.

He charged that:

Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem., N.Y.) replied that "Hoover is the most powerful man in Washington. There is nothing anyone can do about him."

Representative Adam Clayton Powell turned him down because "Hoover has the keys to all the skeleton closets in Washington."

New York Senator Jacob Javits said he was "running for re-election and cannot get too deeply involved."

The Civil Rights Commission was afraid "Hoover would have our appropriations slashed."

Pointing to the nation's increasing crime rate, Mr. Levine challenged Hoover's basic approach to law enforcement. He claimed the FBI director doesn't recognize "the sociological and economic causes of crime. His solution to crime is tougher prison sentences," the ex-FBI agent declared.

He also accused the Director of being content "to go after the stumblebums of crime, e.g. bank robbers, instead of tackling the tough problems, e.g. syndicates."

President Buell G. Gallagher criticized the demonstrators, as either ill-informed or "not concerned with the truth."

He referred to his 42 page statement issued last month, saying that it showed that the accusations of bias were "compounded of misinformation, conjecture, or invention."

He said that the demonstrators "have chosen to ignore the facts," while stating that the "social, economic, and educational aspirations of our citizens of Hispanic background are of the deepest concern to me."

At the same time, El Diario, a Spanish-language newspaper in the City, refused to support the picket, saying that it believed that Dr. Gallagher had answered the Committee's discrimination charges, at least in part.

Signs carried by the picketers, mostly adults from the community, along with about six students, proclaimed, "Yes, Hispanic pro-Language Department," and Puerto Rican Community protests fessors discriminated in Romance discriminatory practices in the City College."

Another of the marchers, Russ Smith, a Sophomore here, said that "an unfair proportion of Professors specialized in Spanish are teaching at the College." He said the Romance Language Department should respond "to the demands of the Community and the growth and station of the Spanish Language."

Two banners were carried on the line, one representing the "Council of Bronx United Organizations," a Puerto Rican group in that borough, and another carrying the name of "Hijos de Morovis," a group said to be composed of former residents of that city in Puerto Rico.

Reverend Rejects Extremists Sees Infiltration In Churches

By GENE SHERMAN

American churches could become tools of extremist political groupings as a result of their infiltration by Communist sympathizers and ultra-rightist elements.

Reverend Ralph Lord Roy, arrested at the Albany, Georgia protest demonstration, asserted this before the Christian Society Thursday.

Reverend Ralph Lord Roy Call Rightists Anti-Negro

Declaring that some clergymen had been "enticed into the orbits" or various "Communist front apparatuses," Dr. Roy cited as examples the movements of the 1930's for the promotion of civil rights and better housing, in which many clergymen participated.

The speaker remarked that there exists today a "tiny nucleus of ministry" who have been "totally sympathetic towards the Soviet Union" but added that the charges of a "severe penetration" of the churches by the Communist Party were not verified. The speaker noted that there was never "a really intensified effort to infiltrate churches" by Communists, and described such an attempt as putting "fish out of water."

Reverend Roy said that the "false ideas" of Communist infiltration of the churches originate from "the radical right wing" which draws its main support from the western and mid-western clergy.

Discussing the nature of right-wing groups operating within church organizations, Dr. Roy said they possess anti-Negro and anti-semitic "paranoid sentiment." It is these same groups, he continued, that call Eisenhower a "Swedish Jew" and demand the execution of Justice Warren. The Reverend classified the John Birch Society within this category.

The present right-wing influence in the churches, the speaker continued, is "not totally divorced from the past," but differs in that it "does not have an anti-Catholic bias."

Rev. Roy cited changes in the international situation which have led to an "isolationist policy" as a cause for the right-wing "resurgence" in clerical organizations.

The speaker also asserted that integration "is leading to an extremely strong, right-wing feeling."

will press for a separate Spanish Department in any case.

Leftoff drew a clear distinction between the Committee and the outside groups who picketed the Administration building yesterday. "We are connected with no outside group," he declared.

He maintained that the Committee for the Creation of a Department of Hispanic Studies at the City College was motivated by "constructive reasons."

"We have always felt that this was true," he continued, "and this controversy brought it out."

Leftoff hoped that a separate Hispanic Department, which would accord "academic recognition and dignity to professors of Spanish, the Spanish language and the Spanish culture," would be established for the "benefit" of the College.

CAP Explains Its Philosophy; Will Endorse SG Candidates

"The scholar must come down from his ivory tower and take another look at society," SG President Ted Brown said last Thursday at a meeting of the Constructive Action Party (CAP).

"When you shut down your mind to thought you are not only doing a disservice to the University but to the entire society," he added in an attempt to explain his party's political philosophy.

The Council's frequent debate on the "students as students" clause was brought into discussion by Tim Brown, past SG Secretary and a CAP Executive Board member, who said that "when one student is restricted in the country, other students must be restricted just because of a matter of spirit."

Speaking on student rights and responsibilities, he emphasized that Council should "deal with major campus matters before off-campus issues."

CAP President Wendy Chervin, who also spoke, said later that the party will interview candidates for SG offices and issue its results in three categories: Endorsed, Qualified but not Endorsed, and Not Endorsed.

Those seeking CAP endorsement are asked to contact Miss Chervin in Room 152 Finley.

Accusations

The Committee for the Creation of a Hispanic Studies Department in City College took fifteen brisk steps backward yesterday.

The credibility of the group's original charges of anti-Hispanic bias within the Romance Language Department was weakened, when the "highlights" of its most recent report were made public.

The "Highlights of a Report Over the Situation of Spanish Studies and Hispanic Faculty in the Romance Languages Department" drops, or more accurately does not mention, eleven of its earlier allegations against the Department. Of the four remaining, it merely implies two and presents the other two in tepid form.

It ignores its own accusations concerning: a lack of funds to buy Spanish books, a similar deficiency preventing payment of lecturers for the Spanish books, a similar deficiency preventing payment of lecturers for the Spanish portion of the Department, the teaching of Spanish by unprepared French professors, the withdrawal of an invitation to the Chancellor of the University of Puerto Rico to visit the College, the initiation of pilot courses only in French, the ignorance or malice of those who don't understand diplomas granted by the University of Madrid, nepotism, discrimination in the assignment of evening session lines, and the failure of the College to contact any of the people over whom the controversy had arisen.

In contrast to its earlier pointed questions concerning the release of certain specified lecturers, the Committee now equivocates: We are "primarily concerned with the situation and structure of policy and not with the resolution of individual grievances." They assert that "nevertheless, these individual situations need to be examined in terms of what they may reveal to the University itself" yet make no attempt to do so.

In exploring the explosive question of Hispanic discrimination within the Department the Committee only renews old charges and drags skeletons from long-disused closets. Most important, it does not offer one iota of evidence to prove this vital contention. The report notes that there is a pattern of hiring and of promotion which "blocks the advancement of the Hispanic faculty," but fails to prove it. Statements made to the same General Faculty Committee in 1945 pointing "to practices whose effect was discriminatory on the promotion of Hispanic faculty" are hardly timely.

The only "evidence" of an investigation by the Committee is contained in the statement that it "found" elements pointing to a situation of low morale and insecurity among Hispanic professors."

That "President Gallagher's report is clearly intended to discredit, demoralize, and rout the Committee rather than deal with the problems raised in Committee representation," is unfounded.

The Committee incorrectly paraphrases Dr. Gallagher as saying that "no layman uninitiated into the arcana of academic bureaucracy can offer useful advice to the City University." The President actually asserted that "we cannot be expected to produce sound and constructive results if meddlesome intruders attempt to run the affairs of the College. I refer not to the Committee . . . I refer, rather, to the letter from two officials of the Government of Spain." No attempt was made to explain how the latter became involved.

The report declared that "a thorough airing of the effects of existing policy and practice on personnel of Hispanic background . . . is necessary," but neglected to explore the areas of academic or of personnel practices in which shortcomings were acknowledged.

The Spanish section may well be the "Ugly Duckling" of the Romance Languages Department, the summary falls far short of proving it. In light of this, yesterday's picketing only served to aggravate relations between the College and the Spanish community of New York.

Letters

BROADCASTS

Dear Editor:

We would like, at this time, to make reply to a letter by Mr. M. D. Paley of the English Department. In his letter, Mr. Paley implied that the BBC broadcasts into the Cafeteria are an annoyance to the students dining there. Petitions to this same effort have been presented to the Student Government.

Let us state, in a reaffirmation of the general policy of the BBC, that the main purpose of this organization is to serve the student body as well as we possibly can. To further our aims of service, we instituted the practice of broadcasting music into the cafeteria in order to provide the students with a more pleasant dining atmosphere. We are presently in the process of conducting a survey of Cafeteria diners in order to find out whether or not the majority of students want us to continue our broadcasts. In a similar survey last term, over ninety per cent of the students polled approved of the BBC broadcasts. Among suggestions for improvements of the BBC, we found quite a few requests that the BBC extend its coverage in the Finley Student Center. In compliance with this request, BBC did increase its coverage by sending programs not only to Buttenweiser Lounge, but also to the Cafeteria and the Bookstore.

Cafeteria broadcasts have temporarily been suspended and shall not resume until the survey is complete. We urge all students who use the Cafeteria to record their opinions on the survey sheets which are to be found in the Cafeteria.

Capitalism Sunk Socialist Asserts

By MARIAN WERTHIEMER

A national officer of the Young People's Socialist League spoke at the College Thursday and predicted that Capitalism's inability to combat basic problems of modern society will lead to its replacement by Socialism. Defining Socialism, James T. Burnett said—"It is not only an economic doctrine but a body of ideas for the reconstruction of the entire society."

The contradiction inherent in Capitalism, Burnett continued, is evident in the various crises of Capitalism such as depressions, inflations, and recessions. The "Great Depression of the thirties, he asserted, was an outward symptom of these insoluble contradictions.

Mr. Burnett, who is a graduate Political Science student at the College, said that Capitalism is not an inevitable conclusion, but like all other previous economic systems, a historical stage. He said that Marx recognized this fact and believed that Capitalism, although changing the feudal relationship of men and answering a need, was becoming ineffectual in maturity. Proof of this, Mr. Burnett asserted, is the recent dangerous trend of "Normal Unemployment" in numbers of unthinkable proportions only a few years ago.

GLOOM AT THE TOP

Oh, sure, you've been busy, what with going to classes, doing your homework, catching night crawlers, getting married—but can't you pause for just a moment and give thought to that dear, dedicated, lonely man in the big white house on the hill? I refer, of course, to the Prexy.

(It is interesting to note here that college presidents are always called "Prexy." Similarly, trustees are called "Trixie." Associate professors are called "Axy-Pixy." Bursars are called "Foxy-Woxy." Students are called "Algae.")

But I digress. We were speaking of the Prexy, a personage at once august and pathetic. Why pathetic? Well sir, consider how Prexy spends his days. He is busy, busy, busy. He talks to deans, he talks to professors, he talks to trustees, he talks to alumni. In fact, he talks to everybody except the one group who could lift his heart and rally his spirits. I mean, of course, the appealing, endearing, winsomest group in the entire college—you, the students.

It is the Prexy's sad fate to be forever a stranger to your laughing, golden selves. He can only gaze wistfully out the window of his big white house on the hill and watch you at your games and sports and yearn with all his tormented heart to bask in your warmth. But how? It would hardly be fitting for Prexy to appear one day at the Union, clad in an old rowing blazer, and cry gaily, "Heigh-ho, chaps! Who's for sculling?"

No, friends, Prexy can't get to you. It is up to you to get to him. Call on him at home. Just drop in unannounced. He will naturally be a little shy at first, so you must put him at his ease. Shout, "Howdy-doo, sir! I have come to bring a little sunshine into your drear and blighted life!" Then yank his necktie out of his vest and scamper goatlike around him until he is laughing merrily along with you.

Then hand him a package and say, "A little gift for you, sir." "For me?" he will say, lowering his lids. "You shouldn't have."

"Yes, I should," you will say, "because this package is a carton of Marlboro Cigarettes, and whenever I think of Marlboro, I think of you."

"Why, hey?" he will say curiously. "Because Marlboros have taste, and so do you," you will reply.

"Aw, go on," he will say, blushing furiously. "It's true," you will say. "Moreover, Marlboro has a filter, and so do you."

"In my swimming pool, you mean," he will say. "Yes," you will say. "Moreover, Marlboro has a soft pack, and so do you."

"My limp leather brief case, you mean," he will say. "Yes," you will say. "Moreover, the Marlboro box has a flip-top, and so do you."

"But I don't have a flip-top," he will say. "But you will," you will say. "Just light a Marlboro, and taste that tasty taste, and you will surely flip your top."

Well sir, you will have many a good chuckle about that, you may be sure. Then you will say, "Goodbye, sir, I will return soon again to brighten your lorn and desperate life."

"Please do," he will say. "But next time, if you can possibly manage it, try not to come at four in the morning."

FRANKLIN MEN'S SHOPS

Benefit Concert

Professor Felix Galimir and Fritz Jahoda, mainstays of the College's Music Department and distinguished musicians in their own right, performed three sonatas for violin and piano for the benefit of the Music Scholarship Fund, on November 9.

It is evident that these two musicians are used to each others' interpretations by the harmony of mood they created.

Their first selection, the G Major Sonata by Brahms, tended to be somewhat hesitant in the first movement. However, later on, the lovely singing tone of Prof. Galimir's violin and clarity of touch and discreet balance attained by Prof. Jahoda at the piano combined to render this romantic and expansive effusion of Brahms' very moving.

This sonata, often called the "Rain Sonata" because of the gentle, pattering quality of its main theme, was most descriptively played, evoking scenes of clear rain falling in tall, cloistered forests.

In the rondo-like first movement both musicians displayed a subtle sensitivity to the structure. Although the Adagio could have been played in a faster tempo, this movement was executed with expressive dynamic variation.

Janacek's Sonata for Violin and Piano received an enthusiastic welcome from the audience. It is to be hoped that this will influence the Music Library to purchase a copy. The work has a highly original flavor. Although in its dissonance and novel sound effects it has elements of Bartok (but lacks his passionate sincerity), and its greatly contrasted and somewhat rough texture recalls Shostakovich, its mood is predominantly romantic.

The Con Moto was played with gusto and vigor, and the abrupt alternations from long phrases to short, and humorous ad-libs were sharply delineated. In the Ballada, Janacek suddenly becomes serene and romantic. In the masterful hands of the performers the lyric melody expands like the rippling pools evoked by Debussy's music.

Perhaps the most interesting section of this work, and by the audience's reaction, the most exciting, is the Adagio. Here, the wild scraping sound produced by the violin, alternated with a lilting song, become more and more menacing and the Sonata ends on an unresolved note. It is this irresolution on the part of the composer that creates the conflict and makes this a truly exciting piece of music. It is exactly the expression of this conflict that Professors Galimir and Jahoda manage to convey with such unvaried sureness and inspiration.

If, in Beethoven's "Kreutzer Sonata," the initial flourish was somewhat weak and disappointing, both musicians gathered confidence and power as the sonata progressed. The Andante was played with great precision and lyricism. Especially notable was the manner in which the musicians anticipated each other's themes. The Finale was executed with a relish which charmed the audience—they were still humming it after they had reached the subway.

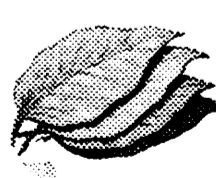

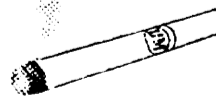

It is unfortunate that more concerts of such a caliber are not more often heard at the College. An enthusiastic and ever-growing audience is looking forward to more of the same.

Prof. Declares Yiddish Is Superior To German

By MIKE GERSHOWITZ

A Yiddish supremacist defended his language Thursday against charges of being an inferior offshoot of German.

Speaking before twenty-five members of the College's German and Yiddish Clubs, Professor Nathan Susskind (Germanic and Slavic Languages) traced the development of modern German and Yiddish to prove his contention that they have been independent of each other for eight centuries.

During the middle ages, he said, medieval German disintegrated into hundreds of dialects, each unintelligible to speakers of other varieties. Yiddish, however, after its initial split, remained fairly stable because of the concentration of Jews in Ghettoes.

"Around the year 1400," he continued, gesturing wildly, "Kaiser Maximilian of the Holy Roman Empire decided that German was overly vernacular and that there were too many dialects. He asked a group of intellectuals to formulate a 'standard German'."

These scholars, well versed in Latin, decided that the thing to do was to make German more like Latin. So they added complications, irregularities and idiosyncrasies, and turned it from a melodious language to an ugly one.

This conglomeration "would have been a dead language, and it was, for 150 years," until Martin Luther, desiring to write in a language that was intelligible to all

Professor Nathan Susskind
"Yiddish Supremist"

German, used it. Now it is standard German.

Declaring that people can get even more emotional over language than over religion, the Professor demonstrated some of this fervor as he attacked those who believe Yiddish is spoiled German.

"We have three daily papers, a New York printed in Yiddish and four theatres. To deny status to a language that has been spoken by some as their only language by so many million people is ridiculous."

nic faculty and impede the growth of Spanish studies.

In addition it asserted that alleged discrimination in the Romance Languages Department during the Knickerbocker era "indicated the existence of conditions related to the present situation."

The group said that they were "taken aback" by what they asserted was President's Gallagher's characterization of them as "meddling outsiders."

The College's Public Relations Director Israel E. Levine however said today that the group had completely misinterpreted President Gallagher's remarks in this regard. Mr. Levine said that Dr. Gallagher's statement was clearly directed at officials from the Spanish government and not at the committee.

The report asserted that Dr. Gallagher's consideration of each of their allegations separately "side stepped" the total pattern of morale, professional development, and earnings of many Spanish teachers in the Romance Language Department.

It charged that the President's statements attributed any shortcomings in academic or personnel practices to administrative and organizational factors.

The points made in the committee's replies were couched in highly generalized language and lacked the detail which earlier releases had shown.

A striking omission in the release was the committee's failure to challenge any of President Gallagher's findings in the main issues of departmental bias against Spanish faculty members and discrimination in the purchase of Spanish books, with new evi-

Founding Fathers Plan Coup d'Etat

One candidate for the SG presidency is about to be ousted from another executive post.

Samuel S. Eiferman has been serving as President of the College's Conservative Club. "We are not to be confused with the Young Conservatives or the Young Republicans," one of its founding fathers emphasized.

A coup d'etat, led by sophomore Ken Sandler, one of the two members of the groups Board of Founders, is imminent.

The club which is according to Sandler, "non-political by Constitutional definition," was founded last December, but not chartered until May.

A provision in the club's by-laws, stating that the Board of Founders may, "in the event that it is necessary and justified . . . suspend the Executive Committee," is the root of the conflict.

Sandler, who appeared before SG Exec Friday, seeking their "vote of confidence" for the Board's ouster of the executives complained that, "the club had become an International Sam Eiferman Fan Club."

He added that Eiferman, who became Acting President last May, never held the elections required in the group's constitution. The recalcitrant President and the indignant Founder were summoned to appear before a special SG Exec hearing on the issue this afternoon.

the senior colleges in the City University.

At that time, President Buell G. Gallagher supported the Brooklyn President's action.

The rehearing has been requested by the BHE on the basis of additional affidavits which will further clarify its position.

If Justice Heller rules that these affidavits contain enough new information to warrant a rehearing and that this information provides him with a reason for changing his decision, the appeal which the BHE has filed would no longer be necessary.

In only point in Doctor Gallagher's report which the committee, argued at length was the issue of whether the President or the committee was responsible for the first leak of the controversy to the press.

A hint that the committee might be retreating amidst militant support of several dismissed Hispanic teachers was also contained in the statement.

The group said that although it had been made aware "of the situation" here because of individual hardship it was now primarily concerned with structure of policy and not with the resolution of personal grievances.

Ballard Says Most Russians Have Lost Revolutionary Zeal

By DONALD RUBIN

Revolutionary zeal no longer exists among the majority of the Russian people, a member of the College's Political Science Department said Thursday.

Speaking before the Russian Areas Club, Mr. Allan Ballard said that after the age of twenty-five most Soviet citizens are "primarily interested in having a home, children, security, and material comforts."

Mr. Ballard, who toured the USSR in 1957, asserted that generally Russians accept their system of government because questioning it might lead to a re-institution of the Stalin era purges.

A large minority, however, are imbued with communist ideals. Many others are bitterly opposed to their way of life.

Active supporters of the government, Mr. Ballard stated, are divided into people who feel that Communism will make the world a paradise, and careerists and informers, who support Party policy for their own benefit.

The most discontented group in the USSR, according to Professor Ballard, are those who realize the difference between the ideology and reality of the system. They complain that their life is "boring, work, work, nothing but work." Dr. Ballard said that thousands of farm boys are unhappy with conditions because they realize they'll do nothing but drive a tractor for the rest of their lives. "The rate of juvenile delinquency is suprisingly high on the farms," Mr. Ballard commented.

More Friction

The cities, he said provide another source of friction due to the growth of a middle class. Their emphasis on material goods is frowned upon by the party.

Dr. Ballard urged his audience to remember that an accurate analysis of Russian attitudes was impossible without a national survey of Soviet opinion.

Pratt Wins Met Championship; NCAA Bid Goes To Hartwick

A successful soccer season on St. Nicholas Heights entails winning the Met championship and getting the New York State bid to the nationals. This time the Beavers didn't make it.

Pratt won the Met crown by holding Long Island University to a 2-2 tie Thursday. And an upstate school, Hartwick College, got the nod for the nationals.

Hartwick beat Cortland State Teachers College 3-1 on a neutral field to earn the NYS bid. According to Beaver coach Harry Karlin, who heads the NYS selection committee, Cortland and New York University have a chance for an at-large bid to the NCA tourney. NYU topped the Beavers 2-0 earlier this season.

Walt Schmotolocha scored two first half goals for Pratt (bringing his season total to thirty) and the Canoneers hung on for a 2-2 tie.

Beaver Rooster Dejected

So Pratt with a 6-0-2 record owns the Met crown while LIU with a 6-1-1 record had to settle for second place.

The College's bowling team defeated Cooper Union Sunday two games to one. The Beavers took the first two games by scores of 880-817 and 814-810 but dropped the last game by a score of 859-836. In the last three weeks the College has won eight out of nine games, moving up to fourth place in the sixteenth-team league—only four games out of first place with a good chance of overtaking the leaders.

Giants, Titans, Knicks Invited

The Giants, the Titans and the Knicks have all been invited to send speakers to the Winter Sports rally scheduled to be held on the South Campus Lawn on November thirtieth.

Although the rally is only nine days away, final arrangements are still up in the air because the teams have not yet replied.

Coach Kelley Isn't Satisfied Although Riflers Score 1427

Coach Bernard Kelley received five good performances from his top shooters last Friday night as the College's rifle team swamped Brooklyn College and Brooklyn Poly in a triangular shoot at the Lewisohn rifle range.

Sargent Kelley was not completely satisfied with the overall team showing in spite of the resounding victory. The Beavers racked up a total of 1427 points to 1866 for Brooklyn College and 1364 for Brooklyn Poly. Nonetheless Coach Kelley said that the team had to push themselves harder in order to raise their scores.

The five top Lavender scorers were: Frank Palka, 291, Fred Grosprin 288, Phil Rothchild and Bernie Abramson, both with 283 scores and Jim McCusker with a 282 total. All these scores are out of a possible 300. Sgt. Kelley's discontent was due to the fact that the next highest score after Abramson's 282 was a not too admirable 270.

Commenting on the low scores of the rest of the squad, Coach Kelley said that had not the Beavers received such fine shooting from their top five men, the College might have had some trouble as far as Friday night's shoot was concerned. Beaver manager Bob

Coach Bernard Kelley Hard to Satisfy

Sager offered a possible answer for the low scores when he stated that the team was confident of a win and, as happens in all sports, suffered a "mental letdown."

An interesting fact was that the College's low score of the top five, Abramson's 282, was higher than the top scorers for the other schools. Bob Greene fired a 281 for Brooklyn College while Joe Berkowski was high for Brooklyn Poly with a 278.

The Beavers next meet will be November 31 against Kings Point at Kings Point.

than the Beavers had scored in any one game this year, and the few Lavender rooters in the dismal stadium stood up for a hardy cheer.

With five seconds to go in the half, Mike Pesce took a pass from Martino and tapped a low shot into the left side of the goal mouth. It was the halfback's first goal of the season.

At halftime Coach Karlin told Putre, who hadn't been playing, to get a shirt and suit up for a forward position. Putre is the Beavers' first-string goalie. According to Nick Patrino, who started the game in the goal, Patrino is the first-string goalie. But Joe Pargament, who's really the third-string goalie, started the second half and made three stylish saves while he was there.

Anyhow, Putre took Vito Nedjelkov's red and black shirt and went in as a substitute for center forward Sam Gelernter. To the general delight and astonishment, he managed to score a goal almost as soon as he got the ball. This places him in a many-way tie as the Beavers' third highest scorer—only two booters have scored more than one goal this season. Putre almost scored another on a high backward kick, but Sailor center halfback Kising got there just in time to stop that one.

Beaver Harriers Edged by Fairleigh in CTC's And Then Tie LaSalle For IC4A Fifth Place

Records were smashed left and right this weekend while the College's cross-country team capped a fine 7-1 season by taking a second place in the Collegiate Track Conference championships and tying for fifth in the Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association of America "college division" championships.

LaSalle's Paul Minehan and Larry Patterson placed one, three in the IC4A run, but traditional Beaver depth gained the tie. The University of Maine displayed even more impressive depth, placing all of its scorers between fourth and twenty-third, to win the race.

The Beavers were led, as usual by Mike Didyk, who took eleventh place in 27:37. But the key Beaver performance was Co-captain Lenny Zane's 28:06, clipping 24 seconds off his lifetime best and 48 seconds off his CTC time. The paradoxical thing is that had Lenny hit 28:06 in the CTC's the Beaver would've won the title. Mike Didyk slashed fifty seconds off the Lavender cross-country record and five Beavers hit the best times of their lives, but Fairleigh Dickenson University beat them out nonetheless, winning the CTC crown 59-67. Iona topped Central Connecticut State (CCS) 90-102 and finished a distant third. An unofficial tally at the half-way mark showed the Beavers in front by ten places 63-73. But Knight Andy Price, who has a reputation as a fast finisher, turned on the steam, passing eleven runners to give FDU the title. Central Connecticut's Jim Keefe, was clocked in a amazing 25-21 which broke the collegiate record for the Van Cortland Park course (formerly 25-38 by Steve Machooka of Cornell). Keefe broke away from the field at the start (his first half-mile was run in 2:14) and was never challenged. After the meet Saturday Coach Francisco Castro took the yellow sheet with the Beaver times on it and added two numbers—28:36 and 28:39. They represented the key to FDU's victory.

When the Beavers took the title last year co-captains Paul Lamprinos and Lenny Zane hit those times. This time Zane, running with a cold and a bloody nose, was nineteenth in 28:54. Lamprinos, who has been plagued with sickness and injuries all season, staggered across the finish line even farther back.

Coach Castro was extremely disappointed, but he had to admit, "We ran the best we ever ran. Paul Lamprinos is the difference in the scoring. With Paul in good condition we would've done fifteen places better." Fifteen places would've given the Beavers the championship with some to spare.

Well, as Paul put it, "That's the way it goes."

Beavers Upset By Adelphi, 5-2, After Blanking NYSMA By 4-0

With the coming night symbolically drawing the darkness over Lewisohn Stadium and over the glories of the Beaver booters of olde, the College's soccer team dropped it's season finale to Adelphi, 5-2, Monday. Saturday, these same booters had made one last try, smashing Fort Schuyler, 4-0, as even Adolf Putre, the goalie, broke into the scoring.

This season was the first losing year under Coach Harry Karlin's reign. Karlin took over in 1954 and his teams have compiled a 71-16-6 record. But yesterday's game in the near empty Lewisohn Stadium reflected the many problems of a hard year.

Adelphi won 5-2, although the score could easily have been reversed, as in so many of this season's games. The Panthers took an early lead on an indirect kick by Ephraim Kohen at 13:15 of the first quarter.

The big Panther, though, was Constantine Dodos, destined to score four goals against the Lavender. His first tally came on a direct kick towards the middle of the second quarter. The Beaver defense formed a wall between Dodos and the wall, but quick thinking put an Adelphi forward into the defensive wall. The kick came and the lone Panther ducked his head letting the ball in.

In the meantime, the Beavers had their chances to break into the scoring column, but whenever the forwards got off a good shot, Panther goalie Ted Breuer made a good save, and if Breuer was out of position the Lavender kick always went astray. Breuer has made over 1,000 saves in his college career.

Jim Martino got his fifth and last goal of the year in the third period on a high kick from the right side, bouncing it off on Adelphi defenseman's head.

With the score 4-1 favor of Adelphi, and only a little more than a minute to play, Tom Sieberg was awarded a penalty kick. The short fullback caroomed a shot off the goalpost for his second goal of the year. He thereby became the Beaver's second high scorer.

time game, but luck—and the Sailor goalie—held them scoreless. After reversing directions for the second quarter, forward Jim Martino hardly wasted a minute before taking a pass from Seth Shelton and smashing it past goalie Rick Kissing to give the Beavers a 1-0 lead.

The lackluster Sailors showed their only really good attack early in the second quarter, getting off three good hard shots. Beavers Mike Somogyi and Martino also came close.

Martino opened the Beaver lead to 2-0 with his fourth goal of the season. Missing a head shot, Martino took the ball of Sailor Teri Thompson's left leg and drove a low, hard spinner into the right corner.

The two goals amounted to more

The Answer

By RICHIE COE

Over in Lewisohn Stadium the booters are turning in their equipment after the longest season since soccer was instituted at the College in 1947. Maybe one of them will look around at his teammates and quietly wonder, "What happened?" "How did we ever lose so many games?"

No Beaver soccer team ever lost five games before. No Beaver soccer team ever finished worse than third in the Met League. What went wrong this time?

Some might mention the sacred name: Andy Houtkruyer. It's hard to replace an All-American goalie. But that's not the answer. The 1957 team won the national championship—and they didn't have a great goalie.

What that team had was a forward line. Heinz Minnerop set the pace with 27 goals—that's more than twice as many as this year's whole team.

In 1957 the Beavers didn't need a great goalie or a great defense. The other team didn't bring the ball across the midfield line often enough. If every shot their opponent took had been good those Beavers still might win.

But in 1962 the Beavers didn't have an offense. Hank Windischmann, the 1961 high scorer, was disqualified for professionalism. Tony Negovetti and Walt Maer were scholastically ineligible. Coach Karlin had to form a make-shift line from transfer students, seniors without collegiate experience, inexperienced sophs, and guys who really should have been halfbacks.

The Beavers knew their attack wasn't so hot, and that made it even worse. Every time they scored an early goal they'd fall back on defense and try to hang on for a 1-0 win instead of going for another score. Mathematically ten men may make twice as good a defence as five. But on a soccer field they just make twice as confused a defence.

Neville Parker with Noe Arcas and Tom Sieberg on either side adds up to the tightest defence in the league. And Mike Pesce, Erwin Fox and Wolfie Scherer are good men to roam the midfield area. The Beaver defence had to work many more minutes per game than any other and still ranked with the best in "goals against."

It sounds awfully trite, but it's true nonetheless: best defense is a good offense. Your opponent can't score if you control the ball.
