YR Club Penalyzed For Disobeying SG

By MIKE GERSHOWITZ

Punitive action was taken by the Republican Club (YR) against the College's Young Republican Club (YR) last night for committing an act of violence. The club lost its privilege to be considered for the remainder of the term.

More severe action has been threatened for tonight, when a resolution to suspend the club's charter is expected to be introduced at Student Council's session.

Yesterday's move was taken by Kenneth Kiatko, chairman of SG. The club has been asked to provide a written statement to SG about its activities during a meeting held between SG and the club's members. The president of the club has already threatened to strike for tonight, when a new resolution to suspend the club's charter is expected to be introduced at Student Council's session.

Indignity

The speaker ban was ushered out two weeks ago with nearly as much energy as marked its entrance onto the Campus scene, with the notable difference that for the first time in many years, peaceful demonstration was replaced by confusion, near chaos, and some violence.

There were those who foresaw events as they occurred, who read the leaflets distributed by the political 'Club, cast the function with the propagandistic committee,' who saw in the administration and the Student Government their fears.

Properly, the College's ruling, as issued by Dean Peace, affirmed the principal of permitting peaceful demonstrations and granted permission for the rally, an initially constructive role on the relationship, was where the administration and the Student Government of their fears.

The vigilantes came, and for the first time in the College's recent history, a rally was allowed to take place on the front steps of the student center, and subsequently to gravitate outside the room where Benjamin Davis addressed a gathering of 150 students.

As students addressing the protesters called loudly for Davis' ejection from the campus, plainclothesmen and other Burns Guards assigned to maintain order made no apparent effort, and certainly no successful effort, to clear the halls of Center.

As a result of this, the mob that formed pursued Davis with jeers, shouts, and flying signs as he left the Center, demonstrating to him and to the world that there are City College students who will meet divergent points of view with indignity, and that this will be tolerated by College authorities.

As the Department of Student Life appears to have abandoned its disciplinary role in this case through its lack of protective or punitive action, the responsibility now lies with Student Government to insure that a repeat of such an event will not occur, and in particular to guarantee that those responsible in this instance will not affront us with a repeat performance.

Action

Those who would oppose the tuition-free status of the City University have quietly and persistently continued to work since the inception of the tuition provision in the education law's last year, and they find themselves with just the right amount of apathy and complacency among their opposition to justify the proper action.

We believe the time came long ago for the students, faculty, and administration of the College to take the trouble to properly inform themselves and the community of the threat that is shaping up in the legislature against the interests of the student body at the City University—professors, students, faculty, and their right to express them, which often does. Naturally, I expect them to respect my point of view. I was, then, surprised, hurt, and deeply disappointed to hear that Head of the College, when I read of the so-called "rally" which took place there on the twentieth of December, in an attempt to rule by "rally," achieving the effects of a hysterical mob!

One of the students here did here that day was not only bowing down on the illegal, but was immoral and unman as well. I take full cognizance of the fact that Benjamin Davis is welcome to his "rally" as it represents an organization that is illegal and subversive and that, once in power, would do all possible to quell the last vestiges of civil freedom.

For all this, Ben Davis might have had in his wallet vital secret documents stolen from the United States Government, as he spoke before the students on Thursday. But this is beside the point. The issue. The issue is simply that no man or man may use any means to limit freedom of speech or press. Ben Davis and his allies might do so, but for we who oppose the entrance of new principles in order to defend them, there is no alternative. The new Young Republican Club reality that the disappearance of freedom of speech and press is a reality that may. I therefore agree that the Students of City College, bought long and valiantly for freedom of speech, should have been invited to participate in the debate were organized or that the speakers who participate should be privileged to rule. That is Tyranny. It is also Tyranny. It is the triumph of a small group of men over the principles.

MCS Starts Rehearsals; 'Guys And Dolls' Matures

By JILL PLANNER

The fingers fluttered violently and the force of the sneeze reached all the way across the room. Adalaid, a victim of a psychological hold for fourteen years, complained to her reluctant suitor, "I had to tell mother we're married. People get married in Rhode Island. And that's not all, Nathan, darling," she nervously laughed, "we had a son."

"That's it! Fine! Don't be afraid to use those fingers," director Dick Nagel instructed as he assumed the character of Adalaid, the frustrated stripper, and tried out several very unlikely speeches. "This play leaves lots of room for an actor's interpretation of his own part," he continued.

As the Musical Comedy Society's (MCS) rehearsal of "Guys and Dolls," by Frank Loesser progressed, the simple and delightful characters created for the Broadway stage by Abe Burrows became real and wonderfully come to life. The dancing room in which the entire season's setting taking place became a deserted nightclub, Paul Blake, for the moment a confirmed lumberjack, the name of Nathan Detroit, burst out every few moments with "Boy, this guy's a dunce," and an unbelievable shake of the head.

After four successively better readings, Paul and Vivian Landau, alias Adalaid, vacated the spotlight for Andy Jarkowsky and Carol Fox. Andy, as the underworld's Casanova, Sky Masterson, has the pleasant task of persuading Sarah, the Salvation Army girl, to run away with him to Havana for a few days. All this only to win a bet, of course.

The strength to resist such a handsomely devil was slow in coming to Sarah and even slower to come to Carol. The script calls for Sarah to place an energetically executed slap on Sky's face after being kissed by him. "How can I possibly do that," complained Carol and she hugged him instead.

The cast plans to hold similar rehearsals until opening night, which is March 2, 1962. It will play for the following two evenings.

This is the biggest production to be put on by MCS in its five year history. It has the most elaborate and numerous sets, and the biggest budget. While studying the intricate set plans, Paul exclaimed, "I feel like David Merrick."

The actors complained of having no stage to camp on and therefore "we have to allot money for the renting of a theater each year," explained Vivian. "We have to discard scenery after each show and rent new costumes each year," added Andy.

Girl Watcher's Guide
Presented by Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes

Girl watchers are honorable men.

LESSON 6: Who may watch

Any male is eligible to become a girl watcher. There is no age limit, although most girl watchers are over ten and under one hundred and four. There are no height or weight requirements, although taller men enjoy an obvious advantage at crowded parties. The only strict requirement is one of character. The girl watcher is a mug of honor. Since he can't possibly take notes, as the bird watcher does, we must rely on his word. Therefore, when an experienced girl watcher tells you saw nine beautiful girls while on his way to class, he saw nine beautiful girls. And when he tells you his Pall Mall is the cigarette of the century, believe him. It is.

Track Team Places 4th At AACL Relay Meet

The indoor track team gave Coach Francisco Castro a belated Christmas present last Saturday at the AACL Relay Carnival.

The well-conditioned team presented him with a pair of fourth places against some of the toughest competition in the New York area.

A team of three Bills, Casey Hill, and DeAngelis and Mike Lamprinos won the fastest qualifying heat but ran out of steam in the final. Fordham, St. John's, and Manhattan took the first three places.

Zone ran the equivalent of 4:32 a mile in the handicap four mile relay. Jack-Kran (yes, even books discontinued at your college)
