

Mannino Selected All-American

Fencer Is Second Lavender Athlete Honored in Year

By JOE LOWIN

Foilsman Vito Mannino became the second All-American of the College this year by taking fifth place in the National Collegiate fencing championships, held on the Ohio State campus Saturday. Andy Houtkruyer, goalie on the soccer team, was named an All-American near the end of the fall term.

Other Beavers to fence at Columbus, Ohio, were Ray Fields and Annie Eichenbaum. Fields took fourth place in the saber competition with a 20-9 score. He was only one point away from All-American status as the number one man, Mark Richman of Cornell, wound up with a 21-8 mark. Fields wouldn't feel too badly about his score as a man named John Kennedy finished with the same totals. Although Eichenbaum finished twenty-second in the epee competition with an 11-8 mark, it was three wins at the end of the two-day round-robin that enabled the Lavender to finish in a three-way tie for seventh out of a field of thirty-six teams. Navy, with 76 points, took the NCAA crown, ending in an NYU two year reign. The Beavers had 56 points.

Mannino with a 25-8 mark, became the third fencing All-American at the College in four years. Andrew Kemeny did it in 1959 and Harold Mayer in 1960.

In order to attain national status, Vito had to play and defeat some of the best fencers in the country. He was able to defeat two men who finished ahead of him in the final standings. He

Many Students Tricked On April Fool Weekend

A prankster who doubles as a thief apparently is responsible for sending innocent students scurrying to the office of Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) and to the circulation desk of the Cohen Library.

Several dozen students reported to Dean Peace's office on Monday with form postcards telling them to see the Dean on urgent personal matters. It was a false alarm.

Miss Haversham, the Dean's secretary, said Monday that the cards had not been sent by the Dean, who is away for the week. The information will be turned over to him when he returns, she said.

Reaction among students getting the cards in the mail over the April Fool's weekend was "what could I have done that Dean Peace wants to bawl me out?" SG President Fred Bren was one of the

Home For The Grange

The Senate passed, by voice vote Wednesday, the bill making Hamilton Grange a national monument. The measure now goes to the House for approval.

Representative Herbert Zelienko (Dem., Man.) predicted that the bill would pass in a week or two.

A report issued last week by the Interior Committee stated that two groups have indicated willingness to help move and restore the Grange if a third group is also willing. The report does not state the identity of the groups.

If the donations are not given, the Federal Government will have to provide the funds.

Final Weeks See Much SC Activity

With only three meetings left to the term, Student Council has a busy week ahead of it.

Motions are scheduled to be brought up in Council today which would make the student newspapers the sole beneficiaries of the one dollar fee increase and pave the way toward the first Charter Day celebration held at the College in six years.

The first motion, by Council member Ted Brown, would ask the students to approve at the general election next term a formula under which the extra money received because of the student activities fee increase would be allocated to Observation Post, The Campus, and Tech News on a ratio of 20:20:7.

The question of whether the results of last week's referendum on the fee should be considered a valid mandate from the student body to ask the Board of Higher Education to enact the increase, was referred to committee Wednesday. However, sentiment on SC is that the results should be accepted. Although the measure passed by a three-to-two margin, only about ten percent of the student body voted, causing doubts to be voiced as to the validity of the referendum.

In other actions, Exec approved the constitutions of two new campus political groups and amended the charter of another club to aid faculty members.

The new clubs are the Student Committee for Mark Lane and the Young Conservative Club. The latter, allegedly an extreme rightist group, is expected by some Council members to cause considerable controversy at the College.

Gus Hall Will Present CP Position To College

Indicted Communist Party (CP) leader Gus Hall will speak on "The Communist Program for America" tomorrow at 12:30 PM in the Grand Ballroom.

The former coal miner and General Secretary of the CP, is now facing a possible life sentence for violation of the McCarran Act.

Mr. Hall and CP National Secretary Benjamin Davis are awaiting trial for failure to register as agents of a foreign power as required by the McCarran Act. Both are now out on bail.

The eleven year old anti-Communist law was first enforced two months ago when the Justice Department took action to indict the CP for violating it.

The action followed a 5-4 Supreme Court decision upholding the act, which required Party leaders to turn over membership lists to the government. The law imposes a five year jail term, and ten thousand dollar fine, for each day of non-compliance.

The College talk follows a national tour by Mr. Hall. It is sponsored by the Marxist Discussion Club here.

PhD Program Set For Fall Semester

By GRACE FISCHER

The City University (CU) will be so in fact as well as in name next term when it initiates programs leading to doctoral degrees in English, Chemistry, Economics, Psychology and Only four of nine planned PhD courses can be offered in September, Dean of Graduate Studies Mina Rees said yesterday, as a result of last week's cut in anticipated state revenue from the more than six million dollars requested to one million dollars. Programs in Biology, Educational Psychology, History, Sociology, and Speech, have been postponed, she said.

Announcement of an expected one million dollars in city aid to the CU is expected Monday, when the Mayor reports his budget to the Board of Estimate.

The four doctoral offerings were chosen, because they represent leading fields in which there are shortages of PhD's, according to Dean Oscar Zeichner who is in charge of graduate studies at the College.

National Defense Education Act fellowships, reserved by the CU in these fields, also influenced the choice, he said yesterday.

Candidates for PhD degrees at the CU will pay twenty dollars per credit for the required sixty credits of course work.

In addition to the doctoral programs, next term the College will begin graduate studies in English and American Literature, History, and Romance Languages which will bring to fourteen the number of MA degrees given by the College.

A program in Biology has also been authorized but will not get under way until necessary facilities are obtained.

Although he was disappointed by the drastic cut in state funds, the CU did gain "one major victory," Dean Zeichner asserted. "We won acceptance to the principle of state support."

Dean Rees commented that "we will go ahead with our minimal program," while hoping for more funds next year. "We have the facilities, personnel, and interest to do a much bigger job," she declared.

Debaters Win Second Match

The College's Debating Team won its second tournament of the term this weekend.

The four-man team beat Hunter, Wilks, Manhattan, and C.W. Post College entries to place first in the Admiral Richard L. Connelly Tournament Saturday.

Arguing the topic, "Resolved: that labor organizations should be under the jurisdiction of anti-trust legislation," David Hirshfield received first affirmative speaker award, while Sheldon Dorfman placed first among negative speakers.

Bob Marcus won the first negative team award, and Hirshfield and Debating Club President Mitchell Zimmerman came in second among the affirmative teams.

The competition was held at Long Island's C.W. Post College. Earlier this term the College's debaters won a match at Hofstra College.

The College will host its own debate tournament on Saturday in the Finley Student Center. All students are invited.

Disappointment

The state, it strikes us, has been marvelously beneficent to the municipal college system here, lately. At last year's session it gave what it calls "home rule" to the colleges on the tuition question by allowing the Board of Higher Education to decide whether a fee should be charged, and it established a City University in answer to long-standing pleas here for the establishment of inexpensive graduate programs.

The trouble is, though, that the state in its magnanimity has in the one case opened the door, closed by state law for more than half a century, to the establishment of a tuition charge, and in the other it has failed to allocate the needed funds for the very university it created.

Board of Higher Education Chairman Gustave G. Rosenberg asked for $6,300,000 to implement a graduate program under the aegis of the new university setup; he got $1,000,000 as the Legislature concluded its session last week. Dr. Rosenberg said the cut from the figure the Board had asked would affect only the extent and not the quality of the graduate program.

The Chairman's words were superficial; of course, the quality of the graduate program will be virtually unimpaired for the few courses it will be permitted to carry out next September. But with the need for such courses on the graduate level becoming so much more pressing as competition among those with undergraduate degrees becomes so much more intense, whatever happened to Governor Rockefeller's words mouthed just a little over a year ago about how the time has come for the state to realize its responsibility to provide relatively inexpensive higher education to students?

The next session at Albany next year won't be a pre-election session. Will the legislators remember the Governor's words of a year ago then? They certainly didn't this year.

Looking Up

Things are looking up for sports at the College. Two Beaver athletes received all-America honors this year: Vito Mannino in fencing and Andre Houtkrukyer in soccer. Of the eight teams which have already completed their seasons only two had losing records. And glancing ahead, it appears that all four spring teams will do excellently. The baseball and lacrosse teams have already won their openers, and the tennis and track teams both have good chances to win their conference championships.

This growth of athletic prowess should have a positive effect on the College's prestige and school spirit. The latter is already improving. Better than a hundred students braved Lewisohn Stadium's veritable dust storms to cheer the stickmen to their 7-6 victory over New Hampshire, Saturday.

If Lavender teams continue their winning ways, athletics will spontaneously reassert itself at the College despite the long-term policy of de-emphasis.

Orlando's Three Goals Spark Victory

By RICHIE COE

Johnny Orlando scored two goals inside of a minute to spark the lacrosse team to a 7-6 squeaker over the University of New Hampshire, Saturday.

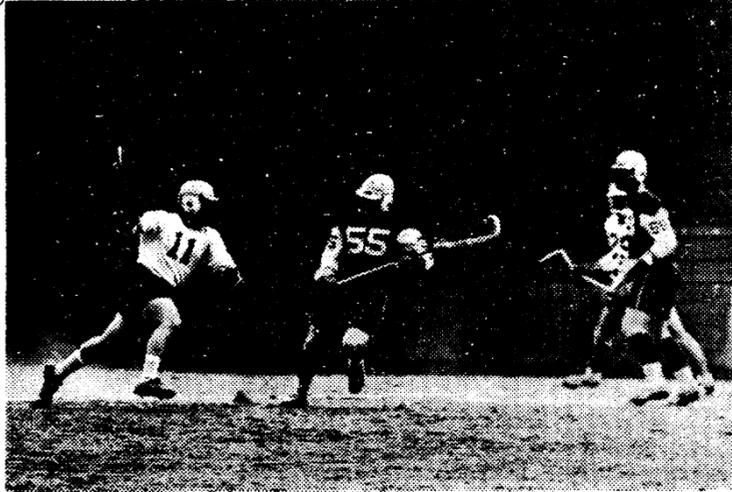

The Wildcats, ahead 6-4, were outthrusting a tired, dejected bunch of Beavers when Coach George Baron took Orlando out for a pep talk early in the final period. Orlando went back in and promptly scored twice to knot the score at 6-6.

The Beavers played excellently for the rest of the game. Jeff Moskowitz, who had set up both of Orlando's shots, took a pass from Andy Mueller with 2:45 left to play and scored what turned out to be the game-winning goal.

With a minute left to play, though, the stickmen had a close call. Goalie Richie Auster left the net to recover a loose ball. While he was trying to clear it the Wildcats ganged up on him and stole it. With the net unguarded it looked like the tying goal was going in.

But Red Brown, who had just come out of the penalty box, sprinted to the goal, blocked the shot and knocked it out of bounds.

Despite Orlando's heroics, Bo Dickson, New Hampshire's sophomore star, took scoring honors with four goals and an assist. Dickson opened the scoring at 2:29 of the first quarter, tallied again at 11:35 of the third quarter to tie the game 4-4 and then scored twice within 18 seconds early in the final quarter to give New Hampshire a 6-4 advantage.

JOHNNY ORLANDO (11) about to score the goal which started the Beaver rally at 4:25 of the final quarter.

Orlando had three goals and an assist. In addition to his two crucial fourth quarter tallies, he scored one at 7:52 of the second quarter. Jeff Moskowitz scored first and last for the Lavender. His first went in at 7:17 of the initial period to make it 1-1; the other won the game.

Richie Auster played a very pretty game at the goal. He made 16 saves as compared to three by his Wildcat counterpart, Jerry Fink. He also neatly avoided New Hampshire players who double-teamed him trying to take the ball back after he made his saves.

He did, though, range rather far from the goal and, on several occasions left it unguarded before a Wildcat attack. He also lost the ball a couple of times.

The Beavers outplayed their opponents during the first half, winding up with a 4-2 lead on goals by Moskowitz, Rudy Chaloupka, Emil Castro, and Orlando.

During the third quarter, however, the Wildcats completely dominated the game while tying the score at 4-4. They continued to outthrust the Beavers early in the final quarter, but with the score 6-4 the Beavers came back to life, scoring three times to win 7-6.

New Hampshire Coach Abar Snively (his players call him "Whoops") got top-notch defensive play from returning lettermen Bob Weeks and Marty Glennon. The Beavers were able to trouble goalie Jerry Fink only ten times. Fortunately Fink wasn't so good; he was able to stop only three.

Friedman Fans 17; Leads Beaver Conquest

By STEVE ABEL

The College's baseball team split its first two games, clobbering Hofstra College, 7-1, in the season's opener and losing to New York University, 7-2, in yesterday's contest.

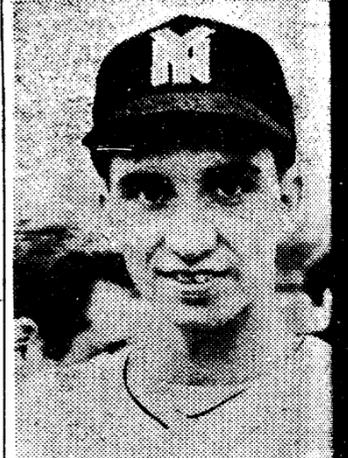

Southpaw Howie "Fritz" Friedman set a modern College record by fanning seventeen as the Beavers shellacked Hofstra, in the Met League opener.

Beaver Pitcher Mike Grennan gave up 7 hits in six innings, at NYU's Ohio Field. But the Viloets bunched up their shots in groups of three and four.

The Beavers looked like they might score in the first and third, but nothing happened. Then in the top of the ninth with one out, they rallied but only a miracle could have saved them 'so late in the game.

Paul Lehrman and Bill Trust, filled first and second, when Coach Frank Seeley sent in Howie Friedman, the Beaver's best batsman last year, to pinch hit Grennan. Howie struck out bringing up second baseman John Francesconi. John loaded the bases with a Texas League single over second. Ron Marino, shortstop, bounced one in the same spot, driving in the Beaver's first run of the game. Then a line strategy brought up Artie Coffey, who drew a walk, sending the second run. Frazzitta, the next batter, took a mighty swat at ball for his third strike, ending the rally, the inning and game.

Howie Friedman

Howie Friedman beat Hofstra almost single-handedly, with 17 strikeouts.

By the fifth inning the Dutchmen had stopped swinging and just watched the ball go by. Frazzitta caught 11 startled batsmen looking with drop-curves, a few fast balls, and well placed change-ups.

After Hofstra's lead-off man Steve Behr scored on a double and a bad throw, Fritz held the Dutch scoreless for eight innings. He gave up only two more hits and three walks. In one stretch he whiffed eight out of nine men. And he got some backing on hitting end of the team.

Bill D'Oca, who was treated to his second loss in 15 college starts, walked Ron Marino and Artie Goldner in the top of the first. Then Bart Frazzitta loaded a towering 380 foot homer run into deep center.

In the third D'Oca had given free tickets to Goldner (who collected four passes in all) and Frazzitta, when John Ippolito smashed a homer over the distant centerfield fence.

After the game Fritz laughed and said, "I really shook 'em today." Coach Frank Seeley added, "By God, I haven't seen a better pitched game!"

the news did come, all the Beavers heaved a sigh of relief, and Vito had to restrain himself from jumping for joy as he went up to accept the accolades of the officials.

For Mannino this victory was the result of a hard year's work. He has been going through grueling practice sessions this year, just so he could be ready for the NCAA competition. "I've been working hard this year," the team captain said, "to set an example for the other men on the team. I'm glad I have this status now, so that the boys will realize that hard work pays off."

Coach Lucia was pretty elated about the showing of his team. It proved that his system works. When the meet was over, he immediately expedited a telegram to his manager, Pete Rosenow, telling him the good news. The telegram is reproduced in full.
