Board of Estimate Approves Money For New Buildings

The new science building for the College came a major step closer to construction Wednesday, when the City's Board of Estimate approved $640,000 for the final designing and planning of the structure.

The project was preceded by years of planning and the breaking ground was held last May. The Science Building will be located on the University's main campus, near the new gym and pool.

SG Elections To Start Here Today; Four In Contest For Presidency

Four presidential aspirants and eighty-four other candidates will be seeking election in the SG elections, which will be held today.

The possibility of an unprecedented total of five presidential candidates existed until the petition deadline was reached on November 30. At that time, Junior Bob Levine withdrew from the contest, which now is now being waged between Alan Blume, Samuel S. Eiferman, Herbert Berkowitz, and Richard Weinberg.

The voting will take place today through Thursday opposite Kittila Lounge and Opposite Room 152 Finley.

Uncertainty temporarily resigned in another area when Blume, who was originally the only candidate for SG Treasurer, and that he would seek the highest student position instead.

SG President Ted Brown then announced that he would seek the position and is now running unopposed on the Gorp slate.

The presence of six slates and reversal political parties was a further issue highlighting this campaign.

Blume and Eiferman head the Independent Reform Ticket (IET) and Beaver's Energetic Students' Ticket (BEST), respectively. Weinberg joined the already constituted Gorp ticket organized by Vice-President candidate Steve Rebach.

Berkowitz's two-member slate, going by the name of Student Higher Integrity Ticket (FT) caused some furor when Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) said Wednesday that he would seek the.

NYU Chooses To Enter NSA After Opposing Forces Debate

After a tense meeting Thursday night, the New York University Student Government voted to join the National Student Association. The decision was made following an informal debate between Dennis Shaub, President of NSA, the College's Bowl Simon, Metropolitan New York Regional Chairman of the NSA, and Robert Schuchman, past president of the Young Americans for Freedom.

On the day of the meeting, the Student Journal, an NYU newspaper, ran a front-page editorial entitled "The unhealthy sway back to the NSA." Hundreds of students from all three NYU schools, which have totally different political orientations, attended the debate to support their delegate.

NYU is the second metropolitan college to join the NSA in recent months. St. Francis of Brooklyn was the other. With an enrollment of 12,000, NYU became the largest New York regional member.

The College is the second largest.

Mural

A 400 square-foot mural depicting the technological history of man has been commissioned for the lobby of the College's new Tech building. The mural will be designed and executed by artist-sculptor Xavier Gonzalez and is a $1,500 gift to the College from Engineering Alumini.

Featuring ten four foot high sections, the mural will trace humanity from the stone to the atomic age. The graphic history will be constructed of fiberglass and reinforced with angle steel and aluminum.

Like the picture shown at the right, the mural will feature abstract and geometric symbols in its pictorial description of the development of man's tools and energy sources.

The Journal Achieves Two-Day Sell-Out

The Journal of Social Studies sold out last Thursday, after only two days and one evening of sales.

Editor Charles Brooks said that all but twenty copies had been sold for a total of 975 copies. "This, even exceeds the sales of Vector for the term," Brooks asserted. The Journal, which will stand to make a small profit on the issue, contained an article on the Villa Ghetto, and a paper on the House Rules Committee.

moved someone else from the intended room.

Student Council, on the other hand, has run smoothly. Its meetings have almost constantly ended early, something unprecedented this year.

Although SC now has powers, which include suspension of organizations and of individuals from organizational office, it has rarely invoked them. When the Consejo two Council asked the removal of one of its officers, Exce found that the club had never existed and acted accordingly. Readers and faculty have noted the earnest, almost certain possibility of electing students to the presidency of the college.

At another time, Council decided not to bar a candidate from future office in extracurricular organizations after his admitted knowledgeable violation of several election rules.

Featured this term has been a wide interpretation of the much disputed "Students as Students," clause in the SG constitution. At
A Quick Glance At Student Governments Of Colleges In The New York City Area

By MIKE GERSHOWITZ

Student Governments at other colleges in the metropolitan area are often vastly different from the one here. A random sampling of other schools shows that:

- Most have a Student Court as a division of SC to handle student discipline.
- The President of SC is often elected by the other members of SC rather than by the entire student body.
- Interest is usually centered on social events rather than political matters.
- Even where SG's are empowered to act on off-campus issues, they tend to confine themselves to on-campus ones.
- The most commonly held major power is that of allocating funds to student organizations.
- Apathy is rampant on virtually all campuses; the percentage of students living on campus does not appear to affect this.
- SG at the College appears to wield considerably more power than its counterparts outside the City University.

Following is a school-by-school survey of SC's at other colleges in the metropolitan area.

ADELPHI

The most striking feature of campus politics at Adelphi is the existence of two long-standing and well-organized parties: the Democrats and Republicans.

Another unique feature is that the SG has the right, when passing resolutions unanimously, to issue them in the name of all the students.

A "Judicial Board" settles injunctions of powers delegated to student, enforces the school's honor system, and can penalize the campus newspapers for publishing false or slanderous statements.

The SG is "two-headed": it has a male and a female co-president.

John H. Finley, for whom the College's Student Center was named, began Student Government here just after the turn of the century.

FORDHAM

Although concerned with political affairs, Fordham's students are also rather conservative, according to SG President Jerry McLaughlin. Student interest in greater than average, with about a 60 per cent turnout at the annual elections.

The governing body usually takes a conservative position on off-campus issues. Early this term it passed a resolution disapproving President John F. Kennedy's violations of states' rights in the Meredith case.

After a dispute with the administration over attempted newspaper censure, SG has stayed away from controversial issues, McLaughlin said.

A Student Court, with members appointed by the four major officers "with the advice and consent" of SG, performs functions similar to the Supreme Court.

HOFSTRA

The SG at Hofstra has an unlimited amount of money at its disposal. This year, it requested an allocation of $53,000 for student activities, for a student body of 3,300 students — and got every penny of it. But, says SC member Carol Salk, tuition fees are $33 per credit.

The flagpole is a focal point for various student protests at campuses around the metropolitan area.

NYU

"We don't try to finegline with the political life of the country. We're not really interested in that. There are enough political clubs on campus. This was the SG Controller Joe Dana said was typical of the student at NYU.

The SG has the right, when passing resolutions unanimously, to pass all laws concerning the welfare of students and given to SC to distribute the money for on-campus parking tickets.

Post

There are two SC's at Post — one for freshmen and one for everybody else.

The freshman Congress, consisting of 46 members, is non-

Irwin Pronin, former President of SG, along with Assemblymen Mark Lane and State Senator Manfred Ohrenstein, addressed a rally here in protest of the Community Speakers Ban last spring. Pronin was then SG President and the largest lawmaking body of any school surveyed.

The Court is composed of seven "judges" picked by a student-faculty committee. It is empowered to interpret the SG Constitution, impose fines on-campus parking

Yeshiva

Yeshiva's SG set up is in many ways the most unique of all schools surveyed. It is "empowered to act on anything it wants" according to its President. And it does.

The editors of the school newspaper and yearbook are appointed by and subservient to it. It has the final say on "the wearing and stopping" of clubs and of speakers. There are no appeals body for actions of Council. A fee of $17 per semester is collected from all students and given to SC to distribute among student groups.

Its on-campus responsibilities are so great that SG has little time to debate off-campus matters; in recent years it has passed only one resolution in this sphere. This was a condemnation of the Soviet Union for anti-Semitic discrimination and authorization of a picket against Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

COLUMBIA

SG at Columbia was abolished last year by the student body.

"It was unable to accomplish any of its objectives," the editor of the daily campus paper, The Spectator said. "It just sat around and passed resolutions and the students got fed up with it."

Its absence is little missed, the editor continued, since the Dean of Men has assumed the function of handling student affairs.

The Freshman Congress, consisting of 46 members, is non-

The Constitution contains checks and balances similar to those of the Federal Constitution. For instance the president, who does not attend Senate sessions, is required to sign its measures in order for them to become effective. If he vetoes them, a two-thirds majority of the senators is needed to override him.

In place of the controversial "students-as-students" clause in the SG charter here, Queens' charter declares that the Senate "shall pass all laws concerning the welfare of the students," according to Brian Schwartz, the Vice President.

QUEENS

Queens College's SG is closely modeled on the pattern of the Federal Government, with an executive, a legislative, and a judicial branch.

The Executive consists of the President, one of only two officers elected on a school-wide basis, and a series of "cabinet" officers chosen by him, including a Treasurer, and a Secretary, and a Registrar, and a Registrar, and a Registrar.

A Student Senate of 56 Senators, 14 from each class, is the unicameral legislature, and is the only legislative body in the college.

ST. JOHN'S

SC at St. John's is virtually powerless. The Dean of Men attends Council meetings and, although he has no vote, is said to exert influence on the body's mem-

Frequently disputes is the right of Student Government to sponsor activities such as the dance.

The SG President declared that there was "some degree of apathy" at Yeshiva — about 5 per cent of the student body fails to vote in the annual elections. He attributed this to a scarcity of controversial issues.

Weisberg Is 700 Years Behind In History

Richard Weisberg looks for the perfect picture of an All-American, Ivy League, college boy. Little can one guess that beneath his wavy red hair are stored thoughts of Sir Laurence and party raids.

"I don't love the idea of chivalry and serfdom," the SG President said, "I'm just fascinated by the growth of political institutions after 1250."

Richie, however, is also interested in the growth of political institutions at the College. He became involved in SG as an upper sophomore when Stu Baden ran successfully for the post, he is seeking now. Since then he has served as a Council member and last term as SG Secretary.

Despite the public life he has led, Richie considers himself "shy, quiet, and unassuming." He tried to find it difficult putting himself forward," he admitted. "In Admiration for the students, I have served, though, I don't want my daughter to marry one."

One facet of Herb undisputed by none is his ability "to leave 'em laughing." Berkowitz's almost legendary gift for convulsing an audience moved from the limited confines of the SG office into the student body this term with the creation of his "Student Higher Integrity Ticket." "The magic four letter word starting with S for Berkowitz last term was 'liberal,'" the semester is finished, his ground a bit," Berkowitz said when describing his past and present election slogans.

Berkowitz has announced that he is now conducting a two-year homework campaign, and "a running battle with Dean Peace.

The Dean insisted, this week, that Berkowitz change the name of his slate. Herb replied, unofficially, that he would exercise self-censorship and started distributing campaign literature, that read "Vote for the 'student'-higher—anti-fraternity ticket."

A more serious issue, Berkowitz said he chose the integrity slogan to point up the insanity of the way SG election campaigns are conducted. "If the 'liberal' slate can run on fog spelled backwards, I can run on 'S-T.'"

Once past the topic of his vote—"It's not my mind, my mind!"—Berkowitz corrects, SGers have difficulty in getting the real Herb Berkowitz to stand up.

S. S. (Uncle Sam) Eiferman
Sails Into Presidential Race

Sam Eiferman is one candidate whose "head is not in the clouds." His sights are set on the stars and the one that shines brightest for him is the SG Presidency.

He is one hopeful who is "involved in politics," but not interested in politics. My conscience forced me to run," Eiferman is running because

Blume Says He Has Mellowed
After First Election Campaign

"If I am elected, I shall know what's going on beneath me. Nothing shall escape me, if I can help it," one SG Presidential candidate promised last week.

"It's not my wit it's my mind," Berkowitz corrects, SGers have difficulty in getting the real Herb Berkowitz to stand up.

"Nothing shall escape me, if I can help it," one SG President said. "I am sorely shocked that he could compromise his principles to run with Weisberg."

"I don't like the way SG is being run, I don't have anything concrete. I have an idea of what SG should be, and I am backed by a large number of students," he affirmed.

Blume feels that Student Government must do something for the student. "If you do tangible things, they'll vote and they'll be interested."

Richie Weisberg is the hypocrite," Berkowitz said. "He has promised nothing, he has done nothing, he has insulted nothing."

"I'm quietly confident of victory, but I don't know for certain," he said. "I am walking with blinder, on thinking that outside things were not the concern of SG."

"I am not an ophthamologist," Berkowitz said. "I am not interested in SG..." TheSG President added.

"I am not a chivalry and serfdom, I am a realist," Berkowitz declared. "The people who know me have faith in me, my opponents don't give me credit."

"I am a tolerant of others' views," he pointed out, "an engineer doesn't break his word. I don't drink or smoke, he added. "As evidence of his good intentions, the candidate is doing some campaigning under the pseudonym of Herb Berkowitz."

Power and Prestige

Expressing his view with peculiar honesty, Blume said that "I don't deny I'm after the power and the prestige of the position. Any- body who denies that this is not part of their reason is not telling the truth."

This is the second time that Blume has had a chance to express his pre-presidential philosophy.

"I am not a chivalry and serfdom," Berkowitz said. "I am not interested in SG..." TheSG President added.

"I am not a chivalry and serfdom," Berkowitz said. "I am not interested in SG..." TheSG President added.
A "democratic" Student Government does not exist at City College, and will not exist at City College because it cannot exist at City College.

In the light of the usual hogwash of the Student Government, this is a shocking statement to make, but I am prepared to back up this contention with facts.

A real government must exercise sovereignty in its area, in school matters, must possess some absolute and unimpeachable power. Student Government in turn and compared to it the platform of the GORB party would see a close structural resemblance. It seems that the two platforms came to have the same structure. I honestly believe that my, Mr. Berkowitz, is in the same position. I believe that my opponent confused the debates of this campaign. One of my opponents, Mr. Weisberg, a strong conservative for three and one-half years, has suddenly become a student as students clause, and I wish to once and for all clarify my viewpoint on this issue. I believe that candidates have been elected, have not the power to make fools of the students, and that one who is not within the physical boundaries of the campus, I oppose this view. My position is absolute and unimpeachable power. In the Union of South Africa.

But whether Student Government, should consider these issues is another question entirely. Since it lays open to criticism the past and present policy of Student Government, this absolves the Administration, which bludgeons the fee out of the student body as a condition of registration.

The fact that the Student Government is not a government at all is significant, since it lays open to criticism the past and present policy of Student Government, this absolves the Administration, which bludgeons the fee out of the student body as a condition of registration.

Student Council, acting as the legislative branch of Student Government, has been seen fit in the past to consider such matters as the existence of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and activities in the Union of South Africa. That these matters are of legitimate concern to those students who wish to concern themselves with them as citizens may be of course undecided.

But whether Student Government should consider these issues is another question entirely. Since it lays open to criticism the past and present policy of Student Government, this absolves the Administration, which bludgeons the fee out of the student body as a condition of registration.

The question of the Student Government Executive Committee's responsibility for matters that are by their nature controversial and occasionally extra-territorial issues.

Listed below are the voting records of all past members of Student Council who are seeking re-election. The records are listed in alphabetical order.

EIFERMAN

The reason I am running is for the high position of Student Government President is that in the past candidates for this coveted position have made all kinds of promises. Once these candidates have been elected, they forget they ever made any promises to the people who elected them.

Looking over the possible choices for Student Government President this term I realized that this year the same thing would happen. I then decided to run and make sure that the people who vote get the things promised them.

I have included in my platform all promises of past presidents that have not been kept and quit a few promises of my own. The promises I guarantee I will carry out during my term of office elected to the presidency.

The people on my ticket are pledged to work for and carry out the promises we make. That is why we call ourselves the Frontier Enterprises Students Ticket or BEST for short.

BEST has been through a lot of trouble to write out our promises and aims in our platform that we present before the student body. Our platform is as a consequence, the longest platform offered in this election.

Elected myself and Student Government discuss on campus problems before discussing how we are going to solve them. We believe in the principle that before you can improve other people you must improve yourself.

The BEST aims for next term are:

To maintain a representative Student Government.
To give more responsibility to the Student Activities Board.
To get full control of all student non-academic matters to the students through the Student Government.
We have control of the people that elect the students at City College; and to get a graduation ceremony in January.

And my ticket plan to make the students, leaving students, like myself, to relax in between their classes. This College has been filled by the lobbies of Steinman Hall, easily accessible to all students.

We also plan to bring a less gloomy atmosphere of the Finley Center by pipe music, supplied by the students, and body-eating, throughout Finley.

I would like to say in closing that my ticket (BEST) and myself in office, there is no worry.
President

Richie Weisberg is obviously the most responsible and the most mature of the SG Presidential candidates. He is by his very nature the kind of student that many would have chosen to be a president. When we ask why, Weisberg has displayed honesty and sincerity. No discourse on his qualifications would be complete without mentioning his strong ability to lead a group. We believe that Weisberg is the only alternative to irresponsible or immature government. However, reservations still exist in our minds.

His knowledge of the powers and functions of that body is unusual and more than sufficient for the job. His competence and diligence as a member of the Student-Faculty Discipline Committee is a matter of record. Weisberg spent a great deal of time researching the College's disciplinary regulations, so that a codification of them could be made. Furthermore, he was instrumental in obtaining official recognition of the student's right to be presented with a formal statement of any charge against him.

He served out his term as SG Secretary in a creditable manner. Weisberg's views, particularly with regard to the scope of Student Government, are considered by many to be the only ones that are hesitant enough to be considered cautious. Yet because his views are now being formulated and have not reached their ultimate destination, we hesitate to do so.

Weisberg now assumes a more mature and considerably altered attitude toward the limitations of effective student action. Time and world events have not failed to show him the folly and imprudence of earlier ill-considered philosophy. Yet because his views are now being formulated and have not reached their ultimate destination, we hesitate to do so.

We cannot hold with those who castigate Weisberg for altering his views. If someone has the desire to change and has the courage of his new convictions, he cannot be cut down for seeing the light. Though Weisberg has abandoned his old notions and opposing ideas, he adheres to a blind standard that is not to be commended per se. We have no doubt that Weisberg's change is an honest one. Unfortunately, these optimistic words cannot be applied to the other SG Presidential candidates.

The "new" Alan Blume, one of the strongest contenders for the post, attempts to ingratiyse himself with all, but is importuned by few. The members of his own ticket invariably begin their remarks with "I know he's not the most competent of candidates, but . . ."

As Student Government President, Blume did mature since his last campaign; no doubt he has. Certainly Blume has abandoned his loud arrogance of the past, but he still has a distance to go. When a Council member mimics his fellow and plays sad violin tunes in the air, we cannot help but see the disparity between what he is and what he says he is. The tune may become more harmonious with work, but his music is now atonel.

Herb Berkowitz, another of the most disappointing candidates of all. Here is a student of obvious intelligence and extreme potential. His mind works with lightning speed and sharpness, yet his incompetence and his lack of self-discipline keep him from fulfilling his capacities.

Berkowitz is the only candidate who has held a "leadership" position in SG. He has served, but not served well, as chairman of the SAB. His failure here leads us to project a dismal picture for the likelihood of his success as President of SG.

Berkowitz further holds an unrealistic super-restricted view of Council's scope. He feels that the body should only concern itself with matters directly affecting the students as students of the campuses within the intellectual gates of the City University. He would reduce SC to a virtual "University SAB."

Little need be said of Sam Eiferman or his ability to fulfill the office. He served an undistinguished term on Council; he could not be President.

Rebach

Unfortunately, the SG Constitution seems to neglect the second highest student position in the College, the Vice-Presidency. This officer, previously charged with the coordination of SG agencies and bureaus, now does little more, constitutionally, than act as chairman when the President wishes to enter debate at Council meetings.

Steve Rebach, our choice for Vice President, is capable of acting even with this handicap. He is one of those individuals who can find something constructive to do while others sit and twiddle their thumbs. He possesses imagination, a rare quality that is often sadly lacking in SG.

In the past his enthusiasm has been spoiled by acts of daylight, the SG Boat Ride. This semester, the tuition campaign has rested almost solely on Rebach's shoulders. His lack of success was due to disinterest by a number of New York City high school administrators. However, this shouldn't detract from the hard and good work he put into the project.

Rebach's opponent can be dismissed in a few words. He served on SC for one semester and reigned after only half a term's office. His performance on SC was profoundly mediocre. In short, no aspect of his SG service is worthy of even minor consideration.

Schreibstein

One of the most energetic and enthusiastic workers in SG is running for Secretary this term.

In her three terms on Council, Adele Schreibstein has developed the habit of doing a job and doing it well. Her reason for this she endorses her for Secretary. Miss Schreibstein's views on the function of SG, and her proven ability to work, will enable her to make a real contribution to that body.

In fact, Miss Schreibstein already has experience in the duties of the office for which she is running. When this term's Secretary became derailed in her duties, Miss Schreibstein, with characteristic drive and purpose, stepped right in to do the job.

Richard Schweidel has taken a different approach to SG. A double-threat man, Schweidel has proven himself to be one of the fewest, most disruptive forces on both the Student Activities Board and Council.

Brown

It is refreshing, when, in a field of mediocrity, a candidate appears who stands above the rest with outstanding qualities and well conceived ideas. And long since been the case in SG. Brown has done just the opposite. He has already outstandingly served in the Presidency, and what he now intends to do may only be described as a favor for SG and for the College.

As Student Government President, Brown did what many thought would be impossible. He maintained SG's status under its new constitutions in an awesome environment of intellect, Administration, and many organizations here that SG would not be able to handle its new responsibility. For the first time in years, an SG President was sitting at regular meetings with the Dean of Students, serving on Curricular committees, maintaining one of the top academic averages in the entire College, and providing unprecedented leadership for SG and for the student body as a whole.

Anticipating the imminent growth and unification of the City University on the academic and administrative levels, Brown has been a driving force in bringing together the students of the University, through the City University Executive Committee. He has been a prime instigator of the Course Evaluation program, using his high standing with faculty members to facilitate the College's acceptance and bring the program to fruition.

His leadership on Council becomes apparent when one examines the election's candidates and the issues on which they are running. For the first time, the "students as students" controversy is being replaced by a semblance of intellectual vigor. Even "liberals" who previously took only moderate stands on the function of representation are now able to accept, and even more important, to logically justify a wide, and newly all-encompassing representational theory for the body. The one unfortunate aspect of this is that his influence has become so great that his ideas have been perverted to dogma by some SG student leaders here are wont to speak of the "Ted Brown interpretation of this philosophy."

Just as SG's success must be regarded as a tribute to Ted Brown, so must his candidacy for the Presidency be considered a boon to SG. He is certain to fill this position with dignity, efficiency, and leadership.

S.H.I.T. And Sam Mitnick

Sam Mitnick is a lower freshman. At first glance, he seems to be one of the 9,000 nameless and faceless students who daily trudge from Shephard to Wagner, spend an hour or two daily in the cafeteria, and then run as fast as possible to the nearest subway after their last class. He isn't.

S.H.I.T. is one of the tickets in this semester's SG election. At first glance, it seems to be an off-color word or a bad joke. It is.

S.H.I.T. wandered into the O.P. office late Wednesday evening. He wanted to run for Freshman Council, but he made a mistake. He told us that he discovered he had unwillingly become a candidate for Student Council. He said that he would have preferred for the service, but all he could find were Pages 2, 7, and 9 of the By-Laws. He said that he wanted to be on Council so he could teach others about SG.

Sam wants to learn in order to be able to serve. He's one of those people who want to gain more than a diploma from the College. Except S.H.I.T. is too busy making fun of that which could make this school meaningful to teach him. S.H.I.T. has a great deal of spirit. He is considered a brat by SG individuals. Each does have a name and a face. Many of them, like Sam, have a desire to learn and serve.

One of the saddest things about SG and the people who profess an interest in student life is that Sam and S.H.I.T. seem doomed to remain separate entities in what is supposed to be a community. Sam will continue to ask and S.H.I.T. will keep on playing games, always too busy to answer.

The hope that he said is con- trolled but not "enlight," I won't kill myself, but the school will lose a great leader.

It was also noted that another SG presidential candidate, Rich- ard Weisberg, "hasn't been too active, his aims are quite foggy or you might say meek. He won't be a good leader, he's too serious.

Commenting on the Integrity Ticket's head, Herb Benjamin, Eifrman charged that his "platform has been incoherent, he hasn't presented any platform. Other failings are his "liberal" tendencies. Eifrman said that he's a "conservative, because I'm representing the engineering point of view. I don't want to reform anything too radical."

"I try to keep out of liberal politics, but it seems that activities are brought up and it's a shame we're going to vote for the mud. The only thing I say to the student Council is voting for it. Why waste the time of Council? No consensus of the student body approves an issue if it's worthy enough."

"Although there is no consensus the writer he has received as many as four bylines at one time from

Council debated a motion that evening to dissolve the slate. Berkovaloff had said that he would not change the ticket's name.
Other minor parties are the Reform Ticket (RT) headed by someone Ken Schindler seeking council election, SENSE led by Eric Eisenberg, and SAVY which presents a one-point platform supporting a referendum to repeal the Student Activities fee.
Running with Blume for the vice presidency is Bob Rosenberg. Also seeking an executive post is Richard Schwartzell, Inter-Fraternity Council treasurer, vying for the job of SG Secretary. Opposing him is SG rep Adele Schreiber (Gorf).
The Senior Class is an exception to the general dearth of candidates for class office. Incumbent Ken Schlesinger (Gorf, IT), Steve North (Best, IRT), and Ira Gartner are competing for the post of President. Eight candidates are running for the six Senior positions open on the council.

(Continued from Page 2) June, Senior Class programs have been arranged which include: 1963 Winter-session at the Conrad, Senior Beer Party at Adelphi Hall, in NY and the 1963 "Ship and Shore" Senior Prom at the fabulous Riviera Yacht Club on Manhattan shore. The initial evidence of the outstanding cooperation between Uptown and Downtown, some council officials have been seen by the tremendous increase in attendance at the Winter-session (from 250 to 700) and the competent manner in which all of the arrangements have been made.

The Baruch School can only hope that whoever is elected to the Senior Class Council will recognize the outstanding cooperation between Uptown and Downtown which we have experienced with the deanship of Mr. Feingold.

Remember 1955, when Marlboro came to town? Suddenly, the U.S. had a flavor cigarette with a filter on the end. Sales grew in every town, in every state. Today the whole place is Marlboro country—land of the filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste. Behind this popularity is the famous Richmond recipe of ripe tobaccos (the finest grown), and the pure white Selectrate Filter.

NIT and NCAA Fall To ‘Cinderella’ Team

Beaver basketball has had its ups and downs. One “up” year completely outclasses all others.

The College’s sophomores outscored the 1945-46 season to the greatest build-up ever given a local team. Assistant Coach Bobby Sand estimated that would be America’s Olympic representa­tion.

In addition to his sophomores Holman had seven veterans from the 1949 NIT team. For the first time ever Beaver Nation has reason to be confident.

The stage was set for the rematch of the 1950 title.

By HARVEY WEINBERG

The College’s swimming team came within one-half body length Friday, of defeating Manhattan. As it turned out, the Lavender mermen were torpedoed by the Jaspers, 53-42, under Coach Jack Corey.

A close meet had been anticipated by both teams and it was just that. Manhattan got off to a

SANDY BEAK AS COACH; ROMAN HIS HOLMAN

By STEVE ABEL

Every Monday and Thursday a middle-aged, round-cheeked man goes up to God­ th’s Gym to coach the evening sessions.

He is Harry R. Sand. Some of his friends call him Bobby.

Few of the students in his Physical Education classes recognize the name, although there was a time when they would’ve been quick to brag about it. The reason he was an assistant coach on the College’s basketball team which had won the NCAA and NIT championships.

According to Ed Roman, one of the men on that team, Sand was the one who really did the coaching, not Nat Holman.

Roman said Holman stopped teaching during the best years of his coaching career. He added that every member of the squad disliked Holman.

Roman felt that Holman was more
