CITY COLLEGE

SG Rally Broadcast

Highlights of the College's Anti-tuition rally of two weeks ago, played a repeat performance Tuesday night by means of NBC radio.

On the NBC program "Extra-Curricular," the College was given the opportunity of making known the methods by which it, as well as the state universities, is fighting to insure free higher education in the City and State universities.

The rally was preceded by a conversation between Professor Stanley Feingold (Political Science) and SG treasurer Ted Brown. In the talk, Brown declared "tuition fees is NOT a dead issue," even in the state university where tuition will be imposed in September.

Two From College Face Court On Indictment For Trespass

Indictments for trespass will bring two students from the College to court Monday. Stuart Wechler and Jane Burnett were arrested in the lobby of a New York City apartment house while taking part in a Congress of Racial Equality sit-in last month.

Wechler and Mrs. Burnett were placed under citizen's arrest by the superintendent of the building at 78 Manhattan Avenue. The police, according to Wechler, had previously refused to arrest demonstrators.

The sit-in had been the fourth in a series held by CORE after a Negro, Joseph Lawson, had been refused an apartment on the grounds that there were "none available," Wechler said. He explained that Steve Clark, Chairman of New York CORE was given the apartment.

A spokesman for CORE, Velma Hill, thought a conviction unlikely because, she said, it is "difficult" to obtain one in trespass cases and because "a lobby is technically public property."

Teams To Debate—Then Switch Sides

Teams from thirty-five eastern colleges and universities will participate in the Eighth Annual City College Invitational Debate Tournament on Friday, March 8th, and Saturday, March 9th at City College's uptown campus.

All teams will argue this year's national debate topic "Resolved: That the non-Communist nations of the world should establish an economic community."

OPology...

Observation Post deeply regrets the contextual misunderstanding about hazing in Tuesday's issue. OP quoted a source about certain extreme forms of hazing. It should be made absolutely clear, and all other impressions corrected, that the source was giving examples of hazing as it may occur on college campuses generally. He did not mean to imply that such practices necessarily occur at the College.

NSA Joins Anti-Tuition Ranks To Have Delegates At Albany

The National Student Association has joined the ranks of those opposed to tuition at the City University.

NSA President Dennis Shaul announced that the association will be represented in Albany on March 11 when the issue comes before the State Legislature.

Citing the "particular social complexion of the City of New York," NSA declared that those groups in the greatest need of higher education would find it "all the harder to gain."

The announcement further charged that Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller was indirectly making a decision which would "perpetuate social tension within his state" and "prolong the day that full equality for citizens is reached."

Shaul's statement also suggested that "it seems likely indeed that this can be expected to be doubled or sizeably increased, and that the fee schedule will become a political pawn for any Governor or any legislature, looking for an easy way to increase revenues."

"The spirit of defense offered by the distilleries and the liquor distributors within the state indicates that the citizens can be aroused," Shaul said.

Three Newspaper Bills Sent To SG Committee

After extended debate last night, Student Council referred to committee three bills which would change the status of student newspapers at the College.

SC members expressed considerable displeasure with articles printed in Observation Post this term. OP is, according to Councilman Richard Kane, either "unable or unwilling" to print articles correctly.

SG President Alan Blume charged that the "newspapers are out to break people on Council that they don't like."

Council sent the three bills to the School Affairs Committee. They would:

- Provide for referenda each term in which students could indicate which newspaper they preferred. Fees would be allocated on the basis of this poll.
- Remove OP's designation as an official College paper.
- Have a SC committee investigate the situation.

Previously this term Council had censured OP for an article which should've been labeled commentary, but was instead run as a news story.

Earlier in the evening Pres. Blume had questioned the value of his party's control of Council.

After repeatedly calling for attention, Blume said, "Maybe it would have been better if it hadn't been such a big sweep of Council."

SG President Alan Blume Criticizes Newspapers

Continuing the topic, he asserted that "The majority of this Council doesn't deserve to be on Council."

"You people are making a mockery of SG. You can't even wear a suit and tie once a week?" Blume queried.

"You raise minor points, you talk, all cliques start clicking. I've seen better IFC meetings. You think you're going to a party?"

"Some deserve nothing," he concluded.

AROUND THE COLLEGE

On The Lighter Side Of Things...

Nude Animals

neighborhood cats, dogs, and squirrels.

A chapter of the Society Against Indecency to Naked Animals

(SINA), a national organization "to protect our children from the sight of naked horses, cows, dogs and cats" is joining the mass of social action groups here.

Founded four years ago, the Society feels that "since we as humans are biologically animals, and accept the social custom of wearing clothes, then animals too should be permitted to share our propriety" — especially those higher than four or longer than six inches.

"We have seen many naked animals running around campus," said Adam Alexander, president of the group. "Would John Milton have approved of this?"

SINA, which will be in the Political and Social Action federation, is starting a Congressional letter-writing campaign.

One of the points they are stressing is that "all animals found in national parks should wear uniforms." Alexander said that "Smokey the Bear" will be one of their first targets.

At present the group is debating the issue, "Should Ostrich Eggs Wear Jackets?"

$.98 Dollar

The City College Bookstore offered its biggest bargain last week — the 98c dollar.

Money On Sale Bookstore's Bargain

Many students were attracted by the offer, but the four students who "cashed in" on the sale forgot one thing — a three cent city sales tax. The total price of the dollar thereby became $1.01.

"They're either crazy or rich," laughed one boy who observed the purchases.

Stolen Statue

The statue snatchers have done it again! With John H. Finley finally back in his nook after last year's rough and tumble contest between diehard thieves and persistent Burns Guards, the unofficial critics at the College have turned their attention to another objet d'art. Their latest victim is the bust of Dante, which once perched above the entrance to Downer Hall.

The theft was discovered, appropriately enough, by the Italian Club. A spokesman for the group said he hoped the statue would be recovered and prominently placed.

To Cut A Class

Who me? I've got a class at 2, I've cut twice . . . Besides, you get back so late. Anyway, what'll it do?

What'll it do? Well, there are no results guaranteed, but next Monday's Albany bus trip will make an effort in the fight for free tuition. It may accomplish something, it may have no effect, but at least we can say City College students care about higher education.

Why should they care? Because it enables all academically qualified students to go to College, because it hits them in their soft spot — their pocketbooks.

What will they do? The free tuition advocates will leave for the State Capitol in buses at 2 PM from Shepard Hall. They will picket and lobby for free tuition in Albany.

What can you do? Go to Room 224 Finley, pay the $2 fee, and fill out an application. But only if you care.

GLAD RAGS

The hounds of spring are on winter's traces. Soon buds the crocus, soon trills the giant condor, soon come the new spring fashions to adorn our lissome limbs.

And what will the American college student wear this spring? Gather round, you rascals, and light a Marlboro Cigarette and enjoy that fine mellow tobacco, that pure white filter, and possess your souls in sweet content, and listen.

As everyone knows, campus fashions have always been casual. This spring, however, they have gone beyond being merely casual: they have become makeshift.

The object is to look madly improvised, gaily spur-of-the-moment! For example, why don't you girls try wearing a peasant skirt with a dinner jacket? Or matador pants with a bridal veil? Or Bermuda shorts with bronze breastplates? Be rakish! Be impromptu! Be devil-take-the-hindmost!

And, men, you be the same. Try an opera cape with sweat pants. Or a letter-sweater with kilts. Or a strait jacket with hip boots. Be bold! Be daring! Be a tourist attraction!

Be rakish! Be impromptu!

But all is not innovation in college fashions this spring. In fact, one of the highlights of the season turns time backward in its flight. I refer, of course, to the comeback of the powdered wig.

This charming accoutrement, too long neglected, has already caught on with in undergrads everywhere. On hundreds of campuses the bossa nova is giving way to the minuet, and patriotic undergraduates are dumping British tea into the nearest harbor. This, as you may imagine, does not sit well with King George III who, according to reliable reports, has been stamping his foot and uttering curses not fit to reproduce in this family newspaper. For that matter, a lot of our own people are steamed up too, and there has even been some talk about the American colonies declaring their independence of England. But I hardly think it will come to that. I mean, how can we break with the mother country when we are dependent on her for so many things—linsey-woolsey, Minié balls, taper snuffers, and like that? She, on the other hand, relies on us for turkeys, Marlboro Cigarettes, and Route 66. So I say, if Molly Pitcher and those other Radcliffe hotheads will calm down, and if gentlemen will cry "Peace! Peace!" we may yet find an amicable solution to our differences. But let not our British cousins mistake this willingness to negotiate for weakness. If fight we must, then fight we will! Paul Revere is saddled up, the rude bridge arches the flood, and the ROTC is armed!

But I digress. We were smoking Marlboro Cigarettes—O, splendid cigarette! O, good golden tobaccos! O, pristine pure white filter! O, fresh! O, tasty! O, soft pack! O, flip top box! O, get some!—we were, I say, smoking Marlboros and talking about spring fashions.

Let us turn now to the season's most striking new feature—pneumatic underdrawers. These inflatable garments make every chair an easy chair. Think how welcome they will be when you sit through a long lecture! They are not, however, without certain dangers. Last week, for example, Rimbaud Sigafos, a sophomore at the University of Pittsburgh, fell out of a 96th story window in the Tower of Learning. Thanks to his pneumatic underdrawers, he suffered no injury when he struck the sidewalk, but the poor fellow is still bouncing—his seventh consecutive day—and it is feared that he will starve to death.

Jiu-Jitsu Expert Keeps Peace In Explosive Political Federation

Political and Social Action Federation

The name of the College and student politics have almost always been synonymous in the nation's academic circles. It's not surprising, then, that the Political and Social Action Federation is perhaps the liveliest in the Student Activities Board.

Being an amalgamation of the groups on campus most unlikely to be conducive to cooperation, Federation meetings frequently erupt into chaos as tempers flare, tables are heaved, and perennial conservative Carl Weitzman waves his fists.

Only one with the physical prowess and vocal projection of Chairman Richard Serrano could manage to keep meeting below riot pitch. Serrano is a first degree Black Belt in the art of jiu-jitsu—a near necessity for one in his position.

The presence of political groups here, especially those of the "left" has been a thorn in the side of many a Tech student fearing the College's designation as "The Little Red Schoolhouse." For all practical purposes, however, the reputation, at least at this time, is not too well deserved. "The 'solid middle' here is far wider than I anticipated," said Dean Willard W. Blaesser (Student Life) last week. As a newcomer, he explained, he found conservatism more widespread than he had expected.

A number of students here are "politically active," however. The Marxist Discussion Club (MDC) has functioned at the College for nine years following the traditions of its predecessor, the Young Progressives of America.

Competitor for the position of "farthest left" at the College is the E. V. Debs Club. President Sylvia Mazelis mentioned plans for a booth to collect money and distribute literature on striking Kentucky miners. A forum on the Sino-Indian dispute is also scheduled.

Fair Play for Cuba, Committee to Abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Young People's Socialist League, and the Student Peace Union also contribute to the political circus while the College's Congress of Racial Equality and NAACP chapters concentrate primarily in the civil rights field.

There may be fewer groups on the other side of the fence, but they are just as active and definitely as vocal.

"We characterize ourselves as conservative," said Young Conservative (YC) Club founder, Paul Bustamante. "I don't like to use the terms right and left."

Carl Weitzman, President and guiding light of the Young Republican Club (YRC), is one person who doesn't mind being labeled a conservative. If anything, his frequent and colorful appearances at various meetings have increased the College's awareness of the YRC's existence.

The fact that the off-campus strife between right and left is carried to the College, however, is only one of the Federation's problems. It also is a catch-all for many temporary political groups.

SG elections and special issues bring forth an assortment of groups, most of which have a limited life span. Last term, however, saw the continued existence of the Independent Reform Party, Constructive Action Party and Democratic Student Union. Together with the Young Democrats they complete the pickets on the Federation's political fence.

Basketball Gourmet's Dessert: Statistical 'Shredded Wheat'

At the end of the year every good sports fan gets his dessert—his team's statistics. Although the Beaver cagers ended up under a .500 year with an 8-10 season, the statistical shredded wheat still has some choice gleanings.

One glaring fact is that the high scorer for the Beavers, Jerry Greenberg, averaged 14.2

Jerry Greenberg
This Year's Shooter

points per game while Tor Nilsen, last-year's carrot-topped leader, hit a soaring 21 points per game.

The important thing is not whether Greenberg is as good as Nilsen or not but rather that the loss of Nilsen forced the cagers to use a different style based on more team play. So if one man was off, it had a greater effect on the team. Last year the Beavers lost almost every time Nilsen wasn't hitting, (and sometimes when he was hitting). All it means is that losing an All-Met like Nilsen really hurts.

Shooting from the foul line, the Beavers hit an eye-catching 71% which may prove good enough to place them in the top thirty colleges in the nation. This mark is one of the best in recent years, topping the "Cinderella" years in the early '50's.

Greenberg was the individual leader in this department at 80%, which should also be good for the top thirty in the nation.

Alex Blatt marked up the record books though when he reeled off 25 in a row. Slightly off at the end of the season he was second on the team with a 75.4%.

The foul shooters seemed to be really going strong as Sam Greene, working part-time, made 10 for 10.

NEW SETTING!

Shearing swings through his exploration of the jazz mainstream in a simple, soulful setting staged by the late bassist Israel Crosby and Vernal Fournier on drums. With a result excitingly reminiscent of an earlier Shearing, these three establish incredible rapport while digging in every inch of the way from "Makin' Whoopee" through ten others to "It Could Happen to You." (S) T 1827.

NEW SINGER!

Who says he can sing? Peggy Lee! And Jimmie Rowles proves her right, while remaining tasty as ever on piano. His winning way with words is both intimate and swinging on a dozen hand-picked tunes like "Sugar," "Maybe You'll Be There," "I Can't Resist You" and "How Can We Be Wrong." Rhythmic pulse for the date: Nick Martinis on drums; Max Bennett, bass; and Howard Roberts, guitar. (S) T 1831.

NEW SWINGER!

Joe Bucci proves he's "Wild About Basie" with shouting, big-band organ romps through the Count's biggest hits dating from the '30's til today. Backed by drummer Joe Riddick, Bucci moves his hard-driving Hammond through rocking reprises of "920 Special," "Splanky," "Kansas City Shout," "Taps Miller" and eight others—furnishing ample proof of why he's one of Basie's own personal favorites! (S) T 1840.
