The Best In Queens

These students used to the gargoyles and turrets that characterize the College's medieval brand of architecture would probably never adjust to the circular hall and steel-arched concrete dome of the latest addition to the Queens College campus. The modernistic lecture hall, which is part of the Social Science Building at Queens, was awarded a special bronze plaque as the "standing structure" in the annual building awards competition of the Queen's Chamber of Commerce.

Few Candidates On SG Ballot; Four Contest Presidential Post

By GREGOR OWEN

An unusually small number of candidates will seek seats on Student Council in next week's election. Only thirteen are running for the twenty-four openings.

The SG Presidency will be contested by four candidates: two heading slates, two running independently. The other executive posts are each being sought by two candidates.

Howard Simon heads the Competency slate (CS), as presidential candidate. The slate includes Girard Pessis as vice-presidential candidate. The slate includes Harry Simon as president, Larry Steinhauer for secretary. The slate includes seven aspirants running for the seven four openings.

Aspirant Daniel Katkin, former SG treasurer, said that approval of the program during students' free hours and the necessity of travel to airfields for practical in-flight training. The program would make such instruction available to advanced cadets officers to fly is currently under study by the College's Aviation Office.

The other candidate running is the New Perspectives Slate (NPS) headed by presidential candidate Bob Rosenberg, vice-presidential aspirant Daniel Katkin, former SG President Alan Blume for Treasurer.

There are several factors, however, which may prevent its execution, including the need of giving the program during students' free hours and the necessity of traveling to airfields for practical and in-flight training.

The House of Representatives refused Monday to pass a Reserve Officers Training Corps bill without a ban on racial discrimination following a complaint by Representative Otis K. Pike (Dem., N.Y.) that the bill was "bullied, trimmer, poky, lumbered, clipped and self-satisfied."

The bill had been called up under suspension of the rules by the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee subcommittee, Representative F. Edward Hebert (Dem., La.). This is a procedure which bars amendments and limits debate to forty minutes.

Two petitions have been introduced after Council's last referendum concerning the SAB, with three steps to restore competition between the College and colleges throughout the country with top-rated teams. In 1950, the College's basketball team won the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship, and was recognized as the best in the country. In 1951, it was revealed that several of the players on the team had taken bribes to shave points.

Ask A JFK Drive To Honor Kennedy

A petition to have the West Side Highway renamed in honor of President Kennedy has been initiated by students at New York University and the Bronx Community College.

The object of the petition is to have the two highways which run along the edges of Manhattan named after the last two presidents to die in office: Franklin D. Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy. Because both were referred to by their initials, Manhattan would then have FDR Drive on the east and JFK Drive on the west.

4 New Referenda Placed on Ballot

To Decide SAB, Athletic Issues

Last night, in its final meeting before the start of Student Government elections, Student Council placed four additional referenda on the ballot. Three of the referenda are concerned with the Student Activities Board (SAB). The first calls for its abolition; the second maintains the status quo; and the third asks that SAB's Executive Committee hold open hearings on the SAB, and report its findings back to the student body in the form of referenda in the next regular election.

The fourth referendum requests President Gallagher to take "proper steps" to restore competition between the College and top-rated basketball powers throughout the nation.

The first referendum, which was prepared by Larry Steinhauer, came out of Council's Internal Affairs Committee. If approved by the student body, it would remove all references to the SAB from the SG Constitution.

Under suspension of the rules, however, the bill must receive a 2/3 vote to pass. Rep. Hef伯ton's bill failed to do so, with a roll call vote tallied at only 154-78.

Rep. Hef伯ton told newsmen that he would not reconsidet his bill to review and expand the ROTC program under the regular rules, which require only a simple majority to pass.

Pinning Matmen Down To Practice Would Help Pin Down Some Wins

Mark Miller

The College's wrestling team lost its first match of the season last Saturday. It was also the first time that the team has ever lost to Newark of Rutgers. Coach Joe Saporra has the answer for the defeat. "The boys are not in shape," the professor explained.

On the absence of Harvey Taylor, Saporra said that the presence of this 137 pound Met champion in last Saturday's match had brought the Lavender a victory. The coach also talked personally about Taylor's injury, saying that "he was one of the best scouts of the nation at his position, and I am sure he would have been a valuable addition to our team."
